Toronto, Dec. 17.—Bert Fee, Riverdale, surrounded by his wife and three children, will partake of his Christmas dinner, if nothing unfortunate happens between then and now, and that time, with more than ordinary heat, as yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock he escaped a terrible death by a second of time by jumping from a delivery rig, which was cut in two by No. 5 G.T.R. flier from Montreal, at the Logan Avenue crossing.

It appears that Fee, who is an employe of Fenwick & Co., dealers in coke, Mast Queen street, was proceeding north over the crossing just at the time when the flier was almost at the point of crossing, two hours behind time from Montreal. His horse was over the rails, but had not time to clear the wagon, which was heavily loaded with bags of coke. Fee, perceiving his danger, jumped clear of the rails just in time.

Bags of coke and fragments of the rig were scattered over a distance of 200 hundred feet. The horse, apart from being scared, was unhurt.

The crossing at this point is very dangerous, it having high tracks, and with a steep grade on either approach, makes it very difficult to traverse with a heavy load.

Ice Bridge at Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Dec. 17.—Rescued from death in the Niagara River Rapids, only to be fined $5 for drunkenness, was the fate of John Fish. Fish was saved from falling from the bridge into the rapids by Hal Pratt, a newspaper man, who found him asleep with his feet hanging over the precipice.

The ice bridge at the present moment is the largest yesterday, the most since before Christmas that is on record.

The robbers waiting at the top of the stairs, pistols in hand, ambushed as they ascended and then made good their escape.

"In Politics" Dead.

Yonkers, N.Y., Dec. 17.—Melville Delancey Landon, better known as "Bill" Nye, humorist, author and lecturer, died at his home here yesterday at the age of 77. He was born in Shirley, Hamilton County, N.Y., but left there as a young man to go to Laramie, Wyoming, where he became editor of the Boomerang. IX.—Sleeping For Health

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"Sleep, thou repose of all things, thou comfort of the mind, thou peace of the mind, from which care flies, who dost soothe the hearts of men wearied with the toils of the day and restorest them for labor."

Thus spake Ovid about the year 10 B. C. Since then little has been added to our knowledge of the actual mechanism of sleep. Psychologists and physiologists have their theories, but as it is difficult to put the sleeping brain under the microscope the "mystery of habitual sleep" is still a mystery.

Theories of Sleep.

Some have thought that the gradual accumulation of waste products in the blood brings on a condition of irritability or fatigue of the brain cells, finally resulting in depression and unconsciousness; others, that the delicate filaments by which the higher brain cells communicate are retracted during sleep, thus withdrawing the brain from outside stimulations.

A temporary sleeping porch outside a window, supported by braces set at an angle and protected by an awning, may be built at a cost of a few dollars.

It is conceivable that if all our senses by which we communicate with the external world were paralyzed sleep would automatically follow. For example, suppose complete paralysis of all sensory nerves except those of one eye existed. By closing that the patient would at once be put to sleep.

Another theory contends that the cells—the vast [illegible] nerve center at the base of the brain—[illegible] the blood vessels and regulates the proper amount and circulation and circumference of the blood throughout the body, becomes fatigued, resulting in a dilation of the arteries of the body and a lessened blood supply to the brain.

It seems well established that during sleep a condition of anaemia of the brain exists, whatever may be the cause underlying it. This explains the feeling of drowsiness after a hearty meal, when there is a determination of blood to the digestive organs and a withdrawal of blood from the brain.

Importance of Sleep.

But there are many kinds of sleep, and the gentle rest refers to only one kind—healthful, restful sleep—the kind that "knits up the ravell."

What sleep is an important thing is unfortunately evidenced by the fact that some spend[illegible] about one-third of his life-time in that condition. Those who have tried to lessen this proportion have usually paid the penalty which nature exacts for any attempt to cheat in "skimping the game."

Value of Early Training.

Sixteen hours of sleep most of the time, but many of them don't. The disciplines of early training should be commenced in childhood and rigidly enforced. The parents of sleeping little children to sit up in the evening so their pugs may play with them is heathenish, selfish and cruel. Children under ten years of age should be put to bed not later than 6:30 o'clock; those ten to fourteen years of age 7 o'clock should be the rule, and from then on until maturity is reached 8 o'clock is a safe and sane hour.

The evening meal should be simple and all excitement-arousing, reading of exciting tales, hard study, etc., avoided. An effort should be made to encourage rather those desires that normal decency contributory to the healthy sleep, which in turn leads to the supply of nutrient blood to the sagging exhausted brain.

What a good sheet in this sleep thing there is will take a vast amount of space and content to destroy the habit of habitual sleep. But sufficient may be summed up in the truth and pray are: Sleep in a well ventilated room, with the windows open, and other necessities, the sufficient light of moon[illegible] when the rain upon the roof like a pleasant and soothing sound, to [illegible] silent surrounded by the lights and shades of night which combine with a soothing influence as a spell of [illegible].

When you [illegible] with a [illegible], what to do? It is easier to say what not to do and we will [illegible] the subject [illegible] from that standpoint.

Things to Avoid.

Do not sleep all day, and rather in dress. They are seldom really needed, and when they are actually necessary it is playing with danger[illegible] to use them except under the advice and control of a physician.

Another thing to avoid is worry over loss of sleep. It is continuing how the sleep [illegible] and [illegible] while [illegible] sleep [illegible] month and never give a thought to the loss of sleep. Make most of the [illegible] to [illegible] health from insomnia is caused by the attendant worriment and fear that the condition will become chronic and that the lost sleep has produced some grave injury to health.

As a matter of fact most cases of insomnia are readily curable if the patient's co-operation can be secured. In cases of mild insomnia, where the trouble is not of long standing and is due to worry, overwork or nerve strain of some kind, very simple remedies will often suffice, and it is at this stage that a determined effort should be made to check the growing habit.

In the first place, have faith in your ability to check the tendency. Resolve that you will not carry your cares to bed with you and especially avoid harrassing problems immediately before retiring. Do your hard thinking in the morning hours. You will think more clearly and take less time about it. Make it a settled practice to work out your tough life problems in the early hours of the day.

It is surprising how a prodigious worry which after a long day's work looms shortsome and threatening, like the genie emerging from a bottle in the Arabian tale, will dwindle to ridiculous proportions when viewed in the morning light. The tired brain cannot get a true perspective of affairs, and just as everything seen through a rough, uneven glass appears distorted so do our troubles when seen through tired eyes. The rested morning brain is well balanced. It weighs accurately and will measure real trouble when it comes and more thoroughly prepare to meet it than the overworked "worried" brain, which is always crying "Wolf, wolf!" If you are a commuter think it out on the train. If you are a farmer wrestle with it as you plow the field. If you are so [illegible] blessed as to have a garden and a spare moment work it—dig, dig—and at one and the same time you will gain health and strength from your mental strains and [illegible].

When to Call Physician.

If all efforts to expel care from the mind at night fail and the brain continues overacting in spite of every effort, if some sharp corner in life is being [illegible] and nature's limit has been reached, then the time for the physician has arrived. Sleep under such circumstances must be had if permanent illness or mental breakdown is to be avoided. The physician must use his judgment in each particular case, but it is seldom that he cannot bring relief and restore control. It is only where reckless neglect and mild drugging have undermined the nervous system that his efforts fail.

In the milder cases of insomnia, however, in addition to the cultivation of calm control and orderly thinking habits as above outlined, there are simple measures which are often effective. The [illegible] potent is the hot [illegible] bath. If you are skeptical, try it some night when your brain is throbbing and your head is aching from a long [illegible] day. Immerse the feet in water as hot as can be borne for ten to twenty minutes. Then lay

Window fans for insomnia.

[illegible] (tween meals and regular habits. "Acid stomach" and intestinal fermentation, causing the accumulation of gas, are often the cause of restless sleep. Immediate relief may be had through simple domestic remedies, such as milk of magnesia, bicarbonate of soda, etc., but an effort should be made to prevent such a condition by proper eating habits.

Late suppers, tea, coffee, etc., are, of course, to be avoided by those who do not rest well.

Summary of Sleep Suggestions.

Live a healthy, sane life in the open as far as possible; exercise within proper limits; eat simple food and chew it thoroughly; look your troubles in the face, but do it when you are best prepared to meet them. Have regular hours for sleep and do not use them to marshal the facts of your business; avoid stimulants and drugs and sleep in a well ventilated room.

THE FAMILY HEARTH

The Three Cherry Trees.

There were three cherry trees once
Grew in a garden all shady,
And there for delight
Of so glorious a sight
Walked a most beautiful lady—
Dreamed a most beautiful lady.

Birds in its branches did sing,
Blackbird and throstle and linnet;
But she walking there
Was by far the most fair,
Loveliest than all else within it
Blackbird and throstle and linnet.

Buds blossoms to berries do come
All hanging on stalks light and slender;
And one long summer's day
Charmed that lady away,
With vows sweet and merry and tender.

A lover with voice low and tender.

Moss and lichen these green branches deck,
Weasle nod in its paths green and shady;
Yet a light footstep seems
Still to haunt there in dreams—
The ghost of that beautiful lady,
That happy and beautiful lady.
—Walter de la Mare, in the Saturday Review.

Cleaning Velvet Rugs.

To clean a velvet rug rub into it all the fine oatmeal it will hold, having previously strewed a handful of salt to each pound of meal and heated the mixture in the oven. Rub in with a cold clean brush. Cover to exclude the dust and leave it thus for two days. Then brush out the meal and beat the rug. It must be the white oatmeal.

Wisdom in Christmas Giving.

Once more the editors of magazines and papers are talking their annual Christmas piece of advice a etc what to give and what not to give, and whether to give at all. For several years past the storm of this advice has been that we should cease giving from a sense of duty or because we imagine we must, that we should avoid encumbering others with what we know they don't want, and should cultivate the true spirit of giving, and so on and so on. The critics have hit hard and they have helped.

Certain it is, whether or not owing to these listings of the business of an over-generous Christmas, or whether the thing had grown to such proportions as to bring about its own destruction, it was for us to say, but there is certainly a saner, wiser, spirit abroad and a more restrained generosity shown.

"We have decided," said one of a grown-up family, "that everybody mustn't try to give something to everybody else, but we'll do more co-operating in the gifts. Still, they are going to be real surprises, every one of them."

Big circles of cousins and uncles and aunts agree to do no giving outside their immediate families; acquaintances who have fallen into a perfunctory habit of giving while the years have lessened the bond between them, will, many of them, break the habit; friends who are near and dear may even agree to spend no money on each other, but one or other is almost sure to break through.

If there is one commonplace oftener heard than another at this season it is, "It is so hard to choose anything for a man," and this is usually followed by a list of all the things Tom, Dick and Harry have already.

In Good Housekeeping Gelett Burgess expresses himself on the subject when he says, "Christmas I love, but not Santa Claus. His doings me usually but chains and fetters. For who knows my tastes and needs so well as I? No, Christmas is become a formality, and I, for one, would become emancipate from its dogmas. When I want a camera I'll buy one and get the proper size and quality.. If presents must be given, let them be money or kisses! I hate silver, for one thing; and I now thorn my friends. But how can I catalogue my abhorrences? They are infinite. From silk-knit ties to little boxes devised to hold six matches, I loathe everything that money can buy—unless I have bought it myself! And so, if I have any friends left, tell them this: If they would give me a Christmas present, let it be that truest, blessedest of gifts, nothing!"

Suggestions For Housewives.

To put new braid on a skirt where here is stitched in, rip out here for about three inches and insert a two-inch piece of pasteboard a little wider than braid; by slipping this along the new braid is easily sewed on without catching outer part of skirt.

Do not waste time and strength in cleaning and stoves and spreading about ill-smelling stuff said to be death to moths. Instead saturate an old sheet with formaldehyde and hang it in the closet, first stopping up both cracks and keyhole, and leave for 24 hours.

Roquefort cheese gives a peculiar and agreeable tang to a lettuce salad. Make a rich French dressing, adding enough grated roquefort to make the mixture thick and creamy. Toss the dressing and leaves well, seasoning with a little red pepper. Serve with toasted crackers.

When a new house-dress is made it is a good plan to make an apron of the same material. You will thus appear neater than when wearing an apron of another colour, and another advantage is that it will fade with the dress and can be used in mending the dress when the latter commences to wear out.

The next time you have cheese with your salad try the effect of cutting tiny rounds of red pepper about a quarter of an inch thick and filling the centre with cream cheese. These rings should be prepared several hours before using, and be kept on the ice until very cold. Pass a sordinary cheese with crackers.

Instead of bothering with sticky fly paper, try this method of getting rid of flies: Put two teaspoonfuls of formaldehyde in a pint of water, pour into saucers, and set on table. Flies are attracted and drink the water. Some die in the water, others get as far as the table, and they may be easily swept up and burned.

Hold on, Says.

Hold on to your temper when you are just ready to swear, lie, or speak harshly, or use an improper word.

Hold on to your hand when you are about to punish, strike, scratch, steal or do any improper act.

Hold on to your feet when you are on the point of kicking, running off from study, or pursuing the path of error, shame or crime.

Hold on to your temper when you are angry, excited or imposed upon, or others are angry with you.

Hold on to your heart when evil associates seek your company and invite you to join in their mirth, games and revelry.

Hold on to your good name, for it is of more value than gold, high places or fashionable attire.

Hold on to the truth, for it will serve you well and do you good throughout eternity.

Hold on to virtue—it is above all price to you in all times and places.

Hold on to your good character, for it is, and ever will be your best wealth.

Ten Things a Baby Can Do.

It can beat any alarm clock ever invented waking a family up in the morning.

Give it a fair show and it can smash more dishes than the most industrious servant girl in the country.

It can talk down a...ner and with less provocation than the most expert tumbler in the circus ring.

It can make more genuine fuss over a simple bruise pin than the mother would over a broken back.

It can choke itself black in the face with greater ease than the most accomplished wretch that ever was executed.

It can keep a family in a constant turmoil from morn till night and from night till morning, without once varying its tune.

It can be relied upon to sleep peacefully all day when its father is down town and cry persistently at night when he is particularly sleepy.

It may be the naughtiest, dirtiest, ugliest, most fretful baby in all the world, but you can never make its mother believe it, and you had better not try it.

It can be a charming and a model infant when no one is around, but when visitors are present it can exhibit more bad temper than both of its parents together.

It can brighten up a house better than all the furniture ever made; make sweeter music than the finest orchestra organized; fill a larger place in its parents' hearts than they know they had, and when it goes away it can cause a greater vacuum and leave a greater blank than all the rest of the world put together.

Diseases Of the Skin

Often appear with sudden changes of temperature. Eczema and Salt Rheum are cured by

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Cold, damp weather brings out eczema and salt rheum. Many who are subject to these ailments do not suffer except during the changeable weather of fall and spring.

The annoying itching and the disfiguring blotches on the skin make this trouble almost unbearable to those who are not familiar with the soothing, healing influence of Dr Chase's Ointment.

Relief comes almost as soon as this ointment is applied. Gradually the irritation disappears, the sores are healed up and the skin is left soft, smooth and natural.

There is always danger of eczema spreading and becoming chronic. For this reason the use of the ointment should be regular and persistent until the cure is thorough and complete.

Mrs. John J. Delory, Linwood, Algonquin county, Ont., writes: "I want to say that Dr. Chase's Ointment has proved a great blessing to me. I had salt rheum on my hands, and could not get it healed up. The itching was most distressing at times. Two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured me completely, and I feel it my duty to say that it is a very valuable."

In every home there is a demand for Dr. Chase's Ointment. In fact quantity sold where there are little ones. Chafing and skin irritations are relieved at once. Children's troubles are readily healed. Baby eczema and all forms of scaling or irritation of the skin are soon cured by this soothing ointment. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Women Know.

Women know the worst of poverty. It is the wife who has the spending of the insufficient income, who learns all the bitter ways of scrimping and paring and saving. The husband must present a decent appearance, for policy's sake, when he goes to business; certain things are necessities for the children; and so the heaviest of all the deprivations fall upon the woman who stays at home and strives to make one dollar do the work of five. This is the way of the ordinary woman; and what sacrifices she makes, what tastes she crucifies, what longings for pretty things and dainty things she smothers, not even her own family guess. They think it is an eccentricity that makes her choose the neck of a chicken and the hard end of the loaf and to stay home from any little outing. Ah, if they only knew!

Sometimes one has more flowers piled on his coffin and grave than he ever had given to him in all his life. We want our flowers while we are living. The dead are past all that. If we would do good let us do it while we are alive to those who are living.

Make no haste to be rich if you would prosper.

Save when you are young to spend when you are old.

Avoid temptation through fear you may not withstand it.

Never speak evil of anyone. Be just before you are generous.

Never run into debt without you see plainly a way to get out again.

Small and steady gains give competency with tranquility of mind.

Good company and good conversation are the very sinews of virtue.

Your character cannot be essentially injured except by your own acts.

If any one speaks evil of you let your life be so that none will believe him.

Snapshots For Presents.

If you took some interesting snapshots last summer on your holiday trips or of your home which you would like to send to relatives at a distance, mount them on the regular photograph cardboard, which may be bought for from eight cents a dozen up, and then them together in a long strip by pasting a narrow ribbon through holes made in the lower corners of the mounts. When hung in a long strip on the wall the pictures add beauty to that particular corner of the room as well as giving pleasure to the beholder.—London Free Press.

WAR'S NEW HORROR

The Development of Flying Machines Brings Many New Methods of Destruction into Consideration

Two interesting articles relative to the employment of aeroplanes or dirigibles in war, recently appeared in an issue of the Journal of Paris. The first of these deals with experiments made by some officers of Chalais-Meudon in destroying dirigibles. These experiments were made at the Eiffel Tower, and the method employed was to drop arrows, each carrying a small explosive charge, which burst on coming in contact with the envelope of the balloon, setting fire to the gas. A number of small captive balloons were secured round the tower, and the arrows were dropped on them by hand from the first stage. In every case the arrows exploded, igniting the gas and destroying the balloons. Further experiments will be made at varying altitudes. The idea is that an aeroplane or a dirigible with superior speed shall get above the enemy's dirigible and drop the arrows upon it in passing.

The other article, which deals with the employment of aeroplanes as fighting machines, and not mere instruments of reconnaissance involves a good deal of somewhat dry mathematical calculations; but the object of the writer is to show that it is feasible for an aviator to fly over hostile camps discharging bullets broadcast from his machine, and thereby inflicting considerable losses. He began by pointing out that aeroplanes have made flights of sixty miles carrying two passengers. If it is possible to do this, it would, according to the writer in Le Journal, be equally possible for the aviator to carry a quantity of bullets equal to the weight of two passengers. These need not be fired from a gun, because, according to the well-known law which governs the speed of falling bodies, the bullets only require to be released at a sufficient height to acquire sufficient velocity on reaching the ground to kill both men and horses. According to this law a bullet dropped from a height of 3,280 feet would have a velocity of about 460 feet per second on striking the ground. This altitude is easily within the range of aeroplanes, and bullets falling from that height would certainly kill any man or horse if struck in a vital spot. The projectile of the French rifle weighs 25 grammes, and 100 kilogrammes, or about 225 pounds' weight, would contain some 4,000 bullets. One hundred kilogrammes would not, of course, weigh so much as two passengers, and, therefore, could easily be carried by a sufficiently powerful aeroplane. The aviator flying above massed troops could release this cloud of missiles, and probably cause a great number of casualties. He could fly a long way inside the enemy's position of attack, not among the scattered firing line, but the reserves collected in thick masses of troop on the march, or even soldiers at rest in their tents in camp. In favorable circumstances an aeroplane could make four or five journeys of this kind daily, and fire the equivalent of 20,000 rounds of ammunition. The work could be repeated every day, and the French writer estimates that in this way each aeroplane would be equivalent to four regiments of infantry.

The writer also calculates that in attacking troops in masses, such as on the march or in reserve, at least one bullet in a hundred should be effective, so that each flight of the aeroplane would mean one hundred men killed or wounded. France now possesses at least fifty aeroplanes, which, as the writer estimates each to be equal to three thousand infantry, is equivalent to an army of 150,000 men. Apart from its more distructive effect, the hail of bullets from an aeroplane might have very far-reaching effects in cases where it was able to be launched, for instance, against a group of general officers or the headquarters staff. It is also pointed out that if the aeroplane is fired at by the soldiers while overhead all the bullets discharged will fall back again on earth with destructive effect upon themselves, added to the effect of those dropped by the aviator. Finally the writer sets out the proposition that aeroplanes used in this way would be vastly superior to artillery as a death-dealing instrument. He urges that experiments should be begun immediately to ascertain the best method of employing them, and to learn the shape of bullet which will give the best penetration when dropped from a height.

FITTING THE GAS

With a face that vainly endeavored to appear mournful, and eyes that vainly strove to produce a respectable flow of tears, Patrick Murphy O'Dolan strolled into the drapery shop.

"I want ye to tell me," he murmured, "phwat the custom is for the wearin iv mourain'?"

"Well," mused the assistant, "as custom is varies. If it's a very dear relative, you should wear black clothes; if it's a less near relative, a band of black on the sleeve or hat; or, if it's for a friend, just a black tie."

For some moments Patrick Murphy O'Dolan considered.

"Well," he whispered at length, "give me a boutlace. It's me wife's mither!"

PALACE ON WHEELS FOR HIS MAJESTY

Most Beautiful Railway Carriage in the World in Which King Takes His Journeys

To embellish and beautify a railway carriage so that it combines the perfect taste, the elegance, and comfort of a famous apartment in a Royal palace, would seem almost an impossibility to those who know by experience how uncomfortable a long railway journey can be. The impossible, however, is achieved in the magnificent Royal railway carriage made for the King and Queen of England. There is nothing in the world that furnishes such a striking contrast with the ordinary railway coach. It is really a drawing-room—in fact, a Royal palace on wheels.

This unique train is composed of six carriages, and the decorations and fittings of the interior are said to be unequalled in any rolling-stock in the world.

There are two saloons, one for the King and one for the Queen, and every conceivable contrivance for their Majesties' comfort has been installed. King George's saloon is decorated in white enamel and light green the furniture being of satin-wood inlaid with ivory. The saloon occupied by Queen Mary is also white enamel, relieved by touches of blue, and soft shades of pink. The smoking-room is a cosy apartment in mahogany, with fine inlays of rosewood and satinwood, while the dining-car is a sumptuous coach, the kitchen a model. There are balconies to each saloon, which are fitted with windows, so that they can be used as observation cars.

But even before their Majesties' comfort comes the consideration of their safety, and the precaution taken by a railway company to ensure against accidents during the Royal progress are of the most elaborate character. Fifteen minutes ahead of every Royal train goes a pilot engine, to see that the line, which has been cleared a quarter of an hour earlier, is in perfect order. Every quarter of a mile on both sides of the line a platelayer is stationed with hand signals and detonators in case of emergency. Each keeps in sight of his fellow, both on the right hand and the left, and no matter if the journey is from London to Scotland, the line is guarded in the same way throughout. When either the King or Queen travels to Balmoral, for instance, several hundred workmen are so engaged. By the side of the driver on the engine is a special look-out man, and on the train itself are all the principal officers of the company, a full complement of artificers in case of a breakdown, and two guards in electrical communication with the driver.

It also means that all ordinary traffic on the route is arranged for an hour, but then their Majesties' safety is secured.

MONUMENT TO SHAKESPEARE

The city of Verona is erecting a monument to Shakespeare. The Veronese consider they have an intimate connection with the poet through "The Two Gentlemen of Verona," and therefore their city is that of "Romeo and Juliet."

Evidence to the city are shown by the palace of the Podesta of the Capulets and the ruined house of Romeo. There is also, of course, the tomb of Juliet, the monument of which visitors are supposed to stamp. Verona, with Romeo and Juliet, thrives mightily upon the interest it derives in the romance—and Lucrezia is still without the distinction of the world's greatest poet.

It is estimated that 250,000 electric lamps are served daily in London.

RECORDING MUSIC ON NEW MACHINE

Instrument Invented That is of Great Help to Composer—No Notes Will Be Lost Now

A famous critic once made the rather sweeping statement that "more masterpieces were lost to music than were ever gained." Strange as this remark may at first appear, there was a good deal of truth in it. He meant, of course, that many wonderful passages which must have been played by great composers while idly fingering the piano were lost forever. The brain of the genius is notoriously fitful, and while working out one idea a dozen others might subconsciously be communicated to the fingers, and their value not appreciated until too late. Such tragedies must be frequent.

Now, however, by the aid of a new invention with the rather formidable name of the "Automusicograph," nothing need be lost to music in the future. This ingenious apparatus, which can be attached to any piano, records on a roll of music paper every note that is played whether good, bad, or indifferent. Many an amateur can compose melodies in his head, and play them but few can write music as it should be written. Now this little machine does that part of the work.

It takes the form of a small cabinet with a glass front, and is fixed over the reading desk. A paper roll, marked with different colored lines, is placed inside and the clockwork machinery set going. As it revolves, every note that is touched is marked upon it in typewriter fashion. When the sheet of paper is detached after playing, a graduated gauge is placed by the side of it which determines the exact position of the note.

Don Angelo Barbiri, the inventor, claims for it that it is not only accurately reproduces the notes played, but also the time. The value of the device, therefore, to every composer who extemporises will be enormous.

Mascagni, the famous composer, is using one of these machines in writing his new opera, "Elisbeta."

HATS FROM PARIS

Present Large Picture Creations the Most Artistic Yet Seen

A hat from Paris! Show me the woman who is not attracted by such a bait. In the French capital to-day $100 is regarded as a comparatively low price to pay for one of the popular hats of automobile-tire dimensions, and having but the slightest apology for trimming in the way of a tiny cord or band of fur or a single rose. But why so dear? may be asked. Well, it is all because of the line, the cut, if one may so term it, as a leading milliner expressed it the other day.

Truly the present large picture hats are the most artistic headgear seen here in many years. During the summer season when Paris is supposed to be dead the designers for great milliners spend many an hour in the Louvre or the Carnavalet galleries, or studying the wonderful collection of the National Library, and the result of which can be easily seen in this year's hats, many of which are copies of the Directoire and Louis XV. and Louis XVI. styles. These large hats are chiefly for afternoon wear, it may be explained.

The winter models are so varied and becoming that there will be no difficulty of selection. The poise of an aigrette or a bunch of plumes suited to the individual face, will entirely change what looks like an impossible-becoming toque into the most chic and becoming headgear.

MANUEL TO LIVE IN THE OPEN AIR

The Ex-King's Health is Said to Have Been Shattered by Recent Exciting Incidents

If ever there was a happy woman, comparatively speaking, it is the Queen mother of Portugal, who, with her son, Manuel, escaped from Lisbon with their lives when that city was seized by the revolutionists. The agony and terror in which this poor woman has lived for more than two years is beyond description. According to one of her ladies-in-waiting who has just arrived in Paris from London. The life of the fallen queen has been one of long suffering, for she realised only too well the hopelessness of the situation so far as the permanency of the Portuguese monarchy was concerned. She tried in vain to stem the current of reckless extravagance, all friends in Paris in whom she confided, well know. Then three years ago, came the horror of witnessing the assassination of her husband and eldest son, while being able to save the life of her youngest son only by her personal intervention. What she has gone through no human being can conceive, nor realise, and it is a great relief to know that at last the strain is over and that she can rest peacefully at the country residence of the Duc d'Orleans. She is soon to make a protracted visit to France, where the Orleans family still possess a magnificent chateau. It is said in Paris that it has been definitely settled that the deposed king, Manuel, will live much in the open air for many months, for, as a result of a not altogether quiet life, his health is far from good, while his nerves have been shattered as a result of the events of the last few weeks. Steps will be taken to hinder any attempt on his part to renew his friendship with the French actress, Gaby Deslys, with whom he was greatly taken, and who has improved the opportunity of the loss of his throne to bring public attention to the fact that he was one of her admirers.

A Sure Thing—Want Ad

LOST THRONES

The fate of King Manuel recalls that he is not only the only living ruler who has lost his throne, but he is not even the only living member of the House of Braganza who has suffered the misfortune of dethronement. In the Isle of Wight there dwells a nun who was once Queen of Portugal. For six years her husband, King Miguel, strived hard to keep the Lusitanian crown from Donna Maria, the rightful possessor of it, but after a lot of bloodshed, he was sent to the right-about, and Donna Maria came by her own. She was the great grandmother of young King Manuel. Then there is the Duchess of Parma. She is a Braganza Princess who married another ill-fated European ruler. Her husband, who died two years ago, was the last sovereign ruler of an ancient royal house in Italy. What the last Duke of Parma and his wife lost in regal prestige, they made up in domestic felicity, for the Duchess presented the late Duke with no less than twelve children, all of whom survive, while the Duke's first wife had presented him with nine sons and daughters, eight of whom are still living. The Duchess of Parma is therefore the mother, or stepmother, of twenty-one children. Another Braganza Princess who has narrowly missed wearing a crown is the Comtesse D'Eu. Before her marriage to this Orleans Prince she was Her Royal Highness Princess Isabella Christine Leopoldine, Augustine Michelle Gabrielle Raphaelle Gonzaga De Braganza, the second daughter of Pedro II., Emperor of Brazil. Had the Portuguese dynasty in Brazil not come to an end, the Comtesse D'Eu would have been an empress in her own right, as her two brothers both died in infancy. The House of Braganza has therefore suffered some terrible dynastic vicissitudes during the last half-century.

Among other living royalties who have worn crowns which are now in the possession of others are the ex-Empress Eugenie, the widow of Napoleon III., Emperor of the French. Her Majesty is still wonderfully active. She was a great beauty, but her vanity is said to have been the cause of the Franco-Prussian War, in which thousands of lives were lost. The ex-Empress lost her only son, the Prince Imperial, in the Zulu War. One of the most pathetic figures among the dispossessed monarchs is Charlotte, ex-Empress of Mexico. For many years she has been in a lunatic asylum. Her husband was the Archduke Maximilian of Austria, brother of the present Austrian Kaiser, and he responded to the invitation of the people of Mexico to become their ruler only to find himself drawn into a death-trap from which there was no dignified escape. He was eventually shot dead in Mexico, and his miserable widow, not long after, lost her reason. She is the unhappy sister of the late King of the Belgians.

The Grand Duchess of Tuscany is the last lady who will bear that historic title. The last ruling Grand Duke of Tuscany, her husband, lost his kingdom by royal decree of March 22, 1860, when his dominions were added to the province conquered by the King of Sardinia, and henceforth became part of the "United Italy" of Victor Emmanuel and Garibaldi.

Another lady who has lost a crown is the ex-Queen Natalie of Servia. She was the wife of King Milan, and mother of that unfortunate young King Alexander, whose assassination with his wife, Queen Draga, put an end to the Obrenovitch dynasty of Servia, and paved the way for King Peter's accession. Altogether, these dispossessed Queens are not to be envied.

Among the monarchs who have ceased to rule are the deposed Shah Mohammed Ali Mirza the son of Muzaffin-ed-Din, who used to be so well-known in London. Another Mohammadan monarch who has been replaced is Abdul Hamid, who, as the "Sick Man," was the bugbear of European politics for forty years. He is now said to be a lunatic, and is, at any rate, a prisoner. He is never likely to be ruler of Turkey again. Theebaw, ex-King of Burmah, who was dethroned by the British Government after the last Burmese campaign, still lives and thoroughly enjoys his rustication at Bathagiri, a town on the West Indian Coast. He also is nominally a prisoner, but feels none of the restrictions implied by that term, but he will never be allowed to see his beloved Burmah again.

India, by the way, has more than one Maharaja who has been deprived of his "Gadi." One of them is Mahdo Singh, the ex-Maharaja of Panna. He took a dislike to his nephew, who was heir-presumptive of the State, so Mahdo Singh caused him to be poisoned. After a State inquiry, which lasted forty days, the British Government deposed the Maharaja, and hanged the man who perpetrated the foul deed.

A Monarch who, in his day, has been much in the public eye, is the ex-Sultan of Morocco, who was defeated in war by Mulai Hafid, and removed from the Sultanate. The ex-ruler of Morocco was a go-ahead sort of chap, and filled large rooms in his palace with golden cameras, toy railways, cinematograph apparati, concertinas, pianos, and bicycles.

Prempeh, the ex-King of Ashantee, too, still lives, and is ready and willing on all occasions to talk of the "City of Blood" and the terrible human sacrifices which were his diversion in the days of his kingship. There are a few other dethroned rulers in various coast towns of the Dark Continent, but they are kept under strict supervision. The last monarch to be deposed before the fall of King Manuel was Thag-Hi, the Emperor of Korea, who years ago saw his mother butchered on her throne, and who will probably be a happier man as a pensioner of Japan than as an Asiatic sovereign. True it is that "uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

BIGGEST EGG PLANT

Largest in World is on Rhode Island —Great Output

The largest poultry plant in the world it at Little Compton, Rhode Island, and is owned by Isaac Wilbur, who ships about 180,000 dozen eggs a year from his hens. Mr. Wilbur builds his houses 8 x 10 feet in size and houses forty hens in a house this size. He has 100 of these houses and they are set 150 feet apart in rows over sloping fields. The food is hauled to each house in a wagon; twice a day this wagon makes the rounds, morning and evening. In the morning it is a mash made of cooked vegetables and different kinds of meats; in the evening, or rather late afternoon, only in this case, it is whole corn the year around. The eggs are gathered when the afternoon feed is given. Different fields are given over to these houses. As the grounds need cleansing they are moved to renewed grounds.

RECORD AS CORONER

This Doctor Has Conducted 19,000 Inquests in 25 Years

To show that he was qualified to address the Medico-Legal Society on "An East End Coroner and His Medical Neighbors," Dr. W. Wynn Westcott, coroner for North-East London, Highbid, told the society that he had been a coroner for a quarter of a century, and had held 19,000 inquests.

He expressed the opinion that at present doctors kept back much evidence as to the effects following drink and disease, chiefly in order not to hurt anyone's feelings, and the result was that some of the Registrar-General's returns were very misleading. An Act of Parliament should be passed to make death certificates secret.

MATCHES MADE BY MUSIC

"A church choir is one of Cupid's most happy hunting grounds," affirms a tenor who sings in a fashionable London church.

"I believe that if statistics were obtainable on the subject it would be found that of single people who join church choirs a larger proportion get married within a year than among an equal number of young people that might be selected anywhere else. Singing, even if about things celestial, puts the deepest of all emotions going, and hearts chord with each other just as voices do.

"If the singer doesn't discover an affinity in a fellow-singer it is pretty apt to be found in the congregation. If a woman has a sweet voice, a face to match, and a figure to go with the other two attractions, she has the best possible opportunity for displaying them, as anyone can understand; and the same principle applies to a handsome man."

ANGLER'S ADVICE

A novice at angling was out on his first fishing expedition with his brand-new rod and other elaborate equipment, and after a long day of fruitless toil he hooked a salmon. The question now was as to how to land his captive, and he had been struggling vainly for some time to accomplish this object when an experienced fisherman arrived on the scene. The novice had wound in the line till the fish's nose touched the ring at the end of the rod, and he was now absolutely beaten.

"What shall I do?" he inquired, in desperation, of the new-comer.

"Climb up the pole and fetch him in," was the expert's cruel answer.

WORLD'S GREATEST MOTHER

Mrs. Jane Morris, who resides in Jackson County, Kentucky, can boast of a total of 515 descendants, nearly all of whom are living, and some of whom has been accused of crime.

"Aunt Jane," as she is called, lives with her son near the little hamlet of Hand Gap, and her descendants own and occupy most of the land in Jackson County. She is eighty-six years old, and she says she expects to live to be a hundred, and to see descendants of the fifth generation.

Mrs. Morris's husband died twenty years ago, six years after they had celebrated their golden wedding. She was never married again, and remarkable as it may seem, the entire number of descendants are from this one union.

EIGHT-YEAR-OLD HERO

The Royal Humane Society's medal has been awarded to an eight-year-old boy named Dennis F. T. Gibson, who pleaded into deep water in Causeway Bay, Hongkong, and saved a younger sister, who fell from a boat.

Before the boy went in a Chinese youth was asked to save the child, but he refused, saying the devil would take him if he did.

THAT DEPENDED

A very small boy was trying to lead a big St. Bernard dog up the road. "Where are you going to take the dog, my little man?" inquired a passer-by. "I'm going to sell him," was the unexpected reply.

BIG QUESTION FOR THE COMMONS

Additional Subject at the Coming Session Will Probably be the Payment of the Members

The coming session of the British Parliament will in many respects be one of the most interesting England has ever witnessed, so many are the vital question to be taken up. But of all these probably none is of more practical importance than the payment of the members of the House of Commons. A question that has been pushed into the front rank by the now famous Osborne judgment, which refused the labor unions the right to use their money for political campaign expenses and to pay the labor members in the House for their work. The judgment of the court has caused violent excitement in labor circles and the demand was made that the government, whose political existence to a certain extent depends on labor support, must bring forward a bill granting the labor unions the right to use their money for political purposes. A bill of this kind will hardly be able to pass through the House of Commons, as it is constituted now, and if it does, it will surely be killed in the House of Lords. A solution has to be found however. To drive the representatives of labor out of the House of Commons because they cannot afford to sit there is, of course, out of the question, and both great parties are, therefore, advocating, with more or less sincerity, the payment of the chosen representatives of the people. The government will hardly oppose this solution which was already suggested by Gladstone in a conversation with John Morley in 1891, but what is more remarkable is that even the ultra conservative press, like the "Morning Post," is in favor of it. Mr. Balfour has not said anything yet, but it is more than likely that Austen Chamberlain, who tries to imitate his father in everything, even in appearance, may champion the cause Joseph Chamberlain fought for twenty-five years ago. At any rate, the question will surely come up for discussion in the House of Commons, and the demand made by the Chartists in 1848, and which was then considered revolutionary, may be carried through in 1910.

ELECTION FUN ✱ CORONATION PLANS ✱ LITTLE DORRIT'S BIRTHDAY.

BREAK INTO VERSE OVER THE BATTLE

Britons Sing the Air "The Wearing of the Green" in a Hit at Mr. Redmond.

"THE RAVEN" PARODIED

Kipling and Shelley Add to the Joy or Sorrow of the Campaign, as the Case May Be.

(Special Correspondence.)
London, Saturday.

ENGLAND in the throes of an election fought, according to the Unionists, by Mr. John Redmond, is not a pretty sight.

Thousands of persons parade Fleet street nightly watching the bulletins and cinematograph displays and others are intermingled with people as the results of the municipal election are read to the surging, ravenous crowds.

There are no hacks or rotters to make night hideous in these thousands mass in front of American newspaper offices on election night, but now and then some disturbers burst into song, or what passes for it here, for your loyal Briton is full of fervor, whether he be radical or unionist, and he gets joy out of life during a campaign by mocking a speaker or shouting in mute or inarticulate tones that "Britons never, never shall be slaves!"

Fair election, in which "American dollars" have much forced to the fore as a prime and rolling issue, has given employment to the poets.

Songs of the Battle.

One of the favorite songs of the army behind Mr. Arthur J. Balfour and Lord Lansdowne is going to the air of "The Wearing of the Green," and runs:—

Oh, John Bull, dear, an' did you hear
The news that's goin' round?
The peace it is by law forbid
To sing in English ground;
No more upon St. George's Day
Ind colce will be seen;
An' in its place we'll have to place
The Stars an' Stripes an' green.

Oh, I met with Johnny Redmond,
An' he took me by the hand,
An' he says "Hurroo for Ireland, boy,
But things are goin' grand.
God bless the Yankee dollars that
I've got in my canteen;
Sure I'll be King of Erin,
And no Saxon to be seen."

Another political cubicist appeal, which has been adapted from Edgar Allan Poe's "The Raven," hails of the troubles of a voter in the Chelsea division, where the unionist and liberal candidates are hanged nightly. This is the final verse:—

"And the which," I asked him, snorting, "of the two you are supporting;
With your slimsey Mile the sporting of Such persons I deplore;
Are you Cumberland or Asquith" (here I seized him by the collar),
"Will you touch the Yankee dollar being dumped on Britain's shore?"
Then you dunno; it's your equaler, that your kind will cost you more!"
Quoth the cuckoo, "Vote for Hazell"
In all addition to the quarrels, appealing to them to stand by St. George, Merry England and the Unionist party, the Chelsea cuckoo speaks with this adaptation from Kipling:—

Bishop has taken alcohol, never the wild-fowl raised,
And a good deed but not 'is best Wind that died for England's sake—
Died a woman or something, perhaps so bride or maid—
Because on the bones of the English the English flag is stayed.
We may not speak of England; her King's to fight or shame.
What is the flag of England? Man of the broad dominions!

Admiral guns seem to be few and far between. So, to admit fighting and the unionist bona maintain, the radicals are substituting Shelley's "song to the Men of England," written in 1819:—

Men of England, wherefore plough
For the lords who lay ye low?
Wherefore feed and clothe and save,
From the cradle to the grave,
Those ungrateful drones who would
Drain your sweat—nay, drink your blood?

Wherefore, bees of England, forge
Many a weapon, chain and scourge,
That these stingless drones may spoil
The forced produce of your toil?

Mr. Redmond's followers, who have contempted the "foreign interference" and "American money" from the unionist party, are accused of voting in each the Hyndman's Irish home rulers, and Keir Hardie that will vote for abolition. But the Irish leader is not ready to be drawn into the net and has declined to devote a free line of it to the Chelsea row. There has been no sign of William O'Brien's return to the party in the South, and the Irish, at least of the North, do not take much interest in the election.

Queen Alexandra Sympathy.

Queen Alexandra has visited Buckingham Palace for good, the work of renovation has been completed, and the Queen is to return to London there this week. Unfortunately, it is understood that she will be unable to receive visitors for a long time, however, and not be ready for the usual Buckingham Palace entertainments for a long time.

The Queen's illness at Sandringham has been much more serious than at first stated, and for a time her life was despaired of. She is now, however, making a good recovery, and is expected to be able to return to London in a few days.

Queen Alexandra's illness has caused much sympathy for the Queen, who has had many anxious days and nights during the illness of her mother-in-law.

Gorgeous Coronation Ceremony for British Rulers Planned; Troops from Whole Empire to Attend

WESTMINSTER ABBEY AS IT APPEARED WHEN GEORGE IV. WAS CROWNED.

Sikhs and Gurkhas and Dusky Warriors from Africa Will Be Seen.

PREPARATIONS PROCEED

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

DESPITE the political storm now raging, the arrangements for the coronation of King George and Queen Mary next June are proceeding apace. The Coronation Committee has held many sittings and the preparations for the pageant are now well in hand. So far the brunt of the preliminary work has fallen on the Earl Marshal's department. Besides having to attend to a thousand and one matters of detail, the onerous duty of allotting to the best advantage the limited accommodation in Westminster Abbey has had to be considered. Prominent positions, however, already have been given to the representatives of the overseas dominions, of the United States and of foreign States.

The coronation ceremony will strictly follow the lines of precedent. It will be in the streets, on the line of route between Buckingham Palace and Westminster Abbey, and in the royal progress through the metropolis—probably on the Saturday following—that the imperial aspect of the great occasion will be most strikingly demonstrated. Troops from every part of the Empire—from Asia, Africa, Canada and Australia—will either ride in the procession or will line the route.

INDIAN CAVALRY ESCORT.

At least two escorts of Indian and Colonial cavalry will precede the King's carriage. From India alone will come 150 officers and 250 men, the contingents representing native light cavalry, native lancers, native horse, the guides, Gurkha Rifles, Carnatic infantry, the Mahrattas, Sikh pioneers, Sranman, Rajput and Jat infantry, and Punjabi and Pathan regiments. Even places as far away as Fiji and the Straits Settlements will contribute their quota to the pageant, and dusky warriors from Nigeria, Uganda and Central Africa will also add to the picturesqueness of the scenes and demonstrate the extent of the British Empire.

Once the general election is over the military arrangements will be completed rapidly, and one of the first tasks of the Office of Works in the new year will be to start the erection of stands along the proposed route. The preparation of the Abbey for the ceremony, including the building of an annex in which will be the robing rooms for the King and Queen, will also be undertaken.

THREATEN TO STEAL 'BABY' CHURCHILL

Militant Suffragettes Turn Their Attention to the Home Secretary's Daughter.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

MILITANT suffragettes here, not content with crippling Mr. Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland; knocking down two American biuejackets, and indorsing an attack with a dog whip on the Right Hon. Winston Churchill, Home Secretary, by Mr. Hugh Franklin, sympathizer with their movement, have threatened to kidnap Diana Churchill, the baby daughter of the Minister.

These "votes for women" warriors assuredly have got on the nerves of the Cabinet Ministers, and, as a result, all of them are protected by special detectives.

Even Mr. John Burns, the stalwart member for Battersea, has a couple of constables doing patrol duty night and day outside his unpretentious home on Lavender Hill. Downing street is full of detectives, and two are assigned to watch Mr. Haldane's abode at Queen Anne's Gate, Mr. Runciman's at Cheyne Crescent, Mr. Birrell's at Chelsea and Lord Crewe's house in Mayfair.

After seeing some of the "votes for women" leaders in action against the London police, your London correspondent is satisfied that the Asquith-old suffragette movement is a very mild, enjoyable affair.

DON'T UNDRESS TO SLEEP, HIS ADVICE

"Lawrence Beesley" Argues That There Is Too Much Disrobing Done for Health.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

"WHY should we all undress and take off our clothes every night, with the consequent redressing in the morning?"

The question is raised by "Lawrence Beesley," which is said to be the pen name of a physician who in his capacity of ship's surgeon and also on pleasure journeys has travelled over a considerable part of the globe. He himself does not believe in undressing.

"I have lived on board ship in the tropics," he writes, "in Canada and in the desert of Arabia, and I say this, that I have been as healthy and as fit and infinitely more satisfied with life under conditions which practically compelled me to sleep in my clothes, minus boots, coat and collar."

Dr. "Beesley" does not believe in undressing these cold winter nights and risking catching cold by getting under cold sheets, with the prospect of a bath in the morning.

"I have now quite given up undressing at night before going to sleep. Try it. Sleep in your underclothes—flannel shirt and socks—have two hot baths a week and give hours per annum and oceans of bad language. I am speaking as a medical man of twenty years' experience."

Royal Doggies Oust the Teddy Bear

Caesar and Happy Are the Present Rage in London by "Cute" Imitations.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

THE windows of London's big shops are full of attractive Christmas novelties. Whatever the elections may have done to general business they have not depressed the holiday trade to any great extent. Dolls and doggies have the right of way this year. Cute little imitations of the late King Edward's famous little terrier Caesar and of King George's canine pet Happy have ousted the Teddy Bear from juvenile favor.

"I am Caesar; I belong to the King," was the legend on the collar of King Edward's favorite, and if Happy is not so well known the demand shows he is growing in popular favor. It must be remembered that there are many pathetic associations attaching to Caesar, who is linked in the public mind with memories of the late beloved King. The Morning Leader has canvassed the toy houses of London and says that the heads of these concerns are in agreement in saying that the "royal doggie" will be first choice this Christmas with boys and girls.

There are many other novelties in this year's toy stocks, but while mechanical toys hold a prominent place in the display there is no falling off in the demand for the old favorites, doll houses and sets of dishes.

So it is all the way down the list, and everything must be correct to scale or the children of the present generation will have nothing to do with the toys.

Little Dorrit Is Now 98 Years Old

Celebrates Her Birthday and Tells of Incidents That Distil Her in Her Early Life.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

MISS MARY ANN CLEAVELL, an aged woman, who says she is the original of the character of Little Dorrit in Charles Dickens' novel is still living in the village of Old Heathcote, a few miles out at Lobster [illegible] and celebrated her ninety-eighth birthday. She is a quiet and self-possessed old lady, and has so far kept well and free from any serious illness. She is very much interested in the events of the day, and takes a keen interest in what goes on around her. Though her memory naturally fails her at times, she has preserved quite clear recollections of her early association with Dickens.

Her first acquaintance of the novelist go back to the time when he must have been about five years old. Mary Ann Hilton—as she was then—a child of four, left her native at Sunbury and was taken to live in a small district in Somers Town. She says that the Dickens family, after [illegible] Richard Dickens' father had been imprisoned for the debts, came to live in the same [illegible]

Two of Dickens' sisters, Letitia Mary and Fanny, came first to the [illegible] as early [illegible] time, and then a friend who visited at the [illegible] from the [illegible] and after [illegible] Dickens' father was [illegible] Rev. [illegible] of Hampstead, and [illegible] Rev. A. [illegible] of the [illegible] Mary Ann [illegible]

MISS WILLIAMS WINS IN LONDON

Mr. Abeles Appears in "He Tried To Be Nice," Gaining Immediate Approval.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

A COMPANY that is nearly all American and is certainly "all wool and a yard wide" as to acting ability, is under Mr. Charles Frohman's proud banner at the Globe Theatre in a farce called "Decorating Clementine."

If the play doesn't succeed it will not be the fault of the company. Any lack of success will be due entirely to the fact that this play can be thoroughly understood only by a French audience. It is and has been for a long time enormously successful in Paris. No wonder. In America, where Mr. Frohman first produced it, and here in London the actors will need to keep working their hardest to insure it a long run. Americans and Englishmen know precious little about the struggles to secure the decoration of the Legion of Honor and care less. As these struggles constitute the whole theme of the play it's up to the actors entirely to make it a go.

On Monday night they did, so that a friendly audience was more than generous with laughter and applause. Miss Hattie Williams played the name part. She is so well known to Americans that she needs no introduction from me or any one else. It was her first appearance in London, and Miss Williams wondered very much whether or not they would like her. They did. She kept her poise perfectly and showed no signs of nervousness she told me she felt.

It's not quite fair to the other actors to say that she made the hit of the evening, because Mr. George Huntley, Miss Doris Keene and Mr. Louis Massen were also in the cast, not to mention others. Mr. Huntley was warmly welcomed back. There is no funnier English comedian, and London has sadly missed him during the months he has been in America. Mr. Huntley's return will enliven even London during the [illegible] season.

Miss Keene was pretty as a picture, but the censor did not let her have half the chance to be naughtily fascinating as has the actress who plays the same part in Paris. Mr. Louis Massen gave a performance that was simply a work of art.

Mr. Edward Abeles has stirred up the London music halls, not with American hurrahs, but with quick and quiet American acting. He is a different type of American actor from those that have been seen here. Londoners vote him to be a decided improvement. He is not noisy, but he is artistically funny. Mr. Abeles has one of the assets that sometimes are so useful to an actor—he knows how to act.

Supported by Miss Charlotte Lander, who is Mrs. Abeles in private life, he appeared at the Hippodrome in a one act comedy called "He Tried To Be Nice." Mr. Abeles acted this play last season in America from New York to San Francisco, so that it is well known on the other side of the damp Atlantic. It is safe to predict that they will like it here quite as well as they did there, and that's saying a whole lot. So well do the managers here take to it that after the first performance Mr. Abeles had three offers to appear at other theatres. There is no doubt now that he is henceforth a London permanency. So much the better for London.

Mrs. Abeles was brilliantly attractive as a wife who did not know when she was being well treated. Mr. Abeles wore some expensive New York clothes that made the Piccadilly dandies in the audience green with envy.

GUARD ENGLAND'S SEA SUPREMACY

Admiralty's Plans Provide for Big Constant Lead Over Germany.

(Special Despatch.)
London, Saturday.

The following extracts from [illegible] letters, telegrams and speeches [illegible] clearly and concisely the genesis and [illegible] of what has been aptly styled "the vanishing margin—th." In April it was stated that not only the four ships of the 1910 German programme were building, but that the design of [illegible] the ships of the 1911 programme was practically settled.

In July Mr. Asquith repeated this proposition, and several months later, in the face of the memorandum of Admiral von Tirpitz, Lord Charles Beresford and Mr. Balfour repeated the figures which gave rise to the myth about Spanish and Portuguese ships.

In both cases these gentlemen, like Mr. Asquith, omitted the British ships of the 1911-12 programme, which ought to be ready early in 1914.

Times' Berlin correspondent, April 12, 1910:—

"The announcement at the [illegible] beginning of the fiscal year of all [illegible] for ships included in the 1909 [illegible] is of considerable interest.

"In the first place, Germany [illegible] with the Dreads-Oun a fourth battle [illegible] sought without waiting for any [illegible] improvements in type. Treat [illegible] arrangements can be made at any [illegible] for the three battle ships of the same [illegible] which will appear in the estimate [illegible] financial year 1911.

"Secondly, Germany has now [illegible] thirteen Dreadnoughts and four [illegible] ships built or building. In other words, [illegible] has begun all of the seventeen capital ships, about the probable date of completion of which there has been so much controversy for more than a year.

"The field of controversy, at any rate, is now limited, and anybody who thinks that the ships cannot be, if they are wanted to be, completed by a date in 1912 has nothing but his opinion of the capacity of the German shipbuilding yards to go on."

Mr. Asquith on the announcement [illegible] House of Commons, July 14, 1910:—

"Then I come to the spring of 1912. It may be earlier, because we are dealing now with the four ships which have been already ordered, ships which the German government say they are [illegible] the mouth of April in the present year. I am trying to put it off as far as I can. It might conceivably be at the end of 1912, but certainly by the spring of 1913, there will be these four additional German ships.

"I have brought into the account four continuing ships which were not on the estimates last year, but to which the House assented last July. Now I take the five ships of the programme of the present year; they will bring us up to twenty-five in the spring of 1913.

"Then the four additional German ships which are still to come, which belong to the programme of 1911-12, and which we may assume will be ready in 1914, bring them up to twenty-one. That is the strict actual account as between Germany and ourselves of our comparative strength at each of those dates."

Mr. Asquith did not take into the account any ships which might be built for Great Britain in the programme of naval year, 1911-12, but which could also be ready in the spring of 1914.

Memorandum of Admiral Von Tirpitz, furnished to the Berlin correspondent of the Daily Mail, July 16, 1910:—

"The four additional German ships which, according to the British government's information, have been ordered, are the four asked for in this year's estimates, which will not be available (verwendungsbereit) until the end of 1913.

"Germany will not have seventeen Dreadnoughts until the end of 1912, instead of in the spring of 1913, or perhaps even at the end of 1913.

"The four ships provided for in the 1911-12 estimates cannot be ready before 1914."

Lord Charles Beresford's open letter, September 27, 1910:—

"Reckoning in Dreadnoughts alone, the position under existing arrangements will be as follows:—

"Dreadnoughts, 1912:—Great Britain, 25; Germany, 21; Austria, 4; Italy, 4, and Triple Alliance, 29.

"It is therefore clear that three years hence our superiority over Germany will be reduced to four ships of the Dreadnought type."

Mr. Asquith on the [illegible] Guildhall, October 19, 1910:—

"Even according to the government's calculation our superiority over the next greatest naval power, not two naval powers, but the next greatest naval power—our superiority in Dreadnoughts in the year 1913 was to be only four. I do not believe the margin in British strength has ever in its history through [illegible] last hundred years—more than a hundred years—sunk so low as that."

Mr. John Leyland in the New York Herald (Paris edition) October 28, 1910:—

"Now we come to the four ships of 1910-1911, for which orders were given a April this year. The fact has alarmed and excited many people in England. Some have cried out that England was being outdistanced in the race and that it was criminal not to lay down ships forthwith.

"What are the facts? At the end of September 1 the end walked over the berths on which three of these ships are to be built. The had not been laid down, and there was no special advantage of material for their construction, though designs of these ships and armament are to be framed. Their vessels are to be completed in the spring and summer of 1913. Twenty days—these [illegible] but they certainly will not be completed earlier. Then if [illegible] and battery of naval construction, [illegible] engagement of the [illegible] ships, [illegible] to make sure of the [illegible] this matter."

Anti-Clerical War In Italy, Similar to Those in France and Spain, Predicted

Pope Pius Will Issue Statement to Whole Catholic World Soon.

AMERICAN STUDENTS BLESSED BY PONTIFF

Head of Church Gives Collective Audience to Young Men Studying for Priesthood.

(Special Dispatch.)
Rome, Saturday.—The only collective audience of importance given by the Pope to Americans in the last three months was that recorded this week to the superior and students of the American College at Rome. Mgr. Kennedy, Bishop of Adrianopolis and rector of the college, was accompanied by the vice rector, the Rev. Charles O'Hern, and the spiritual director, the Rev. B. Mahony.

In presenting the students to Pius X. Mgr. Kennedy was able to announce that this year they number one hundred and fifty-four, the highest number on record in the entire history of the college, which last year celebrated the golden jubilee of its foundation. The Pope, after giving his ring to kiss to each of the students individually, addressed a few words to them congratulating them on the flourishing condition of the college, now the largest of all the national institutions in the Eternal City.

Gives Advice to Students.

Then he proceeded to remind them that the main purpose of their presence in Rome was to prepare to become good priests in their own country and to take back with them the large store of wisdom and learning which Rome inspires. Finally he blessed them and all their relations.

Mgr. Kennedy this week presented all [illegible] audience to the Holy Father [illegible] and Mrs. Hill, both of Minneapolis, [illegible] their daughters. The Rev. A. [illegible] of the Apostolic delegation to Washington, was received in private audience by the Pope, who showed great interest in his account of the work done by the non-Catholic missions given by the Paulist fathers, and on learning that Father O'Brien is about to proceed to Australia to introduce there the methods elaborated by the American Paulists the Pontiff heartily blessed his enterprise and promised to follow the work with interest.

The Magdeburgische Zeitung announces that Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the thrones of Austria and Hungary, is about to visit Rome and that his visit is being facilitated by the good offices of the Catholic courts at Bavaria and Bazaar, which made representations to the Vatican on the subject.

Rome Advance Not Expected.

Your Rome correspondent learns on good authority here that there is no foundation for the statement that a similar announcement was made last week with regard to the King of Spain. The real truth is that all the Catholic courts are well aware of the opposition of the Holy See to visits of Catholic sovereigns to the pleasant city in the present circumstances that they never have thought of interfering.

Since 1870 the rule of abstention has been violated twice. The first was when King Ferdinand of Bulgaria came incognito to beg Leo XIII. to sanction the passing to the orthodox Greek Church of his son and heir, Prince Boris, and received a severe reprimand from the Pontiff for his pains. The second was when the Prince of Monaco came here last year to deliver a lecture on oceanography at the Collegio Romano. The case of President Loubet does not count, as the Roman authorities hardly regarded him as a Catholic head of state.

Clerical Leader Goes Over.

Dr. Romolo Murri, at one time leader of the Christian democrats of Italy, whose motto was "With the Pope and for the Pope Forever," now has definitely cast aside his clerical dress and figures in the Chamber of Deputies as one of the most advanced leaders of anti-clericalism.

This week he urged the Italian Chamber to take up the question of the legal or illegal existence in Italy of the religious orders and congregations suppressed as juridical entities forty years ago and to pronounce upon their right to hold property.

It is felt in ecclesiastical circles here that a crisis similar to that in France, Portugal and Spain as regards the religious orders is rapidly developing. Meanwhile no change whatever has taken place in the relations of the Holy See with Spain and Portugal. Technically speaking both these countries are still represented diplomatically at the Vatican, but practically all such relations have been entirely suspended.

The Pope will address another important document to the whole Catholic world early in the new year.

BEAUTY AND THE MAN.

An Experiment That Caused Him to Change His Decision.

By KEITH GORDON.

In the long talks that those two excellent friends Baird Dunham and Barbara Somers had from time to time about life, the world and the men and women therein he had more than once confided to her that never could he fall in love with a woman who was not a beauty.

"I can't exactly explain how I feel about it," he said one day as they sat together in an art gallery, where his worshiping eyes returned over and again to a pictured face of rare beauty that looked down upon them from the warm red walls. "It isn't that I think they are the most fascinating. Wit and beauty are not too fond of each other's company. Besides, the most attractive woman I've ever known was ugly—so ugly that at first she made you gasp. After that—well, she was your criterion of charm. When you left her things became stale and lifeless. All the color and sympathy went from the scene. You simply hungered for her."

He paused and turned toward his companion with a waiting, expectant look, as if he wanted to be sure that she understood, and she answered the unspoken question of his glance with a slow smile that did not betray by so much as a flicker the warm, reproachful woman wrath in her heart.

She had heard practically the same thing from him before, but today for the first time her patience gave way utterly. Apparently all sense of her womanhood had been sunk in their comradeship. Instead of rejoicing in this state of affairs, a feeling of injury, outrage, suddenly flared up in her heart.

Did he think that because her features were irregular and her complexion dull she was a girl who did not need to be reckoned with? Did he suppose she was the less a woman because she was plain? Had he no idea of the sting in the remarks he was forever making about feminine beauty?

These were the questions she asked herself hotly, but her voice—that low, vibrant voice that thrilled one with its rich difference from other voices—betrayed in its full evenness no trace of the resentment that surged within her.

"You are right," she agreed, with impersonal candor. "All women should be beautiful"—there was a slight pause, a hesitation just marked enough to give force to the conclusion of her sentence—"just as all men should be big and strong!"

Dunham glanced at her quickly. For one startled moment he half thought—But, no; Barbara was too good a fellow to give a man a lick on the raw like that. It was a mere coincidence.

Dunham was but five feet six, and, though he was well knit and substantial, with a clean bred look that was in itself a recommendation, he was a trifle sensitive on the score of the six additional inches of height that he felt should have been his.

"A man's appearance isn't of much consequence," he observed, somewhat stiffly. "His field is action. It is what he is rather than how he looks."

There was more heat in his tone than he liked, but he wasn't able to suppress it. Somehow he didn't enjoy being made to feel that he was not at all like her ideal man even though they were nothing but friends.

"Perhaps you are right," was the mild reply, and the conversation drifted to other and safer subjects. But there was a speculative look in Barbara's eyes for the rest of the afternoon which would have told a careful observer that she was turning some plan over in her mind.

Her usual hour of rest before dinner she spent lying at full length on the divan in her room, with her hands clasped under her head and her eyes fixed on the open fire, thinking.

So Baird could never love any one but a beauty? She carefully refrained from asking herself why this should pique her particularly, since her plainness had never interposed with their friendship, and he spent far more time with her than with any of the pretty girls of their set. Still—

"Well, I don't care," she said aloud, at, glancing at the clock, she arose and began to roll up the masses of her dark hair, sticking the great shell pins in here and there with reckless indifference. "I'm tired of hearing him rail that way. He deserves to be punished. Beauty may be the greatest thing, but it isn't greater than all other things put together.

"A few weeks of Amy will be good for him," she soliloquized as she went on with her dressing. Then, when she was ready for dinner, she sat down at her desk and wrote a letter to a former schoolmate, the beauty of her class, urging her to make her a long promised visit.

In the course of a week or two the invitation had been accepted, and Miss Averill arrived. That she was a beauty was a fact as self evident as that the sky is blue (when it is so). It was a fact that admitted of no difference of opinion.

Her skin was like a La France rose, her eyes deeply blue, and her hair suggested mingled gold and copper. The curves of her gracious figure swirled and flowed in lines as graceful, as alluring, that even the most sluggish sculptor was kindled into admiration.

"She's a beauty, all right," Barbara decided as she kissed her in greeting and conducted her to her room, and, though she kept up her part of their animated talk about old times and old friends, her eyes feasted themselves upon Amy's loveliness. The latter's most ordinary movement was endowed with a grace that made Barbara half believe that beauty was the only thing after all. When other girls lifted their hands and removed their hatpins it was an action scarce worthy of notice, but when Amy's arms went up with a languid grace and her rather large but beautifully modeled hands, with their long, tapering fingers, drew forth a gilt pin and removed her hat Barbara felt vaguely that she was witnessing a rite—that she was seeing a poem.

But after a few days of her companionship the glamour was always bedimmed. The eyes were feasted, to be sure, but the mind and heart were starved. One wearied of her rose-like fluttering color and the amiable but unmeaning smile and even of the very perfect rows of teeth that the smile exposed.

"I am going to have a friend with me for a month," Barbara had told Baird Dunham in preparation; "a girl that I particularly want you to meet. She's a raving beauty and as sweet as she can be."

If she had spoken all of her thoughts perhaps she might have added, "So sweet that at the end of a month you will want to kill her or do something desperate and outrageous." But, with a commendable self restraint, she banished this unruly idea to the dark chamber of unspoken thoughts.

In the weeks that followed she effaced herself, pushing Amy into Dunham's society in every possible way, but doing it so gradually and skilfully that he scarcely realized how little he was seeing of his friend and comrade. If she saw less of him, however, she saw more of Jack Lester, whose companionship was a grateful balm, because in it was not forever talking about beauty, however much he may have admired it.

At first Baird haunted the house like a spirit while his plans for Miss Averill's entertainment fairly tumbled over each other in their eagerness. These plans, of course, always included Barbara, but with a masterly skill she withdrew from them more and more until almost before Baird realized what had happened he noticed that he and Miss Averill were usually alone. With Miss Averill's exquisite profile beside him, however, he was not in a mood to complain.

Then about the middle of the fourth week his roving spirit suddenly touched earth. He was guilty of a brutal, heretical thought. Right in the middle of a long afternoon that they were to spend together he was seized by a great weariness. For the life of him he could think of nothing to say. He was bored.

He gazed at the beautiful Miss Averill with a sort of stunned wonder. It seemed impossible that the society of an enchanting creature could be so unutterably dull, misery overtook it caused an ache about his head and a great yearning to be with Barbara. How good, how comforting his friend would be! Barbara understood him. She knew when to speak and when to be silent. She was a good deal of that Lester man. Yesterday, as if the God happened upon them in a dream, he realized he'd like that Lester fellow immensely.

"I don't believe you are thinking of me at all," pouted Miss Averill. "You spoke to you twice, and you weren't even heard me. It isn't nice of you."

"Eh! What?" exclaimed Dunham, trying to call his roving thoughts together and insisting upon hearing the remark he had inadvertently missed.

"I asked if you don't think the Waldorf is lovely. I think it's just sweet."

"Yes," assented he recklessly, "that expresses it sweetly. It's just sweet." And he cast about in his mind for some excuse by which the hours that stretched before them might be shortened. He felt precisely as he had once in his childhood when he had surreptitiously bought and eaten six charlotte russes.

Miss Averill confided to Barbara that night that she didn't like Mr. Dunham so well as she thought she did.

"He's so dull! Don't you think so?" she demanded.

"There have been times when he seemed so," Barbara confessed airily. Then she wondered if Baird's ears were aflame. Three days later the radiant Miss Averill's visit came to an end. Soon afterward Dunham dropped in to see Barbara, quite in his old manner.

"Ah, this is good!" he said greetingly as he sank into the depths of his favorite chair. "There's no church bell to wake up," he went on in genial enjoyment, "that I especially know where to begin."

Barbara turned her head to one side and surveyed him with half closed eyes.

"We might begin with remarking beauty," she suggested helpfully. "There's so much to be said about it."

A pause followed, in which several new ideas entered Dunham's mind. Then he demanded, not without a conscious sense of guilt:

"Just what do you mean?"

He leaned forward and studied her face, and, though she flushed under his keen scrutiny, her eyes looked back at him—proud, unwavering and a bit defiant.

"I certainly admire beauty," he began softly. "But I take back what I have said about falling in love with one. You see, little girl, I'm so used to you that the beauties bore me."

"Really," she scoffed, "for a worshipper of the fair!"

But a pair of strong arms were about her, and a fateful voice pleaded:

"Would he some other time, dearest?"

HAT AND HAT SUGGESTION.

The fashionableness of one hat does not seem to be sufficient for the purposes of the milliners this season, for they have launched a two storied, double decker arrangement with which to lure their customers and to raise the price of their wares.

This latest confection is, as you can see from the picture, a cap of dainty lace or tulle, sometimes both, worn under a big hat. When the large headpiece is removed mildly quiz is fascinatingly pretty in her mob cap. It is said that the two story hat will be very popular for matinee wear, but when one does not care to burden the head with a second protection the same effect may be arrived at by means of a lace ruche sewed inside the crown of the hat.

Dowager Queen Losing Interest.

Alexandra, the dowager queen of England, is said to have changed greatly since the death of King Edward. The loss of her husband, the fading away of the social interest that formerly centered about her and the loss of sensation have hurt her greatly. She shows the sorrow and care in her face that for years preserved the wonderful freshness and complexion of youth. Her daughters are growing more married, and it has caused her to rely more and more within herself than formerly. Years ago she was wonderfully vivacious and light hearted. She was devoted to outdoor sports, being a skilful skater, an inspired horsewoman and an enthusiastic follower of the hounds. Despite the fact that after the birth of the princess royal she was met with an affection of the right knee joint, she did not give up fashionable riding, instead she hastened to ride on the other side. But of these things no longer appeal to her. She is content to drive her sitting in a carriage or take a gentle canter about the grounds.

Mr. J. H. Richards, 1828 Second Ave East, Vancouver, B.C., writes:—"Allow me to write a few lines in praise of your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Last fall I contracted a heavy cold which left me with a hacking cough, and every time I would get a little over and this hacking cough would become a racking splitting one. It kept on getting worse and I began expending money buying different cough remedies until a friend asked me if I had ever tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I told him I was willing to try anything I thought would cure, and on the next day bought two bottles. Before half the first one was used my cough began to get much easier, and by the time I had used a bottle and a half my cough was gone. I am keeping the other half bottle in case it should come again but I am quite sure I have a cough cure. Let me recommend Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup to all who suffer from a cough or chest affection of any kind."

They had previously been treated by physicians without being cured, but I advised them to try "Fruit-a-tives", and since taking that remedy their troubles have vanished.

My own son was a martyr to the same complaint, to Dyspepsia, and after a short course of "Fruit-a-tives", he is enjoying the best of health. I recommend "Fruit-a-tives", on every possible occasion, and would say that if every general store keeper, who sells medicine, would keep "Fruit-a-tives" prominently displayed, he would increase his business many fold.

SERMON FROM SHAKESPEARE

(Copr. 1909, by Bradley-Garretson Co. Ltd.)

You have too much respect upon the world;
They lose it that do buy it with much care.
Merchant of Venice, Act I., Sc. I.

It is well to have regard for the things of this world. Its wealth enables a man to achieve the good opinion of the inhabitants is a source of strength; but to have too much regard for it, to live as though this world were the be-all and end-all of existence, is evil.

Many a youth comes from his country home to the city robust and cheerful, the song of brooks and birds in his brain, the vision of green fields and cool woods in his eyes. He enters a business establishment; he grows ambitious for place and wealth. In a careless place, amid the roar of trade, he toils. Fortune may come to him; he may win worldly wealth, but if in the battle his heart dries up, if he loses sympathy for his struggling fellow creatures, he wins his wealth at too great cost. It is a pitiable thing for a man who has toiled through many years to be able to say at the end, "All is vanity and vexation of spirit." Over-carefulness with regard to the things of this world frequently loses for a man the possibilities of true enjoyment. A great fortune or a great career may be the ruins of withering what was once a promising human soul.

The world appeals to men in different ways. It is a mistake to suppose that it is only he who seeks material possessions that is the worldly-minded man. The search after wealth is only one manifestation of worldliness. The student may be as worldly as the financier; the seeker after knowledge as the searcher for wealth. There is a world of books, an empire of knowledge. Certain types of mind are impelled to endeavour to conquer this world, to rule over this empire. Days and nights are spent in studying; shoulders become bent, eyes dimmed, the muscles weakened, at the end of an-labours the student stupefied with much learning finds that in the mere acquisition of knowledge he has missed his aim. It was all vanity of vanities. In his effort to satisfy the craving of his mind for knowledge he had neglected his body and starved his soul. A man who knows only his books is but half educated. His knowledge oppresses rather than uses it to make the world in which he lives better and prettier for his presence. In respect of his answer to it seems only that a man should keep out of his study and take the world of business and healthy pleasure. Constant withdrawal from it unfits for the proper requisites out of a character. The medicine who neglects body and mind in hungry endeavour after wisdom is not to be taken as the model to be followed by the man of action as well as to the study in the ideal man.

The words:
You have too much respect upon the world;
They lose it that do buy it with much care.
are uttered by Gratiano, the cynical friend of Antonio, the "Merchant of Venice," to Antonio, the melancholy merchant. Gratiano attributes Antonio's melancholy to his over-carefulness about his business ventures. Possession, strange to say, is the cause of much sadness. To possess something is to have something to lose. The peasant in his clay hut sleeps soundly, his narrow world causing him to take but little thought for the morrow. He has practically nothing to lose, and has no occasion for worries. But a man like Antonio with vessels on every sea, with merchandise coming to his warehouses from the rich East and West his large interests in the world. He buys its respect and esteem and wins power, but his nights are restless and he lives painfully busy. The capitalist is the slave of the mob, but one capitalist has worries of which the ordinary citizen never dreams. His wealth does not bring happiness and may produce profound melancholy. If his soul is attuned to gains and loss of worldly wealth, friends, life itself with a smiling face, peace and contentment may reign in his heart. In the business world men frequently break down under the strain. Wealth cannot prevent that and often hastens it. The health resorts of earth are filled with the wrecks of men and women who in their much care to buy worldly wealth, power and place, have become incapable of enjoying the world.

There are no doubt instances where a man possessed of a great idea or a great mission must divert his nature to accomplish his work in the short span of life, but these are rare indeed. A man's duty is to seek perfection, a well-balanced character. Modern life gives numerous examples of men who are inspired with this point of view. Great bankers have achieved distinction as poets and literary critics, and many of the leading manufacturers and capitalists are keen students, and some of them connoisseurs in art.

Gratiano was something of a babbling fool who uttered an "infinite deal of nothing," but his warning against over-anxiety about the things of this world is excellent. Every worker about his worldly possessions would do well to take it to heart.

THE CRIMSON BALLOT

(By Frank A. Marshall.)

One day in a crowded court-room
A sentence of death was said,
In the hush of the awful stillness:
"To be hanged by the neck until dead."
And a mother's heart was broken
As she fathered a murmured name,
And a father's face was furrowed
With the tears of grief and shame.

It was only one of the dramas
That are acted every day.
And the judge on the bench had asked him
What the prisoner had to say,
"The jury has said I am guilty,"
Was the low, resigned reply;
"The law has summoned the hangman
And said that I must die.

"But before the God in heaven
I did not kill my friend.
And to the unwilling verdict
A guiltless man you send;
The drunkshop did this murder,
And the drink that fired my brain
That made me do the bidding,
And hold me in its chain.

"But not upon the drunkshop,
Nor brewery, nor still,
Nor on the high officials,
Who watch them—aloof and hill;
Not on your shirts, your honour,
And every man's the cloud
To handle the pitchfill,
In stamped the brand of blood."

His voice rose like a knell,
No other sound was heard,
While pondering his to horror
In all the thronged stirred.
And all the court-room cowered
Beneath the task of trust,
The two accused judge and jury,
And they the murdered youth.

"For both of the law's officials
In the law that guide the land,
And both of the law are the people,
And the people are the hand,
And the hand and the murderous
Is the hand of the drunkshop Crowned.

And the blood on the hands they
Not both of the deed was the drunkshop,
And both of the drunkshop the law.

"And whenever voted
To license this evil, the
The shameful name of the hangman
Marked the mark of the man who Has

And on his hands are the blood-drops
And on his brow a stain
That has in the eyes the shadowth
Of dead friends, pleas and wife.
Then back to the jail they led him,
And there on the cruel bed he stood,
And the thought above the guilt
Again and again in the land.
And every murdered father
Must be to a murderer's throne;
For every baby, a widower
That is cast, is a murderer's charge.
—Gabriel Vincent.

DRINK—A DESTRUCTIVE EVIL AND A CURSE

"The drink is largely responsible for murder, suicide, immorality and petty crimes; it is poisoning the bodies of the children before they are born; it sends thousands to the grave before they have learned to live; it gives to tens of thousands who survive a shattered constitution and weakened will; it predisposes them to every form of illness; it is destroying the capacity for motherhood, and weakening the moral instinct of the mother. It wastes all this human life, and it involves an incalculable loss of social wealth through physical inefficiency, mental incapacity, and loss of self-respecting ambition. It wastes the value of lost time and expense through sickness, and the maintenance of prisons, police courts, homes and asylums due to drink. Drink is, in fact, one of the most destructive evils, destroying mind and body, which curses the human race.—Philip Snowdon, M.P., in "Socialism and the Drink Question."

WHICH IS HEATHEN?

At an important gathering in New York City, the editor of a Chinese newspaper in San Francisco made an eloquent defense in which he protested against our un-American ostracism of his countrymen from rights and privileges which other nationalities enjoyed within our boundaries. He said: "You have mingled out my people from all human creation as unworthy of your hospitality. You put in the Italian, you put in the Hun, the Turk, the Jew, and the Russian, you put in the underworld of Europe and Asia—the idle, the ignorant and criminal, and you shut out the peaceable Chinese, because you say, we are heathen and smoke opium. You say the truth; we are heathen and we do smoke opium; but you are Christian and you drink whisky. And if I were a woman I would rather my husband smoke opium every time than drink your Christian whisky. Opium puts him asleep; opium makes him harmless like a corpse; whisky makes him a wild beast; whisky wakes up the devil and makes him a brute. Mohammedan man comes home full whisky—kicks wife; Chinaman comes home full opium—wife kick him. You be Christian, we be heathen. With my knowledge of your American nation, if I were to return to my country, and the issue were a choice between the opium den of my heathen China and the saloon of your Christian America, I would choose for my people opium rather than whisky."—Selected.

Not gold, but only man, can make
A people great and strong;
Men, who for truth and honour's sake,
Stand fast and suffer long.
Brave men who work while others sleep,
Who dare while others fly—
They found a nation's pillars deep
And lift them to the sky.
—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

(13) Why is it that the resurrection story, in prose literature, in poetry, in music, in art and in Christian experience, is so inspiring?

(14) How did the disciples, at first, take to the story of the resurrection, and how were they finally convinced of its truth?

(15) What is the significance of the fact, that the disciples were finally convinced of the resurrection of Jesus, after they had seen his dead body taken from the tomb, and carried to it the rock hewn tomb, and the entrance closed, by the fact that he was dead, and that his cause was a failure?

(16) Read the Acts of the Apostles again and again how much significance is there given to the resurrection of Jesus?

(17) Is there any possibility that the disciples were deluded when discovering the resurrection? Why?

(18) Why did not Jesus show himself openly at the courts, and teach openly, after his resurrection?

(19) How many resurrection times did Jesus appear after his resurrection? Give chapter and verse. (This question should be answered in writing by members of the class).

LEADERS ARE ANXIOUS

Austen Chamberlain and Balfour Are at Loggerheads Over the Dropping of the Tariff Reform Policy—King Will Probably Urge a Conference For the Settlement of the Constitutional Problem.

London, Dec. 19.—In the politics of the United Kingdom an altogether novel crisis has been reached Though the opposing armies are resting on their arms after a drawn battle, the chiefs in both camps confess anxiety and perplexity.

The situation contains new features as disconcerting as they are unexpected, and moderate men of all factions are awakening to the importance of putting an effective curb upon the extremists. One of the most temperate and independent writers of real influence insists to-day that the entire constitutional issue should be dealt with immediately by a representative body having the confidence of the nation to an extent not enjoyed by the "council of eight," and declares that this is the view of all sensible persons not blinded by the prejudice of birth or the passion of Socialism."

He warningly contends that there must be "large concessions, big sacrifices, in both principle and principal," if the kingdom is to avoid "what it would need, but a few more blunders and a little more obstinacy to expand into a blood red catastrophe."

This opinion carries all the more weight because expressed by a sharp critic of Mr. Balfour, who also is supposed to be in favor of a new conference, with a broader base of authority.

King George is giving the situation more attention than ever and has laid aside temporary work on the coronation program, a matter he intends to keep within personal control. It is asserted that the King will urge Mr. Asquith to make a more comprehensive attempt to reach a compromise as to the scope of the second chamber, before increasing its membership.

In the Unionist ranks the cleavage caused on the eve of the elections by Mr. Balfour's opportunist suggestion about a referendum for tariff reform has been deepened by Austen Chamberlain's defiant "I never would have made it." The son of the author of the policy is speaking for the father, when he repudiates the tactics by which the Tory free traders were brought into line.

Moreover, the younger Chamberlain never omits anything in speech or action that might promote his ambition to lead the Unionist party against free trade and against home rule. He is loud in his demand that the situation created be considered in all its aspect. This seems to forecast civil war in the party.

Austen Chamberlain is moving aggressively in another direction. The defeat of Bonar Law, tariff reformer, in Northwest Manchester, is attributed by the Birmingham man, who has seen a formidable rival in Law, to the latter's admission on the hustings that protection would not benefit the British farmer. Law told a heckler that "Our proposals are for the sake of getting a preference with our colonies, not for protection, and I do not think the farmer would benefit in the least."

Now that free traders delightedly point to the Law statement as proof that only the rich could benefit from fiscal changes of the Chamberlainite type, Austen Chamberlain hastens to point out the "serious falacy," and uses it to explain Law's "wholly unnecessay defeat in a constituency ripe for sound fiscal doctrine."

Chamberlain the younger is laying about him with a two-edged sword, and Unionist discord increases. Extreme tariff reformers admit, however, that Mr. Balfour's suggestion has postponed the realization of their hopes.

Married Beside Dead Brother.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Dec. 19.—Miss Leah Updyke was married to Pearn S. McCaa here yesterday in the room in which her brother, Roger Updyke, lay dead. He was electrocuted at a manufacturing plant. The dead man was to have been best man at the wedding. It first it was intended to postpone the ceremony but it was finally decided that they would be following the wishes of the brother if the wedding took place upon the date set. Rev. C. H. Pyke was overcome during the ceremony. The funeral of Roger Updyke was held in the afternoon.

"Roger is with us in spirit," said the bridegroom.

Held Up Gambling Club.

New York, Dec. 19.—Seven men walked into a tenderloin gambling club early yesterday morning, held up the twenty-five inmates and robbed them of all their money and valuables, amounting to several hundreds.

The leaders brushed past the lookout at the door, shouted "hands up," and then fired a dozen shots over the heads of the members to cow them thoroughly. Only one man demurred. He chose instead to jump from a second storey window and was found lying on the pavement with a broken arm. Some shots were returned, and in the exchange another man was wounded by a stray bullet. The robbers fled down the stairs to the street, and the club members, who did not court acquaintance of the police, followed swiftly.

A Record Season.

St. Catharines, Dec. 19.—The Welland Canal, which has just closed for the winter, had another record season. Since the close of navigation a total of 2,400 boats passed through the canal, up and down. This is between 500 and 600 more than last year.

FARMERS SELFISH?

Unionist Papers Describe Statement of Interest in Great Britain as the Cant That Goes With Free Trade—Canada Must Keep to Present Method, Says The Standard—Deadly Blow to Food-Taxers.

London, Dec. 19.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Referring to the farmers' delegation to Ottawa as an effective answer to sham-imperialism, The Morning Leader says that when the colonies grasp the weight of the burden, which fanatical and commercial imperialists are endeavoring to fasten upon the British poor, they will, in Milner's elegant language, "Spit such policy out of their mouths."

The Morning Post, disregarding Balfour's pledge that colonial corn would be admitted free, argues that for a variety of reasons, Canadian grain growers now prefer the free trade price in the English markets rather than the slightly lower price as a consequence of the duty accompanied by a preference against the foreigner.

The Times says the immediate influence of the farmers on the policy of the Canadian Government will not be great, but it does not desire to diminish the importance of the deputation. It remarks that hitherto the west has played a part in politics which has been smaller than its due. It is certain to throw up leaders of its own stamp, and, as the east produced a new political force in the last few months, namely, Bourassa's Nationalists, between the two it looks as if an entirely new chapter is about to open in Canadian politics.

"It is a pity," the paper says, "they thought it worth while to base this renunciation on a profession of disinterested concern for the poor English consumer, who has a legislature of his own, quite capable of protecting his real interests. It seems to be the force of the bad example at this end. The Lancashire cotton spinners have hardly yet abandoned the miserable pretence of their insistence that India's claim for protection is inspired by anxiety lest the poor Indian peasant should have to pay more for his meagre garment.

"From Cobden onward the free trade creed has been tainted with cant and transparent self-interest, posing as imperial altruism."

The Morning Post draws the conclusion from the episode at Ottawa that national protection, as proposed by Chamberlain's tariff commission, is the strongest lever for ultimately removing tariff barriers within the Empire.

The Standard says: Only by maintaining her present system in broad outline, can Canada ever aspire to become a great manufacturing as well as agricultural nation. In urging reciprocity with the United States the farmers are ignoring some of the leading facts of Canadian development.

Deal a Deadly Blow.

London, Dec. 19. (C.A.P. Cable.)—The News say the Canadian farmers, in whose name a vast crop of legends has been sown here of protection all along the line, deal, at the moment of the third successive triumph for free trade government in this country, a deadly blow at the army of food-taxers.

His Aeroplane Wrecked.

Dover, Eng., Dec. 19.—Claude Grahame-White, the English aviator, had a narrow escape from serious injury yesterday. As it was, his machine was wrecked and he was badly cut about the face.

A large number of aviators have been waiting here for a fortnight to compete for the prize of $20,000 offered by Baron DeForrest for the longest flight across the English Channel in 1910, by an Englishman in an English built machine. Grahame-White ascended in the morning for a trial flight in a strong wind. His machine soon began to rock, and he was unable to restore is equilibrium. It turned over and plunged to the ground, and was completely wrecked. It was thought at first that the aviator had suffered concussion of the brain, as he was unconscious.

The Study World.

Ottawa, Dec. 19.—N. J. Ledoux, formerly American consul at Three Rivers, Que., and in France and Austria, and now of the federation committee of the Canadian Club of Boston, who is addressing Canadian clubs, left yesterday for Montreal, after interviewing the Prime Minister, R. L. Borden and members of the Cabinet on the possibilities of the appointment by Parliament of a commission, similar to that authorized by Congress, to study world conditions, in view of the possible reduction of armament. Mr. Ledoux said he was highly satisfied with his cordial reception.

Editions Confiscated.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 19.—Saturday's editions of the Pech and four other daily newspapers were confiscated, and their editors will be prosecuted for lese majeste, for publishing at length the speech made in the Douma by M. Purishkevitch, in connection with an interpellation as to the behavior of the police on the occasion of the recent student meetings, held in protest against the alleged cruelties inflicted upon political prisoners.

Caused a Schism.

Berlin, Dec. 19.—A despatch to the Lokal Anzeiger from Munich says that the oath disavowing modernism required of theological professors by the Vatican, has caused a schism in the faculty at the University of Munich. One professor has retired from the church and several members of the theological faculty have abandoned their spiritual functions rather than take the oath.

An excellent bottom has been struck at less than fifty feet, and that the work is progressing satisfactorily.

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

ASHTON-KIRK LOOKS ABOUT

Berg was standing in the corridor waiting for the elevator when Ashton-Kirk and Pendleton came out. The big German mopped his face with a handkerchief, and said apologetically:

"A man can only tell what he knows, ain't it?"

Ashton-Kirk looked at him questioningly, but said nothing.

"To begin dot guess-work business when you are talking to the law already, it is dangerous," stated Berg in an explanatory tone.

"Well," said Ashton-Kirk, "sometimes a good, pointed guess is of great service, Mr. Berg. And," with a laugh, "as I am not the law and not the least dangerous, suppose you make the one that I can see you turning over in your mind."

"Oh," said Berg, "you are not the coroner's office in?"

"No, merely interested in this case, that's all."

The delicatessen dealer looked relieved.

"I don't want to get people in trouble," said he, guardedly. "But this is what I guess. Late every night, about the time I shut up my place, there is a cab comes und by the curbstone stands across the street. I will not say what is der place it stands in front of; that is not my business."

"McCausland's gambling house, perhaps," suggested Ashton-Kirk.

The big German looked more relieved than ever.

"Ach, so you know about dot place, eh? All ride. Now I can speak out and not be ffraid to do some harm to nobody." He lowered his voice still further. "Dot cab came last night as I was locking my door up, und stands the curbstone by in front of McCausland's, waiting for a choh. Maybe when I goes away home der driver he sees what happened at Hume's afterwards, eh?"

"Excellent!" said Ashton-Kirk, his eyes alight. "Thanks for the hint, Mr. Berg."

The delicatessen dealer lumbered into the elevator which had stopped; Pendleton was about to follow, but his friend detained him, and the car dropped downward without them.

"That cab," said Ashton-Kirk, "is sure to be a night-hawk; and more than likely it is put up at Partridge's. Pardon me a moment."

There was a telephone booth at one side of the corridor; the speaker went in and closed the door. After a few moments he came out.

"Just as I thought," he said, well pleased. "Partridge knew the cab in a moment. The driver's name is Sams, and he lives at the place they call the Beehive." He looked at his watch. "It wants but a few minutes of four," he added, "and a night-hawk cabby will be past about stirring. The Beehive is only three blocks away; suppose we go around and look him up."

Pendleton agreed instantly; and, after a brisk walk and a breathless climb, they found themselves on the fourth floor of a huge brick building where they had been directed by a meek-looking woman in a dust-cap. A long hall, with a great many doors upon each side, all looking alike, stretched away before them.

"It's very plain that the only way to find Mr. Sams is to make a noise," said Ashton-Kirk. And with that he stalked down the hall, his heels clattering on the bare boards. "Hello," he cried loudly. "Sams is wanted! Hello, Sams!"

A door opened, and a face covered with thick soap suds and surmounted by a tangle of sandy hair looked out.

"Hello" growled this person, huskily. "Who wants him?"

"Very glad to see you, Mr. Sams," said Ashton-Kirk. "We have a small matter of business with you that will require a few moments of your time. May we come in?"

"Sure," said Sams.

They entered the room, which contained a bed, a trunk, a wash-stand, and a chair.

"One of you can take the chair; the other can sit on the trunk," said the hack driver, nodding toward these articles. Then he proceeded to strop a razor at one of the windows. "Excuse me if I go on with this reaping. I must go out and feed the horse, and then get breakfast."

"You breakfast rather late," commented Ashton-Kirk.

"I'm lucky to get it at any time, in this business," grumbled Sams. "Out all night, sleep all day, and get blamed little at that."

He posed before a small mirror stuck up beside the window and gave the blade an experimental sweep across his face. Then he turned and asked inquiringly:

"Did youse gents want anything particular?"

"We'd like to ask a question or two regarding what happened last night in Christie Place."

The cab driver's forehead corrugated; he closed his razor, laid it down and shoved his soapy face toward the speaker.

"Say," spoke he, roughtly. "I drives people wherever they wants to go; but I don't ask no questions."

"It's all right, Mr Sams," said Ashton-Kirk. "The affair that I'm looking up happened across the street—at Hume's—second floor of 478."

"Oh!" Sams stared for a moment, then he took up his razor, turned his back and went on with his shaving. But there was expectancy in his attitude; and Ashton-Kirk smiled confidently.

"While you were drawn up in Christie Place, waiting for a fare," he asked, "did you hear or see anything at 478?"

"I saw a light on the second floor — something I never saw before at that hour. And I saw the Dutchman that keeps the store underneath shutting up. And I heard somebody laughing upstairs," as a second thought. "I think that's what made me notice the light."

"Nothing else?"

Sams shaved and considered. He wiped his razor at last, poured some water in a bowl and doused his face. Then he took up a towel and began applying it briskly.

The investigator, watching him closely, saw that he was not trying to recall anything. It was plain that the man was merely calculating the possibilities of harm to himself and patrons if he told what he knew.

"There has been a murder," said Ashton-Kirk, quietly, thinking to jog him along.

Sims threw the towel from him, and sat down upon the bed.

"A murder!" said he, his eyes and mouth wide open. "Well, what do you know about that." He sat looking from one to the other of them, deadly, for a space; then he resumed: "Say, I thought there was something queer about that stunt of hers!"

"Tell us about it," suggested Ashton-Kirk, crossing his legs and clasping one knee with his hands.

The cabby considered once more.

"There's lots of things that a guy like me sees that look off colour," he said, at length; "but we can't always pass any remarks about them It would be bad for business, you see. But this murder thing's a different proposition, and here's where I tell it all. Last night while I was waiting in front of McCausland's, I hears an automobile turn into the street It was some time after I got there. I wouldn't have paid much attention to it, but you see there's a fellow been trying to get my work with a taxicab, and I thought it was him."

"And it wasn't?"

"No, it was a private car—a Maillard, and there was a woman driving it."

The chair upon which Pendleton sat was an infirm one; it creaked sharply as he made a sudden movement.

"She was going at a low speed," proceeded Sams, "and as she passed Hume's I noticed her look up at the windows. After she disappeared there wasn't a sound for a while. You see, nobody hardly ever passes through Christie Place after one o'clock. Then I hears her coming back. This time she stopped the car, got out and went to the door that leads into Hume's place. There she stopped a little, as though she didn't know whether to go in or not. But at last she went in."

Pendleton coughed huskily at this point; and his friend glancing at him saw that his face was white.

"And up to that time," said Ashton-Kirk, "are you sure that there was no movement—no sound—in the front room at Hume's?"

"As far as I noticed, there wasn't But a few minutes after I heard the woman go in, I did hear some sounds."

The man stroked his shaven jaws in the deliberate manner of a person about to precipitate a crisis. Pendleton leaned toward him, anxiously.

"What sort of sounds?" he asked.

"There were two," replied the cab driver, "The first was a revolver shot; the second came right after, and was a kind of a scream—like that of a parrot."

"And what then?" asked Ashton-Kirk, easily.

"There wasn't anything for a few minutes, anyway. But the revolver shot had kind of got my attention, so I was taking notice of the windows. Then suddenly I caught sight of the woman. You see, the gas-light was near the window and she kind of leaned over and turned it out. It was only for a time as long as that," and the man snapped his fingers. "But I saw her plain. Then I heard her coming down the stairs to the street—almost at a run. She banged the street door shut after her, jumped into her car and went tearing away as if she was crazy. I stayed fifteen minutes before I got a fare; but nothing else happened."

Pendleton's hand closed hard on the edge of the chair he sat in. There was a moment's silence; then Ashton-Kirk asked:

"Just where was your cab standing at this time?"

"Right in front of McCausland's door."

"And you were on the box?"

"Yes".

The investigator put a piece of money in the man's hand as he and Pendleton arose and prepared to go.

"Say," said Sam, curiously, "I've been in bed all day and ain't heard a word of anything. Who's been done up?"

"Hume. Stabbed in the chest."

"Shot, you mean."

"No, I mean stabbed. With a bayonet."

The man stared wonderingly.

"G'way," he said.

They bid him good-day and tramped down the three long flights to the street. Pendleton was silent and walked with his head held down.

"We have more than an hour of good daylight left," said his friend, as they reached the street. "And as I must have a good unrestricted look at Hume's apartments before everything is hopelessly changed about, suppose we go there now. We can get a taxicab in the next street."

"Just a moment," said Pendleton. "Before we take another step in the matter, Kirk, I must ask a question."

Ashton-Kirk put his hand upon his friend's shoulder.

"Don't," said he. "I know just what the question would be, and at the present time I can't answer it. At this moment, except for some few theories that I have yet to verify, I am as much puzzled as yourself."

"But," and there was a tremble in the speaker's voice, "you must answer me, old chap—and you must answer now."

The catch in his voice, the expression upon the young man's face caused Ashton-Kirk to grasp an astonishing fact., The hand that he had laid upon Pendleton's shoulder tightened as he answered;

"Yes, Edyth Vale is concerned. As a rule I do not speak of my clients to others, but in view of what you have already heard and seen it would be a waste of words to deny it. But, see here, there are lots of things we don't know yet about this business. It may look very different in a few hours. Come."

Tennis at Sea.

During the voyage of the White Star liner Cedric, which has reached Liverpool, a new game for passengers—"ship tennis"—was played. The rules of "ship tennis," roughly speaking, are the same as those for lawn tennis, but no racquet is used, and in lieu of a ball the players hurl a rope quoit forward and backward across a rope net some five or six feet high. A tournament was held during the voyage on one of the upper decks of the Cedric, where a court had been chalked out, two silver cups being presented to the winners. When play was in progress the sides of the "court" were thronged with spectators, and the usual deck games were quite neglected in the excitement caused by the latest and liveliest form of shipboard recreation.

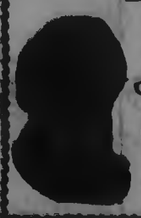
PEOPLE'S PULPIT.



Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

Need of Great Confidence in the Promises of God.

Light Should Not Be Hidden, But Always Exposed for Benefit of Others.

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 18.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle was here to-day. He addressed large audiences in the Opera House. He had excellent attention. We report some of his discourses from the following text:

"Cast not away therefore your confidence, which hath great recompense of reward."—Hebrews x. 35.

Our English word confidence is a synonym for faith. It is very pretty thought that we should not cast away our faith, but hold firmly to it and gain a reward. This thought is expressed elsewhere in the Scriptures, but it is not the thought of our text. Here the word confidence more properly signifies assurance or out-spokenness, outrageous presentation of a message not always kindly received. The Apostle in urging the followers of Christ to be of good courage, or, in the language of the Saviour, that they should not put their "light under a bushel, but on a candlestick," where it could shine out for the blessing of them.

There is a practical side to the Gospel. Everything enjoined upon the followers of Christ and all their trying experiences in life are wisely intended to work out for them character-development of good, firm, fine texture. It is a mistake to think, as some of us have thought in the past, that it is the will of God that we should merely hear of Christ and give a mental assent to the message of his death as our Redeemer and turn from outward forms of sin—and then, contented with our progress, help others to the same low standards.

Quite to the contrary, the teachings of Jesus and his Apostles ignore the world as a whole and merely seek for a special class with hearing ears and appreciative hearts. The Gospel message set forth in the Bible knows nothing of the ordinary mission work of rescuing drunkards and harlots and the profane. While not refusing publicans and harlots if did not go about seeking them. It waited for them to seek for righteousness and, as the Master said, "No man can come unto me except the Father which sent me draw him"; "and whosoever cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out" (John vi, 37, 44, 65). As a matter of fact, those who came to the Master and those who have been interested in his message ever since, have not, in any large proportion, been the rich, the great, the learned, the noble, according to the course of this world, but chiefly the poor, rich in faith toward our God.

Take as an illustration St. Paul's course when he went to Athens. We do not find that he started a mission Sunday School and offered the children the prospects of a picnic or a Sunday School treat, in order to gather them for a half hour's talk about nothing. "To keep them off the street." Neither did he seek out the drunkards in the slums and establish a slum mission. On the contrary he sought the ear of the intelligent classes, the thinking classes, irrespective of their wealth or station. Why? Because he had a message—a message which children could not understand; a message which drunkards were incapacitated from understanding; a message which should appeal, if at all, to the best people of Athens, whether rich or poor.

Have we not had, to a considerable extent, the wrong idea? Are we wiser than the Lord and the Apostles and able to give them pointers as to methods instead of following their example, as we were instructed to do? They proclaimed the Second Coming of Messiah and the establishment of his Kingdom. They preached that the very object of his Reign of Righteousness for a thousand years will be the putting down of sin in its every form and the lifting up of poor, fallen humanity. They taught that there was danger of attempting to make a proselyte and really doing more harm than good thereby. They taught that the special work to which God's people are now commissioned as ministers or servants of Christ in the proclaiming of the Gospel—"the Good Tidings of the Kingdom"—not the proclaiming of eternal torment for the attempt to drive the world of mankind from sin through fear. They taught that the work of this present Age is the selection from amongst mankind of the Bride class, to be Messiah's associates in his Kingdom, for the blessing of all the world. It is this message of the goodness of God that our text declares should be proclaimed with courage, with boldness, with outspokenness.

St. Paul is criticising some who had for quite a time been Christians and who had been granted large opportunities for growth in grace and knowledge. He says to these, "For the time ye ought to be teachers, but ye need that one teach you again which be the first principles of the doctrine of Christ." They had lost the first principles. They had gotten entangled with vain philosophies and their spirituality was at a low ebb. Conditions are very similar to-day. After eighteen centuries of Divine instruction and with the wonderful Bibles now at our command and with helps for Bible study, what manner of Christians ought we to be—in faith, in love, in obedience, in courage!

St. Paul points out the necessity for the Lord's people to assemble themselves together for fellowship and for the study of his Word and to provoke one another to love and good works. The necessity for this, he suggests, is that sin on the part of those who have received a knowledge of the Truth and been made partakers of the Holy Spirit is a much more serious matter than the same conduct would have been before they came into the precious relationship of spirit-begotten children of God. He says, "For if we sin after that we have received a knowledge of the Truth, there remaineth no more a sacrifice for sins, but a certain fearful looking for of condemnation and fiery indignation which shall devour us as God's adversaries" (verses 26, 27).

Have we grasped the import of the thought? It signifies that those of us who have accepted the Divine terms and entered the family of God will have no future opportunity in another life. We must either make our "calling and election sure" under the terms of the call, as accepted, or be rejected as unworthy of life everlasting—as fit for the Second Death—annihilation. He who despised Moses' Law died without mercy. But he who, having come to a clear knowledge of the Truth, shall be found a willing sinner, will not only be cut off from a further opportunity in the present Age, but be everlastingly cut off from life, destroyed. "God is able to destroy both soul and body"—the present life and our future hope. These thoughts should make very earnest, very diligent, all who have accepted Christ and been accepted by him.

These things were written, not only for the Hebrew Christians of St. Paul's day, but intended by the Holy Spirit for all the household of faith. We should not rock ourselves to sleep, nor give to each other opiates. While the world is not yet on trial for eternal life, the Church is now being observed—for life or death eternal. The thought should sober us. As the Apostle suggests, "Be diligent, be sober," be faithful, following in the footsteps of Jesus.

But St. Paul or, rather, the Holy Spirit through him, took cognizance of the fact that the Lord's people are in a world that is "no friend to grace to help them on to God." The Apostle recognized that we might become discouraged with our own faults and weaknesses. Hence, after earnestly exhorting to faithlessness and energy and after pointing out the dangers of slothfulness and of being over-charged with the cares of this life and the deceitfulness of riches and thus losing the spirit of Christ, he turns from this threatening attitude and uses encouraging words.

He says, "Call to mind the former days in which, following your illumination of the Holy Spirit, you endured a great fight of affliction." St. Paul's intimation is that at that time, while suffering persecutions, the brethren were really in a better, more alive, spiritual condition than later. The prosperity, privileges, freedom from persecution enjoyed, had made them slothful and less courageous. He would have them and us call to mind the victories won in the past, that we might have courage for the present and the future. How gracious, how helpful, are all the provisions of our God for those who now hear his call and seek to walk in Jesus' steps! To these he guarantees that every experience of life which his providence shall permit shall work for good, for blessing, for valuable experience and education along lines of righteousness and character-development.

In time of war not all can go forth as soldiers. Some, unfit for such service, may perform a useful part at home supporting, encouraging, sending supplies to those at the front, etc. And so it is in the army of the Lord; Jesus is the Captain of all those who voluntarily enlist as soldiers of the cross to battle against sin, especially in themselves—fighting a "good fight of faith" and overcoming the spirit of the world which surges all about them, threatening to overwhelm them as New Creatures in Christ.

St. Paul intimates a strong persecution, openly manifested by the worldly-spirited, Satan deceived people of God. He says: "Ye endured a great fight of afflictions, partly whilst ye were made a gazing stock both by reproaches and afflictions and partly whilst ye became companions of them that were so used. For ye had compassion of me in my bonds, and took joyfully the spoiling of your goods" (verses 33-34).

St. Paul and others prominent amongst the Lord's followers naturally would receive the brunt of Satan's attacks. It is presumed that the Epistle of which our text is a part was written while St. Paul was a prisoner at Rome. Fellow Jews, so far from being sympathetic for a countryman, reproached him as a traitor, unorthodox, seeking to tear down the work of God and to ignore the Divine promises belonging to Israel and their sacred traditions. By the Romans, too, he was regarded with suspicion, as one giving allegiance to another King, Jesus, and not therefore disposed to use his Roman citizenship specially for the pride and glory of the Empire. St. Paul declares that thus himself and those who espouse the cause of the Lord are despised and rejected by all. He says that we are counted as the filth and offscouring of the earth—that which nobody cares for or values, but which all would like to get rid of, as the darkness always hates the light and seeks to quench it and reigns completely only when all lights are extinguished. Christians, far and near, either by expressing sympathy for the Apostle or fellowshipping with him, or by defending him from the untrue and malicious slanders circulated against him, thereby expose themselves to similar reproaches and discomfort, opposition from their neighbors, etc.

History tells us of various terrible persecutions of the Christians by the Roman Emperors. It declares, for instance, that to gratify his depraved mind Nero, the Emperor, caused a certain portion of the city of Rome to be burned by incendiaries and that when he found how angry the people were he blamed the entire matter upon the inoffensive Christians—guiltless, no doubt, because these had no friends either at court or amongst the people. They could be blamed with impunity and the Emperor's own vicious criminality would thus be hidden. On this account hundreds of Christians were publicly and brutally put to death.

Poor human nature finds it difficult to stand alone with God and with the few who are on his side—the side of righteousness and truth. When, additionally, there comes persecution it tries their hearts, proves their loyalty. This is exactly what the Lord designs. He is now seeking a special class of overcomers to be joint-heirs with his Son on the spirit plane as the Bride of Messiah. Through these he intends shortly to grant to Israel and, through Israel, to all mankind glorious blessings of instruction and restitution. To be qualified to thus serve in the instruction and uplifting of humanity it is necessary that these called ones should be of strong character—copies of their Master, in the spirit of their minds. To these he says, "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne" (Rev. iii, 21).

We can readily see how some of the more prominent followers of the Lord who suffered martyrdom because of their loyalty to the principles of righteousness and to the name of Jesus would be accounted overcomers and members of the Kingdom class. But sometimes it is difficult for us to discern clearly how the less prominent, less persecuted ones stand with God. St. Paul's argument proves that they stand well — that God counts them in as martyrs, as faithful unto death, if they have the martyr spirit, if they are loyal, courageous for the Truth, even though they never seal their testimony at the stake, even though they never are counted worthy of open, or public opposition or persecution. Here is an encouragement for all and this is exactly what St. Paul would stimulate us to in the words of our text.

He says, "Cast not away, therefore, your outspokenness, which hath great recompense of reward." The Lord has not promised a great reward to us for merely believing, merely trusting, and in a cowardly manner keeping our light hidden, lest its exposure should bring to us persecution or reproach. He seeketh not such. Such will not be counted worthy of a place in the Kingdom which is to bless the world.

St. Paul elsewhere declares, "If we deny him, he will also deny us" (II. Timothy ii, 12). If we have accepted the Lord as our Counsellor, Guide, Captain, Teacher, Exemplar, Bridegroom, he expects of us courage to confess him as such and on all suitable and proper occasions to let our light so shine before men that they may see our good works and glorify our Father which is in heaven" (Matthew v, 16). Our good works are to so accord with the Master's teaching that, however we may be represented by others, all who know us intimately will take knowledge of us that we have been with Jesus and have learned of him. They should also see that our courage, our boldness, our outspokenness, is not a desire to preach ourselves, not vainglory in ourselves, but that, on the contrary, we preach Christ and the glorious message of his Word, which always has brought opposition and persecution from the Adversary and from all who are under his binding influence.

Every faithful follower of Jesus must be a confessor—must show his colors. We do not mean by this that he must be belligerent and fight a carnal warfare, either with swords or spears or hands or tongue. On the contrary, like his Master, he must ever be alert to do good. His orders from the Captain are, "Speak evil of no man." What he must speak forth and show forth by his life is the doctrine of Christ—the Truth, the Light, in contrast with the prevailing Error and Darkness.

The reward which the Scriptures hold before our eyes of faith is so great that, to the worldly, it seems foolish to believe in it. It is to consist of a share with our Lord in his glory, honor and immortality; in his Mediatorial Kingdom soon to be established; in his great work as the Mediator of the New Covenant in granting Divine blessings, through the merit of the better sacrifices, to the people of Israel and eventually through them to all mankind. Not all have a knowledge of this great reward; not all, therefore, have the encouragement to faithfulness which this knowledge inspires. Not all even have the ears to hear. It is written, "The secret of the Lord is with them that fear him and he will show them his Covenant" (Psalm xxv, 14).

Doctor Told Her She Did Not Have A Part Of Good Blood in Her Body.

Mrs. Dosithe P. Cormier, Middle Sackville, N.B., says:

"In the spring of 1907 I was all run down, and the doctor told me I had not a pint of good blood in my body. I took different remedies from doctors, but they did not seem to do me any good. After having taken a lot of different other kinds of medicine, and they did not seem to benefit me, I was almost in despair and did not know what to do until my husband met a lady and told her about my sickness and she told him to try Burdock Blood Bitters as she had received the greatest benefit from using it. My husband went and bought me a bottle, and after having taken it I felt better, so I kept on using one bottle after another until I had taken six in all and then I was strong and well. I am positive that my being alive to-day is due to the use of Burdock Blood Bitters. One spring since then I was not feeling very well and had a lot of work to do. I thought I would procure a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and after I had taken two I was able to do a lot of hard work all the summer, and I never felt better in my life. In the winter of 1908 I had Pneumonia, and it left me with a severe pain in the left side. Every morning when I would get out of bed I had to sit down for a while it was so painful. After I had used Burdock Blood Bitters the pain disappeared completely. It has also cured me of bleeding piles. I have received so much benefit from Burdock Blood Bitters that you may publish this as it may help others as it has me."

THE TERRORS OF THE TINY TADS

1.—Say, what ails these tiny Tads? What starts them running so? Let's look at picture number two and see what it will show.

2.—Oh, dear! A Button-shunicorn is swallowing their mate! They should not leave him there alone to meet so sad a fate.

3.—Only his feet are visible! It really seems a shame! I hope some animal will come to stop this wicked game!

4.—Ah, here's a Halibuttonhook! "I'll save your mate," says he. Some other Halibuttonhooks will come along with me.

5.—They are unbuttoning the beast, they will release the Tad! And to his comrades he will go, and my! won't they be glad!

6.—"You are not hurt one bit!" they cry, and then they start to talk About a funny Cockbird they met once on a walk.

Home Course In Health Culture

VIII.—Exercise in the Home

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

FOR centuries the alchemists sought an elixir—a magic fluid that would restore exhausted vitality and perpetuate the activities we call life. For many years physicians and chemists, successors of the "medicine man" and alchemist, have laboriously experimented with drugs and chemicals in the hope of at last finding some combination that would give health and increased longevity to mankind. Many valuable drugs and combinations of drugs have been discovered, but it is safe to say that the greatest achievements of medical science have come not through the use of drugs, but through the employment of natural remedies which nature has long supplied for the curative "medicine men" of the middle ages. It is true that diphtheria antitoxin and the wonderful properties of other remedies of a similar class are the products of the laboratory, but these are truly nature's remedies and have no relation with drug treatment. The remarkable fall in the death rate among people under thirty years of age in the past quarter century is almost wholly due to hygiene and the use of natural remedies in disease.

The power of physical training, fresh air and a little surgery to make over the lymphatic, half deformed, mouth breathing child into a splendid and useful citizen is as wonderful in its way as the powers vainly sought by the alchemists and necromancers.

Truthlessome Remedies Unpopular.

It is unfortunate, however, that some of these remedial measures are not so easily prescribed or taken as pills and powders.

To advise a man to take more exercise is very much like telling him to take digitalis. Exercise cannot confer its maximum benefit unless some dosage is prescribed and some system followed. But the average man wishes to be made over at once. Any process involving time, patience and effort is repugnant unless it is given a fancy name and has some mystery thrown around it, and then what marvelous results—while the fad lasts!

There is a great difference between exercising for health and exercising for muscular development. They are not necessarily identical processes. The vast, bulging muscles of the athlete may be a real burden, calling for large supplies of blood and nutriment and not contributing to harmony of movement or balance of function.

Overdevelopment spells ultimate degeneration, just as disuse spells atrophy and decay.

The object we should keep in view, therefore, is moderate but sufficient exercise of the entire muscular system.

Effects of Exercise.

The circulation and respiration are chiefly affected during exercise and muscular work. There is an increased absorption of oxygen, an increased excretion of carbon dioxide and water. In other words, combustion proceeds more actively in the body, and more fuel, in the form of fat or starches or proteids, is required. All of which goes to show that, whatever man's mind or soul may be, his body is a sort of engine which can no more carry on its work without fuel than a locomotive without coal can drag a train of cars. Mind and will power alone cannot run the human engine with beef tea and slops and food that is not fuel any more than the most skillful engineer can run a locomotive with air in the boiler and a few shavings in the fireboz.

The mechanical measure of exercise is the kilogrammeter. It has been determined (Haughton) that walking on a level surface at the rate of three miles (4.8 kilometers) per hour is equivalent to lifting one-twentieth of the weight of the body through the distance walked. To determine the amount of work performed in walking the weight of the body in kilograms is multiplied by the distance walked. The product constitutes the number of kilogram meters of work performed; 150,000 kilogram meters is considered the normal average amount of work or exercise required in health.

Best Time For Exercise.

The ideal time for exercise is midway between meals, but few people can arrange to take it at such times. Before breakfast is a suitable time for most people, especially if the exercise is followed by a cold bath and brisk rubbing.

Some people cannot exercise before breakfast without feeling unduly fatigued, the exhaustion often lasting throughout the day. Before retiring is a safer time for such people unless they can arrange for forenoon or afternoon work.

Nervous subjects with an excitable circulation should not, as a rule, exercise before retiring.

Exercise should never be taken just after a meal, and no exercise just prior to eating should be so severe as to cause great fatigue. In either case the digestive functions are impaired, and all benefits may be neutralized.

Forms of Exercise.

Exercise should be graded according to age and condition. When there is actual disease medical advice must be sought and followed or injudicious exercise may prove extremely harmful.

In prescribing exercise a good system is that of Dr. Dudley Sargent of Harvard. In this system the various movements have been given descriptive names to facilitate memorizing them.

The following is a brief outline of the several exercises:

First.—Adoration. Standing with feet together and hands raised before the forehead, as in praying, throw the hands and forearms backward until the arms are on a level with the shoulders, keeping elbows pressed against the sides. Repeat twenty to eighty times.

Second.—Tree swaying. Stand with feet together and arms thrust straight upward, but not rigid. Sway the upper part of the body from side to side.

Third.—Striking an anvil. Stand with feet twenty-four inches apart, arms straight out sideways, face turned to left. Keeping the arms rigidly straight, swing the right hand over the head and down on to the left hand with a slap. Swing the right arm downward and back to original position. Reverse the movement, face turned to right.

Fourth.—Swimming, breast stroke. Stand with feet twenty-four inches apart, left foot forward, weight resting on right leg, arms at right angles, held close to the side. Thrust arms forward, bend body forward and throw weight on left leg, bending at the knee. Sweep arms outward and backward to original position, imitating a swimming stroke.

Fifth.—Boxer's guard. Stand with feet twenty-four inches apart, right foot forward, weight on left leg, left arm bent and guarding neck, right arm straight downward and backward. Press forward, throwing weight on right leg, and bring right arm up to guard the neck while thrusting the left arm downward and backward. Repeat the move, springing from one foot to the other.

Seventh.—Signal station. Stand erect, with heels together, hands on hips. Thrust the right arm straight upward while lifting the left leg outward and upward, rigidly extended. Lower the limbs and repeat on other side.

Eighth.—Rowing. Stand facing the right, feet twenty-four inches apart, right leg forward, arms at right angles and close to sides. Bend forward, weight on right leg, with arms extended, until fingers touch the floor twelve inches in advance of right foot. Return briskly to first position as though pulling an oar. Repeat, facing left.

Ninth.—Resumption. Stand with feet together, arms downward, back of hands touching. Bring hands upward, separating as they pass the face. Then describe a circle downward and outward back to first position. Repeat. Begin to inhale deeply as the arms are raised, slowly exhaling as the arms descend.

These movements should be performed from twenty to eighty times at a rate per minute that is not unduly fatiguing. Many simple movements of a similar character will prove effective if regularly and systematically carried out.

It is important to employ exercises that bring into play the abdominal and chest muscles, which encourages deep breathing and prevents the accumulation of fat around the abdomen.

Tree swaying, striking the anvil, chicken wings and signal station are especially good exercises for women and elderly people who are excessively fleshy.

Dangers of Excessive Flesh.

Superfluous fat is not only a burden, but it interferes with the normal functions of the body. It may be caused by too much food and too little exercise or merely a lack of exercise in one with a family tendency to flesh.

Life insurance statistics clearly show that individuals even slightly overweight have a higher death rate than those of average weight. This increased death rate is manifested around middle life and later.

We wouldn't suspect how good some people are if they didn't brag.

Shot In a Struggle.

New York, Dec. 19.—During a struggle on the Bowery for the possession of a heavy revolver between Policeman Joseph McLaughlin and a young man who gave his name as Frederick Holmyard, and said he was a member of the Winnipeg Y.M.C.A. Holmyard was shot through the head behind the right ear early yesterday, and is in a critical condition.

The policeman was trying to get the gun away from Holmyard, after the latter had fired a shot at the officer for no apparent reason.

A Youthful Hero.

Lima, Ohio, Dec. 19.—In a concerted effort at escape from the county jail yesterday afternoon four prisoners won their way to freedom after a murderous assault on Sheriff Van Gorten. Standing over his father's senseless body, the sheriff's fifteen-year-old son held the remaining six convicts at bay with an empty rifle until help came.

IN TIME OF PEACE

Chief Executive of the United States Goes to Peace Convention In Washington and Urges That Means of Resisting Aggression Be Kept Up—He Also Favors an International Court of Arbitration.

Washington, Dec. 19.—President Taft, addressing the closing banquet Saturday night of the American Society for the Judicial Settlement of International Disputes, allayed "the so-called war scare which has furnished pabulum for the newspapers during the last few days." He declared that "there is not the slightest reason for such a sensation, because we are at peace with all the nations of the world and are quite likely to remain so." He said his purpose in outlining the preparedness of the United States for war "at a peace meeting," was to show by contrast the direct worthiness of the movement for a permanent court of arbitral justice and universal peace.

The President urged that a policy of "wise military preparation" be pursued. He emphasized the fact that the American people never would consent to the maintenance of a standing army sufficient to cope with that of the great powers. He urged the retention of the regular army, the improvement of the national militia, the passage of the present volunteer bill, to go into operation should war be declared, and the passage of a law, now before Congress, providing for a force of additional officers, who will be "able in time of peace to render efficient service in drilling the militia of the states," and, finally, the accumulation of guns and ammunition "to equip and arm the force we could select under our colors in an emergency."

President Taft asserted that the best method of ultimately securing disarmament among nations is the establishment of an international court, and the development of a code of international equity. Declaring that the country had not reached the point where war is impossible, he cited the Panama Canal question.

The President congratulated the association on Carnegie's gift of $10,000,000 for peace, and continued: "If now we can negotiate and put through a positive agreement with some great nation, to abide the adjudication of an international arbitral court in every issue which cannot be settled by negotiation, no matter what it involves, whether honor, territory or money, we shall have made a long step forward, by demonstrating that it is possible for two nations, at least, to establish, as between them, the same system of due process of law that exists between individuals under a government."

Winnipeg Cars Run.

Winnipeg, Dec. 19.—The feature of the street car strike yesterday was the arrival of sixty strike-breakers from Toronto. These men, the company claims, are all experienced operators and are not imported from the United States.

It is expected that they will be put to work right away unless the strikers give in before the time set by the company for resuming work—to-morrow morning.

The college students were again the mainstay of the service yesterday, and some sixty cars were operated up till about eight o'clock. College work this morning will deprive the company of this source of labor.

There has been very little trouble, and what there was, was of a minor nature. Some windows were broken and an attempt was made to derail cars by placing cordwood across the tracks.

The company state they have now 500 applications from many anxious to go to work on the cars.

Strikers and their friends are making themselves known by appearing on the streets wearing badges with the words "We walk" stuck in their caps.

COULD USE MILLIONS.

General Booth Says He Would Like Carnegie's Money.

London, Dec. 19.—General Booth of the Salvation Army, is deeply stirred by Carnegie's gift of $10,000,000 for the promotion of peace.

"What would I give for $10,000,000 to help us win true peace?" he cried. "How would I spend it? That is no new question. We, year in and year out, have pondered it, wondering where and whence the millions will come. There are so many schemes and possibilities, but if they are to be effective all must begin with the one beginning, a university of humanity. This university for a beginning should have two centres, London and New York. It would be an institution to which the lowest, the humblest and the most degraded would be brought, and they might be taught. The greatest and only abiding lesson would be forgetfulness of self.

"In these universities I would give men of healthy bodies the means of healthy work, I would see that the money was not spent on the few alone. Around each university I would have one thousand halls which, by their brightness, would attract each their thousands. There are so many ways of spending money in the direction of peace and yet making it productive that I cannot recount all. I only wish Mr. Carnegie would leave me a chance."

Tragedy Follows Gambling Game.

Washington, Penn., Dec. 19.—William Love, aged 26, is dead, with half of his head blown off, and George Broadnax, charged with the shooting, and his wife held as a witness, are in jail. A huge dagger, that was in Love's hand when he was shot, still sticks in the floor of the Broadnax house, where it was plunged into the boards by the weight of Love's body when he fell.

The tragedy was the result of a miners' card game at Marianna. As reported to the police, the fight started in Love's home, and when Love drew a dagger Broadnax ran out and to his own house. Love followed, but found the door barricaded against him. He beat upon the door until the panels splintered, and crawled through with the dagger in his teeth. Mrs. Broadnax, terrified, crouched in a corner of the room, while her husband went into an adjoining room for a shotgun.

As Broadnax entered the room with the gun, Love leaped forward with the dagger in his uplifted hand. There was a flash from the gun, and Love fell, the dagger sinking deeply in the boards a few inches from Broadnax.

Knocked Over Turnkey.

Welland, Dec. 19.—Claude Dickout, aged 20, sentenced by Judge Wells last week to three years in Kingston Penitentiary, escaped from Welland Jail at 11:45 yesterday morning. He walked out of the main entrance of the Court House, and the earth swallowed him, his escape could not have been more secure. Dinner was being served at 11 o'clock and Turnkey Maling was carrying out the cups.

Dickout left his chance and made a rush for the door, knocking the turnkey over as he passed. The door leading from the corridors to the office was ajar. The fugitive pulled it to after him. In the thirty or forty seconds it took Mr. Maling to unlock the door, Dickout got away and was lost. The police were on the alert in the streets, and the frontier have promptly notified to be on the alert, but thus far all efforts are unrewarded.

Dickout was sentenced for burglarizing at Ridgeway. In giving sentence, Judge Wells made scathing reference to the young man's life, to which the young culprit returned a blood curdling.

Big Fish Pickerel.

London, Ont., Dec. 19.—R. M. McGuigan announced to Hon. Adam Beck last night that his part in the power contract would be completed with the completion of the St. Mary's dam, and the line from London to Port Burwell.

The power transmission line, 100 miles in length, is complete. It has taken two years in building, and is the longest in the world.

The gates were laid off Saturday, but will have plenty of work in March, guards are now in Windsor in readiness to close. The completion of the dam will mean that another vast power, besides coal, will be available.

Mexican Revolt Renewed.

El Paso, Texas, Dec. 19.—Federal Mexican troops were completely overthrown in an engagement lasting several hours at Lajunta, a small town near Minaca, on the Mexico Northern and Orient Railroad, according to information received by railroad officials here.

At 4.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon the remnant of the Federal troops, numbering 150, surrendered their arms and ammunition and were allowed to depart in the direction of Chihuahua.

As telegraph wires were cut in many places, no details of the battle can be secured. A telephone wire running north through the mountains brought the news to the Juarez branch of the Mexico Northwestern that the Federal troops were overwhelmingly defeated and that the survivors had surrendered. The Federal forces were supposed to number over 1,000 men, and were in command of Generals Navarro and Bernandez.

The fight at Lajunta is believed to be a continuation of the battle reported in the vicinity of San Andres on Thursday night.

An effort was made yesterday to run trains over the Mexico Northwestern into Chihuahua, but with what success cannot be learned. The railway officials say that the insurgents are in complete control of the entire region, and that traffic is practically at a standstill.

Wireless at Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, Dec. 19.—The Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co.'s new station at Port Arthur is now in working order. Commercial messages will be accepted from Toronto to-day. Saturday congratulatory messages were exchanged between local citizens and residents of other towns, Mayor Matthews opening with a greeting to the mayor of Duluth.

At one time Saturday when Manager Ashley was testing his apparatus, he heard the message going from Cape Cod station on the Atlantic coast, 1,200 miles from here, to a boat in mid-ocean.

Robbers Heavily Sentenced.

New York, Dec. 19.—Three Chinatown loafers, who beat and robbed a young woman from Connecticut who was seeing the sights last month, were convicted of robbery in the first degree on Saturday and sentenced to Sing Sing for thirty-one years each.

They are: Thomas O'Brien, 26 years old; his brother, John J. O'Brien, 31 years old, and Sam L. Friedman, 25 years old.

They persuaded Myrtle B. Harding, whom they met in a dance hall, to visit a stable to look at a race horse, and there knocked her down and took $10, all the money she had.

SIXTIETH GRANDCHILD

Of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Goselin, George Street, Was Baptized at Sacred Heart Church Yesterday Afternoon

GRANDPARENT PRESENT

Unusual interest surrounded the baptism yesterday afternoon of Marie Stella Rishea, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rishea, George street, inasmuch as it was the baptism of the sixtieth grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Goselin, George street. The baptism took place at the Church of the Sacred Heart and the Holy Rite was administered by Rev. Dr. O'Brien. The grandmother was present at the service. Both Mr. and Mrs. Goselin are enjoying the best of health and if they live until next August they will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding.

DOZEN PEOPLE KILLED IN A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION IN POWER HOUSE

Frightful Accident in Power House of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway Spreads Death and Destruction.

HOSPITALS ARE FULL

Special Wire to The Examiner.

NEW YORK, N.Y., DEC. 19.—Ten people instantly killed, eight missing and several injured is the known casualty list of the most terrifying explosion ever known in the history of this city, wrecking the big new power house of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad at Lexington avenue and Forty-ninth street. The building where the explosion took place was in the course of construction and every workman in it was killed. What really caused it will probably never be known. It may have been acetylene gas or a powerful electric dynamo. Every window in the neighbourhood for half a mile radius was wrecked.

People came pouring out of the fashionable hotels in the neighbourhood, some in their night clothing, thinking it another Frisco earthquake. Two of the dead were a man and woman, passengers in a passing trolley car, which was hurled half way across the street. Several infants in the babies hospital nearby were cut by breaking glass. Fortunately the accident took place just before school time, as the big school near the power house was practically wrecked. Every available ambulance and policeman was on the scene shortly, together with the fire department, to take care of several fires which broke out. Twenty thousand spectators blocked the efforts of rescuers. Several hospitals are full of the wounded.

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Later reports indicate that a dynamite explosion may have caused this morning's catastrophe. It looks now that twelve were killed, including one woman on a street car. One of the dead was Detective Frank Kelly, who was riding on a trolley car, who was hurled several yards. A piece of glass entered his lung, but bleeding profusely, he attempted to assist others in the ruins. He was found later unconscious from the loss of blood and passed away in the hospital.

CHANCE FOR PETERBOROUGH PEOPLE TO PLAY SANTA

Seventeen Youngsters in the Children's Aid Society's Shelter Will Have an Uneventful Christmas if the Charitably Inclined Citizens Do Not Come to the Rescue---Gifts Are Being Asked For.

Just at this time of the year, when the coming of Santa Claus is being looked forward to by thousands of happy Peterborough children, there is a little coterie of youngsters in Peterborough who will not be brightened by a visit from Santa unless the citizens of Peterborough rally to the support of the benevolent old gentleman. In the Children's Aid Society Shelter at the present time there are seventeen children, to most of whom Santa Claus or Christmas will mean nothing unless the charitably inclined citizens of Peterborough will show their usual generosity in this respect and see that they are remembered. The officials propose to have a Christmas tree for the unfortunate little ones and are asking for assistance from the public. Toys, games, books, clothing, sleighs, candies, nuts, fruit, anything that will be of use or pleasure to children are asked for. The youngsters run in ages from three to thirteen years, there being three girls and fourteen boys. Persons who wish to contribute may leave their donations at the Review or Examiner offices, or at the Shelter. If you could only see the joy that one little toy brings these poor little waifs, you would not hesitate for a moment about sending in something. Remember second-hand toys and books are just as acceptable as new ones. The things your children have grown tired of will assay one hundred per cent. in joy if sent to the Shelter. The newspaper offices are ready to take care of any donations and see that they are forwarded to the Shelter.

BOARD OF TRADE WILL DISCUSS THE BY-LAWS

There will be an important meeting of the Peterborough Board of Trade to-morrow night, when the by-laws to be voted upon by the ratepayers at the municipal elections will be taken up and discussed. The measures to come up are the proposal to aid the Bonner-Worth Worsted Yarn Company to establish a business here, and to give a franchise to the Chas. E. Dittman Natural Gas Company. Both are important and a free discussion of them from all sides will give the voters a chan ceto see the matter intelligently. Every citizen is invited to be present in the council chambers tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Very Little Talk As To Municipal Elections---Nominations Next Monday

Nomination Day is just one week away, but there seems to be very little doing in the Municipal field, if current talk on the street is anything to go by. There seems to be very little gossip as to probable candidates for aldermen. There is not likely to be any contest for Mayor as there seems to be no doubt as to Mayor Morrow's return by acclamation. However, Nomination Day will tell. Nominations for Mayor, Water Commissioners and Board of Education will take place at the City Council Chamber from ten to eleven o'clock Monday next and nominations for aldermen will take place at noon in each of the wards.

"OUR LADY OF THE SNOW"

(By John Bell.)

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—The following few lines of my poem "Our Lady of the Snow" contain some of my views, in regard to our Government's Navy for Canada:

Our Lady of the Snow.

I am your Lady of the Snow,
My Ministers' acts look hazy,
They aim to be my father's foe,
By the way they plan their Navy.
My father has been good to me,
My ships have sailed upon the sea,
As free, as free, as free can be,
Without a single penny-fee.

I am your Lady of the Snow,
I dread a separate Navy,
Which aims to be my father's foe,
My ministers' acts look hazy.
They say it war should come to be,
Against my father on the sea,
They might help him, or they might not,
Is this to be my father's lot.

I am your Lady of the Snow,
And I love my father's Navy,
It [illegible] years ago,
I [illegible]
[illegible] I could [illegible] father's side,
My ships would sail the land wide

I could not be my father's pride,
All seems to me like suicide.

JOHN BELL.

Peterborough, Dec. 17, 1910.

Note by Editor.—It is to be noted that Mr. Bell has taken full advantage of licentia vatis, poetical license, which permits the poet to build any fabric on imagination, and provide his own facts. In assuming that the Canadian Navy is a separate Navy, Mr. Bell has gone no further afield in fancy than Mr. Borden and the "Nationalists".

HAD LEG BROKEN

Got Caught in Pulley at Peterborough Cereal Co.

I. Fair, who is employed at the Peterborough Cereal Company's works, met with a misfortune on Saturday afternoon that will render him unfit for work for several weks. While engaged on the elevator at the mill, in some way, he got his left foot caught in the elevator, with the result that his leg was broken just above the ankle. Dr. J. Malcolm McCullough was called and the injured man was removed to Nicholls Hospital, where his injuries were attended.

OBITUARY

MISS MARGARET J. REID.

With shocking suddenness came the death yesterday at a quarter to one o'clock of Miss Margaret Jane Reid, at the residence of her father, Mr. Alex. Reid, 715 George street. While the deceased young lady had been unwell for the past two weeks, it was thought that she was convalescent, and her death was quite unexpected, the immediate cause of which was heart disease. She was in her twenty-first year, and exceedingly popular among a wide circle of young friends, to whom the news of her death was a sad blow, and the profoundest regret is felt at her sudden demise. She was employed as a saleslady at Robert Fair & Co's. store, and was held in the highest esteem by her employer and fellow employees. She was a member of St. Andrew's church, and took an active part in the work of that church. She sang in the choir, and was for some time past Secretary of the Young People's Society. Her death will be keenly felt in the activities of St. Andrew's church. Great sympathy is extended the family in their bereavement. She is survived by her parents, seven brothers and two sisters. The brothers are Messrs. James of Banff, Alta., John of Bonners Ferry, Idaho; Matthew of Wallahala, N.D., Walter, in Manitoba, and Robert, Ernest and Ed., residing at home. The sisters are Misses Harriet and Annie, both at home.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.30, from the family residence, to the Little Lake cemetery. The service at the house will be conducted by Rev. J .G. Potter of Montreal, formerly pastor of St. Andrew's church.

DEATHS

DOBIE.—Suddenly in New York on Saturday, December 17th, 1910, Arthur Dow Dobie, youngest son of the late Rev. Robert Dobie, and brother of William Dobie of Toronto and Robert Dobie of Peterboro, in his 40th year.

STATEMENT FROM SPIRITUAL ADVISER OF THE T. A. S.

Rev. Father McColl Discusses Action of the Council in Refusing Exemption to the Abstinence Society---Politics Are Not Discussed in T. A. S. Room or Are the Members Advised How to Vote.

"We deny that our T. A. S. is a political institution," said Rev. Father McColl to an Examiner reporter this morning. "We admit that we have been anxious to secure two Catholic candidates to the Aldermanship, but the rumor that we have discussed politics in these rooms is absolutely false. Some people imagine that the priests tell the people how to vote, but I assert that never has any priest advised the people how to vote, in these rooms, and if they did, our people know that they are free to manage their own secular affairs independent of the church and the church does not claim jurisdiction over them in secular business. Our people are pretty evenly divided between the two political parties except in such circumstances as when abuse by one of the parties has been heaped upon us to such an extent that no Catholic with any manhood would vote for a man who is knifing the Catholic people. Our people have sense enough to protect themselves as far as possible against such aggression without being advised to do so," concluded Father McColl.

He also spoke of the fact that the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. were exempt from taxation, and yet the T.A.S. was not exempt, while it was doing practically the same for the Catholic people as the above institutions were doing for the Protestants. "We have night classes, literary societies, debating clubs, library, and a gymnasium for boys; all these things are educational and helpful to the young people, and we maintain that we are doing the same for our young people that the Y.W.C.A and Y.M.C.A. are doing for the Protestant young people.

"I think," continued Father McColl, "that it is quite right that the Y.W.C.A and Y.M.C.A. should not be taxed, but I also claim that the T.A.S. should be on the same footing. I am of the opinion that if the thing was explained fully to the Protestant people that they would see the fairness of it, and I feel quite sure tha tit was only a small minority of them that was in favor of voting against it. I am sure they do not represent the full body of the Protestants. I have every confidence in the liberality and justness of the Protestant people of this city. When the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. were asking for exemption, we did not object and do not object now. It is trite they keep boarders, which we do not do; still, I believe that they are protecting the young Protestant men and women from many dangers, and are thereby doing good to the community. All we ask is to be placed on the same footing, and I believe the Protestant people will see that we are."

SIR WILFRID AND THE FARMERS

The farmers' deputation, which invaded Ottawa, on Thursday last, was a large one in point of numbers, remarkable in that regard, and entitled to respectful attention. This attention it received from Sir Wilfrid Laurier, whose attitude towards the deputation was one of respect and courtesy, but at the same time of firmness and moderation. The enemies of Sir Wilfrid assumed that the deputation and the demands foreshadowed would place the Premier in an embarassing position. It might have proved embarrassing to an opportunist, but not to Sir Wilfrid, who was seized with a full sense of his responsibility in respect of the interests of the whole population of Canada. He was not to be stampeded. He recognized that the deputation was making demands that could not be acceded to off-hand, demands so far reaching that they must be carefully weighed in the balance, with the interests with which they naturally conflict. Sir Wilfrid was placed, not in an embarassing position, but in one where his sense of fair play and his responsibility as a statesman charged with the wisest promotion of the national interest, counselled against committal to rash promises. The farmers' deputation got, in the reply of Sir Wilfrid, all that they had any reason to expect. Our greatest judges after long and exhaustive trial and submission of full evidence, often reserve judgment. In the same manner, the premier could do no more in respect of the farmers' deputation than reserve his decision. Besides, the deputation was not to be regarded as completely representative and unanimous; some parts of the Dominion failing to endorse the position of the majority of the delegation, which cannot altogether be divested of the characteristic of improving the occasion for many of the western members to pay a holiday visit to Ontario. The tariff is too important a matter to be made the subject of quick-fire or revolutionary treatment. There is an east as well as a west, and the balance as between their respective interests must be held with a steady hand, and so poised as to avoid sectional friction and possible cleavage. Nobody, even the most extreme, will deny that many of the demands of the deputation could not be summarily entertained without peril to the very interests in which they were made. Special interests in their enthusiasm have sometimes to be saved from themselves, and consideration may easily show that Sir Wilfrid's respectful, yet firm attitude, may represent a service of this character.

IN STATU QUO.

The British elections will, in all probability, result in retaining the Asquith ministry in power by about the same majority as they held in the last preceding parliament. This result, however, is not to be regarded as a fair measure of the popularity of the Government with the people. It went to the country with its old policy to the fore. Its Opponents, the Unionist party, had for the three chief planks of its platform, general hostility to the Government policy, the protection of the House of Lords in their autocratic position, and tariff reform. To gain a tactical advantage — sacrificing principle for party advantage—Mr. Balfour, leader of the Unionists, threw tariff reform aside, by outraging all good Tory precedent, and promising to submit it to a popular vote. This was good party tactics, no matter what lack of principle was involved; for, but for this shrewd move, Mr. Asquith's majority would have been much greater. The referendum dodge lost him many seats. Again, the Liberal Premier was further heavily handicapped by the system of plural voting. In Great Britain they have not the practice in elections of one man one vote. A man may vote in as many different constituencies as he has property, or other qualifications. In this way he may have many votes, and the elections being held at different dates, it is possible that all the votes a man has can be polled. There are estimated to be about 400,000 of these plural voters in Great Britain, having from two to ten, or even as many as forty or fifty votes each. Nearly all these plural voters are landed proprietors, belonging to the privileged classes, and nearly, if not quite, all will vote Tory. It will be seen how great an advantage this system gave the Tory party in the present elections. In 1906 the Liberals introduced a bill to practically abolish plural voting, by holding all elections on one day, and to give the people a fair chance—one man one vote. But the Lords "seeing their finish," as far as autocratic exercise of power is concerned, rejected the bill as representing the abolition of plural voting. Had it not been for these two heavy handicaps, Mr. Asquith would have had a much larger polling. But the day is coming when the loaded dice will be laid aside and the voice of the people will prevail. By shelving tariff reform, Mr. Balfour narrowed the issue down to the abolition or modification of the veto power of the Lords. In this he has got the worst of the game. Mr. Asquith will have sufficient majority to carry out his programme.

A NEW ERA IN GREAT BRITAIN.

(Winnipeg Free Press)

By his action in eliminating Tariff Reform from the present general election campaign in Great Britain, Mr. Balfour must be said to have done his utmost to make the question of the abolition of the Lords' veto the one great issue. To suppose that the coalition party will interpret its victory as anything short of a mandate to carry through its policy regarding the House of Lords is to question the fidelity and courage of its leaders. The Government appealed to the electorate on that definite issue, stated with the utmost precision; and the one great issue before the British people has been less confused by other issues than has been the case in a general election campaign for many years.

If Mr. Asquith has not secured a mandate to push through to a finish his policy of dealing with the Lords, no Prime Minister has received a mandate for any purpose whatever. Mr. Balfour, of all men, is surely barred from contending now that the electors of the United Kingdom have not given an equivocal answer to the contending parties on the issue of the Lords' veto. Returned to power by the votes of the constituencies, the Asquith Government, with a coalition majority of more than a hundred in the House of Commons, will, of course, carry out its policies. To assume that it would not, would be to deny the principles of parliamentary government, and to take the ground that majorities should be subservient to minorities in legislation.

The House of Lords, as history has known it, is virtually ended already. Great Britain is entering on an era in which the democracy will be supreme. The last House of Commons, only a few weeks ago, passed the Lords' veto resolutions, and the bill providing for the limitation of the power of the hereditary chamber to defeat the will of the House of Commons was started on its way. That bill will now go to the Lords, and should the Lords—which is highly improbable—presume to attempt to deal with it as they have dealt with previous measures of Liberal Governments displeasing to them, the Prime Minister would have no alternative save to ask the King to create enough new Peers to overcome the resistance to the will of the people as manifested in two successive Parliaments. The present elections are being held to prove to the King that the will of the people is behind the Lords' veto policy of the Asquith Government.

Only the Asquith Government can hold office. A Balfour Government would be impossible, with a majority of over a hundred against it in the House of Commons. The King would shake the foundations of his throne if he sought to refuse the advice of the Prime Minister. As Mr. Asquith has said:

"The veto of the Crown, still a "technical part of the law of the land, is as dead as Queen Anne, and nobody laments or is worse for its disappearance, while the Crown stands on a much firmer foundation in the affection and loyalty of the British people than when it existed. We propose that the Lords' veto should follow it."

The Lords will yield before the situation approaches the stage in which Mr. Asquith would have to ask the King to create a lot of new Lords.

The Grape Diet.

For dyspeptics a grape diet is recommended. Grapes are said to contain potash and tartaric acid, together with a great percentage of sugar. They act most beneficially on the blood, cleanse the system and are very good for dyspeptics. Bananas are another fruit highly recommended. They are nearly all nourishment, are free from fiber and are advocated for use by those with delicate digestive powers.

SIGNIFICANCE OF VISIT OF THE FARMERS TO OTTAWA

(London Advertiser.)

There is shrewdness and calculation in the western farmers' method of impressing their views on Parliament and the country. The deputataion sent to Ottawa is a proof of their determination, cohesion, and efficiency of organizataion, and of the power behind their petition. The demonstration is somewaht spectacular, but perhaps something spectacular is needed to show Eastern Canadians that the western grangers are a force to be reckoned with. The petitioners have formulated their tariff views as follows:

"1. Reciprocal free trade between the United States and Canada in all horticultural, agricultural and animal products, sparying materials, fertilizers, fuel, illuminating, and lubricataing oils, cement, fish and lumber.

"2. Reciprocal free trade between the two countries in all agricultural implements, machinery, vehicles and parts thereof.

"3. Immediate lowering of the duties on all British imports to one-half the rates charged under the general tariff, whatever these may be, any trade advantages given the United States in reciprocal trade relations to be extended to Great Britain.

"4. Such further reduction of the remaining preferential tariff as will insure the establishment of complete free trade between the Dominion and mother country within ten years.

"5. That the farmers of this country are willing to face direct taxation in such form as may be advisable to make up the revenue lost under tariff regulations."

No doubt the petitioners want all these things, but it is not likely that they expect to get all they want. The immediate increase of the British preference to 50 per cent. would tie the Government's hands in negotiating for favours from the United States, although there would be much to commend it as an alternative policy if the United States were found to be unreasonable. The proposal to reach free trade with Great Britain in ten years by yearly reductions of the tariff is even more illogical when associated with a petition for reciprocity with the United States. The United States would not be disposed to make large concessions with the certainty that British competitors would in any event have the freedom of the Canadian market. A more practical suggestion is that any tariff reductions on American imports be extended to Great Britain. In asking this the farmers show a grateful appreciation of the benefits of the free British market. Subject to the condition that British interests shall not be prejudiced, there ought to be room for a mutually beneficial trade arrangement with the United States, even though it falls short of the demands of the western grangers.

The event at Ottawa to-day is one of the most significant in the recent political history of Canada. The tariff ought not to be a sectional or geographical question, but it will have to be cautiously handled if there is not to be a cleavage between the East and West, which would retard the cause of Canadian unity. The present fiscal policy is a compromise which has at least been accepted for thirteen years a fairly creditable record. The time has come for modifications, but these must be based uopn the same principle, taking account of the rising industrial development of the country and at the same time recognizing that there is a limit to the burden which the great agricultural interests will bear to support and stimulate other interests. A moderate tariff is the only possible one in Canada, and all parties now concede the fact. Scarcely an echo is heard of the old cry that Canada should give the United States a reciprocity of tariffs.

CENTRAL ONTARIO CAN GROW GOOD QUALITY OF BROOM CORN

It will be recollected that Hon. Mr. Stratton forwarded two separate samples of broom corn, grown at Norwood, to the Department of Agriculture for examination. A reply to the second letter, forwarding a sample, has been received from Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, enclosing the following memo for Dr. Saunders, from the Dominion Botanist:

Memo For Dr. Saunders.

Dear Dr. Saunders.—As requested, I have examined the heads of broom corn forwarded by the Hon. J. R. Stratton, and have noted his observations in reply to your previous correspondence on this subject. The present specimens are certainly superior to the ones first sent, both as regards fineness and straightness, and go to show that a good quality of broom corn can be produced under our conditions.

With reference to the price paid for broom corn, there is no doubt a wide margin between the figure received by the grower in the United States and that paid by the manufacturer in Canada, as pointed out by Mr. Stratton. At the price paid to the grower at Norwood, there is no question but that the crop must be profitable if it can be grown, which, evidently it can, judging by the evidence presented. As suggested by you I am preparing to undertake some experimental work in the growing of broom corn, and am arranging to provide seed of the most prominent varieties. I hope to arrange to have some plots grown at various points in Ontario, in addition to those grown here.

The Touch Master

You cannot tell off-hand what it is that imparts to dress the much desired element call style. You recognise it with you see it and you often wonder why it is that a garment made by one tailor has so much more snap and expression about it than the same style of garment made by another tailor. It isn't the quality of the goods. It isn't the more following the outlines of a figure on a fashion plate. Tailoring is something more than that, and the true tailor, as the true musician, realizes that it is his master touch that produces the harmony that inspires admiration.

A Successful Hockey Team And How To Make One Good Advice For Players

In an interesting article in the Toronto Star Weekly on "How to make a good hockey team," Mr. W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association and one of the best authorities on the great winter game, has the following sterling advice which every player and every manager should paste into his hat at once:

Constant practice is the first requisite. Not a few minutes' dashing up and down the ice and then a rush for the shower bath and the training table. Nothing of the kind. Constant practice means more than that. It means a hard, steady and long grind on the ice, considerable self-sacrifice, and good conditioning off the ice. To play hockey well a player must be in the best physical condition. There are no half-way measures. The man who plays in fits and starts is no good to a team. He must be able to go the distance all the time, no lagging, no slowing up, as a second's hesitation or delay is sometimes fatal to success in this speediest of all games. No matter how brilliant a player a man may be he is no use to his team unless he is in good condition. Too many team managers overlook this, and in selecting the team give the preference to Mr. Good Player in poor shape over Mr. Hard Player in perfect condition which is one of the saddest mistakes that can be made.

Development of Team Play.

The development of team play takes time and patience, more of both than most players will give voluntarily. That's the principal trouble. If the players could be made to realize the great importance of this phase of the game we'd have much better hockey.

Practices should never be conducted in a desultory fashion. Every player should go into practice as he would go into a game. He should obey all the playing rules as religiously as possible and no mistake should go uncorrected. The coach on the side, or better still, as referee on the ice, has his duty to perform, and his little megaphone should keep the players informed as to what they should or should not do. "Pass the puck and stay in your position" is the cardinal principle and never fail to check back even though your opponent has secured the jump on you, and is off to a good start. It's a long way to the goal and something may hinder him sufficiently on the way up to enable you to be of some service to your team.

It's mighty tiresome sometimes plugging up and down the ice, getting your bumps, and taking them without retaliating'—that's another big factor in success—but it has its final reward and hard-earned victory is certainly sweet.

Trainer For The Local O. H. A. Hockey Teams

At a meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club on Saturday, it was decided to engage Billy Breen, Toronto, who will be remembered as trainer of the Peterborough team when championships were taken as a matter of course, to look after the local O.H.A. teams for this season. Mr. Breen is an efficient, painstaking and faithful trainer and can be counted upon to have the team in the best physical condition possible before the first game is reached. He will train both intermediates and juniors and will be here in a day or two if the terms offered him by the Peterborough club are satisfactory.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

The junior team had another good workout Saturday night while a few of the intermediates were out in the afternoon.

The farmers forgot something. They didn't kick against the salaries paid to hockey players. — Ottawa Free Press.

Pete Campbell is turning out with the Varsity junior O.H.A. team and says that the Collegians will be very strong this year.

Owing to the fact that St. Michael's are making a tour in the United States at New Years' the proposed game between them and the Peterborough intermediates for New Year's night has been called off. The local club is endeavouring to make arrangements with some other Toronto senior team for that date.

There will be a practice of the intermediate O.H.A. team to-night at Brock street rink between 7 and 8 o'clock and a full turnout is expected. The following are asked to be out in uniform: Deroeher, Milne, Bond, Heffernan, Ray, Dobson, Sotel, Kelley, Weatherstone, McMillan, Giroux, Marshall, Short, Stewart.

Pete Campbell, who is home from Varsity for the holidays, has come along with a good proposal to the effect that a game should be arranged between the local O.H.A. juniors and a team picked up of old boys home for the Christmas vacation. It would be a good practice for the local Colts and may be arranged. The Old Boys would have a lowgrd line composed of Harry Smith of Royal Military College, Pete Campbell of Varsity and Ken Crane and Hugh Burritt of the Simcoes of Toronto. For the defence Fred Denison of Trinity College school Port Hope, and Norman Geale of Varsity would be available.

Montreal, Dec. 18.—Ottawa College was admitted to the Intercollegiate Hockey League at their annual meeting Saturday afternoon. At the instance of Toronto the League will this season be divided into two sections, as Toronto objected to being compelled to make two trips to Montreal each season. As a result Laval and Ottawa will play home and home games to decide who shall meet the winners of the McGill-Queen's-Varsity series.

In order to avoid difficulties in the playing off of ties it was arranged if Toronto and Queen's tie it shall be played off at Trenton or Peterborough, if between McGill and Queen's at Ottawa, and if between McGill and Toronto at Kingston. In the Laval-Ottawa end the majority of goals in both matches will decide the winner and the same for the play-off between the two sections.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

A SEWING CIRCLE absolutely without gossip! Can you imagine it? Impossible?

No, it exists.

Or did at the moment of writing. I won't vouch for any more than that.

It is at Columbia, Missouri. The by-laws of the society forbid its members to comment on their neighbours' dress, appearance or behaviour. There is a schedule of fines for violations of these laws.

In our Church is a Ladies' Aid Society to which several of the prominent Church women do not belong.

Why?

Oh, just because some one in the society said something about them and someone else kindly repeated the kind words.

Seems to me every woman's aid society in the land ought to adopt that sewing circle's by-laws.

Alice Freeman Palmer, the famous president of Wellesley College, was often troubled by being told when she attempted to trace strange reports and stories to their source that "some girl" had said this or that.

One morning, therefore, she announced at prayers that she had turned "some girl" out of college and did not wish to hear of her again.

Don't you think it would be fine if all "some girl's" older sisters and brothers who infest the world at large could be similarly banished "far beyond the northern sea," or since the northern sea has become attainable, far beyond the southern sea.

If you do, why don't you assist in the banishing?

How?

Why simply by never giving credence to or passing on any story that has for its authority "someone said," or the even more common, "they say."

Everytime you do that you are bringing nearer the day when the death warrant of "some girl" and all her crowd shall be signed.

Visiting gardens is the very distinctive vocation of a Pennsylvania woman. She had been a teacher in the public schools when her health broke down, and she was told by her doctors that she must live an outdoor life. She rented a farm in a suburban district, hired two labourers to help her, and procured engagements to take care of the lawns and gardens of people who did not have hired men, at the rate of fifteen and later twenty cents an hour. On her own farm she raised the shrubs and young plants to supply her customers with. After seven years she is making about one hundred dollars a month. She says there are a great many women earning small salaries in cities, who would be happier and healthier and make more money running farms.

OPENING SERVICES OF KNOX CHURCH WERE CONTINUED YESTERDAY

Eloquent Sermons by Rev. Prof. Law, of Knox College and by Rev. J. D. Morrow, of Dale Presbyterian Church, Toronto---Large Congregations Were Present During the Day.

The services in connection with the opening of the new Knox Presbyterian church were continued yesterday, with very large congregations present at all services throughout the day. The special preachers for the day were Rev. Professor Law of Knox College, who preached in the morning and evening and Rev. J. D. Morrow of Dale Presbyterian church, Toronto, who gave an address to men in the morning and to the Sunday school in the afternoon.

"Because of the Temple of Jerusalem shall kings bring presents unto thee." Psalms 68th, 29th verse.

This was the text taken by Rev. Prof. Law, in the eloquent sermon he preached yesterday morning.

"What is a temple," asked the speaker, "it's not what we understood at one time as a church. A temple is supposed to be the very abode of the deity, it is a gradual outcome of the soul. It appears that God must have a fixed place of abode. To the Pius Julia the temple was none other than the very house of God and the entrance of heaven, spirit can dwell only with spirit. Think of what you are, your memory, your conscience; think of your faculties of love and desire, which God has placed in each of you. The heart hungers for truth and joy and everything shows evidence of the abode of God. The sinner's soul is like a ruined castle, the fox burrows beside the ruins, the raven builds its nest in the old bell tower and so forth, but in the soul, when God sets therein His kingdom, and takes up His abode, there is no more ruin. The question is, does God get a chance to visit His temple in your heart and in mine; does He get a chance to take up His abode there, dear brother? We should pray, no matter what our outward occupation is; that is the glory of spiritual religion. You do not change as your occupation changes. We can take God with us into all our occupations, into our homes, into our business. We should look ahead to the final end. Human life begins in a garden and it ends in a city. Many strange things are told us about this city. We are told that it is a city from which all sorrow and sin has fled away — and again a city without a temple. That seems strange. Imagine, not a single temple. Go up to its gates, enter and walk along its streets. You see no churches, and there is no Sabbaths and no holy days, and as you look more closely, you see that the people are not the same as the ones you have been used to. In fact, everything is different from what you have been used to. But this city is not like a sky without a sun; it is like a sky all of light. Religion is the very atmosphere of the place; it is all in all.

Every market place and every building is a temple. In the new Jerusalem every temple is the Lord's temple. What is the thing that you call religion—not a thing of to-day and not of to-morrow. The spirit of a man manifests itself in every kind of act equally, and a perfectly religious man could not possibly do anything that was not religious. He carries the temple in him and the atmosphere around him. This illustration I have given of a city without a temple is simply an illustration of the Kingdom of God we must see that our business, as Christian men and women, is to build up the kingdom of the Lord and build up the walls of the new Jerusalem. We hear of empire building and all that, but remember that you are the temple, and it is our personal regeneration.

How are we to be temples? We must have it visible for we have not reached the new Jerusalem yet. We are in the flesh and not in the spirit. We are not done with the visible temple yet.

In concluding, Pro. Law asked the question, "Does it matter what a man does on the Sabbath; whether he does something to better his own soul or sits reading a novel or amusing himself in some other way? It makes all the difference in the world, if we want to reach the real temple. Let there be a temple in our hearts; let the word of God be in our hearts. The love of Christ is the centre and means of it all. He knocks to-day at the door of our hearts. Then I say, open your hearts that He may come in."

A special service for men was held in the church at 9.30 in the morning, and a most inspiring address was given by Rev. Mr. Morrow, who has been most successful in his work among men in the city of Toronto. His prowess as an athlete during his college career and his manliness and strength of character pre-eminently fit him for a ministry among men, and his addresses carry with them conviction.

At the children's service in the afternoon, special music was provided by the Sunday school. Rev. Mr. Morrow gave a most helpful address to the school and the friends present.

We positively guarantee, in writing, to refund every cent paid by any student, who, at any time during the first two weeks in our College, will stand in the presence of the class and state that we have misrepresented the facts, or that he or she is dissatisfied with our College or our System. ... ... To Toronto pupils this would hardly be required, as they are in a position to personally investigate, but to out-of-town persons, who are to be pardoned for being somewhat suspicious of the 30-Day shorthand, the above written guarantee will dispel all doubt. Enclose this advertisement for full particulars of an actual cash saving of $75 to $100, and four or five months' time (or wages). Address Moon College, 282-286 Yonge street, Toronto. ... ...

GOOD FELLOWSHIP GUILD MEETING

A successful meeting was held in the Princess Theatre yesterday afternoon under the auspices o fthe League of Good Fellowship. The Rev. C. Carpenter took for his subject, "The Influence of Music." In an interesting address he said that music was inherent in all to some extent; that all nature was full of it. It could be heard in the humming of the insects, in the rustling of the leaves, and in the almost universality pleasing song of the birds. But perhaps more especially in the murmur of the sea. A person living near the sea always finds that the sea's music fits in with that person's moods and feelings. No two days are exactly the same—ever varying, ever cheerful—for all the world like the course of a man's life. Standing on some distant headland the roar of the breakers, sounds like the music of some tremendous choir. There is much more music than we can grasp, but it is possible, in some future time, when free from our present limitations, this great chorus may swell up to our ears in music we can understand. The influence of music is greater than it is possible for us to contemplate. From the earliest times we read of "instruments of music." The Bible speaks often of them, and even the wildest nations have their rude instruments of music to-day, even if it be but the "tom-toms" of Africa. And although these may sound to us, harsh and discordant, we should remember that music is ever changing and that what gave delight to the ancients, would not satisfy us to-day. We can appreciate only what we are educated to appreciate. Music has a fashion, and changes because man's moods are changing. Grand old Gregorian, and other music are not appreciated to-day, but the tendency is rather towards what is called the "barrel-organ" type. Something with a roll and a swing. And as music reflects the condition of the mind, it is deplorable that the rag-time system of music should be so popular, to the neglect of really good music.

Music suffers from the incompetence and the want of feeling of some exponents. A response to the music, deep down in the human heart, is necessary to enable music to accomplish its complete mission. Most of the compositions that have touched humanity are written in the minor key, illustrating the fact that there is much sorrow in the world. Music is the great soother of suffering and sorrow. More sympathy and consolation can be put into the human voice by song than by mere speech. If we are unhappy, some old sweet melody rises in our minds. If we are happy we whistle or sing. Saul, the epileptic, was soothed by music, and even the lower animals are touched by its influence. In the old religious or oratorio music, the pictures of the Bible are brought before the senses so vividly that one feels to be in the presence of a genius.

Composer and executant must be truly great in character to bring out the full influence of good music. Sin mars perfection and sin and music are not compatible. Music appeals to a man's sub-consciousness or his second self, and brings out the best that is in the hidden man.

We must try to interpret the hidden music of nature, and in all reverence, endeavour to reach the mind of our Maker.

A discussion followed. Mr. J. H. Sawers sang "Ora Pro Nobis." Mr. A. Bagstrom accompanied in his usual efficient manner. Next Sunday there will bea Christmas sing-song.

Death List Numbers Four.

London, Dec. 19.—The death roll resulting from a fight between the police and burglars in a Cutler street house Friday night now totals four. This house was occupied by the burglars, who were attempting to make their way into a jewelry store at 110 Houndsditch, when they were surprised by the police.

A fierce exchange of shots resulted, and Sergt. Tucker was killed on the stairway. Sergt. Bentley and Constable Choate were fatally wounded and died in a hospital Saturday, while one of the assailants of the police died in a Whitechapel bakeshop late the same evening.

The occupants of the bakeshop, including several men and one woman, were arrested. They are believed to be the persons who rented the house on Cutler street, which backed on the jewelry store.

An examination of the premises showed that the burglars had tunneled beneath the Harris store, and within a few hours would have been in possession of the booty.

REV. W. C. RIDDIFORD'S SERMON TO BOY SCOUTS

Y. M. C. A. Patrols Attended Park Street Baptist Church Yesterday Morning and Listened to an Eloquent Address Upon Works and Aims of the Organization.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

The members of the Y. M. C. A. Boy Scouts held their first church parade to the Park Street Baptist church yesterday morning, when Rev. W. C. Riddiford, pastor of the church and chaplain of the Boy Scouts, delivered a most interesting and profitable address upon the "Boy Scout Movement, Its Place, Purpose and Power in a Boy's Life". There was a large turnout of the Scouts and they listened most attentively to Rev. Mr. Riddiford's discourse.

The text was I. Peter 2:17: "Fear God, Honour the King; Honour all men. Love the brotherhood."

"I have placed the words of my text thus," remarked the speaker, "in order to coincide with the three parts of our oath, as Scouts. A good Scout will always keep his oath. We shall come to the oath later, so we shall not, at this juncture, take time to discuss its meaning.

Before addressing myself to you, my boy friends of the Y. M. C. A. Scouts, of whom I am justly proud to be your Chaplain, for I would rather be the Chaplain of the Y. M. C. A. Scouts than any other organization in Peterborough.

First, because I believe in boys; second, because I believe the movement and its ideals, if closely followed by you, will make you what God intends all boys to be—Christian gentlemen. And in the third place, I am justly proud of being your Chaplain because I believe with all my heart in the organisation that stands behind you—"The Young Men's Christian Association." And, lastly, I am proud to be your Chaplain because I believe in the sterling Christian manhood of your leaders, Mr. Taite, and Scout-Master Hodges, both Christian gentlemen, and worthy of the trust and respect of anybody. Now, let me forget you boys for a few moments, and tell the parents present, in a few words, just what this movement of ours is.

The Boy Scouts were started in England by General Sir Robert Baden-Powell. He was impressed with the fact that forty-six per cent. of the boys of England were growing up without any knowledge of useful occupations, and wanted to do something that would help the boy to become a useful citizen.

He emphatically stated that his intention was not the making of soldiers, but good, useful, wide-awake citizens. His motive was: "Start the boy right, and the man will be right." So much for the origin of the movement. Just a word as to its aim and purpose. The Boy Scouts is an organisation, the purpose of which is character-building for boys between the years of twelve and eighteen. It is an effort to get boys to appreciate the things about them, and to train them in self-knowledge, self-endurance, and self-control—three very essential things for a boy. "Know thyself" is deeper philosophy than we give it credit for. The boy must know himself. Then he must be made a self-reliant boy, not a dependent babe. And, above all, he should learn as early as possible the eternal value of self control in looks, habits and life. This then, in brief, is the origin, object, and aim of the movement. And now, young gentlemen of the Y. M. C. A. Scouts, I shall talk to you for a little while.

You all know the three parts of the Scouts' oath. Most of you have been in, and I hope you all will be before long. The first clause of the Scouts' oath is: "On my honour I promise that I will do my best; to do my duty to God and my country." Alongside of that, I wish to place the first clause of my text: "Fear God, honour the King."

The second clause reads: "On my honour I promise to help other people at all times." Beside that clause I wish to place "Honour all men." And over against the third clause of the Scouts' oath, which reads "On my honour I promise to obey the Scout law," the third clause of my text, "Love the brotherhood." So now we have these four things. Fear God. Now, that is a right start. A good Scout always fears God. That does not mean that we should be terribly afraid of God. But it does mean that we should so live that our conduct and lives will bring honour and glory to God. We should love God. Because we read in John 3:16 "That God so loved us that He gave His only begotten Son to die for our salvation; that we all, by believing in Jesus Christ, might be eternally saved.

Boys, I beseech of you to put first things first, and the first thing every boy should do is to accept Jesus Christ. That is, become a Christian and join some church. I rejoice to see boys uniting with some church. Do you ask me which one. Let me tell you a story:

During the Civil War in the United States, a soldier boy lost his regiment in the confusion. He stood trembling, undecided and uselessly still, and when General Sheridan came along, he saluted and asked: "Sir, where shall I fall in?"

"Fall in," thundered General Sheridan, "Fall in, why fall in anywhere, there's fighting all along the line." So I shall not tell you where to "fall in" but I just ask you to accept Jesus Christ as your Saviour, and then fall in somewhere—in some church, some Sunday school, some Bible class; for there's fighting all along the line.

Then our text says: "Honour all men. That is, help all men. It is in keeping with the second clause of our oath. As Scouts you are duty bound upon your honor, to do one good deed a day. Either to man or beast. If you see a man abusing a horse, scout around till you get his name and street address; inform your officers, and we will see that the abuse is stopped. If you see a bully of a boy abusing another boy, in an unhuman manner, inform upon him, and your officers will bring him to task.

Ah, there are ten thousand ways you can help. Opportunities for doing good lay all around us. Don't waste your time; yes, God's time, looking for golden opportunities, take advantage of the cast-iron, every-day ones around you. Play the man at all times.

Then, "Love the Brotherhood." That is being true to the Scout Law. The highest law in the world is the law of God. Honour the King. Honour all men. You will love the Brotherhood; that means every Scout, no matter what his social standing or creed.

The Scout movement knows no creed; it is for all, and religious friction should not be tolerated.

Love for God;
Love for King and country;
Love for all men;
Love for each other.

That is the standard to which I invite you young men to live up to. Don't lower your standard. Remember you are called to be Christian gentlemen first. Let your standard of living be the life of Jesus Christ, the best boy who ever lived. During an engagement a regiment of Irish Fusiliers were ordered to charge a certain position of the enemy. Up the hill they climbed, but the fire was too deadly and they were ordered to retire.

They obeyed, but as they were falling back, they heard the voice of their drummer boy crying "Boys, help me!" They thought he was afraid, and shouted back, "You come down," but he replied, "I can not, you must come up to me, for I am shot through both legs." Up the hill again went those fighting Irishmen, and not only reached the brave boy, but won the day.

Boys, never lower the standard of holy living. When other boys say "come down to our level" you reply, even though you die at duty's post, "No, I can't come down, you will have to come up to me," and thus by your faithfulness to the right you will not only rise to higher things yourself, but bring others with you.

HOW THIN FOLKS CAN GET FLESHY

New Accidental Discovery Gives Startling Results—Puts Flesh on Thin People and Rounds Out Imperfect Figures.

Simple Prescription Given.

For women—and men too, for that matter—who can never appear stylish with anything they wear, because of abnormal thinness and angularity, this remarkable prescription is destined to solve the problem. As a beauty maker for the figure it is simply wonderful while it adds brightness to the eyes, and colour to the cheeks and lips. It requires no particular dieting, but acts as an aid to nature by its peculiar action on the nerves and blood supply. The blood and nerves distribute over the body, all the nourishment or flesh building elements obtained from the food. The trouble with thin people has always been that they do not absorb or retain enough of the fleshy matter to make them gain in weight even to a normal extent; but this new discovery of blending certain harmless drugs is a revelation to science, and hundreds have gained from ten to forty pounds in a few weeks. There is no danger of becoming too fat. When you get the right weight then stop using.

The general health and strength is greatly improved in anyone from the age of sixteen to sixty. Women soon get plump, with well rounded arms and full bust, and men become straight, strong-looking and healthy.

In a half pint bottle get three ounces of essence of pepsin and three ounces syrup of rhubarb. Then add one ounce compound essence cardiol, shake and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom). Take a teaspoonful before and after meals, and weigh before beginning.

SPLENDID DEBATE

Smith Farmers' Club is Making Great Progress

The Central Smith Farmers' Club held their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening last. The feature of the evening was a debate on, "Resolved, that the heavy horse is more profitable to raise than the light horses." The leader of the affirmative side was Mr. Wm. Telford and the leader of the negative was Mr. Joseph Tully. The negative won. A representative of the club called at the Examiner on Saturday and stated that the membership of the club was increasing encouragingly and they were progressing well. The club was organised a year ago under the presidentship of Mr. T. H. Graham and is flourishing. The following is the programme for the rest of the winter:

January meeting. Discussion on "Orchard work and rural mail delivery."
February, "Construction of Silos."
March, "Poultry."
April, "Dairying."

DAVID LITHGOE

Who comes to "The Grand" next week in "Annie Laurie"

"ANNIE LAURIE."

"Maxwelton braes are bonnie,
Where early falls the dew,
And its there that Annie Laurie
Gave me her promise true."

As the beautiful strains of Mr. Douglas' song float through the window of the gloomy old prison to the sweet Scotch lassie on the outside, the audience sits in wrapt silence, their better natures stirred to their very depths, and as the song softly dies away a tear can be seen to fall from many an eye for one touch of nature makes the whole world akin. Every drop of Scotch blood within you tingles and you are once more back among the scenes of other days in the land of the heather.

Such is the play "Annie Laurie," M. Douglas Flattery's powerful romantic comedy drama, which comes to the Grand on Thursday next with its wealth of scenery and magnificent costumes and a cast of players second to none, among whom Mr. David Lithgoe is the bright particular star. Possessed of a fine physique and a handsome face, combined with a beautiful voice which he uses to the best advantage in all the stirring scenes of the play and when he renders the song "Annie Laurie" in the great prison scene mentioned above it is then that you feel like standing up in the theatre and shouting "Bravo! well done."

A TRIBUTE TO MRS. EDDY

Written by One Who Has Been Closely in Touch with Late Leader of Christian Science Movement

The following tribute by Mrs. Annie M. Knott, associate editor of Christian Science publications, personal student of Mrs. Eddy, former member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, and a teacher of Christian Science, appears in the Christian Science Monitor:

It is the testimony of Holy Writ that love is stronger than death and at the hour Christian Scientists are proving the truth of the inspired saying. Their beloved and revered Leader, Mary Baker Eddy, has left the earthly scene of her untiring activity in the service of God and humanity, and in the solemn hush which follows their human sense of loss they realise as never before the depths of their love for this noble and true-hearted woman whose life of devotion to Truth has meant so much to unnumbered thousands of lives that were in deepest darkness, until the light of Christian Science dawned upon them. Poorly indeed would they prove their understanding of her teachings did they at this hour yield to any unreasoning sense of sorrow. Mrs. Eddy has ever insisted that God, not man, is "the centre and circumference of being," the Principle and Life of all, and to this eternal fact they will cling until the goal of spiritual being is reached, and the deathless life proved by Christ Jesus is attained. Mrs. Eddy's discovery of the healing and saving power of divine Truth was brought to a densely materialistic age, but in spite of this it has aroused mankind to lay hold upon all that the Bible promises. To-day, after nearly half a century of arduous and unselfish toil on her part, the Scriptures are a mighty, life-giving power to multitudes who before the coming of Christian Science knew them only as the letter that killeth.

With the temperament of a seer, Mrs. Eddy has always chosen to be alone with God in pondering the solution of the great problems of being, and as a result of her communings with the Mind that governs the universe she has shown the utmost wisdom in directing the activities of the rapidly-extending Christian Science movement, its success being due to her wonderful ability so to present the truth as to inspire those about her with something of her own faith in God and her sublime courage in working for the triumph of good over evil in every phase of human experience. Her followers can now do no less than defend the heritage of truth which she has left them, until it sets all men free.

Mrs. Eddy has glorified the teachings of Christ Jesus in making them a living power to-day as truly as 1900 years ago, and to her belong His words of commendation: "Well done, good and faithful servant. . . enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

WAGES CASE IN POLICE COURT

"I don't know whether I got $2.00 worth or not," said Oscar Cromie, in the Police Court this morning, when charged with fighting and being disorderly in a hotel yard on Saturday. He pleaded guilty to the charge, and the question was asked did he get $2.00 worth out of the fellow he was fighting with, hence the above statement. He paid the $2.00 fine anyhow.

Mary Armow, head waitress at a local hotel, brought suit against the proprietor for $36, being two months wages. Judgment was given her for the $36, after a lot of complicated evidence had been given on both sides. W. H. Moore appeared for the plaintiff, while G. W. Hatton appeared for the defendant.

Miss Armow told her story first. She said that she had been employed in Toronto as waitress in an hotel but never acted in the capacity of head waitress. The proprietor and his wife came to Toronto and interviewed her and hired her. She stated that she told them that she had not acted as head waitress before, but they hired her just the same. She commenced on Thanksgiving Day.

Another waitress at the hotel was then called. She said that Miss Armow had not done her work right, and that she was always quarrelling with the girls; in fact she said all the girls were bad friends with her. She stated that the proprietor had given her ten days notice to quit at two different times and she had still continued.

Another waitress was put in the box and gave evidence, which corroborated the former's statement.

The proprietor's wife was called. She said that Miss Armow had not quited them at all, and that they had given her notice to quit, which she did not do.

It appears that when she did quit they wanted to pay her off with a month and a half's wages, $25.50, the time she worked. She claimed two months' wages, $36.00, and this was awarded to her by the court.

SHE IS YOUNG AT FIFTY

This is said of the woman whose blood is rich and red and whose complexion has the natural healthful glow. You can restore the healthful colour of the skin by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, because it actually forms new, red blood. The form is rounded out by firm, healthy flesh, serious and torturing kidney and bladder trouble by the use of this great medicine.

THE FIRST MEN

Prof. Boyd Dawkins Says They Appeared in the Ice Age, Which Was of Vast Duration

Evidence tending to prove that man first appeared on the earth in the glacial epoch was marshalled by Prof. Boyd Dawkins in a lecture in London, England.

The view of the higher antiquity of man based on the discovery of chipped flints in earlier ages, he pointed out, has been rendered untenable, as it can be proved that these forms can be, and, indeed, have been, produced by natural agencies. The skull and thigh-bone found by M. Dubois in a river deposit of the Ice Age at Trinil, in Java, in 1894, Prof. Dawkins regarded as belonging to a real precursor of man, not only appearing at a point in the geological history where it was to be expected, but in a tropical region, taken by Lord Avebury and others to have been the birthplace of the human race.

In Europe, continued the professor, there is ample evidence of the existence of the river-drift man and of the cave-dwellers in the caverns and in the river valleys of the Glacial Age over the whole region between the Mediterranean and the Baltic. Europe in the Ice Age was invaded dry-shod by the earliest men from the south by way of Gibraltar and Sicily. The climate then was Continental in character, with cold winters and hot summers.

The river-drift man's implements mark his existence in North Africa, Palestine, Arabia, and India, and over the south and middle zones of Europe as far north as Yorkshire, crossing on foot from Germany and France.

The cave-man, marking an advance in culture, lived almost wholly in the regions north of the Alps and Pyrenees, and his weapons are found north of Yorkshire. The cave-men probably came into Europe from and retreated into Northern Asia at the close of the Ice Age.

The Ice Age was undoubtedly of vast duration, and the antiquity of man is correspondingly great; but, concluded the professor, "the more minutely I examine the events that have taken place since man appeared in Europe the more profoundly am I impressed with the vastness of his antiquity and with the futility of any attempts to compute it in terms of years."

A LONELY VIGIL

The Son of a Scottish Baronet Died on Little Barrier Island, off New Zealand

The story of a woman's lonely vigil by her dead husband on a desert island comes from New Zealand, the information being brought from Little Barrier Island by the Government steamer Hinemoa. The Little Barrier is one of the Government sanctuaries for native birds, and is guarded from the ravages of poachers by a caretaker appointed by the Tourist Department of New Zealand. There are no other inhabitants of the island, which has no communication with the mainland. Mr. Hunter Blair was the caretaker, and with his wife, lived on the island for some months. Mr. Blair, who had been in delicate health, died on the night of Wednesday, September 21. His wife watched the body for two days in the hope that some ship would call at the island, on which she was now the sole resident. Thursday and Friday passed without any sign of callers, and on Saturday morning Mrs. Blair made the necessary preparations for the performance of the last offices of the dead. Mrs. Blair, who was naturally much affected by the severe trial to which she was subjected, remained at the lonely habitation with no company save the birds, till Monday evening, when the Hinemoa arrived. She went on to Auckland, to join her friends in Wellington. Mr. Hunter Blair was fifty-two years of age. He was the third son of the late Sir Edward Hunter-Blair Bart., Ayrshire, Scotland.

KOEPENICK AGAIN

The Prussian Town That Was Victimised Furnishes Another Startling Episode

Within three days of the fourth anniversary of the immortal exploit of the spurious captain, the little town of Koepenick in Prussia has been once more shaken out of its suburban repose by a strange drama of misused authority. In this case insanity, and not crime, was the actuating force.

For forty-five years, Wilhelm Doerdel, station-master of Koepenick, had performed faithful and constant services on the Prussian State Railways, but a few weeks ago his health broke down, and his doctor ordered him a change of scene. The other morning, when his leave had still some days to run, he reappeared at the station and resumed control over the arrangements. His subordinates now remember that his manner was strange and his orders a little perplexing, but the day passed without any critical development.

Towards midnight, however, Doerdel, who had retired to rest, emerged from his official residence, very imperfectly attired, and wandered restlessly about the station till he found a ticket collector, whom he at once set to abusing with great vehemence for having "joined the French railway strike." One by one he tackled all his subordinates who were still on duty with the same accusation, and told them that as soon as he had taken the steps necessary to counteract the effects of their treachery, he intended to commit his complaint against them to paper and forward it to the Emperor without delay.

The staff of the station was at first completely nonplussed, but it gradually dawned upon them that their chief had taken leave of his senses, and they made efforts to precipitate him and induce him to retire to bed once more. Their persuasions, however, only heightened his mania, and the situation became really grave when he began to rush about, shouting crazy orders, which he declared were necessary to remove the disorder in the traffic occasioned by the strike.

Fortunately, a police sergeant, who happened to be at hand, possessed not only presence of mind, but also ingenuity. Procuring a sheet of foolscap paper, he approached the demented stationmaster, and urged upon him the necessity of drawing up a report on the strike for the Emperor before the movement had spread further. At the same time, he pointed out that the place where he would be least likely to be disturbed in his work by the molestations of the strikers would undoubtedly be the famous Town Hall. The unhappy stationmaster fell readily into this trap, and allowed himself to be conducted thither. Though he calmed down after being placed under restraint, it has been found necessary to consign him to the local asylum.

EXILED JESUITS

From Portugal Buy Health Resort and Will Manufacture Cordials

The Jesuits who came to England in great numbers from Portugal since the flight of King Manuel, have definitely shaken the dust of England off their feet after selecting Tyrol as their future place of abode. With money secretly sent out of Portugal and deposited in London, they have besides, bought the well-known health resort Mittlewald, in Kaernton, from Baroness Long, to whose order a cheque for a very large amount was paid by a London bank the other day, while another was drawn payable to the Hungarian Count, Iwan Batthyany, who has disposed of his large castle at Schlain, in Hungary, to the Jesuits, who will here carry on the manufacture of cordials with financial assistance from the Hungarian nobility. The new cordials will be on sale all over the world in about two months.

FARMERS' BANK CLOSES ITS DOORS AND PAYMENTS HAVE BEEN SUSPENDED

Manager Travers Notifies Toronto Clearing House That the Institution Cannot Pay Its Balance of $20,000 ---Creditor to be Named.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—The Farmers' Bank of Canada, with head office in the Stair Building, corner of Adelaide and Bay streets, this city, suspended payment at three o'clock yesterday afternoon.

At three p.m. yesterday W. R. Travers, general manager of the Farmers' Bank of Canada, notified the clearing house, in writing, that his bank would not be able to pay its balance, which was $20,000. Hence the bank closed its doors.

As to the clearing-house, its members will be called together to-day and all the items cleared from the Farmers' Bank of Canada yesterday will be sent back to the banks sending them in, and these banks will return them to their original holders. The situation will then be as if the clearing had not taken place.

To-day the Bankers' Association will come into the situation and will appoint a curator for the Farmers' Bank of Canada, under the provision of the Banking Act, which reads:

"The (bankers') association shall, if a bank suspends payment in specie or Dominion notes of its liabilities as they accrue, forthwith appoint a curator to supervise the affairs of such bank."

Duncan Coulson, vice-president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, Toronto, was notified of the suspension of the bank yesterday afternoon, and, said: "The Bankers' Association will appoint a curator to-morrow." He could not say who the curator could be. It is said elsewhere that a prominent member of the staff of the Bank of Commerce would be put in charge of the suspended bank. John Knight, secretary of the Bankers' Association, left Montreal last night for Toronto.

Why did the bank suspend payment?

The press saw General Manager W. R. Travers at his beautiful home, 20 East Roxborough street, last night, and asked him, "Why did your bank close its doors?"

Mr. Travers, without heat, but with careful deliberation, replied, "The remarks of Judge Harding from the bench at Lindsay, where three employees of the Farmers' Bank are on trial for conspiracy, were so damaging to the credit of the Farmers' Bank that confidence waned, and throughout the province among our 28 branches, the notices of demand for funds on the part of depositors were so great that we saw that to be fair to all and to give preference to no creditors, it was necessary for us to suspend payment.

"However, I expect that the ill-advised remarks and the unstalled for criticism of Judge Harding, in the Lindsay case, has precipitated the situation so far as the Farmers' Bank is concerned, and its doors are closed."

"If you were given a free hand could you pull the bank out?" Mr. Travers was asked.

"If I am given a chance," replied he, "to take care of the assets of the bank, and especially of the Keeley mine, which I understand and highly value, I can pay 100 cents on the dollar and have a profit."

"What I would like would be ninety days of hard work, in co-operation with the curator, in order that the Farmers' Bank might resume business. If I am given some latitude, with my intimate knowledge of the assets of the bank, I know that within the ninety days I could straighten things out and have sufficient funds on hand to pay every creditor. My ambition is to put the bank into such shape that it can resume its position."

LINDSAY CONSPIRACY CHARGE IS DROPPED

Messrs. McGill, Coulter and Fleury Are Honourably Acquitted From Conspiracy Charge---Crown Decided Not to Press the Case.

Lindsay, Dec. 20.—A. B. McGill, former manager, and J. L. Coulter and J. J. Fleury, ex-employes of the Farmers' Bank of this town, were yesterday afternoon declared not guilty of the charge of conspiring to defraud the bank. The verdict followed upon the announcement of N. F. Davidson, K.C., who has been acting for the prosecution, of the intention of the authorities not to press the case.

Mr. Davidson, after stating the new facts that developed in the case during its progress, and the effect of the adverse rulings of the court as to evidence necessary to prove the crown's case, proceeded to say:

"This puts the case in a position where I considered it my duty to discuss the whole situation with the attorney-General's Department when in Toronto, and I am now free to exercise my best discretion on the whole situation and to adopt the only course which seems reasonable and proper."

After very fully and carefully outlining the exact position of the crown and detailing the effect of the rejection of certain evidence and of some newer evidence that developed, Mr. Davidson concluded:

"I therefore take the responsibility of offering in further evidence in any of the courts, and of now consenting on behalf of the crown, to a verdict of not guilty being returned and being forthwith entered upon the records of this court."

M. K. Cowan, K. C., who with Thos. Stewart of Lindsay, represented the defendants, asked leave to make a few remarks, which the judge permitted.

Mr. Cowan began to review the evidence of the crown and to call attention to its alleged weakness, and when Mr. Davidson interrupted and called attention to the unprecedented action, stating that the crown would not have consented to withdraw the case if it had known that the counsel for the defence would have referred to the matter in such a way.

Judge Harding said the verdict was being recorded by the clerk, and he saw no reason why Mr. Cowan should not be allowed to make a few remarks. His honor also made a few observations after directing the jury to acquit the prisoners. He said the defendants left the court without any stain on their characters. Then he spoke of the honesty of all the witnesses save one, and particularly emphasized "the honest frankness" of Chief Accountant Fitzgibbon.

Had a Bad Temper.

Goderich, Dec. 20.—That the said John F. Vanstone came to his death by beating at the hands of his father, George Vanstone, before 10 o'clock on the night of Dec. 15, in the Town of Goderich."

This was the verdict rendered by the jury after fifteen minutes' deliberation yesterday afternoon, after hearing the evidence into the murder of Freddie Vanstone, who was beaten to death with a broomstick by his father.

Since George Vanstone has been imprisoned in the jail here for the murder of his little son Freddie he seems to be entirely indifferent to the awful position he is in. He is unconcerned with visitors, and has eaten hearty meals and slept well ever since his incarceration last Thursday night. The officials of the jail say that the man is absolutely not responsible for his terrible crime, or else he would act otherwise.

Popular opinion, however, is against Vanstone; everyone thinks that he was not goaded on to commit the crime by an insane frenzy, but was influenced entirely by his temper. Men in the neighborhood had frequently been called in before the day of the tragedy to remonstrate with the husband in one of these tantrums, but could do nothing with the man. The sounds of screaming children and of blows were common sounds issuing from the house.

Fishing Schooner Wrecked.

Rockland, Maine, Dec. 20.—The Boston fishing schooner Mariana was wrecked on Bay Ledges, near the Fox Islands Sunday night, and is a total loss. The crew of fifteen men, including Capt. Edward Bishop, put off in five dories, and after coming ten miles, reached here yesterday.

Drowned in Bath Tub.

Easton, Pa., Dec. 20—Irwin S. Uhler, a member of the Northampton County Bar, was found drowned in the bathtub in his home here Sunday night. Mr. Uhler was a cripple and is supposed to have fallen into the tub while preparing to take a bath.

Acquitted an Infant.

Victoria, B.C., Dec. 20.—Andrew Madsevitch was charged with assault at the Police Court yesterday morning on behalf of a four months old infant, which had kept him awake all night. He was bound over to keep the peace toward the child.

P.A.Y.E. System Must Go.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—Abolition of the P.A.Y.E. system was the result of yesterday's meeting of the Ontario Railway Board with representatives of the Toronto Railway Co. and the city. The company agreed to the board's suggestion that the new system should be continued only on the large new cars that have the proper receptacle for fares until, on a month's time the board can take evidence respecting a suitable style of car for a standard for the Toronto service, the city and the company engineers to consult together in the meantime.

The company also met with a reverse in the criminal courts when the grand jury of the Sessions Court returned an indictment charging neglect and maintaining a common nuisance, growing out of the killing of two small boys recently and the overcrowded cars generally.

Auto Fee Goes Up.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—The Provincial Secretary's Department has increased the license fee for automobiles from $2 to $4 a year. The increase will go into effect on Jan. 1 next, and, including tourists' machines, will apply to nearly 7,000 motorists. The increase is due partly to the tardiness shown by many owners in renewing their fees each year. The markers were unchanged from year to year, and detection was thus more difficult. By the new regulations the fee of $4 will include two new markers which will be of enamel and a different color from those of the previous year. The extra fee will apply only to renewals, for under the old regulations it costs $4 when the car was first registered and given a number.

For Resolving Patent Changes.

Berlin, Dec. 20.—The Government yesterday introduced in the Reichstag an amendment to the law of patents, by which the authorities are given power to rescind a patent after three years, in the event that the article is manufactured chiefly outside Germany or the colonies.

A provision of the amendment makes it possible for the authorities to compel a patentee to license another person to develop his patent, should the holder not make use of it himself.

Must Not Discriminate.

Boston, Dec. 20.—Judge Richardson of the Superior Court yesterday decided that the superintendent of public buildings of Boston in awarding contracts has no right to discriminate in favor of a firm which employs only union labor, and has enjoined the carrying out of a contract given to a firm not the lowest bidder.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

THE lady and her husband were househunting.

Chancing to be calling at an apartment and to be taking my leave just as the lady interviewed the janitor on the front steps, I, of necessity, overheard this scrap of conversation.

Janitor—"So you think you'll take it. And how many are there in your family?"

The lady—"Five—my husband, myself and three children."

And what sort of an apartment do you think they had been looking at? A seven room affair in a big city block, with no piazza and no yard—absolutely nothing but the street for the children's playground.

Furthermore with but seven rooms, of course there could have been no nursery and not even a separate bedroom for those children.

Aren't you sorry for those unlucky babies?

I am—and for all the little ones whose fathers and mothers do not realize that they owe it to the lives they have brought into the world to give them a normal, healthy place to develop.

I recently did a little househunting for a friend of mine, and found a state of affairs which impressed me deeply.

This was it. Plenty of big, comfortable, comparatively old fashioned houses with ample space about them for garden or playground, just going abegging at low rents, while little six and seven room apartments were being snapped up at several dollars a month more.

Of course the apartments had "all the modern conveniences"—electric lights, open plumbing, gas ranges, etc. (In fact, in several of them the old fashioned stove had been completely ousted by the gas range. I suppose it is absurdly old fashioned and non-progressive of me, but I must say that to take the stove out of the kitchen seems to me kind of like taking the heart out of the home.)

Also of course, these apartments were much daintier and more attractive, had prettier wall paper, hard wood floors and were altogether capable of being fixed up more prettily than the big houses.

For young couples or for families of grown ups I'll admit they made most desirable nests.

But for people with children, I think they were impossible — I had almost said criminal.

The kind of people that cant be satisfied anywhere except in such a prolligated existence are the kind of people who sh'ould not have children.

I believe that all fathers and mothers owe it to their children to select homes where the children, if possible, will each have separate bedrooms, where if possible there will be a big airy nursery or indoor playroom, and where it shall surely be possible for them to have plenty of opportunity for outdoor life, even if some sacrifices have to be made to find this sort of home.

When the owner of some big apartment house makes a rule excluding children, the press usually gets wildly excited over this "premium upon race suicide."

Personally I think it's a mighty good move although actuated of course by a selfish motive.

If people with children don't have sense enough to stay out of such places I'm glad there is something to keep them out.

But I wish they'd have the sense of themselves.

"ASHTON-KIRK, INVESTIGATOR"

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

Pendleton gazed with sober eyes into the speaker's face for a moment. Then he said:

"Let us get the cab; if you are to go over Hume's rooms before dark you haven't any too much time."

At the next corner they signaled a taxicab, and in a short time they were set down in Christie Place. Paulson, the policeman, was standing guard.

"How are you?" he greeted them affably.

"Been here all day?" asked Ashton-Kirk.

"Oh, no. Just come on. I'm the third shift since I saw you last."

"Nobody has been permitted to go upstairs, I presume?"

"Only the coroner's men who came for the body. And they touched nothing but the body. Our orders were strong on that."

"Has anything been heard as the result of the post-mortem?"

"It showed that Hume was in bad shape from too much drink. Then he had a hard knock on the head, and the wound in his chest."

"But there was no sign of a bullet wound?"

"No," said Paulson, surprised. Nothing like that."

"Just a moment," said the investigator to Pendleton. He crossed the street, walked along for a few paces then paused at the curb and looked back toward Hume's doorway. Then he returned with quick steps and an alert look in his eyes.

"Now we'll go upstairs," he said.

But before doing so he stopped and examined the lock of the street door closely; then he mounted the stairs slowly, his glances seeming to take in everything. At the top he paused, his head bent, apparently in deep thought. Then he lifted it suddenly, and laughed exultantly.

"That's it," he said, "I'm quite sure that is it."

"I wouldn't doubt your word for an instant," said Pendleton, in something like his old voice. "Whatever it is, I'm quite sure it is if you say so."

The policeman on guard in the hall examined them carefully.

"All right," said he, after they had explained and he had verified it by calling to his mate at the street door. "Go right to work, gents. I'm here to see that nobody get in from above by way of the scuttle, and I guess I won't be in the way."

There were three gas branches at intervals along the length of the dim hall, each with a cluster of four jets. Ashton-Kirk lighted all three of these and began making a careful examination of the passage. Along toward the rear was a stairway leading to the floor above. Next this was a small room, in which there was a water tap. At the extreme end of the hall was a window with a green shade drawn to the bottom.

Ashton-Kirk regarded this for a moment intently. Then he reached up and turned off the gas at the branch nearest the window. Daylight could now be seen through the blind; the investigator pointed and said:

"This shows us something. About six inches of the bottom of the blind is of a decidedely lighter colour than the remainder. This is caused by exposure to the light and indicates that this blind has seldom been drawn in daylight as it is now."

He drew back the blind and looked at the side nearest the window. At the top of the faded space was a heavy dark line.

"I'll modify that last statement," said he, with satisfaction. "I'll go as far as to say, now, that the blind has never been drawn since it was put up. This thick line marks the part that lay across the top of the roller, and the dust seems never to have been disturbed."

The gas was lighted once more.

"Hume did not draw that curtain," said Ashton-Kirk, decidedly. "He was too careless a man, apparently, to think of such a thing. The intruders, whoever they were, did it; they had a light, perhaps, and did not want to be—"

He paused abruptly here, and Pendleton heard him draw his breath sharply between his teeth; his eyes were fixed upon the lowermost step of the flight that led to the floor above.

One of the gas branches hung here; its full glare was thrown down over it. Following the fixed gaze of his friend, Pendleton saw two partly burned matches, the stump of a candle, and some traces of tallow which had fallen from the latter upon the step. To Pendleton's amazement his friend dropped to his knees before these as a heathen would before an idol. With the utmost attention he examined them and the step upon which they lay. Then he arose, enthusiasm upon his face.

"Beautiful!" he cried. "I do not recall ever having seen anything just like it!" He slapped Pendleton upon the back with a heavy hand. "Pen, that stump of candle sheds more light than the finest arc lamp ever manufactured."

"I'm watching and I'm listening" spoke Pendleton. "Also I'm agitating my small portion of gray matter. But inspiration, it seems, is not for me. So I'll have to ask you what these things tell you."

"Well, they give me a fairly good view of the man who, while he may not actually have murdered Hume, had much to do with his taking off. He bent over the lower step once more, then looked up with a smile upon his face. "What would you say," asked he, "if I told you that I draw from these things that the gentleman was short, well-dressed, near-sighted and knew something of the modern German dramatists."

"I should say," replied Pendleton, firmly, "that you ought to have your brain looked at. It sounds wrong to me."

Ashton-Kirk laughed, and started up the stairs toward the third floor. "I'll return in a moment," he said. "Don't trouble to come up."

He was gone but a very little while, and when he returned his face wore a satisfied look.

"The bolt of the scuttle is broken, just as Osborne said," he reported. "And anyone who could gain the roof would have little difficulty in effecting an entrance." He led the way down the hall, saying as he went: "Now we'll browse around in the rooms for a while; then we'll be off to dinner."

The storage room was entered first as upon the earlier visit, but Ashton-Kirk wasted but little time upon it. In the front room, however, he examined things with a minuteness that amazed Pendleton. And yet everything was done quickly; like a keen-nosed hound, the investigator went from one object to another; nothing seemed to escape him, nothing was too small for his attention. One of the first things that he did was to get a chair and plant it against the lettered door that led directly into the hall. At the top was a gong with a spring-hammer, one of the sort that rings its warning whenever the door is opened; and this the investigator examined with care.

He then passed into the railed space where the body had lain and where the darkened trail of blood still bore ghastly testimony to what had occurred. The man's singular eyes scanned the floor, the walls, the flat-topped desk. On this last his attention again became riveted; and once more Pendleton heard his breath drawn sharply between his teeth.

"When Hume was struck upon the head," said Ashton-Kork, after a moment, "he was standing at this desk. He had just sprung up, probably upon hearing a sound of some kind. See where the chair is pushed back against the wall, just as he would have pushed it had he arisen hastily. When he was struck he fell across the desk." He pointed to a dark trickle of blood down the back of the piece of furniture in question. "That is the result of the blow upon the head, and probably flowed from the mouth or nostrils. After the first senseless lurch the body settled back and slid to the position in which it was found. Here is a blotting pad, a small pair of shears, a box of clips and a letter scale upon the floor where the sliding body dragged them. The top of the desk is of polished wood; it is perfectly smooth; there are no crevices or anything of the sort to catch hold of anything. When the body slipped from it, it must have swept everything with it, cleanly. And yet," bending forward over the desk and picking up a minute blue particle, "here, directly in the centre, we find this."

"What is it?" asked Pendleton, eagerly.

Ashton-Kirk placed the blue particle on his palm and held it out. It was shaped like a key-stone, and had apparently been cut from something that had been printed upon.

"It is that portion of a railroad ticket which a conductor's punch bites out, and which litters the floor and the seats in trains. Have you never had one fall from your clothes after a railroad journey?"

Pendleton looked at the tiny blue fragment, and then at the desk.

"If Hume fell across the desk, as you've just said," he remarked, slowly, "and pulled all these other things to the floor with him—why, Kirk, this bit of card, in the very centre of the polished top,—it must have dropped there afterwards."

"Exactly," said Ashton-Kirk. 'And now, if you don't mind, just step out into the hall and ask Paulson to come up."

Pendleton did so; and while he was gone, Ashton-Kirk placed the blue fragment carefully in his card-case. When the other re-entered with Paulson at his heels, he asked:

"Have any of the policemen detailed here been out of town recently?"

"No," replied Paulson. "There have been five besides myself, and they have been on duty every day."

"Thank you," said the investigator. And as the policeman went out, he made his way into the kitchen. Here, however, his examination was brief, as was that of the bedroom also. At length he paused, his hands in his pockets, his head thrown back, satisfaction lighting his dark, keen face.

"That is all, I think," said he. "There have only been a few pages, but the print has been exceedingly good and the matter of much interest." He looked at a clock that ticked solemnly upon a shelf. "We have half an hour to reach my place and dress," he said. "I'm afraid that we'll be late, and that Edmund will be aggrieved. His cookery is so exquisitely timed that it is scarcely the better for delay."

"Wait a minute," said Pendleton, grasping his friend's arm. "What part did Edyth—Miss Vale—play in all this? I can see you have formed in your mind some sort of completed action. Where does she come into it?"

"Completed!" Ashton-Kirk smiled into the pale, set face of his friend. "You give me too much credit, old chap. I have some undoubted scenes from the drama; but most of the remainder are merely detached lines, and bits of stage business. As to Miss Vale," here the smile vanished "I have been unable to make up my mind just how far she is concerned, if at all. However, perhaps twenty-four hours will make it all clear enough. In the meantime I will say this to you: Don't jump to harsh conclusions, Pen. You know this young lady well. How far do you suppose she would go to the perpetrating of a downright crime?"

"Not a step!" answered Pendleton, promptly.

"Then," said Ashton-Kirk, "until we know positively that she has done so, stick to that."

You Can Work Near a Window

In winter when you have a Perfection Oil Heater. It is a portable radiator which can be moved to any part of a room, or to any room in a house. When you have a

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

you do not have to work close to the stove, which is usually far from the window. You can work where you wish, and be warm. You can work on dull winter days in the full light near the window, without being chilled to the bone.

The Perfection Oil Heater quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap, put in like a cork in a bottle, is attached by a chain. This heater has a cool handle and a damper top.

The Perfection Oil Heater has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged and can be unscrewed in an instant for rewicking. The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

More Deadly Than The Plague

The Common Cold is Held Responsible For a Multitude of Human Ills.

Colds kill more people than plagues. When not avoided they can often be hurried from the system by keeping the filtering and excretory organs active.

Many write us that nothing helps them to so quickly get rid of a cold as Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. This is because these pills act directly on the liver, kidneys and bowels, and promptly arouse their activity.

The poisonous matter which collects with every cold is quickly removed from the system before it has time to cause trouble or give rise to other derangements.

If misfortune in the form of a cold should overtake you do not give it a chance to attack the lungs or to settle on the kidneys. Get rid of it quickly by using Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills.

Mr. J. H. Gibbard, Mission City, B. C., writes—"We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills for the last year, and think they are just the thing as a family medicine. My wife had been sick for nearly two years with torpid liver and kidney complaint. Sometimes she was so bad she had to go to bed for two or three weeks at a time, and she suffered dreadfully.

"Hearing of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, she decided to use them, and has been improving ever since. She is never sick a day now, so we believe the cure permanent. I have been greatly benefitted myself by this treatment for kidney trouble."

Young Girl Suspended—Breaks Edict in Stockton High School

Special to The Examiner.

STOCKTON, DEC. 20.—With the suspension of the daughter of a prominent family of this city from the local High School, excitement reached fever pitch among the girls who have often given an ultimatum that they must cease wearing false curls or stay away from classes.

Principal Ansel Williams, it is alleged, stated to-day that unless many of the girls cease to dress so conspicuously there will be a general suspension. Only a few of the faint-hearted girls have amended their style of dress, however, and claim that Principal Williams is overstepping his authority.

The girl suspended asserts that she will not return to school unless the other girls are compelled to relinquish their false ringlets.

The Touch Master

You cannot tell off-hand what it is that imparts to dress that much desired element called style. You recognize it when you see it and you often wonder why it is that a garment made by one tailor has so much more snap and expression about it than the same style of garment made by another tailor. It isn't the quality of the goods. It isn't the mere following the outlines of a figure on a fashion plate. Tailoring is something more than that, and the true tailor, like the true musician, realizes that it is his master touch that produces the harmony that inspires admiration.

BUSY HAIRDRESSERS

They are Trying to Create a Really New Fashion in Honor of the Coronation

The leading hairdressers of London are determined to produce a remarkable Coronation coiffure for next year, when it is hoped that a British design will lead the fashion.

The scheme was mooted a few days ago at an international hairdressing competition, and further elaborations of the idea will be made at various meetings which the Hairdressers' Guild will hold shortly.

Mr. Unwin, of Albert and Unwin, Regent Street, the president of the Hairdressers' Guild, gave full details of the proposed scheme.

"As you are aware, the Hairdressers' Guild endeavor to promote and establish genuine English fashions," he said, "and we hope that in afew years' time the excellence of workmanship in London will be more fully recognised that at the present moment.

"Many of the leading hairdressers are combining to hold a second annual exhibition in London next year, when the Coronation coiffure will be shown.

"Naturally, the work of evolving such a dressing is an arduous one, and it will be some time before all the final designs will be settled.

"I can confidently say that all the leading members of the hair-dressing profession will enter heart and soul into this scheme."

Mr. Unwin said that curls would play an important part in the dressing, and that the Greek style would be preserved.

The vogue for curls is an undying one, and a soft, rather high chignon of curls, will form an excellent support for those who wear coronets on the great occasion, while a soft bandeau of hair above the curls will give a dignified effect.

MANUEL NOT RICH

Representative of Ex-King Denies Recent Report

The Marquis de Soveral, representing King Manuel of Portugal, has denied the reports that King Manuel had telegraphed an offer of $500,000 to the authorities at Lisbon for the purchase of the Royal yacht Amelia. The marquis pointed out, says the London News Agency, that the yacht originally cost King Manuel's father only £60,000, and was now practically obsolete. "At the present moment," continued the marquis, "King Manuel is not in possession of such funds as would enable him to make an offer of anything like £100,000 for a yacht or anything else. It is doubtful whether the King has at the moment funds representing the sum of 100,000 reis (£22 4s.), let alone £100,000."

A BRIDE FOR A DAY

Tragic Ending to a Honeymoon in Ireland Recently

In Belfast papers one Saturday recently appeared the announcement of the marriage of Hugh McBride, a well-known and wealthy civil engineer of Armagh. Tragically enough the notice of his death appeared the day previously.

Mr. McBride was married and died the same day. On October 25 he led to the altar at Alberts Street Presbyterian Church, Belfast, his former stenographer. After the wedding the newly-married pair were proceeding to the railway station when the bridegroom was taken suddenly ill and died a few hours later in the local hospital.

It had been arranged that Mr. and Mrs. McBride should cross on the following Tuesday night to Liverpool with the object of proceeding with Mr. McBride's brother and wife, who were also recently married, to Vancouver, British Columbia.

After the funeral the latter, accompanied by the bride of a day, started on their journey to the Far West.

BIRDS WITHOUT NESTS

There are scores of different kinds of birds in and around the coasts of Britain which never dream of building nests. These either steal nests or do without them altogether.

The kingfishers and the woodpeckers, as well as the cuckoos, never build, but dump their eggs into the nest of any other bird that comes handy. Our commonest little hawk, the kestrel, has a fancy for the disused nest of a carrion crow or magpie if she can find one at a sufficient height above the ground to suit her.

That odd-looking bird, the nightjar, makes no nest, but, choosing some

Had a Distressing, Tickling Sensation in The Throat.

COULD NOT SLEEP AT NIGHT.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is rich in the lung-healing virtues of the Norway pine tree. It is a pleasant, safe and effectual medicine that may be confidentially relied upon as a specific for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Quinsy, and all Throat and Lung Troubles.

It will stop that tickling in the throat which causes the dry cough that keeps you awake at night.

Mrs. J. A. Smith, Manvville, Ont., writes:—"I had a very bad cough and that distressing tickling sensation in my throat. It was so bad I could not sleep at night and my lungs were so sore I had to give up work.

"Our doctor gave me medicine but it did me no good, so I got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and by the time I had used two bottles I was entirely cured. I am always recommending it to my friends."

Do not be humbugged into buying the so-called Norway Pine Syrups that are sold and lauded as "Dr. Wood's." It is put up in a yellow wrapper; only genuine bears the trade mark; the price 25c.

Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Try This Home-Made Cough Remedy

Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually ends a deep-seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada, that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equalled.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

hollow on the ground sheltered by bracken, there lays its two mottled, lead-colored eggs. Game birds mostly have no nests, and lay their eggs in a hollow on the ground. None of the plover family take much trouble about nest-building. The stone curlew, or Norfolk plover, neglects even the few bents which the plover generally places below her eggs. That rare member of the plover family, the dotterel, lays its four pear-shaped eggs in a depression of the sand or shingle on the summit of a hill or mountain.

AX-GRINDING

A Science With Some Dealers—Done at the Expense of the Public

There is nothing "just as good" as Newbro's Herpicide. Some dealers will even go so far as to tell you they have something better.

The dealer has an axe to grind.

You can't stop his grinding, but you can prevent him grinding it at your expense.

There is one sure, swift way to do it.

Go where you can get what you ask for.

You won't be obliged to do this very often, as fortunately the majority of druggists are honest and conscientious.

Newbro's Herpicide has been so long and favourably known as the original dandruff germ destroyer that no one should be deceived.

When you need a hair remedy, you don't want one which merely promises to kill the dandruff germ and prevent the hair falling.

You want one that will do it.

Herpicide does it.

The hair becomes soft and lustrous. There is life, snap and beauty where formerly the hair was dead, dull and brittle.

Newbro's Herpicide is sold and guaranteed by all druggists.

Applications of this wonderful prophylactic may be obtained at the best barber shops and hair dressing parlours.

Send ten cents in postage or silver to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich., for a nice sample of Herpicide and a booklet telling all about the hair.

WAITED MANY YEARS

A Frenchman Waited Long for Revenge and Got It

An extraordinary story of a tragic revenge comes from St. Bueget, near Dinard, France. A tinman named Gastebois met an old school comrade called Besion by accident some days ago. Gastebois took his friend out to dinner, and showed him over his shop, and generally made much of him. Recently the two men lunched together, but when after luncheon they went into the garden, Besion suddenly drew a revolver. "You brute!" he said. "Do you remember what you did to me twenty-six years ago?" Before Gastebois could answer Besion fired, and as his old friend fell, smashed his scull with the butt-end of the revolver.

Neighbors who had heard the shot took the man prisoner and handed him over to the gendarmes. Gastebois was taken to the hospital where he died.

Besion remained quite cool. "Twenty-six years ago," he said, "that man struck me when I was defenceless. I have been waiting my opportunity to revenge myself, and I am glad that I have done so."

MEN WHO TOILED IN THE ATTICS

Masterpieces That Have Been Produced in Garrets—Paderewski Drummed His Fingers There

Even within human memory great men have dwelt and worked in attics, and have often enough hungered and starved there. Yet, most curious of all, many of the world's most noble masterpieces have been produced in humble, slope-roofed garrets. Imagine writing an epoch-making novel at a table the position of which you have continually to shift to dodge the large drops of rain that come through a faulty roof, and on the other side of the door an irate landlady declaiming against you having not paid your rent.

That is just what happened to Oliver Goldsmith when in Green Arbor Court, Old Bailey, he was preparing his immortal "Vicar of Wakefield." Besides a ramshackle bed and a table, the only other piece of furniture the room contained was a chair. Nor did Goldsmith reap any of the rewards of his genius; he was born poor, and lived and died in London garrets, with swallows his only companions.

Coming nearer to our own times, Thomas Carlyle occupied a top-back room in Cheyne Row, Chelsea. It was lighted from above where no sight or noise penetrated. He could have lived there all his life without anyone ever knowing of his existence.

If the question as to who is the greatest living woman were given to ten people, nine of them would unhesitatingly answer, Mme. Curie. Now, Mme. Curie and her husband lived for years in apartments in Paris which would not favorably compare with many a London attic. Except for half a dozen acquaintances, few knew of their existence; but in that tumble-down dwelling (it was not even rain-proof), these two, husband and wife, were doing a work that was eventually to revolutionize science. They discovered radium, and it was not until the news had been shouted from one end of the world to the other that the neighbors began to take a sort of interest in the quaint couple who kept the light going all night long in their window.

A Young Inventor

Strange, too, is the story of the young inventor who one day walked into the office of the famous Commodore Vanderbilt, the founder of the Vanderbilt millions. He had devised an air-brake, he said, and wanted to interest the multi-millionaire in it—in short, he wanted money.

"Do you mean to tell me," cried Mr. Vanderbilt, "that you claim you can stop a train by wind?"

"That is exactly my intention, sir," replied the young fellow.

"Go away," said the elder man; "go away. I've no time to waste on fools."

The inventor went back to his attic, where for weeks, nay, for months, he had existed on the most meagre of allowances. Among his friends he became known as "Crazy George." One day a railroad manager good-naturedly allowed him to experiment.

Capitalists who had snubbed him and who were present at the trial were staggered, dumbfounded, when "Crazy George" demonstrated by actual fact that a train could be brought to a dead standstill by air.

That was forty years ago, and today that man, whose name is George Westinghouse, is himself responsible for over a hundred patents, and is the head of a corporation having a capital of $100,000,000.

For days and weeks and months Paderewski drummed his fingers on a plain deal table in a Paris garret. He knew he could play the piano as few others could, but the information was unfortunately native to himself. All he wanted was the opportunity to convince people what he was capable of; but who would dream of looking for a musician in a damp, out-of-the-way attic near the Seine?

But one day somebody did go there and engage the young Pole to play some accompaniments at the house of a society lady. So overwhelmed was his employer with his performance that she offered on account of the rain, to send him home in her own carriage.

"No, madam," said Paderewski, "are not my own carriage and coachman waiting for me at the end of the street?"

And overcoatless and umbrellaless, through the rain and the slush and the mud, he walked home. That night the tide turned, and the young Pole soon found himself with no further use for such things as garrets.

Victor Hugo

The story of men of genius hungering for food and pining for recognition is a long one. Take Victor Hugo, according to some critics the greatest genius of modern times, who executed some of his finest poetical masterpieces in a garret in Belgium, where the rain came through the tiled roof and which was so small that he could but take four steps as he walked about thinking. His writing-table consisted of a hinged shelf, which he always put up against the wall so his four steps could not be curtailed.

Tom Hood the author of the celebrated "Song of the Shirt," rented a top-back room in London at six shillings a week, and it was dear at that. Charles Dickens's blacking-factory days were spent in equally miserable surroundings. De Quincey spent half his life in a garret off Oxford Street, and Maxime Gorky wrote some of his most realistic stories in the over-heated and unhealthy atmosphere of a baker's oven-room. Chatterton, the boy poet, died in a tiny apartment at the very top end of a flight of stairs; and Whistler, the famous impressionist, once had his pictures sold to pay off his attic landlord.

PRACTICAL HOUSEKEEPING

It was at a class in arithmetic that the following household problem was smartly solved:

"Suppose that in a family of five there were only four potatoes for dinner, and the mother wanted to give each of the children an equal share, how is she going to do it?"

For a few minutes there was silence in the room, while everybody calculated hard. Finally, one of the little boys rose to his feet, and after attracting the attention of the schoolmaster, gave his unexpected answer:

"Cook the potato, sir."

It had been hard work for the speaker, as he had been talking for about fifty minutes. During that time the audience had got considerably smaller, and with a view of ending the oration he said:

WASTE OF LABOR

Mother: "So your Aunt Mary cannot come, as she said, to-day, after all, Georgie?"

Georgie: "Boo-hoo!"

Mother: "Why, Georgie, I did not know you were so fond of your auntie as that!"

Georgie: "I ain't; but here I've gone and washed my ears and neck and cleaned my boots all for nothing. Boo-hoo!"

HE WORKED IT OUT

Eric, aged five, was being bathed, and very much wanted to know where the bath water eventually went to. After his mother had explained it to him, he said reflectively:

"I see; the water goes down the drain-pipes into the Thames, and the Thames into the sea—so when I'm down at the seaside I really paddle in my own bath water!"

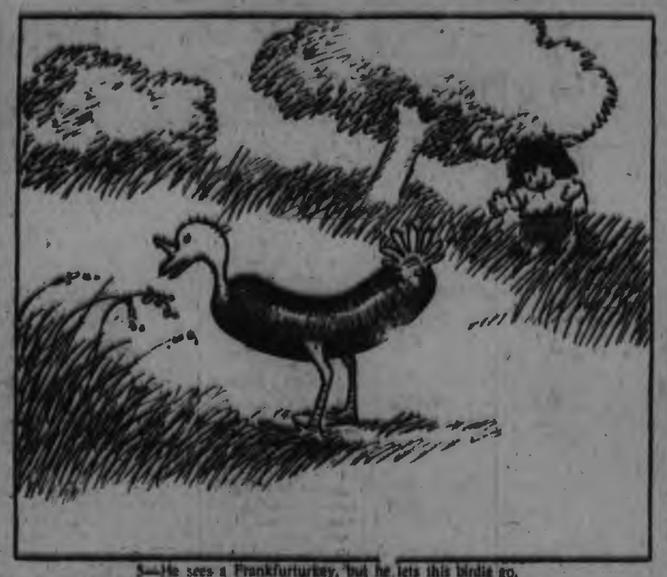
THE TERRORS OF THE TINY TADS

1—Here come the Tiny Tads again! They are a merry crew!
Let's watch their movements carefully and see what they will do.

2—Oh! three of them have disappeared; they're in that great big thing!
That Hippodromedary, where they'll hear the chorus sing.

3—The other Tad has gone in search of something for his lunch!
"Ah! here's an Apricottontail," says he, "that I can munch.

4—"And here are two Jackalmonds, which I think that I can chew."
He eats them and they horse to him, and so he eats them too.



5—He sees a Frankfurturkey, but he lets this birdie go,
He has no Fryingpanimal to cook him, in you know.

6—That night he tells his comrades of the funny day he's had.
"We'll see some funnier things next week," exclaims a Tiny Tad.

1—When Old King Cole, the merry old soul,
Called for his pipe (not to speak of his bowl)
Jack and Jill, up to mischief still,
With gunpowder his pipe did fill.

2—Then Old Mr. Cole lighted his pipe and—
Off went the pipe with a bang and a flare,
And up for a yard went the King in the air.

3—Then he went after Jack and Jill, and run! Well—
They raced like mad, for that Old King Cole
Was a perfectly ridiculously cross old soul.

4—While Jack and Jill were very nearly exhausted when scrambling together in the distance. It was the well down which Little Johnny Green threw Percy. "Saved" they cried in a breath.

5—And down they dived in the old well's hole,
Which was far too small for Old King Cole,
For unfortunately fat was the poor old soul.

6—But up they came presently, the cat (Little Johnny Green's cat, you remember) had scratched the pair ready.
Then Old King Cole WAS a merry old souls,
A merry old soul was he,
Still Jack and Jill kept particularly still,
For the joke was on them, you see.

WORKING MEN RAVENS.

Aristocratic Britain Has Had Several of Them.

Nowadays it is always possible for the humblest boy in the town to become its head if he has the brains and "push." Recent years have abundantly proved this by showing us several noted working men who have risen to the mayoral chairs of their native or adopted towns.

Indeed, two very well-known mayors of a year or two past were men who had both actually risen from the workhouse of the place which they served later as chief magistrates. These were Mr. Will Crooks, late M.P., who was elected mayor of Poplar, and Ald. Hornbrook, one of Devonport's most respected citizens, whom that large town placed in its mayoral chair a year or two before Poplar did itself a similar honor with Will Crooks.

Many people will still remember how Cardiff raised a working man to the highest honor the Welsh city could confer on him, and not only so, but it chose him for Lord Mayor during the year when the late King Edward had promised to visit the city, and His Majesty was so pleased with the way the mayor received him and carried out his duties on behalf of Cardiff that he knighted "Sir" William Crossman on the spot.

Then, year or two back, Kingston-on-Thames did justice to one of its hardest workers on the local council by electing Councillor Clarke to the mayoral seat. Mr. Clarke had been a policeman in the royal ancient borough, and in consequence many of the elite of the place were averse to his being made chief magistrate. Twice before, when he had been proposed by those who recognised his merit and services, he had been defeated by such narrow majorities as one or two, but at length even his one-time rivals had to admit that there was no other man so fitted for the mayoralty as the former policeman, and thus Mr. Clarke reaped at last the well-deserved reward of faithful service.

Breezy Blackpool did equal honor to itself and Ald. Brodie when it made the latter gentleman its mayor in 1904, for the well-known alderman had formerly been a policeman in Manchester.

Mr. Timothy Owen was still a signalman on the line when his fellow-townsmen at Aberavon, Glamorganshire, raised him to the mayoral chair. No man in the place was more highly respected than the popular signalman, and in proof of this no fewer than 300 railwaymen, headed by Mr. Richard Bell, accompanied Mr. Owen to church on his first visit there.

One of the best-known men in the southwest country, and certainly one of the most popular in Plymouth, is Ald. Bond, who has several times been elected mayor. Mr. Bond began his striking career as a boy in a solicitor's office in Plymouth, and worked his way up through the various ranks, until he finally found himself sitting in the chair of the mayor.

Fedorenko Goes Free.

Winnipeg, Dec. 20.—Semen Fedorenko, the alleged Russian political refugee, was released from custody yesterday morning, and Edmund Howell, representing the Czar, announced that no further efforts would be made to take Fedorenko back to Russia. Could Not Walk Ten Yards Without Resting.

WEAK HEART WAS THE CAUSE.

Mrs. Ketchum Collette, Bayersville, N.B., writes: "I am now enjoying the best of health after having used your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I was troubled with a weak heart, and was afraid to draw a long breath for the pain it would cause me. I could not sleep at night, and it was impossible for me to walk ten yards without resting myself. I cannot speak too highly of your Heart and Nerve Pills, for they are the greatest pill I have ever used and I was recommended them to all sufferers."

Thousands of people go almost their daily work on the verge of death and yet do not know it.

Little symptoms in point to the right weakness of the heart for the simple reason that they are thought to be only temporary troubles. It is only when a violent shock comes that the weakness of the heart becomes apparent.

For the first sign of any weakness of the heart or nerves, keeping energy or strength, palpitation, the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will soon prevent a serious and permanent result.

LETTERING ON HANDKERCHIEF.

Advising Womanly Industry and Bible Reading.

Mr. C. Van Noorden declares that he has fought for ten years for one of these articles in vain, but he has recently been rewarded by receiving a specimen of the true moral pocket-handkerchief from a lady collector of such things, who had picked up this article in a curio shop at Hammersmith. The specimen is not of Pickwickian date, but is some 80 years old.

The lettering on this handkerchief is as follows: "Famous queens of England have worked with their own hands. Mary, queen of William III., when not better employed, wrought with so constant diligence as if she had been compelled to earn her bread by it. She looked on idleness as the great corrupter of human nature, and that if the men had no employment given it it would create some of the worst sort to itself. Some persons have worked to give away to others; Dorcas was a woman of this character, as is shown in the Bible; Acts ix. 17-39."

Then follows the line in large letters: "Female Industry in the use of the needle." A second morality printed below the picture refers to Dr. Johnson's views on the value of Bible reading.

The moral pocket handkerchief idea is an old one, as several passages in our seventeenth century drama show. Thus, in Jasper Mayne's "City Match," played before royalty at Whitehall in 1639, these lines occur:

She works religious petticoats; for flowers
She'll make church histories; her needle doth
So saintily my cushionets! Besides
My smock sleeves have such holy embroideries,
And are so learned that I fear, in time
All my apparel will be quoted by
Some pure instructor.

Political handkerchiefs have, of course, long been common, and were issued as lately as the time of the Boer war.—London Globe.

Pain in South Africa.

Dr. Carl Peters, the famous explorer, in London, reported some extremely interesting discoveries which prove, to his mind, a continuation of ancient civilisation in South Africa, says The London Express. "I was fortunate enough," he said, "to discover a tablet which, so far as I know contained the first actual inscription found in South Africa. Formerly, discoveries have been not of proved actual inscriptions, but of stones bearing marks strongly resembling ancient Semitic writings.

"The tablet in question was found by one of my men in a slave pit to the south of Inyanga, north of Umtali. The district contains hundreds of these pits from twenty to twenty-five feet deep, in which the ancients kept their slaves. The tablet was evidently made of cement, and had been cut in two, clearly while it was soft, the letters on it being in no way damaged. The characters look to me like Greek letters, but other experts say they are Graeco-Phoenician. I take it to be the half of an ancient passport, one portion of which was retained by the master and the other handed to the messenger."

"I also discovered near Zimbabwe a terra cotta figure of Pan, six and a half inches in length, very similar to the figures found at Pompeii, thus proving Greek influence in South Africa, apparently at a later period than the tablet I have mentioned.

Hunt for a Rare Bird.

A final attempt is being made by the New Zealand Government to obtain specimens of the huia, a bird which has been practically exterminated by the vogue for its feathers, which obtains among the Maoris.

The huia is a jet black bird with a white band at the extreme end of its tail feathers. The male has a short, strong beak, and the female a long, slender, inverted beak; the male breaks the bark off dead trees and the female then dips her beak into the holes of the big grubs which attack dead timber. She presents one grub to her spouse and then has one herself, alternating most considerately.

The Maoris say that when one dies the other must necessarily die of starvation because nature has so arranged that each is dependent on the other.—London Daily Mail.

The Word Calico.

The word "calico" has a queer origin. Many centuries ago the first monarch of the province of Malabar, in Hindustan, gave to one of his chiefs as a reward for distinguished services his sword and all the land within the limit of which a cock crowing at a certain temple could be heard. From this circumstance the little town which grew up in the centre of this territory was called Calicoda, or "the cock crowing." After it was called Calicut, and from this place the first cotton goods were imported into England bearing the name calico.

How the Gargle Was Taken.

Rev. J. A. Shemeth, in "South Indian Missions," relates the following incident illustrating the difficulties of medical missionaries: An old woman came with a reluctant threat to Mrs. Caldwell (wife of Bishop Caldwell), who gave her a gargle in a bottle and told her to go home, throw her head well back, put it in her mouth and keep it there as long as possible. After a day or two she returned, complaining that she was no better and that her throat smelled terribly. When asked if she had strictly carried out the instructions, she said: "Yes. I threw my head well back and put the whole bottle in my mouth and held it there till my throat was almost ready to burst!"—London Globe.

A Treat For the Surgeon.

Mme. Clara Butt's sudden illness may serve to remind the eminent singer's admirers in the way of ill-health. "Among my fellow sisters and myself, all of us being singers, any threat is the dread of the lot, and not in the least like a singer's throat," she once confessed. She has undergone several operations. "On every single occasion," she says herself, "I have sung in full voice while under the influence of the anaesthetic." Host of Portugal's ex-King.

There are few keener sportsmen or more intrepid explorers than the Duke of Orleans, at whose beautiful home—Wood Norton, in Worcestershire—King Manuel is staying. He has visited nearly all parts of the world, and tried to reach the North Pole. Once he succeeded in reaching a point two degrees farther north on the coast of Greenland than had hitherto been explored, and the naming of this territory is now recorded as the Duke of Orleans Land in most geographies. A magnificent horseman, he has taken part in a bull fight; while his prowess with the gun was once the cause of a clever retort. Commenting upon the unusually poor season, he remarked to a guest that he had shot very few "braces." Whereupon the guest wittily remarked, "And no doubt this want of 'braces' accounted for the falling off of your bags."

King's Strange Hobby.

The late King of Siam had an extraordinary hobby—that of collecting empty match-boxes of all nations. About this royal fad an interesting story is related. During one of his visits to Belgium the King, whilst passing down Regent Street, London, one afternoon, accompanied by two members of his suite, espied an empty match-box, which had been discarded by its owner and thrown away into the middle of the thoroughfare. Without a moment's thought the monarch dashed into the middle of the crowded traffic, dragged the much-coveted treasure, and was nearly run over by a passing cab. The fact, however, that he was able to add a new specimen to his collection compensated him for the risk which he had run.

SAVED SELF AND DAUGHTER

Mattoon, Ill.—"Will you allow me for the benefit of others who may be in the same condition as I was to make a statement in this paper.

"I was in very poor health for years, was weak, ailing, and all run down, and had lost in weight until I only weighed ninety pounds. I had been under a physician's care, without any benefit, for so long I was discouraged.

About a year ago I decided to try a tonic called Vinol, concerning which I had heard many favourable reports, I commenced to gain, and increased in weight until I now weigh 127 pounds, am in perfect health — and never felt better in my life.

Then, my daughter who lived in Martinsville, Ind., was an invalid, and no encouragement was held out for her recovery. After my experience with Vinol, we went to Martinsville and brought her to Mattoon, as she was helpless. When we got her here I put her on Vinol, with the same good results from its use which I had—she gained in weight, and to-day she is well and strong and feels better than she ever did in her life." Mrs. O. M. Watrous. (We guarantee this letter is genuine.)

We have for years recommended Vinol as a grand tonic and body-builder, and every year we gain more and more faith in its wonderful virtues. It is certainly the best and simplest tonic restorative we know of. Mc. Dermid and Jury, druggists, corner George and Charlotte streets; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Simcoe streets.

A Bundle of Straws.

The administration of justice in the Soudan has its humors. D. C. Conyn tells in his "Service and Sport in the Soudan" of a woman who came before him complaining that her husband had married a young new wife. She appeared in court with a bundle of short straws, quite four inches thick. When asked what she had to say she dramatically pulled out one straw, flung it on the ground, and said, "He gives me no meat"; another straw, "He gives me no cake," and so on till about a dozen were on the ground. "That's so far," said I. She looked at me a minute and then said, "Those other straws are complaints which I won't tell a young man like you."

Thackeray and Dickens.

Thackeray was much taller than Dickens. His face, indeed, somewhat of the pattern of his mind, was long. He looked the older, although the two were once much almost the same age. His imposing head, his broad forehead and his prominently white hair gave him an appearance of authority and even of severity, which one might have thought would prove intimidating to a stranger. Yet I at least never felt it so. He seemed to me to be the most self-conscious, the most timid of his superiority, the most modest of the great he was.—Justin McCarthy's Reminiscences.

ROMANCE OF MEDICINE.

Courses of History Changed By a Sore Tooth or a Torpid Liver.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, speaking to some London medical students, told several stories illustrating what he called "the romance of medicine."

The fashion of wearing wigs, for instance, was due to a skin disease which produced bald patches on the august head of Francis I. of France. He got a wig and his courtiers followed suit, just as they all whispered when he had an attack of laryngitis.

"One can trace for many years," says the same authority in The Lancet, "certainly from 1808, the inception of that disease which killed Napoleon at St. Helena in 1821. In 1808 Bourrienne said: 'I have often seen him at Malmaison lean against the right arm of his chair and unbuttoning his coat and waistcoat exclaim, "What pain I feel!"'

"That was perhaps the first allusion to his stomachic and peptic trouble; but from then onward it continually appeared, like Banquo at the banquet. His ecstatic scamper like Hoots of Europe and alter his kingdoms, but he was powerless against the mutinous cells of his own mucous membrane.

"Again and again he had attacks of lethargy, amounting almost to collapse, at moments when all his energy was most required. At the crisis of Waterloo he had such an attack and sat his horse like a man dazed for hours of the action. Finally the six years at St. Helena furnish a clinical study of gastric disease which was all explained in the historical post-mortem examination, which disclosed cancer covering the whole wall of the stomach and actually perforating it at the hepatic border.

"Napoleon's whole career was profoundly modified by his complaint. There have been many criticisms—not unnatural ones—of his petty, querulous and undignified attitude during his captivity, but if his critics knew what it was to digest their food with an organ which had hardly a square inch of healthy tissue upon it they would perhaps take a more generous view of the conduct of Napoleon. For my own part I think that his brilliancy was never more shown than during those years—the best proof of which was that his guardians had no notion how ill he was until within a few days of his actual death.

"History abounds with examples of what I have called the romance of medicine. Look at the men, for example, who were the prime movers in the French Revolution. They were a diseased company—a pathological museum. Was Marat's view of life tainted by his loathsome skin disease, for which he was taking hot baths when Charlotte Corday cut him off? Was the incorruptible but bilious Robespierre the victim of his own liver? Was Couthon's heart embittered by his disfigured limbs?

"These are the problems where medicine intrigues upon history and these are the illustrations of the philosophy which is only open to the medical thinker. How many times do the most important historical developments appear to depend upon small physical causes? There is, for example, the case of the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. By this measure the whole history of France has been profoundly modified, because by that action there were driven forth the Huguenots.

"Now, how came Louis XIV., who had always held out upon this point, to give way at last to the pressure of Mme. de Maintenon and his clerical advisers? The answer lay in one of his molar teeth. It is historical that he had for some months had toothache, caries, abscess of the jaw and finally a sinus which required operation, and it was at this time, when he was pathologically abnormal and irritable, that he took the step which has modified history.

The Pimpernel.

Not every one knows what flower is meant by the pimpernel in the following lines:

The white lake blossom fell into the lake
As the pimpernel dosed on the ice.

It is a pretty English wild flower of the primrose family and commonly known as "poor man's weather glass," because its petals are so sensitive to moisture that they droop before the coming of rain. Gerdan burnet is sometimes confounded with this English plant because it is called by the French "pimpernelle." But the pimpernel which "dozed on the ice" is a slightly poisonous, acrid plant, not at all suitable in a salad.—London Spectator.

Chimneys.

Chimneys constructed on modern principles were almost unknown to the ancients, being used only in the large baths, where great quantities of hot water were needed. Chafing dishes, braziers of glowing coals and bottles of hot water were employed by the ladies of the middle ages to keep their rooms warm, and a curious picture in extant of three Norman ladies sleeping together, each with a bottle of hot water placed between her feet. Chimneys are believed to have been introduced in England early the fourteenth century, but by the end of the fourteenth were generally employed in domestic architecture. For a long time there was a chimney tax all over England.

What a Good Gun Costs.

I hold no brief for the gunmakers, but in justice to an old-established and honorable trade I think the following figures are worth consideration. They are taken from the books of one of our leading west-end gunmakers and show the actual wages paid by the firm for the making of a first-class gun: Barrels, £10 10s.; action, £10 10s.; stocking, £3 10s.; ejectors, £4; engraving, £4 14s.; locks, £2; regulation, £4 5s.; usual, and so, (£37 9s.—Capt. Lyons, Maxwell in Grouse and Grouse Moors.

WITNESSES MISSING

Oxford County Case Brings Out Some Mysterious Personages

Inquiry Elicits the Fact That Gravel Road, Which Rightfully Belonged to the Public, Was Bought By It For $8,500.00—Three Material Links in the Case Cannot Be Found—Who Is Mr. Tate?

Woodstock, Dec. 20.—That Oxford County was saddled with the expense of buying out the Ingersoll, North Oxford, North Dorie and East Nissouri gravel plank roadway at a cost of $8,500.00, which it should have come into possession of the Township of North Oxford through default of the owners to keep it in proper repair, was brought out yesterday afternoon by E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., who is prosecuting the Oxford County graft enquiry.

This, amongst about a dozen other charges, are held against M. P. Buchanan, who was chairman of the "toll roads" committee of the county council in 1908, for explanation. Although the county valued the roadway at only $3500 and voted that sum towards its purchase Buchanan, it appears, brought the committee down to Toronto and closed a deal for $8,500.00 with one Robert Tate, who was purported by documents of assignment to be the owner. The existence of this man Tate, Mr. Johnston doubted, and finally told Buchanan so. Forgery and personification by somebody is suspected by Mr. Johnston, and he has been informed by private detectives that a man can be produced from Chicago who will substantiate this belief.

There is a missing link in the title this man Tate held to the road. A lady in England named Elizabeth Cartwright held a mortgage against the property. Isaiah Banks of Chicago claiming power of attorney for her, effected the sale of the mortgage to R. J. Bowman of Chicago, who again transferred to Robert Tate, "merchant" of Toronto. The one document of the whole outfit is missing, namely, that giving Banks the power of attorney for Mrs. Cartwright and the title to the land is incomplete without it. This the school counsel suspects, was a forgery.

"Who was Mr. Tate?" asked Mr. Johnston.

"The owner of the road."

"But, who was he?"

"Robert Tate."

"How did you know he was Robert Tate?"

"Only because I had business with him."

"What was he in Toronto?"

"An accountant."

"Where was his office?"

"In Toronto," was the stubborn answer.

Mr. Johnston talked sharply to Buchanan, who finally slid into support stories that a man named Mills had introduced him that Tate owned the road. He was just as vague about Mills, had met him in Toronto, on the street, did not know what street.

An agreement was produced in Buchanan's handwriting, dated April 5, and witnessed by John Blake.

"Who is John Blake?" asked the lawyer.

"I don't know."

Despite dozens of questions and suggestions, Buchanan couldn't recollect how the deed and affidavits of the executive was drawn up in the office of Howell, Reid, Wood & Gibson, Toronto.

Abolished Fraternities.

Rochester, N.Y., Dec. 20.—The Board of Education yesterday formally abolished the five fraternities and five sororities in the high schools, on the ground that they "promote exclusive and undemocratic class distinctions, fix precedents and artificial social standards, interfere seriously from the regular work of the school, stimulate entertainment habits, and involve a considerable expense."

Several Whisky Dawn Not Stale.

Chatham, Dec. 20.—License Inspector French has returned from Tupperville, where he and two constables raided a blind pig, operated by a man named Armstrong. They stole into the premises in the early morning hours and caught the proprietor in the act of putting down fat bottles. Armstrong paid his penalty, but a number will likely be heard in the matter.

Lady Almost Wants Sleeper.

Port Hope, Dec. 20.—Another thing happened when crowded on the road to Cobourg yesterday morning. Mrs. Wood, your county councillor, shared the cab with Lady Gibson, and left them and their [illegible] ALL ASH.

Jeremy Bay, 20.—Thomas Payne, a native of England, was committed to stand trial on three charges on Saturday, on a charge of false representation.

It seems at a house in town early [illegible] Payne's child was ill, and [illegible] Payne, as a priest and a [illegible] administered medicine of his own composition and treatment of the child, [illegible] the child's parents [illegible] a [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible].

Ontario's Gift to Col. Pellatt.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—A letter has been sent by Sir James Whitney, Premier of the province, to Col. Sir Henry Pellatt, A.D.C., C.V.O., colonel of the Queen's Own Rifles, asking him to accept, on behalf of the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the Queen's Own Rifles, four volumes of press clippings relating to the visit of the regiment to England a few months ago, and containing a record "of the many stirring and patriotic occurrences arising out of the visit and connected therewith."

"The Government is of opinion that, representing the Province of Ontario, it is its duty to express, when occasion offers what it believes to be the feeling of the people of the province with reference to the undoubted patriotism and self-sacrifice displayed by yourself and every member of the splendid military organization of which you are the head," says the letter. "Actuated, therefore, by the feeling which I have indicated, we ask you to accept as a slight indication of it these four volumes containing the record—the very creditable record—of the memorable visit of the regiment to England during the past summer.

(Signed) "J. P. Whitney."

The press clippings are magnificently indexed, illustrated, included and bound; they are most comprehensive, embracing the newspaper criticism of the whole world. The four beautiful volumes will be placed amongst the archives of the Queen's Own Rifles, where it is needless to say, they will be highly prized.

Five Hundred Dead in Pacific.

West Cyton, Dec. 20.—Dispatches from La Libertad, Salvador, received here yesterday, declare that earthquake shocks throughout the [illegible] have subsided after causing at least five hundred deaths on islands of the Pacific coast. The sinking of a large island in the Hispango Lagoon, on Salvador, drowned 300 persons, many of these having fled from smaller islands. Scores of small islands slid into the sea when the earth tremors began last Tuesday, the outer group vanished the Lagoon disappearing first. As the shock increased, whole groups, formerly two or more small land patches, were buried into the ocean and the natives fled towards the main land. Most of these took refuge on the larger Lagoon islands.

Descriptions of the sinking of Hispango Island reveal the desperate dash of the natives for the high ridge of land as the island slowly settled into the ocean. The whole population was thrown into hysterical excitement and the dash for fishing boats on the shores, resulted in the death of numerous men and women, only the strongest getting possession of the boats and survived. In the scramble for small boats the crafts were wrecked and made unseaworthy.

Mine Explosion.

Fairmont, W.Va., Dec. 20.—Two miners were killed by an explosion of gas in the Middleton mine of the Consolidated Coal Co., ten miles from Fairmont, yesterday. The explosion was local, and while much damage is reported to the mine, none of the other miners were injured. The bodies have been recovered.

IT IS THOUGHT FARMERS' BANK WILL NEVER BE OPEN FOR BUSINESS AGAIN

Depositors Have Been Drawing Out Their Money Quietly and There Was Little Excitement at Different Branches This Morning.

CURATOR APPOINTED

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, DEC. 20.—While nominally the Farmers' Bank suspension is for ninety days only, it is thought the institution will never open again. Despatches from various centres where the bank did business indicate that the depositors are not making any kind of excitement. It is supposed that most of them have quietly drawn out their money during the last few days and that there is very little on deposit at present. Under authority of the Canadian Bankers' Association, Geoffrey T. Clarkson, of Clarkson and Sons, was appointed curator to-day. He will take charge immediately. No statement is out yet as to the affairs of the institution.

Said To Have Known Her Husband Was Alive When He Married Hannah Clarke Last October

Harvey Ellis and Hannah Clarke Committed for Trial on Charges of Bigamy at Havelock Yesterday Afternoon ...Were Wedded in Marmora But Woman Was First Married Twelve Years Ago.

Harvey Ellis and Hannah Clark appeared before County Magistrate Edmison, at Havelock, yesterday afternoon, on a charge of bigamy, and were committed for trial. The preliminary hearing was conducted by Crown Prosecutor R. S. Wood and Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared on behalf of the prisoners. Bail of five hundred dollars in each case was granted and the sureties were provided. Ellis went back to his home in Cordova, and the woman was taken home by her father, Joseph Clapper, who lives six miles north of Havelock. It was brought out in the evidence that Hannah Clark was married to her first husband, who is still alive, by Rev. C. H. Coon, of Mark Street Church, East City, twelve years ago, and was married to Ellis in October last, at Maramora, by Rev. J. E. Moore, of that place. It was shown that Ellis knew that Mrs. Clarke's husband was alive at the time of his marriage to her.

A FORMER WELL KNOWN MILLBROOK RESIDENT DEAD

TORONTO, DEC. 20.—Mr. Joseph S. Jewison, late of 302 St. James' Square, Toronto, passed away yesterday afternoon. Mr. Jewison, after an active career, both in the township of South Monaghan, in the county of Northumberland, and in the village of Millbrook, in the adjoining county of Durham, came to Toronto in the spring of 1902, where he had lived in retirement ever since. His health for some time had not been good, but he was able to be around until the early part of the autumn of this year, when, with a weak heart, he became confined to his bed. He gradually grew weaker until the end. Mr. Jewison was a Methodist and connected with the Metropolitan church in Toronto. He is survived by his widow, two sons, Wilbur C. and Percy A., and three daughters, Mrs. John Nattress, Miss Lila and Miss Bertha. Mr. Jewison was a member of the Order of Canadian Home Circles and of the Sons of England.

CAN A GOOSE SUFFER FROM MENTAL ANGUISH?

Special to the Examiner.

ASHEVILLE, N.C., DEC. 20.—Has a goose feelings? If so, where are they located, or not located?

These are questions which are puzzling Justice Gudger in arriving at conclusions of fact and law in a goose case presented for his consideration by a warrant sworn out by officers of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

In Joe Grieget's barnyard an agent of the S. P. C. A. discovered a goose whose webbed feet were nailed to a board, as one step in the process to make its liver become pate de foie gras.

A meeting of the society was held to consider the case, and President Collins, who had been in conference with physicians and others, insisted that in addition to the bodily injury there was also the question of mental anguish to be considered.

Accordingly the society voted to hail the goose's owner to court to decide a goose's right.

Following the usual custom the local stores will be open on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings of this week, in order to handle the Christmas rush, which, in spite of the advice to shop early will, in all probability be as busy as ever for the balance of the week. The Salvation Army Band is making prep arations for its annual Christmas and New Year's serenade, and no doubt will be received with the usual liberality and generosity that the people of Peterborough have always shown in the past to this excellent and deserving organization. The campaign will open with a concert on George street on Saturday night, Christmas eve. On the days observed as Christmas and New Year's Day, the band will serenade in different parts of the city in the morning and will also play each evening during the holiday week. A large amount of new music has been secured and a great part of it is particularly appropriate for the festive season, so that the band will be in better shape than ever to please and entertain. The organization is one that the citizens of Peterborough should be proud of. It has grown from a small beginning and has flourished, and a cordial welcome should be given the band on its annual round of the city.

MOB ATTACKS AND SMASHES WINNIPEG CARS AND FOUR ARRESTS ARE MADE

Crews Locked the Doors and Hid Under the Seats Until the Police Arrived—Several Were Cut But Not Hurt Seriously.

POLICE USED BATONS

WINNIPEG, DEC. 19. — The first really serious accident of the street car strike occurred this afternoon shortly after 5 o'clock, when a big mob of C.P.R. employees, just out from the shops, attacked twelve special cars and smashed every pane of glass in all the cars after derailing two.

These were the first cars sent out by Logan street west to the C.P.R. shops since the strike started, and were only sent after repeated complaints from the C.P.R. men that they were getting no service. In response to an urgent telephone message Manager Phillips despatched twelve special cars to take the men home from work. Now it appears that the whole affair was planned, as the men attacking the cars had their pockets loaded with coal, iron nuts and pieces of scrap iron.

When the cars were attacked the strike-breakers locked the car doors and got under the seats until the police arrived. In the meantime every piece of glass in the cars was smashed to fragments, even the small funlights being broken. Most of the mob broke and ran when the police reserves arrived, but some stood their ground, and the police used their batons freely in driving them away from the cars. Four of the men were arrested. Several of the strike breakers were cut about the face by flying missiles, but none were seriously hurt.

Strike-breakers Arriving.

Practically eighty cars have been running all day on all the lines in the city except Arlington street and Logan west. Most of the cars are now manned by strike breakers, many of whom arrived from the east last night. Fifty-three arrived on Sunday, and two carloads came in to-day. In addition to these, the company is now using men who have been breaking in at the barns for the past few days. The cars ran until 10 o'clock to-night without further incident.

The Trades and Labour Council to-day issued an official statement calling on all union men to stand by the strike breakers. The men appear to be more confident than ever to-day, and laugh at the ultimation of the company giving them until Tuesday at noon to return to work. At present they appear to be devoting all their energies to working up sympathy among the other unions of the city. Sentiment has been generally against the men, and all the cars running are being freely patronized. No fares are being collected to-day.

PRESENTATION TO REV. FATHER FITZPATRICK BY THE CHOIR OF ST. MARTIN'S CHURCH, ENNISMORE

Was Presented With a Magnificent Group Picture of the Members---Annual Christmas Entertainment of the Public Schools---Continuation Class Doing Excellent Work.

Some time ago the local inspectors, Messrs. Broderick and Lees, together with Provincial Inspector Cowley, visited the Continuation Class in Ennismore, and found things, as usual, in first-class order. Some suggestions were made by Inspector Cowley, with respect to increased physical and chemical apparatus, as well as some improvements in the ventilation of the Senior room. Mr. J. A. O'Donohue and his able assistant, Miss Ryan, of Brantford, are giving perfect satisfaction, and the pupils are making remarkable progress, especially in English, to which Inspector Broderick gives such particular attention.

On Wednesday evening last the Public Schools of the Township held their closing entertainment before Christmas holiday. The evening was spent in St. Martin's T. A. S. hall, and proved most successful. A lengthy programme of some forty-four numbers were run off and with few exceptions the children did remarkably well. Probably the most enjoyable event of the evening, and certainly the most picturesque, was the hoop drill by the girls of the High School, and the "Poor, Travelling Tinkers" by the boys of the same school. Owing to a few cases of scarlet fever the pupils of S. S. Nos. 1 and 2, took very little part in the evening's performance. However, later on, they will be given a chance to distinguish themselves.

Last Sunday afternoon the members of St. Martin's choir waited on their pastor, Rev. M. D. Fitzgerald and made an address and presentation to him. The address, which is as follows, was read by Mrs. Daniel Crough, and the presentation, a magnificent picture of the choir, was made by P. J. Flood.

Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, P.P., Ennismore, Ont.

Dear Rev. Father,—The members of your choir have assembled to-day to greet you and to express the hope that you may be spared many long years to minister to our spiritual and temporal needs.

We recall, with feelings of deep gratitude to you, the many important events that have been crowded into the years of your pastorate in Ennismore. You have shown, by your untiring zeal, that you have our best interests at heart, that you take a special pride in furthering those interests to the utmost of your power, and we beg to-day to assure you, in all sincerity of soul that your labours have not been unappreciated, and that we entertain towards you feelings of respect, and gratitude, and love, deeper than we may well express.

We have, in this parish, advantages which other parishes may well envy. We have been blessed with a material prosperity, which bids fair to increase. The social side of life has been well provided for, and, in education we know that our advantages and opportunities are well beyond the mark which, a few years ago, we little expected ever to reach. Moreover, our spiritual advantages are not surpassed by those of any parish within our knowledge. We have, indeed, every facility for the practice of our holy religion, to which we profess our undying attachment.

These facts we mention, not to arrogate to our hearts any feelings of unholy pride, but by way of making boasting, but merely to state our true position. To God we owe these blessings, and to Him we return deep thanks. But, Dear Rev. Father, kindly permit us to say what we know to be true, that you have been in God's hands, a powerful means of procuring these advantages, and of affording these opportunities in which we take such special pride.

You have, at all times, cherished our best interests, and not a single one of those interests, material, social, intellectual, or religious, have you ever overlooked or neglected. It were needless to recount in detail all your labours in our behalf. Their results are apparent to any one who has eyes to see and ears to hear. We, therefore, congratulate you on the success that has attended your labours, and, as members of the parish we sincerely thank you for your devotedness to our interests.

As members of your choir, we have further words of congratulation and thanks, which we take pleasure in expressing. Some of us have been connected with the choir for the past twenty-five years, and we have noted a constant progress from humble beginnings to the present day, when in numbers and quality, we feel fitted to render appropriately the sacred chants of our church. Your encouragement and approval have aided us greatly in attaining the success with which our labours have been awarded.

We, therefore, respectfully tender to you our sincere thanks, and as a remembrance of the happy relations that exist between you and us, we request you kindly to accept this group picture of the members of your choir. Its material value we count as nothing; but we trust that for years to come, it may serve to recall to your mind the sincere attachment and filial love borne towards you by the choir of this parish. We dare hardly hint at separation. We trust that you may be spared to us many long years to continue the good work which, for eight years, you have so successfully carried on; and we promise that, during the years you may still be left to assist and guide us, you will have our hearty co-operation in your undertakings.

May God continue to bless you, dear Rev. Father, and may He grant that you will live to enjoy many happy days in our midst.

(Signed)

(Mrs.) Daniel Crough,
Agnes Scollard, Organist,
J. N. Galvin,
Peter Flood.

Father Fitzpatrick was taken completely by surprise, and some moments elapsed before he could give expression to his heartfelt gratitude. He thanked the choir members for their presence with him, and especially Mrs. Dan. Crough, who was responsible for everything, as the presentation was her personal gift, made on behalf of the whole choir.

In the centre of the picture is a large photo of Father Fitzpatrick, above which is a smaller one of the late Father Rigby, the first resident pastor of Ennismore, and the first to organize a choir. At the top of the picture is Miss A. Scollard, the present organist, and at the bottom Mrs. Dan Crough, the first organist.

On both sides of these are four past organists, Mrs. John B. O'Donohue, Mrs. Keith E. Flood, Mrs. D. Sullivan and Miss Teresa Gully. The other pictures, twenty-four in all, are most artistically arranged, in the form of an oval. At the top and on the left, is a beautiful photo of St. Martin's church, while a picture of the Hall and Presbytery occupies a similar position on the right.

THE FARMER'S BANK.

The Farmers' Bank has announced suspension of payment, a course due, it is pretty certain, to disclosures made at Lindsay at the trial for conspiracy of former members of the staff. It was stated in court that the bank had advanced to a Cobalt Mining Company the large sum of half a million dollars. The interests of the depositors and shareholders of the bank depend upon the value of the mining property. If it proves to be a good mine, with reasonably good value in its contents the depositors will be paid in full and the shareholders' minds will be correspondingly relieved. Otherwise, if the mine turns out badly the depositors will be heavy losers and the shareholders will stand to acquire an unpleasant familiarity with the double liability provisions of the banking act.

THE CANADIAN ALMANAC.

The Canadian Almanac, older than many old men, comes to the country for the sixty-fourth consecutive time. The Canadian Almanac has come to be a multum in parvo reference library in itself—a combination of gazetteer and encyclopaedia, containing in compact, but comprehensive form, a mass of information regarding Canada, that represent a mountain of blue books and statistical records. In fact, till one purposely investigates, no idea can be formed of the extent and range of the useful information packed in the 500 pages of the Canadian Almanac. The information is of the latest and can be relied upon as accurate. The Copp Clark Company, Limited, Toronto, are the publishers.

THE RESULT.

The result of the British elections is a decided triumph for the Liberals, especially considering the tactical and actual advantages—shelving of tariff reform and plural voting—their opponents possessed. Mr. Asquith, the Liberal leader, will have a majority in the House on his side of 128 of 127, as against a majority of 124 in the last Parliament. The indications are that the Lords will come down. The veto power of the Lords was really the only issue in the election. They will doubtless accept the legislation, dealing with the removal of their veto power, though they will swallow the dose with a wry face. There is some talk of resistance, but Mr. Balfour, the Conservative leader, has forecast its weakness to the point of surrender. He admitted this week that the Parliament Bill will pass, and that the Lords will do with it just as they did with the Reform Bill and other measures they swore they would not accept, but ended by accepting. The Lords will be the sole big issue before the parliament the next session, as they were the main issue in the elections. It is pretty certain that the Home Rule question will not come before parliament till 1912.

PILES

A BIT OF BUNCOMBE.

Our evening contemporary has made a discovery. It has found out that Mr. Borden's amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne didn't mean anything. It only expressed the "Nationalist" regret that the speech from the throne did not say anything about referring the decided question of the Canadian Navy to the people. Our sapient contemporary explains that that does not mean a referendum—a direct vote of the people; but that it should come under popular purview at a general election. In that case the sub-amendment of Mr. Borden was superfluous as well as meaningless, for in due course the general elections will come on and people will have a chance to express their opinion of the Naval Act, amendment or no amendment. Mr. Borden's sub-amendment to the "Nationalist" amendment of Mr. Monk, was precisely the same amendment with the loyalty frills tacked on; it had no other meaning, and Mr. Borden and his Conservative followers were practically voting for the "Nationalist" amendment, and, in this sense, endorsing the "Nationalist" campaign, of which the amendment of Mr. Monk was the concrete expression. Mr. Borden has no need to be proud of his "Nationalist" allies, and he has reason to pray to be saved from his friends. The Review says that his amendment did not mean a referendum. Then it meant nothing more than a superfluous buncombe.

SAN SALVADOR EARTHQUAKE.

The terrible result of the earthquake at San Salvador, contributes one to the usual end-of-the-year calamities that sadden the world. The earth opening and swallowing whole islands thickly populated by people unsuspecting danger and, no doubt, preparing like the whole Christian world, for the festivities of Christmastide, is unspeakably sad and should evoke the gratitude of Canadians who enjoy immunity from the terrible dangers and actualities, that come to those residing in the earthquake belt. It seems to be one of the compensations of nature that special advantages to one part of the world are attended with disadvantages that tend to balance the scale as regards other countries, apparently less favoured. In the islands sunk below the sea yesterday, perpetual summer reigned and blooming flowers brightened the whole land, while we in Canada were, and are, locked in the icy grip of winter. But these islands are gone, swallowed up in a moment, while we in Canada are safe and sound as far as such happenings are concerned; and in a few short months the flowers will come to us also.

In regard to the earthquake dangers of the San Salvador region, the fact that the Panama Canal route, is in the earthquake zone suggests the gruesome possibility that the immense expenditure of money by the United States on the canal, may be wasted in a moment. The immense concrete dams, built to seem as solid as the everlasting hills, under the grip of an earthquake may crumble, as an empty egg shell in the grasp of a giant. Man's puniness is never more emphasised than in the presence of the irresistible forces of nature exercised through such media as the earthquake represents.

FREE ADVERTISING.

(Guelph Mercury.)

Recently the Dominion Annuity Branch sent to the press of the country a circular enclosing and requesting the free insertion of reading matter advertising the benefits of the Government's annuity system. The plea was urged that the press should join the forces which the Government is employing in teaching the doctrine of a thriftier citizenship.

On the same broad grounds the press might be expected to advertise free of charge, banks, loan companies and life insurance companies which all take care of the savings of thrifty people.

In this city of municipal ownership, civic departments which exact the last copper for the services they render from the newspapers, unavoidably receive a great deal of free advertising for which they should pay. Individuals and organizations of all kinds seem to expect the same gratuitous consideration. There is hardly any limit to the demands of this nature.

Space is all a newspaper has to sell to get money with which to pay for collection of its news, its wages, its paper and the hundred and one items which enter into the cost of publication. If newspapers yielded to all the demands for free advertising which are made upon them it would quickly put the publishers out of business and impoverish the country. Those who make such demands should pay them and those who cannot afford to pay them should not have them forced upon the very people whose patronage they seek on the part of the newspapers.

HOW ASQUITH COMES OUT OF BRITISH GENERAL ELECTIONS

(Toronto World.)

The Asquith Government has a majority of over a hundred. But it is a coalition of different elements. Grant that, what about the opposition? It is Conservative, it is a tariff reform, it is Liberal Unionist, it is free trade? Therefore, the sum of votes in the house must tell. The significant thing of this election just held is that all talk of composite government forces cease. An Irish vote of 1, a Scotch vote of 1, a Welch vote of 1 and a English votes are as efficient a total of 5 in power in the house as 3 Anglish, 1 Scotch and 1 North of Ireland. If anything is wrong, it is for parliament as soon as it chooses, to readjust the wrong. But while you are doing that, there are other things to adjust; one man, one vote; all elections on one day; a wider franchise so as to take in many capable citizens who are now without votes. If you wish to equalize the representation and at the same time extend the franchise, and to give one man no more voting power than another and generally to remove all abuses or irregularities, we're ready to begin the work, but without any interference of the lords. The lords have so stopped us in this work of getting a fairer expression of the public vote, in getting a fairer distribution of voting values, that we propose to remove the veto power of the lords in things constitutional, financial and social. Pending this we say; man for man; we're all on a par.

If, therefore, Asquith is able to line up the Irish vote—even on a promise of home rule—he is entitled to press more forcibly than ever on the King for such assistance as will enable the will of the majority of parliament.

Asquith's danger is not that he has the Irish vote, but if he did not have it? Asquith will put the issue up to the doors of the lords at the earliest moment. When he does, he will have won. There was no more talk about Lloyd-George's budget after the succeeding election; so will it be now in regard to the veto.

Notwithstanding the predictions of the able Canadian journalists now in England, Asquith is about to put the commons (the chosen of the people) at the head of the nation's affairs and in control of legislation; after that the house of lords will be reformed by abolishing the hereditary principle in part, by reducing its numbers, and by assigning it a greater share in the active work of legislation.

If, further, under such conditions, Asquith asks the King to create new Liberal peers sufficient to carry the government's bill through the lords, the King is bound to give them.

The King will act in such a crisis on the advice of his constitutional advisers. If he did not do so, he, more than anyone else, would have to assume the entire responsibility of interfering with the will of the people as expressed in parliament. Neither the late King nor his son would take such a stand. The crown, not the lords, would be in jeopardy. The King will not risk the crown.

The lords must, to our mind, therefore, surrender, or the King must create new peers. In a word, the lords are beaten, though it may take time to have it not only admitted but illustrated in actual laws on the statute books.

In a word, our reading of the situation to-day is that Asquith is more on top than ever, that he will be able to force his veto resolution and that if he goes into "a big conference" to do it, he will do it that way because it suits him, and because it makes the change more acceptable to those who do not like it. But he will not only have to press his veto, he will have to take up or accept reform in the composition of the lords. That truly marvellous spectacle is now in sight of the lords seeking to abolish their own hereditary right to a say in legislation.

Perhaps the real procedure will be like that of comic opera; the lords will go into conference to restrict their veto power, if at the same time and in the same conference they be allowed to abandon the hereditary principle. It may work out on these lines.

But our view, as we have said several times since the election returns began to come in, is that Asquith is stronger than ever, and that Mr. Balfour, Lord Lansdowne, Lord Rosebery are more or less stranded, though they do not say it, even if they see it.

A CANADIAN POLICY.

(Brantford Expositor.)

The question of the Canadian navy will be one that the Conservative leaders will be glad to forget before the next general election. The Victoria Colonist, a good Conservative paper, voices the feelings of British Columbians when it says:

"When expressing our approval of the decision of the Dominion Government to establish a Canadian navy, we said it was the first step that would cost. The first step has been taken. It may not be as long a step or as strong a step as some of us would have like to have seen taken, but it is a step and it is in the right direction. Perhaps we do not much mistake the case when we say that Sir Wilfrid Lauriery led the people of Canada as far as they could be easily taken at this juncture."

On the Atlantic coast, The Halifax Herald still regards the provision for naval defence as inadequate, and professes a desire for a direct contribution to aid Britain in building battleships. The Herald does not seem to understand that its leaders at Ottawa have thrown that part of their policy overboard in the hope of securing the return of Mr. Monk to the fold and that the French-Canadians are far more hostile to the suggestion of a money grant than they are to the Government's proposals. Every day's exchanges must tend to restore the editors of the Ontario Conservative papers to sanity on the question of naval defence for the Dominion's coasts and commerce and prove to them that The Victoria Colonist speaks but the sober truth when it declares that Sir Wilfrid Laurier "led the people of Canada as far as they could safely be taken at this juncture."

The Victori Conservative colonist is not the only Conservative authority of weight and leading that shows sense and patriotism upon the naval question. Speaking in reference to it in Toronto at the annual meeting of the South York Conservative Association on Saturday, Mr. W. F. McLean, the representative, told his constituents thus:

"I cannot see eye to eye with the rest of the Conservatives in that regard. I believe the peace movement is growing, but until the nations come more and more to arbitration there must be some scheme of naval defence. I have no sympathy with the Nationalist movement in Quebec. We must assume full responsibility in Canada for our share of the defence of the Empire I am not in full sympathy with the naval defence as organized by the Government, but it is a beginning. I prefer to take a stand in favour of something being done, and trust, in time to put it on better lines. As to the suggested settlement of the question of naval defence by the people, I claim that matters of defence of our country are not to be settled by a vote of the people, but by the Government and Parliament. They must assume the responsibility."

THE FARMERS' BANK SUSPENDS PAYMENT

The Farmers' Bank has temporarily declared suspension of payment. According to the Banking Act it has three months in which to meet its obligations, and if it fails to do so at the end of that time it goes automatically into liquidation.

The bank was organized in November, 1906, with a capitalization of $500,000, subsequently increased to one million.

The shareholders number 9,798, covering a paid up amount of $987,397. The shareholders are largely in the country districts and in looking over the lists it is noticed that there are several subscribers in some districts, as if the subscription of stock were infectious. So far, nobody given as residing in Peterborough county is found in the list of shareholders, though there are several in the vicinity of Kinmount. John Austin, of Kinmount, is put down for two shares in which $200 was paid. C. Wellstood, Kinmount, has also two shares with $200 paid; Jos. Wilson, Kinmount, is put down for one share with $100 paid. Wm. Watson, F. Dettman, and G. Dettman, Kinmount, are listed for three shares each, for which, however, there has no payment been recorded, and J. J. Doherty holds one share without payment.

Toronto Girl's Task Well Done.

Some months ago it was announced that the talented young painter, Miss Edith P. Stevenson, whose studio is at Richmond Hill, near Toronto, had been commissioned to paint twelve of the judges of the State of Ohio for installment of the new Court House erected at Youngstown, the capital of that prosperous state. The Vindicator of Youngstown, which is the second iron centre of America with Pittsburg in the lead, on Nov. 6th devoted a full page to the work of Miss Stevenson. In the course of the article it is stated: "Miss Stevenson has pleased all who have had the pleasure of inspecting the canvases by the artistic way in which she has handled difficult subjects of portraiture. Her wonderful talent is perhaps best seen in her marvelous reproductions of living likenesses of judges who have "passed on" many years ago and of whom but the poorest daguerreotypes or photos are in existence. From the standpoint of art alone many of her present portraits are masterpieces of this class of painting aside from their value as likenesses."

With an Eye to the Future.

"It would probably take many generations of adversity to train Canadians into the far-seeing thriftiness of my people," once observed a Canadian of Scotch birth. "I remember a case of a Scotch woman who had been promised a new bonnet by a lady. Before the undertook the purchase, the lady called and asked the good woman:

"'Would you rather have a felt or a straw bonnet, Mrs. Carmichael?'

"'Weel, responded Mrs. Carmichael, thoughtfully, 'I think I'll tak a straw ane. It'll maybe be a month'o' to the eye when I'm done wi' it.'"

Great Lady Golfers.

In the latest issue of The London Sketch appears a page of portraits of nine "Lady Golfers Few Men Could Beat," and among them is Miss Dorothy Campbell of Hamilton, champion of Canada and the United States, and ex-champion of Great Britain. Another of the nine is Mrs. A. H. Cuthell, formerly Miss Rhona Adair, twice lady golf champion of Great Britain, who visited Toronto a few years ago and played some exhibition golf.

Church and State.

There died last month in Peterboro the oldest resident, in the person of James Stevenson, ex-M.P. He had lived in Peterboro since 1846. He was a Conservative in politics and a personal friend of the late Sir John A. Macdonald. He represented West Peterboro in the Dominion Parliament for two terms, from 1867 and 1896, defeating Hon. George A. Cox in his first election.

During this contest of twenty-three years ago the feeling ran high on each side, for, although Peterboro was strongly Conservative, George A. Cox was a popular citizen. A Peterboro man was recalling the fight, during a recent conversation with political friends and remarked:

"I remember well the Sunday before the election. Both Mr. Cox and Mr. Stevenson were, if my memory serves me well, members of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church. They were entrusted with the dignified duty of taking up the collection. On the Sunday before the final contest they were far more observed than the minister himself, who found it difficult to preach a gospel of peace to a congregation intensely interested in a political fight.

"As they approached the altar with their silver-filled plates, the candidates came face to face and regarded each other with defiance. This was too much, for the congregation and audible smiles greeted the return of each politician to the seclusion of his pew."

Apple Culls for Cider.

That Canadian fruit growers could make good money by using their cull apples for cider, instead of feeding them to stock, was the advice given to the Ontario Fruit Growers' Convention a short time ago by Louis Mesmier of Paris, France, who is conducting experiments on the cider-making qualities of local fruit in Toronto University. He has found that 10 pounds of culls will make one gallon of cider; it costs 3 or 4 cents a gallon and can be sold locally at 10 cents. If the quality were good it would sell for 30 cents in Europe. A barrel of culls should easily net the grower $1.20.

Great Britain and South America, he said, would be a great market for a good quality of cider, and the Nova Scotia's alone, in Canada, were quake to this fact. To show how Nova Scotia's export trade in this regard had increased he gave figures thus: 1905, $910; 1906, $9,000; 1909, $30,000. He had found that the best quality of cider for the European market could be made from a combination of Talman sweets and crabs.

Products from culls that also found ready market in Europe were apple juice, sweet liquor and apple cake. The latter would sell for 2 cents per pound in Scotland.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

Secretary Craig of the City Hockey League received a telephone message from Harry Simpson of Lakefield yesterday afternoon conveying the somewhat belated intelligence that the Lakefield team was prepared to place a team in the City League provided a four club league could be formed. According to the constitution no entry can be received for the league after Dec. 15, but this point could be overruled provided there is any likelihood of two other teams coming along, which to say the least, is not at all promising. Whatever the different managements think about the matter, the players seem pretty well satisfied with things as they think they will have enough hockey this year without any city league.

The Intermediate O. H. A. practice at Brock Street Rink last night was another lively workout, and the usual bunch of fans watched the doings from the side. The practice was featured by the great shooting of the forward line, which gave the defence a very busy hour. Goal-keeper Derocher came near taking the count from a vicious side-shot, by Kelley, which pinned him behind the cur. Stabbing a cut. The quintette are all shooting nicely and the marksmanship of the wings particularly, is of a nature to get the goal-keeper's goat early in the game. The only fault noticeable from the side was that the forwards are not combining as well as they should, and there is a tendency to do too much shooting from outside. The play that gets the goals is the one that carries the puck in close for shots and combination is the surest and most effective way of boring in. A little more practice will remedy this, however.

Cyril Giroux received a nasty cut in his arm from a skate at last night's practice. Three stitches were required to close up the gash.

Frank Heffernan is representing the Peterborough Hockey Club at the meeting of the clubs of this district of the Intermediate O. H. A. section, at the Gilbert House, Trenton, this afternoon, to draw up the schedule.

Tonight is Junior practise night at the Brock Street Rink, and the Clubs will have a practice game at 7 o'clock. The first seven players who signed certificates will play a team picked from the rest of the Juniors. The certificate men will line up as follows:

Goal—Patterson.
Point—Reynolds.
Cover—Pratt.
Rover—Coughlin.
Centre—Hall.
Right wing—McMartin.

TRICKS OF WOUNDED WILD FOWL

Face Death Under Water Rather Than the Hunter Above.

The cunning exhibited by certain species of wild fowl when wounded is remarkable. Many a duck hunter has winged birds from a flock and seen them dive never apparently to return to the surface again. Certain kinds of ducks which are obtuse in their willingness to come to decoys become, when struck by a bullet, little devils of almost sarcastic cleverness.

A case in point occurred not long ago when a duck hunter on the St. Lawrence showered a big coot with fine shot from his boat secluded in a rush bed. The duck first attempted to rise, but discovering that its wing was crippled, immediately dropped into the water again and dove. The hunter stood up in his boat with his gun leveled for a second shot at the bird when it should come to the surface, but he waited in vain for the reappearance of his game.

There were few ducks flying to occupy his attention, so he determined to row out and solve if possible the mystery of the coot's disappearance. The water under the decoys was shallow enough for him to see clearly the weed covered bottom, and he paddled carefully about near the spot where he had seen the wounded duck lunge below the surface. Suddenly, in the clear water below the gunwale of his boat, he saw the solution of the mystery.

Anchored a few feet from the bottom by a thick reed stalk, wings outstretched and head hanging limply down over his back, was the body of the elusive coot. With the tension of a death grip it was evident he had clutched the weed to keep himself from rising again to the surface where he had received before the pain from the wounding bullet. Rather than give himself up to this strange enemy, he had preferred to remain at the bottom.

Running his oar blade into the water, the hunter tried to detach his game; but so tenaciously did the feet cling that it was only by severing the weed itself that the duck was brought again to the surface. Even when taken into the boat, the bird's death grip remained fast upon the rush stalk.

Another instance of the straits to which a wounded duck will resort in evading a hunter was furnished by an Arnemouth golden eye. The bird had been wounded among decoys in a small "pool" like of a frozen lake. When its decoy mate failed to reappear, the hunter walked to the other side of the hole, and there, through the transparent ice, was astonished to see his game swimming with both feet and wings about just under the ice. It was evident that the wounded duck, in its flight, had gone under the ice, and was frantically swimming about it alarm of its captivity. The hunter followed the desperate bird for some little distance. Then the poor creature's strength began to grow weaker, the wing action ceased, and finally the body lay still against the under surface of the ice. With an oar the hunter dispersed out the drowned bird.

TO HAVE GREAT PARK

BRITISH COLUMBIA PLANS HUGE PUBLIC PLAYGROUND.

During the Past Summer Hon. Price Ellison Has Been Exploring a Tract of Land in the Heart of Vancouver Island for a Provincial Reserve — Crown Mountain Will Be Its Chief Glory.

A new public play and pleasure-ground, comprising approximately three hundred square miles of the wildest and most majestic mountain, lake and river scenery in Canada, has just been set apart for the use and benefit of future generations by the British Columbia Government in what is to be known as the Provincial National Park Reserve, in the heart of the Vancouver Island Alps. The park surrounds Buttle Lake, named after its discoverer, a California prospector of very early days, who was the first to penetrate the interior of Vancouver Island; and constitutes a veritable wonderland of mountain peaks and glaciers, tumultuous waterfalls, gem-like lakes and sombre forests.

It had never been explored until the present summer, when Hon. Price Ellison, then Minister of Crown Lands, in person headed a party to penetrate its fastnesses and incidentally to conquer hoary-headed Crown Mountain, the monarch of the Island Alps. The party was a remarkable one in that it included the daughter of the Colonial Minister, Miss Myra King Ellison, who, though but seventeen years of age and girlishly slight, succeeded in keeping pace with the hardiest mountaineers of the expedition, and insisted upon carrying her own fifty-pound "pack" during the whole ascent of Crown Mountain, which it was her proud privilege to christen in foaming wine as "Ellison Peak." Myra river, lake and falls, discovered in the course of the expedition's researches, are named in honor of this dauntless little lady, the first of her sex to have invaded the maze of mountains found in the Vancouver Island interior.

The special report of the expedition was laid before the Government of British Columbia by Hon. Mr. Ellison just prior to his departure for England, where he is now visiting. It being his first return to his native land since he left it thirty-five years ago, with the determination to build up a fortune in the new western world. In this ambition he has succeeded as well as he has in provincial politics, being rated to-day among British Columbia's millionaires, and the proprietor of one of the largest and most admired estates in Western Canada. Retiring from the administration of the Department of Public Lands, he became Minister of Finance and Agriculture only a few weeks ago.

At the meeting of Parliament at Victoria, provision will be made for the construction of roads and trails into the new Provincial Park, while Canadian Northern surveyors are now investigating the possibility of carrying the railway to the new wonderland in the immediate future.

The investigations made by Hon. Mr. Ellison and his assistants have disclosed many new and interesting facts in connection with the little known Vancouver Island Alps, one of which is that there exist, in all probability, other and higher peaks than Crown Mountain, in the vicinity of the Provincial Park, to tempt the skill, the daring and the endurance of new generations of mountaineers; while another is that the Park boundaries extend fully seven miles further northerly than had been supposed. The park is described by Col. W. J. H. Holmes, C.E., P.L.S., who made a careful triangulation survey of Buttle Lake and the surrounding areas, as "situated in the shape of a right-angled triangle, with its north-westerly apex some few miles to the south of the fiftieth parallel, and about 30 miles from the east coast of Vancouver Island. It then follows the boundary line of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway reserve for forty-four miles south-easterly, thence turning due west until met by a perpendicular dropped from the north-western apex. This contains and encloses [illegible] square miles of mountains, forest and rivers. Buttle Lake itself is eighteen and a half miles long, and [illegible] mile wide, its shores and hillsides covered with fir and cedar, gradually giving place to sharply-pointed masses of rock towering to heights of from 4,000 to 5,000 feet, covered on their northern faces with perpetual snows. To the east of the Lake, the Albert Edward and Alexandria ranges dominate the scene."

"The view from Crown Mountain," says Hon. Mr. Ellison's official report, "is a glorious one of the Victoria peaks dominating all the surrounding country. One of these, King George Peak, rises for 3,000 feet with sheer walls on all sides, and the whole leaning over to the north at a surprising angle. To the north—almost beneath—fed by the living snows of Crown Mountain, is an unfathomable emerald-green lake entirely shut in on three sides by the horseshoe conformation of Crown Mountain, this lake being the source of Adams river, which winds away to the north through a deeply indented forest landscape, until it disappears behind a long range of mountains in the middle distance. In the background, crowning this range, appear the snow-covered mountains of the British Columbia mainland, between Knight's and Bute Inlet. To the east, through a gap between Myra and Flanagan Mountains, a long valley opens out, containing lower Campbell Lake and the seaboard around Cape Mudge. To the south, the eye meets a never-ending succession of peaks and glaciers stretching to the horizon."

There can be no doubt in the opinion of Hon. Mr. Ellison and the professional members of the party, that Mount Flanagan has heretofore been generally mistaken for Crown Mountain—also that the maximum altitude of the Vancouver Island Alps will be found to considerably exceed 8,000 feet. The surveyors describe the country generally as rougher, wilder and more picturesque than anywhere in the Selkirks, where the mountains tower to heights of 12,000 feet and upwards.

Throughout the new Provincial Park signs of wapiti (Great American Elk), of black bear, of wolves, and of red deer were everywhere in evidence. A fair proportion of ptarmigan grouse and other feather game is also reported; while every lake and stream teems with trout. Mountain goats, sheep and chamois are to be introduced in the park at a near date.

At no place were any signs of aboriginal residence or visitation encountered, the interior of Vancouver Island in its northern reaches having been shunned from time immemorial by the native races, stirred through superstitious fear of the "Manache Ita"—the Evil Spirit of the red man—or, a more practical explanation, because the Pacific Coast Indian cares not to fare far from his canoe, and has in him no germ of the enthusiasm of the mountaineer.

Eleven Times Mayor.

A municipal record was established at Montgomery recently, when Ald. N. W. Fairles-Humphreys accepted the corporation's unanimous invitation to become mayor of the borough for the eleventh time. He will be the only Coronation year mayor in the United Kingdom who also held a similar office in the two Jubilee years of Queen Victoria and the Coronation of King Edward. Mr. Fairles-Humphreys, who is a native of Durham and in his seventy-fourth year, is a grandson of the founder of the lifeboat movement.

Letting the Cat Out.

Johnny (to his sister's young man)—What cricket club do you play with? Young Man—I never played a game of cricket in my life. Why do you ask? Johnny—'Cause I heard ma tell Ethel that you were a splendid "catch."—London Mail.

Victoria and the Northwest.

If rumor be true, Victoria is to be visited by the Hudson Bay Co. The fur traders are going to keep store in the Outpost. Victoria is elected. Lord Strathcona is said to have booked an order for an eight-storey concrete building. The company has such establishments in Winnipeg, Regina and Vancouver. Why not in Victoria?

Retired factors come down from the Arctic to bask with Indian army colonels in the charm of bur timber hedges and lotus land gardens—think it all Victoria as far as known of the lands of the north.

Instructors for Brazilian Army.

Berlin, Dec. 20.—Twenty German army officers, headed by a major, will be selected from a number that have volunteered to go to Brazil and give military instruction to the Brazilian army.

OPPORTUNITIES ARE OFFERED

Opportunities are offered to Canadian business men, manufacturers, fruit importers, capitalists, etc., to personally investigate business conditions and opportunities for investment in the West Indies and British South America. H. C. MacKenzie, Cornish managing editor Canada West and India Magazine, has arranged with the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. to secure the S. S. Manitoba, a roomy, comfortable ship, provided one hundred and twenty-five persons signify their intention to take the cruise. It is proposed the steamship will leave St. John, N.B., January 14, 1911, for a six weeks' cruise, returning on or about February 24, which will permit a visit to Cuba and Havana, the various points in Jamaica, Georgetown, Demerara, St. Kitts, St. Louis, St. Vincent, Antigua, Grenada, Barbadoes, Martinique, Port Rico, San Domingo, and Bermuda, returning to St. John. This ship will be especially equipped with electric fans, orchestra for dancing, etc., a fine motor launch for special shore trips, a dark-room for convenience of photographers, deck awnings hammocks for those who desire to sleep on deck, etc. The well-known, high-class service of the Canadian Pacific Empress steamships will be provided. It is the desire to give Canadians an opportunity for the expansion of commerce between these various countries and nothing will be left undone to assure the maximum of comfort for the minimum of expense. The number will be limited to 150 passengers and the fare for the round trip will be from $200 to $300, as trip has received the endorsement of the Department of Trade and Commerce of Canada.

GOOD-BYE TO BEAUTY

It is good bye to beauty when kidney derangements set in. The skin becomes hard and dry and the form wastes away and becomes emaciated. One cannot be too watchful and the safest way is to keep the kidneys as well as the liver and bowels, healthy and active by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. This ensures pure blood and a healthy digestive system.

THE JUNIOR BIBLE STUDY CLASSES WERE ENTERTAINED

Enjoyable Evening Was Spent at the Y. M. C. A. Last Night When an Interesting Programme Was Given.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

A most enjoyable time was spent last night in the Boys' Club social rooms at the Y. M. C. A. when the Junior combined Bible study classes were entertained. A spread provided by the boys and displayed by the Social Committee of the Department, who are doing a good work towards making these social events possible, was the first part of the programme, and one part that is usually enjoyed by all present, after which a splendid programme, arranged by the committee was run off. Mr. G. Hall, who acted as chairman, made a few remarks, and then called on Mr. J. Laing, who needed no introduction, and is a general favourite throughout the Association. Mr. Laing gave the boys a most interesting talk on his experiences on the great lakes. Following Mr. Laing, Mr. Galley, who looks after the needs of the Business Boys, physically, spiritually and mentally, gave a short talk, which was most interesting and instructive. Mr. Hodges, Mr. Bruce Hamilton, Mr. H. Hill, Mr. Tait, boys' secretary, and Chief Thompson also gave short, instructive and entertaining addresses.

The boys were especially taken with the readings by B. Hamilton.

The programme was brought to a close by the boys forming a ring, taking hold of hands and singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds."

Prospects for an increased interest in this work look good.

MET WITH ACCIDENT

Mrs. Stephen Payne, Harvey St., was the victim of an unusual and serious accident last evening. While lifting a lid off the stove it slipped and fell, striking her on the foot with such force that the pain caused her to lose her balance, and she fell. She had been carrying a lamp chimney in her other hand, and was so unfortunate as to fall upon this, the glass cutting a facial artery and she was in great danger of bleeding to death. Drs. Burnham and Morgan succeeded in arresting the flow of blood and no serious results are anticipated.

CAUSE OF EXPLOSION

NEW YORK, N.Y. DEC. 20.—It has developed in an investigation that a slippery rail was probably the initial cause of the explosion which wrecked the power house here yesterday and caused a terrible loss of life. Owing to the greasiness of the rails the motorman was unable to stop the electric train which crashed into the power house, smashing the gas pipe which allowed the gas to escape into the street where it was ignited and exploded by an electric spark.

GYMNASIUM CLASS

The Y.W.C.A. gymnasium class will meet as usual at 8 o'clock this evening.

A REMARKABLE COACH.

Harry Griffith Has a Genius for Getting Rugby Material.

If anyone will dispute the statement that the greatest athletic coach in Canada is Mr. Harry Griffith, of the Varsity Rugby team, no one will deny that he is a remarkable personality. Mr. Griffith differs almost completely from the traditional idea of a coach. As he wanders along the side-lines enveloped in his overcoat, he strikes the average onlooker as being slightly undersized, and his manner is so unassertive that one wonders how it ever becomes commanding. As a matter of fact, he does not get results by shouting at his men, but goes about his work with quiet earnestness, studying the team scientifically and adopting the same means of strengthening its weak points. It speaks volumes for his bearing that, even after a whole season on the playing field as one of the boys, he is still "Mr. Griffith" to all of them. The figure of Mr. Griffith will linger in the memories of those who have seen him on the side-lines long after more conspicuous and noisy coaches are forgotten. He invariably carries a cane, and his pipe is his constant companion. It has been said that Mr. Griffith has only one way of showing excitement—anybody watching him notices that he is pulling hard and fast at his little smoker.

His success as a coach has been almost abnormal. When he taught at Ridley College, the St. Catharines preparatory school had the greatest team of its history, and when he came to Toronto he began immediately to manufacture winning teams at the University. He has won the Intercollegiate and Dominion championships, and this year annexed the Yates cup, accomplishing the feat for the first time in the history of the Intercollegiate League. This record is a triumph for brain and personality.

During one of the games at Rosedale this season, a representative of an Eastern college was speaking of the wonderful showing of the Varsity team. "You seem to have struck a regular mine of Rugby material," he said, "and judging from your new players, it is not yet showing any signs of running out."

"Oh, it is not so much the material," said a Toronto enthusiast, pointing to where Mr. Griffith was puffing his pipe on the side-lines, "the important thing is to have that little man put his stamp on it."

Their Favorite Songs.

Since such an interest has been taken in the matter of a national song, it has been considered wise to enter upon the subject of favorite melodies with prominent Canadians and find out their preferences.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier declares his fondness for nautical songs and never tires of "A Life on the Ocean Wave" and "A Sailor's Life for Me."

Mr. Henri Bourassa, on the contrary, has no fondness for songs of the ocean and prefers the simple melody of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

Mr. F. D. Monk has a liking for the sentimental and is deeply affected by "The Girl I Left Behind Me," the lady in the case being that ancient damsel known as the Conservative Party.

Mr. R. L. Borden is afflicted with a fondness for gentle lyrics and prefers lullabies to any other kind of melody. "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother" is his favorite song.

Sir James Whitney scorns the lighter lays and professes to indulge in such outbursts as "Let Me Like a Soldier Fall," and "Hold the Fort."—Courier.

For Heavy Eaters.

Domestic science seems to be coming to its own in the schools and colleges, but still some big husky men express a preference for the "old-fashioned home cooking." And it's incidents like the following that make them poke fun at the new order in cooking: In a Western Ontario city a girl who was giving the city its first taste of domestic science teaching was very enthusiastic over her work in the schools. One evening she said to the group about the boarding-house table, "Usually I give the children half an egg each for cooking purposes. To-day I had only half the usual supply, but the children made the cutest little quarter-egg omelettes you could wish to see."

Missed Their Object.

Some of our sports proceeded to Clarbanks last Friday with full and object in view, namely to slay a bear. However, the object did not come into view and they returned with one partridge. Never mind, boys, another week will bring a better report we feel sure.—Wiarton Echo.

Iron, Gold and Water.

Iron is seven times as heavy as water, bulk for bulk, and gold nineteen times.

Doubtful Surgery.

Hurry became at length a malignant growth, causing civilization no small inconvenience.

"Cut it out!" the cry thereupon went up, for it was like the unthinking mob to seize upon the most obvious expedient.

But wiser heads entertained misgivings. Would civilization survive so serious an operation?

Your Troubles.

John Wesley was once walking with a brother, who related to him his troubles, saying he did not know what he should do. They were at that moment passing a stone wall, over which a cow was looking.

"Do you know," asked Wesley, "why that cow looks over that wall?"

"No," replied the one in trouble.

"I will tell you," said Wesley. "It is because she cannot look through it. And that is what you must do with your troubles—look over and above them."

What He Ought To Have Done.

Lord Alverstone is the possessor of an excellent voice, and on one occasion (when he was Sir Richard Webster) constituted a political meeting by singing a sacred solo. At the close a gaunt spinster rose at the back of the audience and said: "With your face and your voice, Sir Richard, you ought to be teaching the Gospel truth to the poor heathen, instead of telling honest folk to be political."

Ex-Police Chief Dead.

Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 19.—Gen. W. S. Bull, assistant adjutant-general of the New York State Department, G.A.R., died here yesterday. Gen. Bull was superintendent of the Buffalo police department for twelve years. He was retired six years ago.

Mound Builders.

In many Canadian villages the man who teaches the school is second in importance only to the minister. If the minister is away, the public meeting is presided over by the teacher. If an athletic club, debating society, or reading circle is to be formed, the teacher is expected to lead the way. His opinion carries weight, and his companionship is valued highly by the young men of the village.

That's the background for a little incident in which there figured the teacher and a "citizen" of a village a few miles from Owen Sound. The two were on one of their little autumn rambles near the village, and they had exchanged interesting bits of information about cities and the open country. "I've often wondered," said the villager, after they had talked of many strange things, "how all these hills happened."

The teacher had been reading up on as to make interesting the lessons in advanced geography, which his couple of fifth class pupils were soon to have, and it was with pleasure that he stated what appealed to him as the most probable theory of the hills. Carefully, he explained the theory that the earth, had cooled and contracted, its crust thereby wrinkling into valleys and hills.

The other man listened attentively, and then, with not the suspicion of a smile, said, "Oh, that's it. And here I've been going along thinking that it was just that people had too much land and piled some of it up out of the way."

It was the same villager who, when "company" had helped him to do full justice to supper at his home, would say, "I wish it was to-morrow morning," and, when questions had asked why, would add, "I want to see what we're going to have for breakfast."

While talking of mistakes, laymen's mistakes, etc., it naturally occurs to properly censure who have suffered from the depredations of bad boys than the most important of all is the house mistaken. Boys who break chairs by climbing in through just because they are "funny," who disfigure pavements with while they are in process of writing, who strip their neighbors' trees and vines and are constantly doing some damage, all go down in mind of well-doing citizens as the people in distant places, and those who improve their property should be protected and encouraged.—Cambridge Journal.

TO PRODUCE MISSING ONE

They Say Buchanan Adopted a Threatening Attitude Toward Their Father and That This Was the Reason Why Latter Resigned — Isaiah Danks Is Discovered in Chicago—To Take His Evidence.

Woodstock, Dec. 21.—It developed yesterday afternoon that Isaiah Danks in the Oxford County graft enquiry apparently had no power of attorney for the late Elizabeth Cartwright of England, and therefore had no right to transfer her mortgage in the Northern Gravel road to J. R. Bowman of Chicago.

E. F. B. Johnston, counsel for Oxford County, produced a statement from Miss Cartwright's Birmingham solicitors, Messrs. Saunders, Bradbury and Saunders. These people state that the lady died July 16, 1898. Her estate was probated Sept. 21, 1898. They knew of $5,100 in Canadian mortgages, but could locate nothing regarding Isaiah Danks.

They state that he did not have power of attorney for her in Canada, and he had not accounted for the mortgage in connection with Northern Gravel road.

Yesterday's enquiry located Danks. He is in Chicago, and Mr. Johnston declared last night that he would ask that a commission be sent to Chicago to take his evidence, and also to scrutinize a lawyer named Sterlin, who, it is believed, can throw some light upon the identity of the mysterious, "shadowy" Mr. Tate.

M. T. Buchanan, the main figure in the spot light, made a further promise yesterday to try and produce Tate.

Fred. Vickert, one of the five county councillors who had a seven hour session in the Walker House, Toronto, when the $2,000 deal with Tate was cinched, was probed as to whether he had heard of "graft" in connection with the county's affairs.

"Well, I heard that the county treasurer paid a year's salary to get his job."

Replying to a question from Judge Snider, he said nothing had been done to make sure of the title to the road.

"Would you buy a farm that way?"

"Well, we left everything to Chairman Buchanan."

Witness had opposed paying more than $500 to Tate. Buchanan had urged the payment of $2,000, taking Tate's side rather than that of those who held out for a lower price. Buchanan wanted to pay Tate's prices from the very beginning.

Vickert said at one time it was impossible for a man to get a contract from the county without paying commissions.

J. C. Hegler, Ingersoll counsel for M. T. Buchanan, was put on the witness stand concerning certain transactions that his client had had through him. Witness admitted having known Isaiah Danks in 1898. He was then inspector of the Bank of London in Ingersoll, which failed in 1900.

Mr. Hegler told of the transfer of the mortgage from Elizabeth Cartwright to a man named Bowman of Chicago. Isaiah Danks had claimed power of attorney for her and witness had executed the transfer. He confessed that he was not certain that Bowman had any interest in the property. Neither did he know of any interest Robert Tate had in it except as secured through the transfer from Bowman. He had never met this man Tate.

M. H. McGee of the Noble Detective Agency, said he had searched all this Toronto city directories for ten years, and interviewed all the Robert Tates, in the hope of locating this man, who is so badly wanted now, but to no avail.

Henry Brown, son of the former county treasurer, now deceased, told of Buchanan having applied a threatening attitude towards his father, when the latter refused to sign the $2,000 check in payment for the road.

"He made my father a proposal," said witness, "and my father answered that he had never been asked to do anything of that kind in all his 50 years' service.

"My father told him that people were sometimes put behind the bars for such things. Buchanan left in anger and secured an order from Warden Lockhart for the check."

Homer Brown, brother of last witness, said his father resigned shortly after this, because Buchanan had threatened his office.

A third son, L. R. E. Brown, said: "I don't know whether I should tell you, but Buchanan threatened he would put me in the penitentiary for telling things my father had said." This witness also volunteered that Buchanan had told him about a year after his father had resigned, that if he would see a couple of men and give them $50 apiece something might be done for his father.

Young Brown said that Buchanan had promised his father that if he would resign he would get him a retiring allowance.

James White, ex-county clerk, swore that he had been told by Buchanan that a grant would probably be made to Brown for his long service, and that a blank bylaw to be drawn up for it, but nothing was done.

John Youngs of West Zorra, an ex-warden, in his testimony declared that he had offered M. T. Buchanan $1,000 if he would raise the price of the Woodstock and Ingersoll gravel road, but he made the offer, he said, in the spirit of a bluff.

FARMERS ARE OFF

In Statement Issued They Say They Recognize the Reasonableness of Sir Wilfrid's Position Regarding the Tariff—Will Await Legislation on Other Subjects — Relief Has Been Promised, They Say.

Ottawa, Dec. 21.—The executives of the Grain Growers Associations of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan had another interview with the Premier in his office yesterday morning regarding the terminal elevator question, and the bill to deal with it that has been prepared by Sir Richard Cartwright. It is understood that it is proposed to deal with the terminal elevator question along the lines adopted by the State of Minnesota, which some time ago placed the control of all terminal elevators in the hands of an independent commission which regulates the handling of grain, and prevents fraud in weighing or mixing.

In regard to the tariff it is learned that Sir Wilfrid Laurier assured the farmers that the Government was free to admit that the time was at hand when the agriculturists should receive some measure of relief. He further expressed the hope that this relief would be given as a result of the negotiations between Canada and the United States, looking to the framing of a reciprocity treaty between the two countries.

It is also stated that the conference on the proposed co-operative chilled meat industry was fairly satisfactory.

The grain growers issued the following official statement yesterday afternoon: "We have had several conferences with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright on the terminal elevator situation, the result of which will be that legislation will be introduced into the House immediately after the recess, dealing with this matter, and based on the representations that we have made. We are unable to say whether the proposed bill will be satisfactory until it is introduced into the House.

"The Ministers gave us a very sympathetic hearing on the chilled meat proposition, and admitted that some of the views presented on the situation affecting the marking of stock were new to them. They promised to make full investigation into the circumstances surrounding the marking of the stock.

"We have no assurance that the Government will proceed to build the Hudson Bay Railway, and provide the necessary terminals at Hudson Bay without delay, and that they would retain the ownership of both in perpetuity. The question of operation is left in abeyance for the time being.

"We recognize the reasonableness of Sir Wilfrid's public statement on the tariff that, so long as negotiations were pending with reference to reciprocity, no action would be taken on the tariff."

The delegates all left for home last evening.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

I READ a little news item the other day tucked away on a back page with only a six point headline that I'd like to have seen displayed double column on the first page and with a forty point headline.

This was the substance of it. Mrs. D. H. Howard, of St. Louis, wife of the president of the Commonwealth Steel Company, gave the use of her mansion and personally acted as general director at the wedding of her maid Martha Snitzmeir and her gardener Daniel Figart.

Please notice the last part of that paragraph. Mrs. Howard didn't just give her house and betake herself in dignified and touch-me-knot fashion to some other place until the affair was over. She gave herself as well as the home.

Nor did she think that just to have her wedding in such a place must be sufficiently dazzling to a girl who otherwise would be married from some humble apartment. She carried through the whole wedding in the style in which she would have, had the girl been her cousin or personal friend. The ceremony took place the item informs us, "amid a profusion of yellow chrysanthemums in the magnificently appointed drawing room," and again "to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by an ingeniously concealed mechanism on a huge grandfather's clock in the reception hall, the wedding party descended from the second floor by the grand staircase."

I wish I might thank Mrs. Howard personally for that wedding. I think she deserves as great praise as if she had written a wise and wonderful book on how to solve the servant problem. As a matter of fact that is what she has done, only, instead of writing her book, she had lived it.

In the course of an investigation of the maid's side of the servant problem I asked a great many girls to tell me their opinion as to the reason why its harder to keep good help than it used to be. And one of the most common answers was "The women are different than they used to be. Most of them seem to be trying all the time to show us how superior they are and that we aren't anything but the dirt under their feet."

One of the women at the head of a big intelligence office put it this way. If the mistresses were more human and treated the girls like human beings instead of as machines to get the most possible work out of, there wouldn't be any servant problem at all."

"Mary was really very disagreeable about changing her day this week" I heard a young matron say recently, "she said she had an engagement. The idea! Suppose she did! Couldn't she put it off?"

Now Mary is a housemaid but at the same time she is a normal young girl and very much in love with a nice young man. This particular Thursday he was going to take her to the theatre. Naturally she resented having her day off changed.

The young matron is at bottom a very kind hearted person and I'm sure that if she had stopped to think of Mary as a young girl in love she would not have asked her to make this sacrifice. But she didn't. She just thought of her as an automatic machine guaranteed to deliver just so much service, and she didn't see why it should matter that she received that service one day instead of another.

Perhaps it's queer but whenever I see a clash like that I always think of Shylock's speech in the Merchant of Venice.

You remember—"Hath not a Jew eyes, hath not a Jew hands, organs, dimensions, senses, affections, passions? fed with the same foods, hurt with the same weapons, subject to the same distress, healed by the same means, warmed and cooled by the same summer and winter as the Christian is?

Substitute "maid" and "mistress" for "Jew" and "Christian," and ashamed as I am to say it—I think you have a reminder that very modern mistresses need.

CHAPTER VII.

THE SCHWARTZ-MICHAEL BAYONET.

As Ashton-Kirk and Pendleton sat in the former's library that evening, after dinner, there came a knock upon the door and Fuller entered briskly. In his hand he carried a paper parcel which he laid upon a stand at the investigator's elbow.

"This is the bayonet, sir," said he. "Mr. Stillman, the coroner, objected to letting me have it at first, but changed his mind after I had talked to him for a while."

"Did you take the photograph to Berg in Christie Place?"

"Yes, sir. He recognized it at once as that of the person in question."

"And you made inquiries upon the other point?"

"I did. Neither Mr. Stillman nor any of the men who removed the body of Hume have been out of town within a week. I also questioned Mr. Osborne; his answer was the same. Brolatsky's reply fas similar; and he also said that Hume had not ridden on a railroad in years."

"That will be all, Fuller; thank you."

The brisk young man had reached the door when the investigator added:

"One moment."

He scribbled something upon a pad, tore off the leaf and handed it to his aid.

"Look these things up at once."

Fuller took the paper, glanced at it and then replied:

"Very well, sir."

Seated in his big chair with the jar of Greek tobacco and sheaf of brown paper wrappers before him, Ashton-Kirk did not display any haste in removing the covering from the bayonet that had let the life out of the arc dealer. Rather he sank deeper into the orms of the chair; the cigarette end became gray and dead between his fingers; the strangely brilliant eyes closed as though he had fallen asleep.

But Pendleton, who understood his friend's ways, knew better; the keen, swift-moving mind was but arranging the developments of the day, weighing them, giving to each their proper value. A little later and the eyes would unclose, more than likely alight with some new idea, some fresh purpose drawn from his reflections.

And so Pendleton waited he, too, fell into a musing state and also began marshaling the facts as he saw them. Ashton-Kirk, during dinner, had told him those regarding the visit of Edyth Vale the day before.

"Pen, you know I don't usually do this," the investigator had informed him. "But as you know so much already, and your feelings in the matter being what they are, I think it best that you should know more."

And now Pendleton, as he rolled and consumed cigarette after cigarette, went over the facts as they had been laid before him.

"And Morris," said he to himself, as he reached the end of his friend's recital; "now what sort of a mess has Allan Morris got himself into? And after he had got into it, why in heaven's name didn't he keep quiet about it? What good could come from Edyth's knowing it?"

Then the fact that Morris had apparently tried to keep his secret from Miss Vale presented itself. But Pendleton dismissed it with contempt.

"Tried!" he said to himself. "Of course; but how? By marching up and down the floor. By a great parade of tragic despair; by sighs and the wringing of his hands. I've always suspected Morris of being a bit theatrical—and now I am sure of it."

He roused himself for a moment, lighted a fresh cigarette and settled back once more.

"I'm not Kirk by any means," he reflected, "and this sort of thing is altogether out of my line. But it seems clear that Edyth—after leaving here yesterday—received some unexpected news. When she was here, consulting Kirk, she was, to all appearances, in a quandry—helpless. She did not know how to proceed; she understood nothing. But her darting off alone that way after midnight proves that some sort or a crisis had come up. She had heard something—more than likely through Morris. He probably," with great contempt, "became hysterical again, couldn't contain himself and blabbed everything—whatever it was."

Then he burst out aloud, angrily:

"She went to Hume's last night because she had reason to think Morris would be there. And if the truth, upon that particular point, at least, is known. Allan Morris was at Hume's last night. He was the man whom Berg saw enter after the musician."

"How do you know?" asked Pendleton, astonished.

"Fuller, with a report which he recently made upon Morris, handed me a photograph of that gentleman. While we were at dinner, Berg identified the portrait as being that of Hume's secret visitor."

"I was right, then. Edyth did go there expecting to meet him—to protect him, perhaps. If you knew her as well as I do, Kirk, you'd realize that it's just the sort of thing she'd do. But," positively, "she did not find him there."

"What makes you think that? There was still one of Hume's visitors left, when she got there. It may have been Morris."

"It was Spatola," answered Pendleton, with conviction. "The scream of the cuckatoo which came from Hume's rooms when the pistol was discharged proves it. When Spatola went in, Berg said he was carrying something under his coat. Brolatsky told the coroner this morning that the Italian sometimes brought his trained birds with him when he called at Hume's. That's what he had last night."

But Ashton-Kork shook his head.

"At this time," he said, "it will scarcely do to be positive on some things. Indications are plenty, but they must be worked out. I have some theories of my own upon the very point that you have just covered, but I will not venture a decided statement until I have proven them to the limit. It's the only safe way."

Pendleton discontentedly hitched forward in his chair.

"I thought," said he, "that you worked entirely by putting this and that together."

"That is precisely what I do," returned Ashton-Kirk. "But I have found, through experience that there must be no loose ends left to hang. Such things are treacherous; you never know when they'll trip you up and upset all your calculations."

He paused a moment and regarded his friend steadfastly. Then he continued. "But, just now, I think we had better not trouble ourselves about Edyth Vale and Allan Morris. To be sure, the latter's connection with the affair is peculiar; Miss Vale's visit to Hume's last night, the sounds which Sems heard immediately after she had gone in—her turning out of the gas and hurried flight, are also strange and significant enough. But they are, perhaps the very end of the story; and it is best never to begin at the end."

"Is there any way by which you can begin at what you think is the beginning?" asked the other.

Ashton-Kirk took up the parcel which Fuller had laid at his elbow.

"Here is one way," he answered. "Let us see where it leads us."

He stripped off the wrapper, and the bayonet which had killed the numismatist was revealed, blood-clotted and ugly. Carefully the investigator examined the broad, powerful blade and heavy bronze hilt.

"A Schwartz-Michael, just as I thought," he said.

"The maker's name is upon it then?" said Pendleton.

But the other shook his head.

"No," said he. "But it happens that I have given some attention to arms, and the bayonet, though a

Eczema Is Not Fatal

Dr. Chase's Ointment

But its Torture Increases as it Spreads Over the Body Until It Makes Life a Burden. It is Cured by

So many have eczema of one form or another and do not know it. The constant itching annoys them, but they scarcely realize how the diseases is gradually spreading and becoming more aggravated.

Particularly, during cold weather, when exposed to sudden changes and dampness, this ailment becomes more severe, and during the night, when the body is warm, suffering is intense and sleep almost impossible.

There is cure in the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. This healing, soothing preparation brings almost instant relief from the distressing itching.

In the course of a few days the healing process sets in, and it is only a question of time and persistent application of the ointment until cure ih effected.

Mr. Fred W. Clark, Petworth, Addington county, Ont., writes: "My mother had eczema in both legs for a long time, and tried everything for it, but got no relief until a friend advised her to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, which she got.

"She found that Dr. Chase's Ointment gave her great relief, so she got some more and continued this treatment faithfully, until now she is entirely cured of eczema. I don't think anyone could have this disease worse than she did."

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the scaing would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than agents. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment fro a them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got The New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

Could Not Rest at Night.

Back Was So Weak.

Weak, lame and aching backs are the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning from the kidneys that everything is not right with them.

Heed the warning: cure the weak, lame, aching back and dispose of any chances of further trouble.

If you don't do this, serious complications are very apt to arise and the first thing you know you will be troubled with Dropsy, Diabetes or Bright's Disease, the three most deadly forms of Kidney Trouble.

On the first sign of anything wrong Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go to the seat of the trouble and strengthen the kidneys, thereby strengthening the back.

Mrs. John Pugh, Parkdale, Man., writes:—"I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and find nothing to beat them. I could not rest at night my back was so weak. I tried everything, but could not get anything to do me any good until I was told by a friend to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I tried them and I am not the same weak woman I was before. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If enclosing direct, specify "Doan's."

weapon that is passing, came in for its share."

He balanced the murderous-looking thing in his hand and proceeded.

"There are not many types of bayonets. The first was what they called a 'Plug,' because it was made to fit into the muzzle of a flint, or match-lock. Then there was the socket bayonet, the ring bayonet and an improved weapon invented by an English officer named Chillingworth, which met with much favour in the armies of Europe. But the latest development is the sword bayonet, of which this an example. Its form is a great improvement over the older makes; it is an almost perfect side arm as well, having a cutting edge, a point, and a grip exactly like that of a sword. There are a number o fmakes of this type; the Schwartz-Michael is one of the least known of these. Upon its being placed on the market it was adopted by three governments—Bolivia, Servia, and Turkey—and there it stopped."

He laid the weapon upon the table and settled himself back in his chair.

"It struck me when I first saw the thing," he went on, "that it was a little singular that a Schwartz-Michael should even find its way into the United States. Now, it would not surprise me to find an English revolver in Patagonia, or an American rifle in Thibet, because they are universally known and used. Any one might carry them. But a bayonet is different, of course; it is a strictly military arm, and its utility is limited. That a criminal should select one with which to commit a murder is unusual; and, further, the fact that the make is one never introduced into the United States is rather remarkable."

"It is—a little," agreed Pendleton.

"It is a small thing, but all clews are small things. Now there are many ways in which such a weapon might find its way into the country; but I took the most likely of these as a beginning. Before I dressed for dinner, I ran over a rather complete card-index system, which I maintain; and within a few minutes learned that the republic of Bolivia had, within the past year, changed both the rifle and bayonet used by its army."

"Well ?" asked Pendleton, with interest.

"When a nation makes such a change, the discarded arms are usually bought up by some large speculator or dealer in such things. And in the course of time they find their way to the military goods dealers, who exist all over the world."

Here Fuller entered the room, and Ashton-Kirk turned to him inquiringly.

"Well ?"

"In the morning Standard of April 9th," announced the young man, "I find an advertisement of Bernstine Brothers relative to a sale of condemned army equipment."

"Is anything specified ?"

"They considered it important that high-power modern rifles were to be sold at a very small price. And they also lay some stress upon the fact that the stuff had been in use by the Bolivian army."

Pendleton saw a look of satisfaction come into his friend's eyes. But there was no other evidence of anything unusual.

"And now," said the investigator, quietly, "with regard to this other matter."

"I find that there are two schools for mutes in this section," answered Fuller. "But both are some distance out of town."

The satisfaction in Ashton-Kirk's singular eyes deepened.

"Excellent," said he.

"One is on the main line—Kittridge Station; the other is on the Hammondsville Branch at a place called Cordova."

"Thank you," said Ashton-Kirk.

And when the door had once more closed behind his aid, the investigator continued to Pendleton:

"I figured upon some of the equipment reaching here. Military goods houses, such as Bernstine's, usually advertise each lot they receive; and I considered it possible that the murderer might have been attracted by this notice and procured the weapon from them. If he did, we may get some trace of him by inquiring at Bernstein's. But," flinging his arms wide and yawning as though weary of the subject, "that is work for to-morrow. To-night we will rest and prepare for what is to come. But in the meantime," arising with enthusiasm, "let me show you a first edition of the 'Knickerbocker's History of New York,' which I picked up recently."

He went to his book-shelves and took down two faded volumes. With eager hands Pendleton took them from him.

"Original covers!" cried he. "Binding unbroken; in perfect condition inside; not a spot or a stain anywhere." Then he regarded his friend with undisguised envy. "Kirk," said he, "you're a lucky dog. You can dig up more good things than anybody else that I know."

DYSPEPSIA Can Be Cured.

This disease is the all prevailing malady of civilized life, and one which oftenest baffles all ordinary treatment. It gives rise to a great variety of distressing symptoms, such as distress after eating, rising and souring of food, wind in the stomach, heartburn, etc.

Nearly everything that enters a weak dyspeptic stomach, acts as an irritant; hence the great difficulty of effecting a cure.

The long train of distressing symptoms, which render life a burden to the victim of dyspepsia, may be promptly cured by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

B.B.B. regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, stimulates secretion of the saliva and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, purifies the blood, and tones up the entire system.

Mrs. Herman Dubois, Hanan, N.B., writes: "I have used Burdock Blood Bitters and find that for tardiness can give such relief in dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I was troubled for a number of years with dyspepsia and could get no relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters. I took three bottles and became cured, and I will say all sufferers should try it before they die. I will highly recommend it to all who are troubled with stomach trouble."

Rosa Bonheur's Stirring Masterpiece, "The Horse Fair."

A PRIZE THAT FRANCE LOST.

The Artist's Native Land Permitted the Great Canvas to Find a Home in This Country—The Story of the Painting and its Replicas.

One of the chief glories of the Metropolitan museum in New York is Rosa Bonheur's stirring masterpiece, "The Horse Fair," a picture which for its irresistible movement and living portraiture of man's most useful friend holds a unique position in the annals of art and the affections of lovers of paintings.

Few, however, are acquainted with the intimate history of that notable canvas, and fewer still are aware that there are no less than five horse fair pictures in existence. The one in New York is the original and, it will be remembered, was first the property of A. T. Stewart and then purchased for the Metropolitan by Cornelius Vanderbilt for 250,000 francs.

It was painted in Paris, the models used being the horses of the Paris Omnibus company and a few animals studied at the horse market of the French capital. It was first exhibited at the salon of 1853, but went back to the artist unsold.

A part of the further history of the famous painting is recorded by Ernest Gambart in his manuscript memoirs, which have been freely drawn upon for the "Reminiscences of Rosa Bonheur:"

"After the closing of the 1853 Paris salon 'The Horse Fair' was intrusted to the Society of Artists of Ghent for exhibition in that town, where it had a great success, but whence it also came back unsold. In the spring of 1854 I expressed to Mlle. Bonheur the desire to buy it from her. At that time it was in Bordeaux, her native town.

"Her preference was that the municipality should purchase it for the city museum, and a price of 12,000 francs had been mentioned at which the town authorities might acquire it. But she said to me that if the canvas came back to her again she would let me have it. However, she could not let it go to England for less than 40,000 francs.

"I unhesitatingly accepted the bargain, and it was agreed that the picture should be mine unless sold in Bordeaux. As the picture was back in her studio again in the following year, I told Mlle. Bonheur that I wished to take it at once in order to have it in my 1855 exhibition and that I should like to have it engraved by Thomas Landseer, the celebrated engraver and brother to the painter.

"She was delighted at the idea of the picture being engraved and said to me: 'I have asked you 40,000 francs for my picture, although in France I cannot get 12,000, and I am pleased at your consenting to my terms. On the other hand, I don't mean to take undue advantage of your liberality. How can we arrange matters? Let us see. Well, the picture is very large, and it will be difficult to find a place for it in an engraver's studio. Besides, you want to exhibit it. Wouldn't it be better for me to paint you a smaller copy?'"

That suggestion she carried out and explains how the second canvas came into existence. That smaller copy was the one from which Landseer's well known steel engraving was made and is the picture which is in the British National gallery.

When she heard that it had become the property of the British nation Mlle. Bonheur decided to make a third copy, thinking the second was not good enough for the London collection; hence "The Horse Fair" No. 3. But the National gallery authorities were not able to accept the substitute, as the painting which it was designed to replace had been given to them as trustees.

Besides these three, Mlle. Bonheur executed a water color replica and a drawing based on a large photograph. Of all these, however, the picture in the Metropolitan is by far the finest work, which is only as it should be in view of the fact that the artist always found her best public in America.

This was recalled to her detriment when the rosette of the Legion of Honor was requested in her behalf. "She has ceased exhibiting at the salon," objected the president, "and sells in America everything she paints." The complete answer to that was that the French government had had the opportunity to buy "The Horse Fair," but had neglected it.—Argonaut.

An Accurate Description.

"Did you ever run into a telegraph pole?" inquired the elderly passenger.

"Yes, ma'am," said the chauffeur, slowing up the taxicab to avoid a collision with a street car. "I've bumped into telegraph poles, I reckon, two or three times."

"Brings you to a pretty sudden stop, doesn't it?"

"No, ma'am; the machine stops, all right, but I always keep on going."—Chicago Tribune.

Cape of Good Hope.

The Cape of Good Hope lies at a considerable distance from the end of South Africa and is, in fact, the middle of the three promontories, severally inconspicuous, which jointly terminate a slender peninsula, some twenty miles in length, forming the barrier between False bay and the Atlantic ocean on the west. These three headlands, lying near together and commonly undivided on a map of moderate scale, are locally designated Cape Point. It was here that Bartholomew Diaz first encountered in full force the prevalent southeasterly gales and denounced the rugged, threatening, threefold promontory under the sounding appellation of the Cape of Storms, to be afterward rechristened by pious, trustful hearts the Cape of Good Hope.

Fooled the Poor Savages.

Robert Louis Stevenson used to relate the following amusing story told him by a south sea trader. He had been in the habit of carrying all sorts of tinned meats, which the natives bought with avidity. Each tin was branded with a colored picture—a cow for beef, a sheep for mutton and a fish for sardines. It happened that the firm which furnished the mutton thought it a good plan to alter its labels, that its goods might be more easily distinguished from the others. The mark chosen was the figure of a frock coated Stiggins-like individual in a chimney pot hat. The natives at once came to the conclusion that the tins contained potted missionary, and there was a great run on the new line of goods.

A Good Way to Cook Trout.

Build your fire and let it burn until you have a good bed of hot stones and ashes. Have your trout, cleaned and washed, ready at hand on anything convenient. Pluck an armful of balsam twigs. Rake out your fire, leaving a base of hot stones and ashes. Upon this base lay balsam twigs till you have a layer from six to ten inches thick. Now put your trout in a row upon this layer and cover with another layer of equal thickness. Over all lay ashes and hot stones. Then smoke your pipe for, say, twenty minutes. When at last you gently remove the coverings you will think at first that the trout have not been cooked at all. There they lie in all their moist beauty, colored as when they first came to your basket. But be careful how you handle them or they will fall apart, so tender are they. Steamed through and through by the heated essences of the balsam, they give out a faint aromatic redolence that adds a subtle perfection to the flavor.—Banister Merwin in Outing.

Curious.

"I had a curious experience yesterday," said Farmer Corntossel.

"What was it?"

"A stranger came along and told me a funny story and didn't try to sell me anything."—Washington Star.

Obedience is not truly performed by the body of him whose heart is dissatisfied.—Saadi.

The Old Turnpikes.

The first great American highway, that between New York and Philadelphia, was long known as "the old York road." Its construction in 1711 was an example which led the colonists at other points along the Atlantic seaboard to construct similar roads where there were no water routes. They were usually built by chartered companies and were called turnpikes or toll roads. Pennsylvania, Connecticut and New Jersey had many roads of the kind. The first macadam road in America was built in 1792 between Philadelphia and Lancaster. In 1811 there were said to be 4,500 miles of chartered turnpikes in New England and New York. During the next twenty years the national government spent many millions of dollars in constructing great highways, but the panic of 1837 and the building of railroads and canals put an end to that branch of government work.—Youth's Companion.

The Poor English Landlord.

I have been a property owner for nearly forty years and during that period have lost from depreciation £25,000, from empty houses £10,000 and from defaulting tenants over £5,000, or a total loss of over £40,000. During this forty years I have never known a defaulting tenant honest enough to pay a shilling off the arrears when once he removed from the neighborhood.—Letter in London Telegraph.

Industrious.

"So your club is going to give a lecture tonight?" said the tall suffragette. "What will be the topic?"

"Home industries," responded the president.

"And what do you consider home industries?"

"Why, our husbands, who remain at home and mind the babies and wash the dishes while we attend the club."—Chicago News.

FRUIT IS THE SAFETY VALVE

That Regulates the Body

"Fruit-a-tives" Is The Only Medicine Made of Fruit Juices.

"The Creator, in His wonderful economy, has always constructed with a purpose. He has distributed fruit all over the earth and has caused them to mature at a time when the solid and carbonaceous foods are not needed by the body. The latter only clog the vital machinery resulting in disease, whereas the juicy, stimulating properties of fruit keep the vital forces properly balanced and regulated."

GEORGIA HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Unfortunately for those who live in Canada, fresh fruit is expensive and—in many localities—almost impossible to get. But everyone can obtain "Fruit-a-tives", the famous tablets made of fruit juices. "Fruit-a-tives" contains the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes—and is the greatest cure in the world for all troubles of Stomach, Bowels, Kidneys, Liver and Skin. In case of disease, and in preventing disease, "Fruit-a-tives" is far superior to fresh fruit.

The Master Touch

You cannot tell off-hand what it is that imparts to dress that much desired element called style. You recognize it when you see it and you often wonder why it is that a garment made by one tailor has so much more snap and expression about it than the same style of garment made by another tailor. It isn't the quality of the goods. It isn't the mere following the outlines of a figure on a fashion plate. Tailoring is something more than that, and the true tailor, like the true musician, realizes that it is his master touch that produces the harmony that inspires admiration. :: ::

MARION KAY'S CHRISTMAS GIFT

Seeking a Present For Mother, She Finds a Husband.

IT was just for a moment that Marion pondered, just for a brief space that temptation warred with training, but in that half minute a lynx eyed store detective had pounced upon her. The holiday shoppers thronged the place. There was no time to waste following a shoplifter outside of the store to establish a clear case. Almost before she had realized what had happened Marion was being hustled over to the elevators.

A few minutes later she stood before a sharp featured woman at a roll top desk who had taken her name and address and was putting her through a series of cross questions. But the inquisition was broken suddenly by the appearance of a tall, clean cut young fellow who walked up to the desk of the head detective and checked her questioning.

"I saw Miss Perkins make this arrest," he said quietly. "She has made a mistake."

"But the girl admits that she stole these," sharply retorted the woman, holding up some dainty creations of lace.

"I think I would admit murder," laughed the man, "if I were ever lined up in here. It's pure nervousness. There was a woman standing beside her who slipped the things in her pocket. I suppose the rest of the plan was to follow her to the street and pick her pocket after she had carried them safely out of the store."

"Of course if you say so"— began the offended Miss Perkins.

"I do say so," he answered quietly as he tore from the book the page on which Marion's answers had been entered. "And if Miss Kay," glancing at the sheet, "will excuse us I will see that she is not subject to further annoyance. You see," he added to Marion, "we have so much trouble around the holidays that mistakes are bound to occur."

"SHE HAS MADE A MISTAKE."

He lightly touched her arm and led her from the room. Already another woman had taken her place, and others eyed her enviously as she passed. Chatting pleasantly, the man led her to the elevator, and presently Marion found herself on the street again.

That night her fears were reawakened when a card engraved with the name of James Dalton was brought to her. It was in Boyce & Dalton's store that the incident had occurred. Perhaps they had found out, after all.

She gave a sigh of relief when the young man of the morning rose before her.

"You will pardon my intrusion," he began, "but since these unfortunate things were the cause of so much trouble I thought it only fair that you should have them."

He held toward her a parcel that Marion instinctively knew contained the coveted caps. She shook her head.

"I cannot take them," she wailed. "I don't deserve them. I did steal them!"

"Technically, yes," said Dalton. "I saw you slip them in your pocket. But I knew that if Miss Perkins had not been so quick you would have replaced them. I saw the struggle in your face. Were they for your mother?"

Marion nodded.

"You see," she began, "it is my first Christmas away from home. When father died and the money was all lost I had to go to work for a living.

"I'm addressing envelopes at home to make some extra money. Before I always made mother's caps. But now I have not the time. I had some money all saved up to buy two when at the office they took up contributions for presents for the timekeeper and some of the others. It's a big office, you know, and it took all my Christmas money."

"And you came over in the noon hour to see if there were any cheaper ones you could still afford," he broke in. "Temptation was strong upon you, and just for one tiny moment you fell. I could see the whole process in your face."

"You know that I had taken them when you spoke this noon?" she gasped.

"Certainly," was the smiling answer. "I knew that you had stolen them, but that you were not a thief. I could not bear to see you posted as a shoplifter, and when Perkins took you up I followed."

"But I ought to be punished," she cried accusingly.

"You are punished," he declared. "The memory of those moments up stairs will be punishment enough."

"I can't take them," she said wistfully. "I couldn't send them to mother."

"See here," he suggested. "Suppose you buy them from me. You send them home and pay me a little each week. I know just what a graft those presentation things are in a big office. I've stopped them in my store, but I know what it is."

"But it would take so long to pay back," she objected. "I cannot pay up more than a quarter a week."

"I'll let you have them at wholesale price," he offered. "We shall have to put them on the bargain counter after the rush anyway. Nice old ladies who wear lace caps are growing very few."

"IT IS BECAUSE I SO UNDERSTAND."

"You're awfully good to me," sobbed Marion. "You can't understand how it hurts not to have anything to send mother. I would not have taken them for myself, but when I thought of poor mother wondering why I did not send a present after all the fairy tales I've written her about how well I've been doing—just for a moment it seemed that I had to have them."

"But I do understand," he insisted. "I can recall a Christmas when my dinner was dry bread because I was too faint from hunger to fight for a place in line where they were feeding the poor. It is because I do understand that I sought to bring a happy ending to a little tragedy of poverty."

The simple words seemed to establish a bond of sympathy between them. Impulsively she caught his hand.

"But I'm selfish," he persisted. "I want to ask a favor of you in return."

"What is it?" she cried eagerly.

"I want you to share my Christmas dinner," he explained. "My sister, who keeps house for me, is traveling in Europe. Won't you dine with me and go to the theater afterward?"

Marion nodded shyly, and with a cheerful "That's an engagement, then," he took his leave.

Marion slept little that night. There was something about Dalton that won him regard from all. His quick appreciation of her temptation and his ready sympathy for her troubles had won her heart. She knew that it was foolish to build castles in the air, but there was some comfort to her in the thought that she at last had a friend in the great, inhospitable city; that she would not, after all, eat her first Christmas dinner away from home in the cheap boarding house.

The dinner ordered in advance was perfect, the visit to the theater was a genuine treat, and when Dalton suggested that they drop into a restaurant for an after theater bite she was glad to prolong her happiness.

"I am purely selfish," he answered when she sought to thank him for the treat he had given her. "I guess we are always selfish. I had noticed you several times in the store making little purchases, and I wanted to know you. I was hoping that I might get a chance to speak."

"But—why should you want to?" she asked wonderingly.

"Because I love you," he said simply. "I did not mean to speak so soon, but I can't help it. Ever since the first time I saw you I have wanted you for my wife. Is there any hope?"

Her eyes made answer, and he drew a case from his pocket. "I have carried it for weeks," he said, "for I knew that my chance would come. Will you wear it, little woman?"

For answer she held out her left hand. "This is the best Christmas present a girl ever had," she whispered as he slipped the solitaire on her finger.—C. H. Sutcliffe.

A Merry Christmas Jest.

An old chronicle contains the following quaintly worded anecdote:

"There was some time an old knight who, being disposed to make himself merry in a Christmas time, sent for many of his tenants and poor neighbors with their wives to dinner, when having made meat to be set on the table would suffer no man to drinke till he that was master over his wife should sing a caroll; great niceness there was who should be the musician. Yet with much adoe, looking one upon another, after a dry hemme or two, a dreaming companion drew out as much as he dare toward an old fashioned ditty. When having made an end, to the great comfort of the beholders, at last it came to the women's table, when likewise commandment was given that there should no drinke be touched till she that was master over her husband had sung a Christmas caroll; whereupon they fell all to such a singing that there was never heard such a catterwalling peece of musicke. Whereat the knight laughed heartily, that it did him quite as much good as a corner of his Christmas pie."

Christmas Candle and Tree.

The old custom of the lighting of the Christmas candle, which is still observed by the Irish peasantry, chiefly at Candlemas or Old Christmas day, has become quite obsolete in England. A relic of the observance in England is, however, preserved. An old stone socket carved with a lamb is shown in the buttery of St. John's college, Oxford, which was used in former days for holding the Christmas candle. The Christmas tree was practically unknown in England a little more than half a century ago. It was introduced into this country from Germany, where the Christmas tree has been a popular feature of Christmas eve festivities for centuries, by the prince consort shortly after his marriage.—Westminster Gazette.

Gypsy Wordless Language.

To communicate with one another gypsies now use letters—and they use the telegraph, too, when necessary—especially in this country. But the modern Romany also follows the "pattern," trading the footsteps or wagon tracks of his friends on the road by the same method employed by his ancient prototype, reading directions where no words are written as clearly as the gorgio does a roadside signboard. But the patteran can be read by the gypsy only—it is hidden and secret, although it may be in plain sight, as a signboard is open and public. The patteran may be formed of sticks or stones or grass placed crow fashion at the parting of roads in such manner that only a gypsy would instantly notice and understand. To him it means much—first of all, the direction taken by Romany predecessors.—Century Magazine.

The Hungarian Crown.

The Hungarian crown worn at their accession by the emperors of Austria as kings of Hungary is the identical one made for Stephen and used at his coronation over 800 years ago. The whole is of pure gold, except the settings, and weighs almost exactly fourteen pounds. The settings above alluded to consist of fifty-three sapphires, fifty rubies, one emerald and 338 pearls. It will be noticed that there are no diamonds among these precious adornments. This is accounted for by the oft quoted story of Stephen's aversion to such gems because he considered them "unlucky."

Broke It Gently.

"How?"

"Told her what my salary was."—Cleveland Leader.

ECZEMA AND WHAT IS DONE TO CURE IT

Desperate Efforts, Disheartening Failures and Final Success.

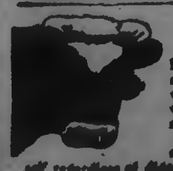
Eczema is a skin affliction to which men and women alike are subject, from the first to the last day of their existence. It may occur as a single tiny spot, appearing and disappearing with each change in general health or present only at certain seasons; at the other extreme, the whole body may be involved in a torturing eruption. The latter condition may gradually arise through the neglect or improper treatment of lesser troubles or an apparently healthy skin may, in a single day, become a mass of eczema.

But whatever the form of the affection, the distressing itching, burning, scaling and crusting, the serious disfigurement and the constant dread that the eczema will become chronic, make a speedy cure the aim of every sufferer. Unfortunately, such a cure is not always readily obtained. The most skilled physician is often at a loss and even hospitals are forced to discharge the patient as incurable. Then a wide variety of remedies are resorted to, many perfectly harmless and equally ineffective, others so offensive to every sense that, were it not for the relief they are supposed to afford, no person of refinement would tolerate them for an instant.

To such sufferers, discouraged by repeated failures of even these heroic methods, the instant relief afforded by the first bath with Cuticura Soap and gentle application of Cuticura Ointment is almost incredible. They stop the itching and burning at once, make sleep possible and, in most cases, point to a speedy cure. So pure and sweet are Cuticura Soap and Ointment and so free from every substance of a disagreeable or harmful nature that they can be used without hesitation on the youngest infant or tenderest skin. Besides, they are most economical, a single set being often sufficient for the treatment of even the severest cases.

In proof of the efficacy of the Cuticura Remedies it will be enough to quote here a single letter, from Mrs. Edward Nenning, 11 Lansing Block, Watertown, N.Y.: "Four years ago I suffered with a terrible eczema, being a mass of sores from head to feet and for six months confined to my bed. During that time I suffered continual torture from itching and burning. After being given up by my doctor, I was advised to try Cuticura. After the first bath with Cuticura Soap and application of Cuticura Ointment I enjoyed the first good sleep during my entire illness. I also used Cuticura Resolvent and the treatment was continued for three weeks. At the end of that time I was entirely cured and have felt no ill effects since. I would advise any person suffering from any form of skin trouble to try the Cuticura Remedies, as I know what they did for me."

Cuticura Soap, Ointment, Resolvent and Pills are sold by druggists everywhere. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole props., Boston, Mass. Mailed free, on request, latest 32-page Cuticura Book, a guide to the speedy and economical treatment of skin and scalp affections, from infancy to age.



The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of those experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as fresh spring water, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its wrapper.

"Don't let a dealer advise you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

ITCH-ECZEMA FREE TRIAL

ECZEMA CAN BE CURED TO STAY, and when I say cured, I mean just what I say—CURED, and not merely patched up for a while, to return worse than before. Now, I do not care what all you have used, nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured—all I ask is just a chance to show you that I know what I am talking about. If you will write me TO-DAY, I will send you a FREE TRIAL of my mild, soothing, guaranteed cure that will convince you more in a day than I or anyone else could in a month's time. If you are disgusted and discouraged, I dare you to give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me to-day you will enjoy more real comfort than you had ever thought this world holds for you. Just try it and you will see I am telling you the truth.

VERY LITTLE EXCITEMENT

Paper Currency of the Institution Is Redeemable Anywhere Under the Bank Act—Other Banks Show No Intention of Coming to the Rescue—Depositors at Allenford Gather Around Bank Offices.

Toronto, Dec. 21.—Apparently the suspension of the Farmers' Bank of Canada had been generally anticipated, for not in Toronto or in those places where branches were located, according to press despatches yesterday, was there any sign of panic or excitement around the offices, except at Allenford, where the farmers of the district are depositors, and many of them congregated around the closed office. At Millbank the Metropolitan Bank opened a new branch office.

The Canadian Bankers' Association took charge of the head office here, and G. T. Clarkson, assignee, was appointed curator, with Daniel Miller, formerly of the Merchants' Bank, as assistant.

In case arrangements cannot be made for the bank's continuance at the end of 90 days, the courts will be asked to appoint a receiver for its winding up. Until either one or the other of these alternatives is adopted, those who have deposits with the bank will not be able to get their money, and it will be some time before the actual position of the shareholders will be known. Depositors are not guaranteed, but must depend on realization of assets for their accounts. The note redemption comes first, and other claims after this. The depositors rank as creditors, and must wait for realization of assets before getting payment.

One financial man remarked that the episode was not of much more significance than the Sheldon affair in Montreal, and that except for the shareholders and depositors of the bank, little would be heard of the trouble in a short time. The comparative smallness of the bank's liabilities, a little over two millions, was not viewed as enough to cause any long felt disturbance.

When interviewed with respect to criticisms which had been made regarding his comments about the Farmers' Bank during the recent trial, Judge Harding, Lindsay, said last night: "I really have nothing to add to what I have already said in court. I don't care anything about what the bank says. I did my duty in commenting upon conduct which I thought was highly dangerous, that is for a bank to tie up almost the whole of its available capital in the transaction, and that, a transaction from which they could not easily obtain any money. I mentioned it because I thought I was perfectly justified.

"I think what I said on the bench was perfectly justified by the facts. I did my duty without fear or favor, and care not for the bank or any individual."

Contrary to what happened when the Ontario and Sovereign banks went under, there is no disposition on the part of the other banks to fly to the rescue this time. "That day has passed," a banker is quoted as saying yesterday. "They have stepped in on past occasions when they felt it necessary to insure a certain amount of stability and so help themselves, but nothing of the sort will take place with the Farmers' Bank in connection."

This, however, does not affect the status of the bills of the bank, which are perfectly good and redeemable at any bank. Provision in the Bank Act is made for the redemption of the notes of any bank which has failed or compounded payment.

Each of the Canadian chartered banks for its circulation has to deposit with the Dominion Government five per cent. of the total amount of the outstanding circulation. This amount is deposited with the Government, which allows 3 per cent. interest to each of the contributing banks. The October bank statement showed that the notes in circulation amounted to [illegible]. Five per cent. of this amount, [illegible] be some $4,750,000, [illegible] the bills of the Farmers' [illegible] in December only totalled [illegible].

Mined Last 2,000 Pieces.

Temagami, Dec. 21.—Anthony Mitchell of Toronto was found guilty of stealth of 1,000 pieces of silver and one gold piece from the King Edward mine by a jury in the county judge's criminal court. The jury was out for some time, but returned their verdict shortly after 7 o'clock. Mitchell was remanded for sentence.

Mitchell, who is a young man, [illegible] charged by the police with the theft of the silver and gold. The prisoner's counsel [illegible] the jury to ask whether [illegible] the silver found with [illegible] prisoner's possession [illegible] Judge Mabee replied that [illegible] would be nothing unusual in [illegible] as that [illegible] the case.

Hospital Not Dead Yet.

Port Hope, Dec. 21.—Monday the ladies' Hospital Committee started an aggressive week's campaign to raise $10,000 subscriptions to establish an up-to-date hospital in Port Hope, and from present indications the undertaking will be a huge success. Among the first subscriptions received were $1,000 from H. J. Smith, K.C., of Toronto, a former Port Hopeite; $1,000 from J. A. Calverwell, the electric power king, who is a resident of Port Hope, and $500 from E. Wolfenden of Toronto, father of Mayor E. A. Wolfenden of Port Hope.

Triple Murder Story Afloat.

Durham, N.C., Dec. 21.—Armed guards [illegible] to the gates of the county home of J. L. Sparrow near Durham, twenty miles from here, on Monday night, and dreams of a girl's body discovered in a pool of blood, led to the arrest of Nathan Montague, a young negro, on charges of criminal assault, slander and murder.

ACTION DISMISSED.

Hamilton Asylum Patient Was Not Abused, Says Court.

Guelph, Dec. 21.—At the sittings of the High Court at Guelph, before Chief Justice Falconbridge, the only case was that of Flath v. Hobbs. This was an action brought by George Flath of Grand Forks, North Dakota, against Dr. Hobbs, superintendent of the Homewood Sanitarium, claiming damages for his wrongful and illegal detention in the sanitarium, from Dec. 23, 1905, to Jan. 1, 1906. The plaintiff claimed that he was not insane, and that he was therefore wrongly confined and restrained of his liberty. He was admitted to the sanitarium at the request of his brother, Dr. Flath of Drayton, and upon certificates as to his lunacy, and from Drs. Lucy and Roberts.

The evidence showed that he was decidedly insane and very violent. He was discharged in care of his brother after he had been at the sanitarium a week, and was, subsequently, about Jan. 20, arrested and committed to Hamilton Asylum, as a violent lunatic. He was discharged from the Hamilton Asylum, on the understanding with his brother that he would go back to Dakota.

Since his discharge he has persistently followed up the officers of the institution in which he was confined, and has reported the most extravagant tales of cruelty regarding the treatment of patients in Hamilton Asylum.

These have been investigated over and over again, and found to be delusions on his part. A mass of evidence was taken, including that of the doctors who examined him, and Dr. Bruce Smith, inspector of prisons and public charities; Dr. Clarke, superintendent of Toronto Asylum, and Dr. Russell, who was superintendent of the Hamilton Asylum. All these physicians testified that Flath was at the time of his detention in Guelph and Hamilton, a violent and dangerous lunatic, and it appears from the evidence that everything possible was done for him in his interest, that he had received the best of care and attention at the sanitarium, and that only such restraint as was necessary to subdue his mania and protect the other patients and nurses from his attacks was used.

The plaintiff conducted his own case and was afforded every possible latitude by Chief Justice Falconbridge, who patiently conducted the trial, giving the plaintiff every opportunity to put in evidence in support of his so-called claim.

At the conclusion of the evidence, and after hearing arguments from the plaintiff, the Chief Justice dismissed the action with costs.

Laborer Ends His Life.

Toronto, Dec. 21.—"If God Almighty should call me to-night, I leave my insurance policy to my landlady for money owed."

This will was found in the room of Joseph Pike at 14 Alexander street last night by Mrs. Mary Jackson, with whom he boarded at that address. She was attracted to the room by the gasping of the man, who died shortly afterward from carbolic acid poisoning, before Dr. Robertson of College street, arrived. This was at 11 o'clock and at 11.30 he was sent to the morgue dead and the chief coroner notified.

Pike was an Englishman, 65 years of age, and leaves a family in Nottingham, England. He was a laborer and worked at odd jobs about restaurants. The policy is for $70 and is in the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. He asked that after his indebtedness to his landlady was discharged that $30 be applied to two other debts.

Fatality at Fire.

New York, Dec. 21.—Two early morning fires in the upper part of New York City resulted yesterday in the death of one man, a watchman, the serious injury of a fireman, who fell forty feet to the roof of an adjoining basement, and property damage estimated at $350,000.

The first fire, in a six-storey brick factory building, had just been rebuilt after a fire which eight months ago swept through its interior, leaving little but the heavy walls. The second fire, one of New York's rare "four alarm" fires, was in a five-storey factory building at West 130th street and Morningside avenue. The chief danger in the blaze was that it might communicate with an adjacent dyeing and cleaning establishment, a low building, where several hundred gallons of gasoline were stored.

Caught in Trap.

Chilliwack, Dec. 21.—Forty-two wounded Government soldiers were brought in yesterday, confessing secrets about the troop train which left Rain Monday, who shot to pieces in the mountain pass known as the Fraser, a few miles south of Yale. The official report states that the federals lost 11 killed and 30 missing and 42 wounded. The latter including Col. Gregg, who was in command of the expedition. The unnecessary loss is not known here.

The troops, who are the heights, sheltered by boulders, and posted in a deadly fire. He was unable to use his big guns effectively.

Belleville, Dec. 21.—J. Connell, B. J. Cleaver, A. Bruyeaux, H. Davidson and R. Hanley employed in the machine shop of Marsh & Henthorne, Tuesday, were yesterday all more or less injured by escaping steam. The accident was caused by a defective steam pipe.

Vancouver, B.C., Dec. 21.—The steamer Prince George was floated from [illegible] morning at 10 o'clock from Fairfax Point, at the entrance to Vancouver harbor, where she went ashore in a big blowing storm. The vessel was apparently [illegible] damaged. There was [illegible] Purser Ellis and Steamer Inspector [illegible] on board when she went ashore, and [illegible] leaving at her [illegible] the accident. THE BOARD OF TRADE STRONGLY FAVOURS BOTH OF THE MEASURES

EMPHATIC ENDORSATION OF THE BY-LAWS TO BE VOTED ON AT MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

Board of Trade Passes Resolutions Approving of the Propositions and Will Do Everything in Their Power to See That the Two Measures Are Carried When Submitted to the Ratepayers---Speakers Point Out the Necessity of Supporting Sound Young Industries Which Have Chances to Expand.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR WORSTED YARN COMPANY

An emphatic endorsation of the two by-laws to be voted upon by the ratepayers at the coming elections was given by the Peterborough Board of Trade last night when the measures to provide a loan for the Bonner-Worth Worsted Yarn Company and give a franchise to C. E. Dettman were thoroughly discussed and motions in favour of them passed. The Board was especially enthusiastic over the Bonner-Worth measure and will do everything in its power to see the by-law carried, believing it to be in the best interests of the citizens. Much valuable information was brought out during the discussion and no opposition to the by-laws was forthcoming. President Ald. Gillespie was in the chair and there was a good attendance.

The Dettman by-law was first taken up. Chairman Gillespie explained that the measure was simply to give a franchise to Mr. C. E. Dettman and a company formed by him to bore for natural gas and oil. It was the usual form of by-law, with the city fully protected and the cost for domestic and manufacturing purposes, specified 30c. for domestic and 25c. for manufacturers.

"Will the city be put to any expense?" asked Mr. Campbell.

"None what ever," replied the chairman, who explained that Mr. Dettman was to pay all the expenses of submitting the by-law and had deposited his marked cheque to cover the expenses. The franchise was exclusive for ten years.

Mr. Dumble thought that if there were any assurance of a supply of natural gas here the people should get the benefit of it. He did not believe they would ever strike any. However, the expense was Mr. Dettmans and if he wanted to go ahead he could not see any reason why the ratepayers should object to his doing so. Mr. Dumble moved that the Board of Trade approve of the action of the City Council in granting a franchise to the Dettman Company.

Mr. Wm. Langford objected that the city was not granting the company permission to bore for oil and gas, but was giving them an exclusive franchise of the streets. He thought the price was too high.

Chairman Gillespie explained that after inquiries they had not found gas supplied for domestic purposes cheaper than 40c. per 1,000 feet. Mr. Langford stated that in Medicine Hat, gas was supplied at 17c. per 1,000 feet.

In answer to an inquiry as to what effect the by-law would have upon the existing company and whether it would prevent the present company from boring for and delivering natural gas, Chairman Gillespie explained that he was of the opinion that it did.

Mr. Dumble's motion was seconded by Mr. Peter Campbell and was carried without a hitch.

The Bonner Yarn Company.

The Bonner-Worth proposition briefly explained that the Toronto Worsted Company, which had been operating in Peterborough for a number of years, had been purchased by Mr. Bonner, who had formed a new company, the Bonner-Worth Worsted Yarn Company, with a capital stock of $100,000, of which $50,000 was preferred stock. The company had been incorporated under the Ontario laws and had been given the same privileges as the old company. The new company had purchased the old plant and had also secured a large contract for supplying yarn for the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's uniforms. The company had also secured a

A CHRISTMAS GIFT.

The great advantage of the purchase of Canadian Government annuities for their children should appeal to all parents, for the annual payments are so small that provision for their future may be made with little, if any, present sacrifice. For example, an annuity of $100 payable at 60, may be secured for a boy who was 5 last birthday for an annual payment of only $4.75, or less than 10 cents a week, or for a total sum paid in of $251.25. In the event of the death of the child before he was 60, all the money that had been paid in, with 3 per cent. compound interest would be refunded to his heirs. When the boy arrived at an age when he was earning for himself he could carry his own contract to completion at a rate far below what he could have obtained at his then age. It is the custom of many parents to spend on their children at Christmas time amounts which at other times of the year they feel they could not afford, and too frequently are the purchases made of no lasting or permanent benefit. Would it not be a better plan to start each child on the road to the purchase of a Canadian Government annuity, and continue the "box" every Christmas until he was able to carry it for himself? The child, if he lived, would remember with gratitude Santa Claus' visit.

ANOTHER CHANCE.

Another opportunity is presented to Mr. Borden to substitute the role of statesman for that of politician. Something more emergent than the naval question assumes prominence in the political arena. The demands of the farmers must be dealt with. If the situation gives solicitude to the government of one party, it naturally concerns the possible government of another party. Mr. Borden did not hesitate to use a national question, which throws equal responsibility upon both parties to embarass the Government for the sake of a trifling and temporary party advantage. He ignored the fact that no matter what government is in power the question of national defence will be a real responsibility. Whatever Government is in power, will have to deal with the questions arising out of the demands of the farmers' deputation that recently visited Ottawa. The part of patriotism, the part even of party prudence would suggest to Mr. Borden that this situation does not lend itself so much to the exploitation of party interests as to consideration of national interests, and should be treated from the national and not party, point of view, altogether. Here is another chance for Mr. Borden to exercise statesmanship in the ultimate interest of himself and party, as well as in the national interest.

PILES

GIVE AND TAKE.

In Canada there is presented a wide field for conciliation and compromise—the adoption of the safe, middle way. Mr. Verville, M. P., Maisonneuve, has before Parliament a bill to reduce the hours of labour on government works to eight hours per day. If this principle is adopted the hours of labour so limited will naturally be extended to civil occupations and to farm labour. The Weekly Sun, printed in the interests of farmers, views this possibility with alarm, and calls upon "every local grange in Ontario to at once send formal protests to its representative in the House of Commons." Here we have the two greatest interests in the country, Labour and Agriculture, making demands that are held each to conflict with the other. The farmers made demands that Labour considers hostile to its interests, and Labour is making demands, though in a less dramatic way, that Agriculture is invited to formally protest against, as hostile to its interests. Both interests are important, but both cannot be satisfied. There must be some sort of compromise, there must be some middle way adopted, if we are to have domestic peace. None of us can have all our own way. At times the laws designed in the general interest, conflict, we think, with our individual interests. But we must practise the principle of compromise; we must subordinate what we regard as our personal interests to considerations of the general good. By similar reasoning it seems plain that neither the farmers nor labour can have their full way. A modus vivendi must be sought, and conditions upon the live-and-let-live principle applied. We must practise a little give-and-take.

SPREAD THE LIGHT.

The farmers, according to the general contention of the big Ottawa deputation are down-trodden and must be relieved. Just where the oppression and injustice may come in—without suggesting that they do not exist—does not seem plain to the city dweller, who has a rather touching knowledge that the farmer gets gilt-edge prices for what he has to sell. Three cents for a new-laid egg does not seem to be a very heavy blow upon the farmer. Neither can people in Peterborough see where the oppression of the farmer comes in. The latter has access to the highest-priced market in Ontario for nearly all commodities produced by the farmer. Judging by the farmers in the vicinity of Peterborough, they are rolling in opulence. Every farmer keeps his carriage, and occasionally one achieves the luxury of an auto car. They have a bank account, and can sign a cheque with a nonchalant flourish that many a city merchant, at times, envies. They have the luxuries of life and culture—well-furnished homes, with pianos in their drawing rooms. They have the furnace-warmed home, the telephone, and nearly everything in "up-to-dateness," the city dweller enjoys, except taxes to the tune of twenty-two mills on the dollar. Nobody envies the farmer these advantages: he is the back-bone of the country, and honestly earns and deserves what he gets.

There is, however, one form of convenience and utility that the farmers in the vicinity of Peterborough have not, which they might have, with mutual advantage—to themselves and to those in a position to supply the need. The farmers encircling the town might have the benefit of electricity and thus contribute to another source of revenue for the light and power companies. The telephone companies have found it profitable—or they wouldn't do it—to extend their lines into the country. And if the light and power companies would push their lines into the district immediately surrounding Peterborough, establish a series of belt lines or circuits, it is maintained that there would be a considerable demand. The Lakefield road and the district adjoining the Communication Road in Smith, and the vicinity of the city in North Monaghan, and in Otonabee contain many prosperous farm homesteads that could afford and appreciate the advantages and superiority of electric lighting. It is not known how such an idea appeals to the light and power companies, but it is known that many farmers appreciate it, and would be glad to be able to place electric lighting in their otherwise completely equipped and comfortable homes.

THE REFERENDUM, UNBRITISH.

The Mail and Empire has valiantly supported Mr. Borden, Conservative leader, in his infantile and futile post facto proposal to submit the settled question of Canada's Naval policy to a vote of the people—submitting to a referendum—a matter that has been settled by an act passed by an overwhelming parliamentary majority; an Act founded upon a unanimous endorsation of the principle by parliament. Mr. Borden has [illegible] such genius from the Mail and Empire, and his friends in his course of practically stultifying Conservative tradition and travestying responsible government, by proposeing a radical departure like a referendum. While such a thing as the referendum is held to be good enough for Canadians, it is regarded as too un-British for Great Britain by the Mail and Empire, which publishes the following incidental condemnation of Mr. Borden's proposal; and at the same time a reasonable and strong exposition of the inconsistency of the referendum in relation to responsible Government and British parliamentary practice. The Mail and Empire says:

That the Unionists are ultra-conservative no one will say who thinks for a moment of the fundamental nature of the change that would be wrought if their proposal to adopt the referendum were accepted. The referendum seems strangely out of place in a system of government of the British type. Nothing is more British in origin, and nothing could be more British in character, than responsible government. It is the solution England gave to the world of the problem of making democracy workable under conditions such as her history had made for her. It gave a meaning to the term "limited monarchy." It brought out in government that most distinctive trait in British character, the quality of courage. A British Prime Minister takes the responsibility of bringing forward policies and measures and standing or falling by them. Anything that enables him to evade responsibility is weakness to government. He is supposed to have statesmanship, full knowledge of the problems to be solved, a grasp of the political principles involved, and foresight as to the consequences. The mass of the people cannot be skilled in the science and practice of politics. A referendum can bring out only their more or less transport opinion, or their momentary desires. Those who advocate the referendum take a view of the functions of government very different from that on which the practice of British government is based. In the working of the British constitutional system we have political leaders. They are not mere delegates chosen to give effect to instructions received at the polls, but to overcome difficulties of statesmanship and to solve problems official, social and commercial economy that the ordinary citizen has not the wit to solve. The referendum idea reverses that view, and makes the leader of a government and the representa[illegible] than trimmers and triers, who refrain from taking a line of action until they are assured it has the approval of the people.

Mr. Gladstone was not a Minister who waited for the people to signify what should be done. He gained the confidence of the people and then had the courage to act on his own judgment. He knew that on the great majority of questions the people could not be expected to do his thinking for him. When questions of vital national concern were raised the people could be trusted to think, but it was for him then to tke the chance of carrying through measures that expressed his own convictions and his idea of the best way of providing for public needs.

Apply all this to the proposal of Mr. Borden, leader of the Conservative opposition, to refer the Canadian naval to a referendum.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Sir Richard Cartwright has just celebrated his 76th birthday. Though not robust in body, owing to rheumatic trouble, his mind is still active, and he is still able to rank as the Nestor of Canadian statesmanship. He is still a live head of the Department of Trade and Commerce, and is at present the leading spirit in the compilation of legislation affecting terminal elevators.

The release at Winnipeg of Fedrenko, the Russian political refugee, who sought sanctuary in Canada, shows that this country will not be a party to the bitter political persecution methods of Russia.

A TRIUMPH FOR EARLY CLOSING

(Brantford Expositor)

A somewhat remarkable thing happened in Philadelphia recently, namely the larger merchants signed an agreement to close at 6 o'clock throughout the holiday shopping season. This was joyous news to about 30,000 employes of these institutions.

It is stated that six years ago every large store in Philadelphia, with one exception, kept its doors open evenings for two weeks or more preceding Christmas, while representatives of the Consumers' League making nightly inspection, reported that twenty-six establishments in one small district were violating the law which limited the hours of women at that season to ten in one day. The usual schedule for saleswomen was [illegible] stores on alternate days, in others, continuously.

Restrictive measures followed, and last year the first decisive step was taken to close the stores. The Consumers' League, desiring, to test to the utmost the power of direct public pressure, suggested to about 5,000 women that they write personal letters to the stores, expressing their opinion of night shopping. The result was that open nights were cut down from ten to five, one store establishing 6.30 as a closing hour for the first time.

This year still another step in advance was taken, and 6 o'clock named as the closing hour by the owners of all the large shops. Anticipating criticism and protest from large numbers of habitual night shoppers, as a result of this change, the Consumers' League issued a request to factory and other employers of Philadelphia to allow groups of their workers to take a mid-week half-holiday, if they desired it, in order to do their shopping, while the newspapers are taking up the matter and issuing the request as an open letter from the league. The idea is that factories and business offices co-operate with merchants in making this most popular gift to the working people of Philadelphia.

In Canada the grievance which it is being sought to remedy in Philadelphia is reduced to a minimum, but there is sufficient of late hours arising largely from late shopping, which ought to be remedied for the benefit of merchants, employees and customers alike, and if organized effort can do anything to improve the existing order of things steps in that direction ought to be taken.

Artists In Crime.

Boston, Dec. 21.—Silks and laces, hobnobbing with sides of beef, strips of bacon, cans of soup, condensed milk and paint, greeted the eyes of a squad of officers sent yesterday to search the Roxbury home of Mrs. Knadler, 63 years of age, who had been arrested on a charge of shoplifting. There were also musical instruments, vases, steins, manicure sets and a great variety of other articles, the whole collection estimated to be worth more than $5,000. Five trips of the patrol wagon were necessary to remove the goods to a police station.

Later in the day the police arrested Mrs. Knadler's daughters, Margaret, 24 years of age, and Lillian, 19 years, and her son, Frank, 23. The police matron found beneath the skirts of Margaret Knadler a cloth bag, three feet square. A slit in the skirt formed the connection between departmental store counters and the bag.

Passed It Anyway.

Milwaukee, Dec. 21.—Victor L. Berger, sometimes called the "Socialist Czar of Milwaukee," was yesterday defeated by the Socialist contingent in the city council when he tried to defeat the passage of a measure to allow a poor washerwoman to use the city water free of charge, which the city attorney has declared unconstitutional.

The council passed seventeen resolutions asking the Legislature, among other requests, authority to erect municipal houses, packing houses and to conduct any public utility.

DRESS SKIRTS

Our Dress Skirts are known not only for their always being of the latest style and representing fashion's newest thought but also for maintaining dressy appearance and correct fit.

This is attained by cutting them on scientific lines and by using high qualities of materials.

An ordinary skirt may look fairly well when just finished and pressed.

This is just where our skirts excel. They maintain their stylish appearance, perfect hang and correct fit.

This cannot be obtained by luck; it is the result of careful thought. Every skirt we have is all wool, stitched with silk, thoroughly shrunken and perfectly cut.

This is why, and a good reason why, they are becoming so popular. They never fail to satisfy the most careful dresser. We have the new Habit Back.

While the quality is high the prices are lower than you would pay for an ordinary skirt and in some cases less than you would pay for the material alone by retail. We represent the factory and the skirts are handed over to you with every saving.

EMPHATIC ENDORSATION OF THE BY-LAWS

ing Mr. Denham. The strength of such a concern depended upon the impression created by the men who were going to control it, upon those with whom they came in contact and in this case the gentlemen at the head of the firm seemed to have impressed everyone as men of capacity. The proposition seemed feasible. There must be a large field for it especially in view of the development of the Northwest. He agreed with Mr. Dumble that in backing a small proposition that the citizens could readily grasp that the city was doing something more sensible than making a wild plunge after a big proposition that they were not able to size up.

Mr. Vincent Eastwood thought the proposition a feasible one and that the security was reasonable. He had met one of the company and had been impressed with him as a very capable business man. The city could not go far wrong if the location was made of future value to the city in the case of failure.

Mr. Vincent Eastwood thought the proposition a feasible one and that the security was reasonable. He had met one of the company and had been impressed wit hhim as a very capable business man. The city could not go far wrong if the location was made of future value to the city in the case of failure.

Mayor Morrow explained that while the by-law only called for thirty employees the machinery was such as would require fifty to operate it. Thirty had been named in the by-law on the advice of the company's solicitor.

Ald. Bradburn said that the council went into the matter thoroughly and had looked after the city's interests effectively. The city was amply secured. He thought that the Board of Trade, the business men, the mechanics, all citizens, should unite and do their best to see the by-law carried. The city wanted manufactures. The Standard Ideal Works could have been secured for Peterborough for a paltry sum but wa sallowed to go to Port Hope, where it was now employing 300 or 350 hands.

Ald. Duncan said that he was heartily in favour of the proposition and intended to do everything he could to see it through.

Three Fifths Needed.

Mr. Dumble pointed out that the chief trouble was that three-fifths of the vote was required to carry the measure and it was necessary to work energetically to carry the measure. It would require earnest effort.

Ald. Duffus stated that the council had gone into the matter thoroughly and had investigated the ratings of the parties and had found them satisfactory. They were practical men who understood their business thoroughly. The city wa samply protected and did not have to pay a cent until the buildings were erected. He had much pleasure in endorsing the by-law.

Industrial Commissioner Duggan suggested the appointing of a committee to arrange an organization to further the interests of the by-law on election day.

Mr. A. B. Cunningham said that a good many people did not undestand the proposition and had no idea of its importance. The danger was in its apparent smallness. He thought that provision should be made to furnish proper information to the ratepayers.

Mr. Geo. W. Powell pointed out that other industries would look to the result of the vote in this particular case and if the city turned it down the result would be very serious. He thought that everyone should get out and work for the by-law.

Mr. Kerr suggested that the Mayor should call a public meeting at which the matter could be placed before the rate-payers.

Mr. Peter Campbell stated that if the city were large enough, Peterborough could have an industry that would give employment to five hundred girls. Mayor Morrow said that he had noticed that St. Thomas was paying loans to three different concerns, amounts of $10,000, $15,000 and $30,000 which went to show that it was being done elsewhere. Mr. Richard Sheehy endorsed the proposition. The request was a moderate one. The company knew its business and wanted to start in a shrewd, careful way. The city was not taking any risk. He hoped that everyone would work to see that the by-law was carried. He was sure the more the people heard of the by-law the more they would like it.

Mr. W. H. Denham moved, seconded by Mr. Peter Campbell that a committee be named by the president composed of two members from each ward to meet and form an organization to support the by-law. Carried unanimously.

Ald. Bradburn moved, seconded by Mr. W. C. Ackerman that the Board of Trade strongly endorses the Bonner-Worth By-law and requests every ratepayer to vote for the measure. Carried unanimously.

The Board then adjourned.

RAILWAY NEWS

Mr. Wallace Craighead, G.T.R. engineer, Lindsay, has been promoted to engineer on the "flyer" from Midland to Toronto, and left for Midland this morning, where he will reside in future.

Mr. Craighead was very popular with the Lindsay railway men and had a host of friends there, who will regret to learn of his departure. He was also well known among the railway men of this city, who will congratulate him upon his promotion.

The local railway men will regret to learn that Mr. James Young, ex-engineer on the Port Hope-Toronto train, and who has for the past few years been employed as stationary engineer in Toronto, is seriously ill, and slight hope is entertained for his recovery. Mr. Young is an old pioneer railroader and was one of the first engineers to run on the Port Hope-Toronto branch of the G.T.R. through this city. He was one of the best engineers on the road and was very popular among the railway men. He left the road about eight years ago on account of ill health, and has been employed as a stationary engineer ever since.

PETERBORO'S NEW PUBLIC LIBRARY A CREDIT TO CITY DESCRIPTION OF BUILDING

Commodious, Well Lighted, Splendidly Heated and Illuminated the Structure Opposite Central Park is Admirably Situated for the Purpose for Which it was Constructed.

With the beginning of the New Year there will be thrown open to th eupblic of this city, an institution long needed in. Peterboro, viz., a large, centrally located, well furnished, well planned, well heated and well lighted Public Library. Peterboro, with all her great industrial advancement, has for years been handicapped for the want of a modern and suitable Public Library. It will be remembered that about two years ago this question agitated the Board of Trade, the City Council and the ratepayers in general. The matter of applying to Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the millionaire ironmaster of Pittsburg, Pa., was discussed. Open objection was taken at first. Citizens claimed they would sooner have their taxes raised for an admittedly required Public Library than pass under the portals of a building emblazoned with the name of "Carnegie."

However, better judgment ruled and with the beginning of 1911 will be opened one of the most modernly planned, skilfully constructed and best adapted to its purpose, library to be found in Canada. The old emotional objection, regarding the name of the donor of this magnificent structure, "Carnegie" has been omitted.

At the south-east corner of McDonell and George Street stands the new library, the world's "Public Library," appearing over the broad George Street entrance, in large cement letters in bas—relief. The new library given to Peterborough by the generosity of the Carnegie Fund is one of the handsomest buildings in this Province. In addition to its architectural beauties, the new library must always be a source of pride to our citizens on account of its size. The main building is of pressed brick upon a heavy lime stone superstructure which rises about eight feet above the ground. As one approaches the main double oak plate glass doors, one passes up a broad set of steps. On each side of the entrance are two huge brick Corinthian columns surmounted by ornamental devices in Roman stone made by the Roman Stone Manufacturing Company of Toronto. Above the doorway outside is a paundo gallery for ornamental purposes, made of cement, which gives a graceful relief to the immense front of the building. Having passed through the heavy entrance doors, that swing as lightly as two wire screen doors, the citizen finds a handsome lobby, with broad solid oak steps leading to the double siding in cherry and plate glass entrance doors. At once, the visitor is introduced to the main purpose and object of the building. That is the library. The whole ground, of this great building, is practically devoted to actual library purposes. This immense room, with its heavily decorated ceiling, supported by six gothic pillars, is only broken by ornamental fences of cherry, with handsome posts at intervals, which separate the men's and ladies' reading rooms. To the left, on entering, one is simply separated by a hogany fence from the ladies' department. Leading from this is a tile-floored, modernly equipped lavatory with all conveniences for the fair patrons of the place. To the rear of the ladies' reading room is the librarian's private office and an up-to-date lavatory. To the right of the main library, similarly fenced off is the men's reading room, with a complete lavatory. Just to the rear of the men's department, is a cheery room for the Board of Management. This, with its brilliantly lighted bay window and lofty ceiling, makes one of the brightest Board Rooms in Canada. Just to the rear of this Board Room, is a small apartment that will probably be used as a store room. The whole design of the interior is bright, home like and cheering. All the floors are of maple, the walls have a mahogany on birch ground wainscotting to the height of about four feet. In the main library, for night, light is furnished by six four-light pendant electroliers, and one central six-light pendant. At intervals, along the walls are single wall electric brackets. Towards the rear, on east end of the main library is a very ornamental horse shoe shaped counter for the librarian and his staff. Behind this will be erected the shelving for the thousands of volumes comprising Peterborough Public Library. This portion of the first or ground floor is lighted by twenty-seven electric pendants, hanging from heavy brass chains. One feature of the lighting of this department worthy of note is a series of electric connections on the floor, so that lamps with flexible cords may be requisitioned when necessary.

One feature of this splendid addition to Peterborough's Public buildings, worthy of notice, is the handsome winding stair-case. The steps, wide in themselves are of thick solid maple. The balustrade is of heavy oak, while the balusters are of cherry making a bright, yet massive effect. One remarkable part of this wide stairway is the artistic disposition of the central landing. This is supported by immense brass ornamental brackets, which give down over the entrance doors. As one reaches the second floor, is a broad hall way, some 12 feet in width, well lighted and having an auxiliary light from an overhead skylight. The electric lighting system on this floor is fully equal to that in the ground floor. On this flat is situated the lecture room, to the east. This large apartment, furnished with raised stage, will seat possibly three hundred people. On the second floor are also several other large and well furnished rooms.

To return to a general description of this building, it might be added that the main library room is furnished with two huge pressed brick fire places, surmounted by heavy oaken brackets and mantlepieces. This whole structure is noticeable for the thorough workmanship of the contractors and mechanics, who undertook the work. The bright oak floors, with handsome cherry finishings elsewhere, the shining brass attachments noticeable everywhere, and the splendidly planned system of window light, unite in giving to Peterborough one of the brightest, handsomest, most solidly constructed libraries to be found on this continent.

A few words in this connection are due to Messrs. Rutherford Bros., the contractors for the building. Of course Mr. Tom Rutherford's construction work in Peterborough is too generally known to require any specific list of the important local buildings he, and his firm has erected. To enumerate these would take columns of this paper and practically cover the City of Peterborough. Still, to particularise, in the Public Library Messrs. Rutherford Bros., have sustained their acknowledged reputation of old, and have added another perpetual monument to the enterprise and excellent work done by the Peterborough firm. Messrs. John Belcher and W. Blackwell, were the architects in charge of the building. Mr. Fred De La Fosse, lately of the Examiner staff is to be the librarian and Mr. John Mattheson, the caretaker.

INDUCTION OF REV. JAS. ROLLINS

your pastor, and I want to tell you how you can make the most of your pastor. I do not believe there is a man in the Presbytery, who would object to reasonable demands, and I believe that every man realizes that when he is called to the ministry he has a great responsibility hanging over him. He also will find that very unreasonable demands will be made on his time. A minister can visit the homes of the members of his congregation, but it is unreasonable to expect him to visit them every few days or even, weeks. There is a limit to that sort of thing. Some people would keep a minister, or would expect him, to be continually on the tramp. A minister is expected to accept every invitation in season or out of season, anything from a golden wedding to a hockey match. Of course, it is a pleasure to have a minister present, but there is a limit.

There never was a time in the history of the Christian church when the machinery was so elaborate as it is now. (The speaker here named over the majority of the different church societies, which represented the machinery). A minister is expected to be at the head of all these societies and if anything goes wrong with the machinery he is supposed to pull a little. Another thing, where there is sickness in a home the minister is supposed to know all about it, no matter how quiet the family have tried to keep, they expect that the minister should know about it. They will call the Doctor and a nurse, but they will never call the minister—he should just understand the circumstances without being told, and if he fails to call around under these circumstances, the people often talk about being neglected, and so on."

Mr. Keith then called on Mr. Potter to speak to the people, for he felt that the people would not go away satisfied if Mr. Potter had not spoken to them.

"I consider it a great honour to be invited here to-night," said Mr. Potter. "It is also an honour to have the privilege and opportunity of speaking to the friends. I hoped that I would be able to get here and welcome my friend, Mr. Rollins."

Mr. Potter here spoke a few words, referring to the sad mission upon which he had come to the city, and a few sympathetic words in connection with it.

Continuing, Mr. Potter said that he had gone to school with Mr. Rollins, and had known him for a long time. He believed that Mr. Rollins was able and capable of taking the position, and he prayed that God would bless him and help him in his new field of labour, and he hoped that the work which he had put his whole life ihto would go just the same.

On account of the lateness of the hour, Mr. Keith and Mr. Pogue did not address the audience, and at the close of the service, the members of the congregation, who were present, went to the front of the church and made the acquaintance of their new pastor.

GOOD MONEY IN ALBERTA AGRICULTURAL LANDS

Mr. David B. Mullen, a former Peterborough boy, representing important real estate exchange interests in Edmonton, arrived in the city last night. To indicate something of the rise of value in lands in Alberta, it is to be stated that Mr. Mullen sold on account of Mr. Wm. A. Eyres, city, blocks of land in Alberta, near Edmonton, totalling 480 acres. These lands cost Mr. Eyres 3 dollars an acre a few years ago. Mr. Mullen sold them for Mr. Eyres, for over $6,000—for a property costing some $2,400. Mr. Mullen will be at the Munro House for a few days and all those interested in western real estate, either urban or rural, either as investors or purchasers, will find it profitable to have a chat with him.

POST CARD COLUMN

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me, as a citizen, to express my appreciation of the work done by Mr. and Mrs. Henry at the Children's Shelter. After reading of the destitute condition of the last arrival of children to the Shelter, it is scarcely conceivable that the clean, happy group of children to be seen there now is the same. It surely took as much courage to undertake the cleaning of those unusually filthy children as to face a canon on a battlefield. Since patriotism is in vogue, it may here be mentioned that Mr. and Mrs. Henry are as highly deserving of honour as any Captain, Major, or Colonel. Would it not be profitable to the country and more pleasing in the sight of Heaven, to better conditions near home, before sending large contributions to convert the heathen in foreign countries?

ECZEMA NOT A BLOOD DISEASE

Eczema is a disease of the skin and not of the blood. For this reason internal medicines have never been a success in curing eczema. Whatever the cause local application is necessary to heal the sores and restore the skin to a healthful, natural condition. For this reason Dr. Chase's Ointment has a world wide reputation as being without a rival for the cure of Eczema.

WEDDING BELLS

WILSON-BUYERS

A pretty wedding was solemnized this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Buyers, when their eldest daughter, Miss Jennie D. Buyers, was united in the holy bonds of Matrimony, to Mr. Melville L. Wilson, of London, Ont. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. J. Keith, M.A., B.A., Pastor of Knox Church, in the presence of a large circle of friends and relatives. The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, to the strains of the Wedding March, from "Lohengun" which was played by Miss Isabel Gilchrist of Toronto. The bride, who was becomingly attired in a beautiful gown of ivory satin, with Irish lace and pearls, also carrying a boquet of bridal roses, was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Buyers, who was attractively attired in pink silk mull and carried a beautiful boquet of pink roses. The groom was assisted by Mr. W. E. Reid, of Detroit.

The groom's present to the bride's maid, was a beautiful gold broach, and to the groomsman, a gold tie pin. The house was very attractively and appropriately decorated for the occasion. After the ceremony, the guests partook of a dainty luncheon and the happy young couple received the congratulations of those assembled. The bride received many costly and beautiful presents of cut glass, silverware and china, as well as other useful articles.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left on the 4.38 C.P.R. train for Toronto and points west. The bride's travelling costume was a suit of navy blue, and a white beaver hat. They carry with them the heartiest congratulations and best wishes of a large circle of friends. The young couple will reside in London, Ont.

SPLENDID LECTURE ON DICKENS BY MR. O'BRIEN

Entertainment of the Ladies Literary Society of the T. A. S. Last Night Was a Great Success.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

It is not given to everyone to address such an audience as gathered to hear Mr. W. J. O'Brien at St. Alphonsus' Lyceum last night. The T. A. S. has had many big evenings, and the ladies' section has been latterly a strong drawing card, but we doubt if ever a function of a similar kind in the city of Peterborough was graced by such a bumper house. The seating accommodation of the hall proved altogether insufficient, and scores of men and women and even young girls had to be content with standing room. And yet they stayed out the long programme, good humoredly too, as was evidenced by the hearty laughter that Mr. George Lynch's inimitable recitations gave rise to. "What did you thing of it all?" we asked Father Casey this morning. The smile on his face was sufficient answer. However, there is the inevitable fly in the amber. "I regret exceedingly we could not find seats for them all," he said, "and to those who stood through the lengthy programme, I extend my sincere sympathy. Another thing, I wish they would be a little 'more punctual. When we say 7.45, we mean it."

The children, many of them mere little tots, who took part in the little sketch, "The First Christmas," acquitted themselves remarkably well. The tableaux were very beautiful and realistic, especially "The Annunciation," with Miss Blanid Giroux as the Virgin and Miss Aggie Rudkins as the Angel Gabriel. The song, "Merry Christmas,' by the junior music class of St. Mary's, was one of the prettiest numbers. Those who took part in the first part of the programme were Agnes Rudkins, Blanid Giroux, Violet Hickey, Florence Giroux, Genevieve McCarthy, Regina Hill, Kathleen O'Connell, Helen Warmington, Agnes Costello, Kathleen Garden, Antoinette Shevlin, Kenneth Butler, Casimir Donoghue, Austin O'Toole, Fred Mullane, Willie Begley, Marion Hayes, May O'Brien, Bernardine O'Brien, Agnes Grant, Grace Primeau, Madeline O'Heron, Mary Phelan, Florence McAuliffe, Helen McCarthy, Margaret Weatherhead. During the fifth scene, "The Angels' Chorus, St. Mary's Mandolin Club very appropriately rendered the "Adeste Fideles' 'as follows: Aileen McCabe, Mary O'Toole and Lettie Hatterick, mandolins; Evelyn Doris and Willie Hatarick, violins; and Marion German, piano.

The second part of the programme opened with the patriotic chorus, "O, Canada," by the boys of St. Peter's school, after which Rev. Father Casey introduced the lecturer of the evening.

Mr. O'Brien then came forward to deliver his lecture, which was an exceedingly able handling of a very interesting subject. Space will not permit publishing his lecture to-day, but the full report will be given in tomorrow's Examiner.

Mr. O'Brien illustrated his lecture by some appropriate readings from Dickens' works. There was genuine congratulation in the applause that rewarded his address, and it needed not the earnest words of Rev. Father Casey and Rev. Father McColl to assure him the audience appreciated his efforts on their behalf. Other numbers on the programme at this point were a selection from "Hiawatha" by Miss Lily Simons, given with true dramatic power. Mr. George Lynch's ever popular recitation which positively drew down the house and called for an unanimous encore, and the chorus "The Boys of the Old Brigade," by the boys of St. Peter's school, were excellent.

On account of the lateness of the hour the usual vote of thanks was dispensed with, but Rev. Father Casey and Rev. Father McColl briefly tendered Mr. O'Brien the thanks of the Society. It was an unnecessary formality, said Fr. Casey. They knew Mr. O'Brien—knew that he was a busy man, especially now during the closing days of the school term, so they could appreciate at its full worth the sacrifice this splendid lecture must have entailed upon him. His was a lecture that approached very near to the masterpieces. It was one he might confidently deliver in any hall in the world and before any audience, no matter how select, and he felt sure that this record attendance was very much in the nature of a personal compliment to Mr. O'Brien. On behalf of the society he tendered him their admiring congratulations and heartfelt thanks. He also thanked most sincerely the children who had contributed to the programme, and all those who had assisted in preparing it.

Rev. Father McColl also eulogised the lecture. He knew Mr. O'Brien was a good school teacher. (Laughter). But there were good school teachers who could not give a good lecture. But Mr. O'Brien had given eloquent demonstration of the fact that a person could achieve greatness in two roles. But although Mr. O'Brien's lecture was the event of the evening, they were also glad to see and hear the children, and he congratulated them also on the very excellent manner in which they had presented their very beautiful little play.

The singing of the national anthem brought the proceedings to a close after ten o'clock.

A POINTER FOR YOUNG MEN

—A young man asked the question the other day, what was proper etiquette to give a young lady for Christmas. Being good friends with a number of young ladies, he did not care to give an article that might leave a wrong impression. He was told that of all the Christmas gifts that are made at this season of the year a Box of Chocolates is more proper in the great majority of cases than any other article that may be given.

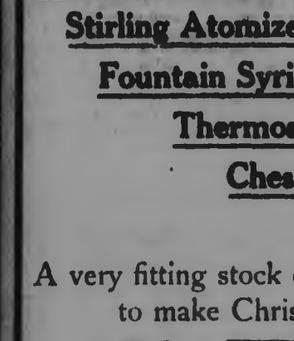
KING Arthur gave a Christmas feast
At Camelot, at Camelot.
In honor of the little Christ,
Who was of Virgin born.
Knight at the board sat great and least.
The ninth and wise between.
Merlin, the seer, and Lancelot,
And Guinevere, the queen.

THE tankers flared, the goast logs blazed,
At Camelot, at Camelot.
In honor of the little Christ,
That was a Virgin's son.
The wine was poured, the song was raised,
But still with brooding eyes
Upon the queen and Lancelot
Looked Merlin, the most wise.



"WHAT IS THERE THERE THAT THEY SEE?"

THEN spoke they further solemnly,
At Camelot, at Camelot.
"There walk but sinful men and we,
But children evermore.
What is it that they see that we
By seeing upon seem
That does their look so Lancelot
And Guinevere, the queen?"

ANSWERED the king the gayhearted one,
At Camelot, at Camelot.
"I see a little winged child,
All fair as snow and fine.
Between the two he holds mine dear,
A flower of those he cherish
And he both smiled on either side
And blessed them with his hands."

DOUBTED they and went on troubled hearts,
At Camelot, at Camelot.

"Behold, it is the little Christ
Who is the Virgin's son!
He comes to bear us company,
For this our loving's sake."
And low with them bent Guinevere,
And Lancelot of the Lake.

BUT TWO THERE KNELT TO LOVE.

BUT Merlin held his eyes apart,
At Camelot, at Camelot.
He knew he saw a heathen God,
A God he might not name,
Who slept not 'neath a Virgin's heart
Nor gave the peace thereof.
Oh, king and court, they knelt to Christ,
But two there knelt to love.

KING Arthur gave a Christmas feast
At Camelot, at Camelot.
In honor of the little Christ,
Who was of Virgin born.
And at the board sat great and least
The ninth and wise between,
Merlin, the seer, and Lancelot,
And Guinevere, the queen.

Old Time Carving.

An ancient book on carving says that the only meats that were "carved" were mutton and beef. You had to "break a deer, rear a goose, lift a swan, unjoint a capon, spoil a hen, frisk a chicken, unbrace a mallard, unlace a coney, dismember a heron, display a crane, disfigure a peacock, untack a bittern, unbrace a curlew, dismember a pheasant, wing a partridge or a quail, untack a plover, wing a pigeon or any other small bird and border a game pie."

Fascination of Golf.

"I've 'eard of Nero a-playing on 'is fiddle, sir, when 'is Rome was a-burning," said the caddie, pushing down the local paper, "but this 'ere game of golf must be the most blasphemy 'ole in the world. I've been reading about this fire up at the golf grounds last Friday, and it says, 'The fire brigade promptly responded to the call, and when darkness closed in they were still playing upon the ruins of the clubhouse.'"—Golf Illustrated.

A CHRISTMAS FAIRY STORY.

By AILEEN ORR.

THERE was once upon a time a little black boy called Billy. He had lived all his short life in a black camp with his parents and a number of other aborigines of the tribe. Billy had never been very kindly treated, and as he had a soft heart himself he sometimes felt it very much.

Now, one Christmas time, being left alone as usual, with no presents of any sort and no treat, he began to think of all the stories he had been told about the white children's Christmas and determined then and there to find out what it was really like. He had heard of the Christmas hills in a country many miles off and planned to go there, believing from their name that these must contain all the mysteries of Santa Claus and other joys from which he had always been isolated.

With a loving farewell to his own mia mia—the little shelter of branches which he had built for himself against the thunderstorms—he set off with only a piece of opossum skin hung round his waist for clothing and a boomerang in his hand.

Billy journeyed for many hours over paddocks and wire fences, wading bravely through creeks, water holes and bracken undergrowth, where the snakes were very numerous and poisonous, till he found himself in a beautiful valley between a blue and a purple mountain. Approaching a vineyard, he asked an old gardener where the Christmas hills lay.

"Yonder," said the man, pointing straight in front of them toward the blue mountain. "This is Yarra glen."

The little black boy was very hot and thirsty, for the sun had been beating fiercely upon him all the way along, so he begged a few of the round juicy grapes which hung in rich profusion on the vines.

"By all means," said the good natured gardener as he picked him the largest bunch he could find, ripe and inviting, with the bloom upon them. Billy thanked him, saying he hoped some time to be able to return his kindness, and, taking the fruit, he continued his way with a light heart.

As he climbed and climbed, rising higher and higher, the glen grew smaller and smaller below him till he could not see the old man any more. Soon the hill became so steep and slippery that he was forced to draw himself up from tree to tree by holding first on to one branch and then another. Blue gum and wattles rose high above him in monotonous grandeur till he began to wonder where the Christmas trees and stockings were and how they grew. Feeling thirsty again, he was putting some more grapes into his mouth, when suddenly he perceived a poor old woman lying on the ground, looking very faint and ill.

"GIVE ME SOME, KIND YOUTH."

"Give me some, kind youth!" she gasped. "I have been sunstruck."

"But I have travelled many miles on foot and am parched with thirst," said Billy.

"I am dying," groaned the other feebly. "Have pity."

Whereupon, moved to sympathy, he gave her all he had left.

To his astonishment as she was eating them she turned into a lovely fairy queen all dressed in soft, shimmery blue, the color of the sky.

"As you have done me a service," she said, "I mean to reward you in the way you most want. You shall have a real Australian Christmas."

Billy was overjoyed and at her bidding followed her through the bush till they reached a wonderful garden filled with brilliant flowers and fruit which surpassed his wildest dreams. Strawberries grew in masses all along the borders, and the trees were laden with luscious ripe peaches, nectarines, figs and every other southern fruit he had ever thought or heard of in or out of season.

Here they entered, and the blue fairy summoned ten other little fairies just Billy's own size and age to wait upon and entertain him. They were all in different colors, so that as they flitted about him in the sunlight with their floating gossamer gowns they looked like a rainbow.

Feast the little darky boy;
Give him pudding, fruit and toy;
Sing and dance and merry make;
Don't forget the Christmas cake
For the darky darky boy!

Having sung and danced for him, they then set the Christmas dinner on a long, narrow table out in the garden. There were strawberries and cream, and grape cake, since plum pudding made so many that Christmas he never ashed those the fairies stuff: chocolates, pineapple dumplings and last, but most important, instead of a hot plum pudding with holly, on the cold custards mive, there was a huge ice cream pudding, with glorious colors shining of various through it, and a piece of yellow wattle blossoms stuck in the top.

Five fairies sat at one side of the table and five at the other, with Billy out at the foot, and the blue queen at the head. They ated their dinner with might with, as they all who drank would be lucky all the next year. Each fairy's wine tasting of their own fruit, the queen's was like the pink silk gown which and the pinks very pretty which and so on till it came to Billy, and he was black with a crimson light in it, and he thought it more delicious than they were given each a large slice of the grape cake, and afterward anything they wanted till they had appetite left for only the ice pudding, which on such a hot day was most refreshing. Each fairy found in her share a precious stone again to match her dress. The yellow fairy got a topaz, the heliotrope an amethyst, the blue a sapphire, and so on till it came to Billy, who, after eating for some time, suddenly closed his white teeth upon something very hard and, taking it out and looking at it, found it was an opal with every one of the fairy colors combined gleaming in it.

All the fairies gathered round him and exclaimed, "That is a magic opal, and the owner of it will some day become chief of his tribe." Hearing this, he put it in his mouth under his tongue for safety, for, as he had no clothes, of course he had no pocket. The fairies then, seeing he had no stocking to hang up, presented him instead, for a Christmas box, with a new boomerang, telling him it was a charmed one, so that whenever he wanted anything he had only to throw the weapon high into the air and it would return with the object of his choice and lay it at his feet.

THE GOBLIN KNOCKED HIM DOWN.

But alas, there was a wicked little goblin peeping through from the bough of a peach tree, and, though he had not heard about or seen the boomerang, he had caught all regarding the magic opal and had seen Billy place it under his tongue. So when the little black boy had bidden goodby, thanking the fairies for his Christmas feast, and started home again he was waylaid in the bush by the evil goblin, who had followed him out of the garden to rob him. Billy refused to give up his stone and cried for help, but the goblin knocked him down and beat him till he lost consciousness. Then the wicked creature forced open his mouth, stole the magic opal and ran away with it as fast as he could. When poor Billy recovered he soon noticed that the opal was gone and guessed who had taken it, but he was in despair of ever finding it again, so, sitting miserably on the ground, he opened his mouth wide and cried long and loud. But this he soon realised was a silly, useless thing to do. Just then he spied his boomerang, which he had quite forgotten, on the ground nearby, and, remembering what the blue fairy had told him, he picked it up, and, jumping to his feet, he threw it skillfully high into the air.

Away it swung without touching the trees, and, sure enough, as the goblin, a couple of miles off, was just admiring his plunder, the boomerang lifted it out of his hand before his very eyes and carried it back to the feet of its rightful owner. Billy shouted for joy, and, putting it once more in his mouth, he took his wonderful toy under his arm and sped down the hill. When he reached the vineyard he saw the gardener still at work, so, asking him what he would most like as a token of gratitude for the grapes, the old man looked him up and down and answered, "There is not much a little fellow like you could do for me."

"I can do my best," said Billy.

"There is only one thing I want," said the gardener sadly, "and that is the little daughter I lost in the bush a year ago."

No sooner said than the boomerang went whizzing through the air as before, and in a few moments it came floating swiftly back through the blue haze with a little fair headed child seated happily and safely upon it. With joy too deep for words, the old man clasped her in his arms, and Billy triumphantly left them together and journeyed on again over paddock and fence till at last he found himself back in the black camp where his little mia mia and aborigine companions were. When they found how successfully he could throw and the wonderful things the boomerang brought back he grew so very popular and rich that they at length made him chief of the tribe. Then he married a sweet little black girl with the tightest, tiny black curls and the blackest possible eyes. Round her neck he hung the magic opal, and so she wore it always they lived happily ever afterward.—Leslie's Weekly.

Salt Water Cataracts.

There are a good many salt water cataracts in existence. They may be found in Norway, southern Chile and British Columbia, where narrow fiords, or arms of the sea, are obstructed by barriers of rock. The rising tide flows over and storms through such rocks into the great natural reservoirs beyond, but the water is held back at the ebb until it brushes over the obstruction in of all is the waterfall at Canoe Passage, where the island of Vancouver approaches the British Columbia mainland. Here the flood tide from the gulf of Georgia to the southward is held back at a narrow cleft between two islands until it pours over in a boiling cascade eighteen feet high, with perhaps double the volume of the Rhine. At the turn of the tide, however, the waters from the north rush back into the gulf, producing a cascade of equal height and volume. The waterfall actually flows both ways.

A Miser's Luxury.

There was a Middlesex couple once who lived on a sum to shock the most reckless of our correspondents. Daniel Dancer was the man. He looked on saving as an art and saved for art's sake. His father left him a farm and eighty acres, and his sister helped him carry out his scheme of life. He let the land lie fallow, says the London Gest. It costs money to cultivate land. For food the couple believed in one day, one meal. The batch of dumplings baked on a Saturday lasted out the week. For clothing he depended on hay bands "swathed round his feet for boots and round his body for a coat." But Daniel had a weakness. He would buy a clean shirt each year. And out of this arose the tragedy of his life—a lost lawsuit over threepence which, in Daniel's judgment, the shirt seller had wrongfully pocketed. He died in 1794 worth £3,000 a year.

Dynamite.

The action of dynamite is comparatively precise. The firing point is 180 degrees C. At that temperature it either burns or explodes. If free from all pressure, jar, vibration or force of any kind it merely burns. That is how it comes about that one can burn dynamite safely in the hand. If all conditions be wholly favorable. But any least vibration from such requisites will cause an explosion, which is an excellent reason for avoiding too intimate ventures with the compound. When ignited in small quantities in the open air dynamite does nothing more startling than to burn fiercely. When, however, larger quantities are ignited explosion almost invariably results, as the temperature is raised by the flames.—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE INTERMEDIATE GROUP SCHEDULE DRAWN UP YESTERDAY AT TRENTON

Peterborough's First Two Games Are Away From Home at Cobourg and Trenton—Home Season Opens Jan. 19th, with a Match With Belleville.

LIST SATISFACTORY

At a meeting in the Gilbert House, Trenton, yesterday afternoon, at which representatives of the four clubs of the district intermediate O. H. A. were present, the schedule for the district was drawn up and adopted. The list of games, which is given below, is thoroughly satisfactory to the Peterborough management, as it gives them two games away from home first, which was what was wanted. It will perhaps be hard upon the anxious fans to have to wait until January 19th for the first home game, as the talent is very anxious to see the team in action. The schedule allows the team plenty of time to get into shape, and they should be going strong before they are called upon to play their first game.

S. S. E. Purser of Cobourg, the convener, was in the chair. J. E. Doheny represented Cobourg, J. E. Matthews the Trenton club. Mr. Laing the Belleville team, and Frank Heffernan looked after Peterborough's interests.

The schedule decided upon was as follows:

Jan. 4—Cobourg at Belleville.
Jan. 9—Peterborough at Cobourg.
Jan. 9—Trenton at Belleville.
Jan. 13—Peterborough at Trenton.
Jan. 16—Belleville at Cobourg.
Jan. 19—Belleville at Peterborough.
Jan. 20—Cobourg at Trenton.
Jan. 24—Trenton at Peterborough.
Jan. 27—Peterborough at Belleville.
Jan. 27—Trenton at Cobourg.
Jan. 31—Belleville at Trenton.
Feb. 1—Cobourg at Peterborough.

We can hardly expect your local school to endorse 30-Day Shorthand, nor yet your friend who knows no other system, but his or her own, but we can refer you to hundreds who can speak from actual experience and will pay fare to Toronto and return, if every testimonial we furnish is not genuine. PETERBORO'S GAMES AT HOME AND ABROAD

There will be a pratice of the Intermediate O.H.A. team at Brock St. rink and a full attendance is expected. Now that the schedule is arranged the players know what is expected of them and every practice should be well attended. Team play is the key-stone of championship teams and team play cannot be imparted by talks from the coach or dressing room conferences. It can only be acquired by earnest, conscientious, hard work on the ice. Peterborough has the material right now for a team that will take a lot of beating. From now on the effort should be to build up a system of team work from goal right through to centre. And start right, by attending every practice. Only intermediates are expected out to-night. The practice is at the usual hour.

The Peterborough junior and intermediate O. H. A. teams will have ten games altogether during next January, five of them on home ice and five away. The listing of fixtures for both clubs is given for the benefit of the fans:

Home Games.

Lindsay vs. Peterborough juniors, Friday, January 6th.
Belleville vs. Peterborough Intermediates, Thursday, Jan. 19.
Trenton vs. Peterborough intermediates, Tuesday, Jan. 24.
Cobourg vs. Peterborough juniors, Monday, Jan. 30.
Cobourg vs. Peterborough intermediates, Wednesday, Feb. 1.

Games Abroad.

Peterborough juniors at Cobourg, Monday, Jan. 2.
Peterborough intermediates at Cobourg, Monday, Jan. 9.
Peterborough intermediates at Trenton, Friday, Jan. 13.
Peterborough juniors at Lindsay, Tuesday, Jan. 17.
Peterborough intermediates at Belleville, Friday, Jan. 27.

PETERBOROUGH HORSES CLEAN UP AT LINDSAY

Three firsts and two seconds was the splendid record of the horses owned by Messrs Herb Stinson and Roland Denne of Peterborough at the annual Victoria County Winter and Christmas Fair held at Lindsay yesterday. Mr. Stinson's horse carried off the three premier honours, getting first in the gentlemen's single turnout with lady, class, the open single driver and the lady driver classes. Mr. Denne succeeded in securing second prize in the gentleman's single and lady driver class. The fair was a great success with a large attendance and a great number of entries in the different classes.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

The Simcoes at Toronto are using Ken Crane at cover point, and the former west-end cover seems to be making good on the job. Speaking of the Monday night practice, the News says:

Crane, of Peterboro, showed himself to be the best defence man on the ice. He is weighty and has speed and trickiness besides. Burritt, of Peterboro, also showed class on the forward line.

Instead of hiking down East to play pro. hockey, Andy Kyle, of Parkdale and Eureka fame, has signed up with Berlin, with whom he may play this winter. Port Hope first tried to secure his services and Picton also made a bid, but Berlin talked business. This Lidding for players makes it appear that the "Eastern" and "Western" groups of the Ontario Pro. League do not have a working agreement whereby clashes over players can be avoided.

Picton has signed up most of the junior team of that place which met Eurekas in the semi-finals of 1909.

The Peterborough juniors worked out last night with a big squad on the ice. This is semi-final week and the line-up will be definitely known before the end of the week after which only a couple of the most promising of the rest of the squad will be permitted to pratise. There are a few of the players, as Lou Marsh remarked somewhat cruelly in the Toronto Star, who "should be chasing a tin-can up an alley" as they are only in the road. At that, there is a big bunch of good material in sight and the team promises to be strong if they get working together.

Pete Campbell who is playing with the Varsity junior O.H.A. team this year worked out with the juniors here last night.

The players and fans will be glad to learn that "Billy" Breen has accepted the terms offered him by the Peterborough Hockey Club to train the local teams and will report for duty on Monday next. With Breen in charge of the teams and the dressing room everything will be satisfactory for the players.

Street Car Strike at Deadlock.

Winnipeg, Dec. 21.—Matters in the street car strike, are at a deadlock The civic committee which is acting as mediator between the two parties, held another conference last evening as a result of which the time limit for the men to return to work was extended until Thursday. The company absolutely refuse to reinstate the four men whose discharge precipitated the strike, while the men hold that they must do so before the strike will be called off.

Meanwhile, the company appears to have any number of men and new ones are being trained every day. The service was discontinued early last evening, but during the day most of the cars were in operation. There were several instances of trouble, but these were not of a serious nature. No cars are being run in the district where Monday night's riot took place. The company say they will give the preference to the men up to Thursday.

Banquet at Queen's.

Kingston, Dec. 21.—The Engineering Society banquet at Queen's last night was a fine event. The speakers included Lieutenant-Governor Gibson, T. W. Gibson, Deputy Minister of Mines, Toronto; A. B. Wilmot, M.A., professor of mining and geology, Toronto; Mortimer Lamb, secretary Canadian Mining Institute; J. G. G. Kerry, consulting electrical engineer, Toronto; H. E. T. Haultain, professor of mining engineering, Toronto University; H. W. Bothman, chief engineer of the Hydro-Electric Commission, Toronto; J. W. Kynock, chief engineer of the Canadian General Electric Co., Peterboro; J. W. Weller, chief engineer of the Welland Canal; R. W. Leonard, president Coniagas mine, Cobalt; A. W. Campbell, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, Ottawa.

Liberals Gained Two.

London, Dec. 21.—The returns from the three constituencies, the polling of which on Monday brought to a close the general elections for the first Parliament of King George, were announced yesterday.

James Gilhooly, who, as an O'Brienite, long represented the west division of Cork County, was one of the returned, adding one to the Independent Nationalists' total. In the south division of Kilkenny County M. Keating, Nationalist, was re-elected. In Munro, the Liberal was re-elected over the Unionist, Sir A. Bignold, by 211.

The Government parties have a coalition majority of 126 in the new Parliament. This is two more than the combined advantage over the Unionists in the preceding Parliament.

The final stage of the parties is: Unionists 273, Liberals, 272, Labor 42, Nationalists 73, Independent Nationalists 10.

The total number of votes cast is: Unionists 2,410,049, Liberals 2,296,736, Labor 384,286, Nationalists 159,616

Not Even a Look In.

New York, Dec. 21.—The Journal of Commerce says there is a rumor current here that the contract for the Quebec bridge, requiring 83,000 tons of steel, will be placed with an English company, contrary to previous expectations, and that neither American nor Canadian shops will share in the award.

In Grip of Hurricane.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 21.—Newfoundland is in the grip of a hurricane, declared to be the worst that has been known here for many years. The storm has been raging for forty-eight hours, and shows no signs of cessation. Already much damage to fishing property along the coast has been reported.

Dr. Cook Comes Back.

New York, Dec. 21.—Dr. F. A. Cook will return to this city on the steamship George Washington, which is due to arrive Thursday evening. Dr. Cook has not been in the city since his disappearance shortly after the submission of his polar record to the University of Copenhagen.

Murdered and Robbed.

Los Angeles, Dec. 21.—One of the boldest and most desperate crimes in the history of Los Angeles was committed early yesterday when two highwaymen held up, murdered and then robbed Martin Cahon at the corner of Grand avenue and Third street. Two hundred citizens joined the police in a pursuit of the bandits.

CANADIAN PEACHES ABROAD.

Fruit in Britain Has Been an Object Lesson.

The successful shipment of Canadian peaches on a commercial scale to the markets of Great Britain, will mark the year 1910 as the beginning of a new phase in the development of the tender fruit industry in Canada. There has been extensive planting of peach orchards during the past few years, and notwithstanding the enlarged market in the Northwest, the crop has now reached such proportions, or at least it will in a year or two, that there will be no encouragement to increase the peach acreage, unless some other outlet is in sight

The Dominion Department of Agriculture, as represented by the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, early in the season made arrangements to purchase a quantity of peaches to be packed in single layer cases, each peach to be wrapped in paper and surrounded with wool.

The packing was done under the direct supervision of an officer of the Department. The contract with the growers, as represented by the St. Catharines Cold Storage & Forwarding Co., was for 2,000 cases, but, owing to stormy weather and other causes, only 1,900 cases were ready in time.

Three varieties have been shipped, namely, "Early Crawford," "Old Mixon" and "Elberta." These have all been landed in good condition. The packing has been reported as perfect. In some cases it was necessary to hold the peaches for a few days to allow them to ripen.

The returns have been very encouraging to growers. Each case contained only 20 to 25 peaches, or about 6 pounds of fruit. The selling prices so far reported have varied from three shillings and three pence to six shillings and six pence, the average net return to the growers being nearly $1 per case f.o.b. cars at St. Catharines. The Department of Agriculture guaranteed the growers the local price (about 3 1-2 cents per pound) plus the extra cost of packing, with the understanding that anything realized in excess of the guarantee would be paid over to them. It would now seem that the growers will receive several times the amount of the guarantee.

Special refrigerator cars were arranged for by the Department to carry the peaches to Montreal, and cold storage chambers were reserved on steamers for three weekly sailings each to London, Liverpool and Glasgow, and one to Bristol. The facilities thus provided made private shipments possible. Mr. C. A. Dobson, of the Jordan Harbor Peach Ranch, has made successful shipments of several hundred cases of peaches, and others have shipped pears and early apples.

Throught the refrigerator car and cargo inspection services of this branch of the Department of Agriculture, we will have complete data respecting the temperature and other conditions under which the fruit was carried until it reached the markets in Great Britain.

This information will be issued in the form of a bulletin for the guidance of growers who may wish to make shipments in future. The trail will be well blazed and it will be the fault of the shippers if they do not follow it successfully.

A recent bulletin makes the following announcement respecting the season's crop: "In Eastern Canada the peach crop has been very irregular, and quite conflicting reports have been received. As the crop approaches maturity and is being harvested, the general estimation would be that there is a medium to full crop, but light in certain varieties. The late peaches are even better than the earlier varieties. The Early Crawfords were better than usual. The Smock will be a medium crop. The Elbertas, however, are light. British Columbia reports a full crop of both early and late peaches."

It also contains this information of importance to shippers: "Many peach growers are shipping this year for the first time in peach boxes. It should be noted that, while the Inspection and Sale Act prescribed no name and addresses for the peach basket, the peach box must be marked the same as any other closed package. The inspectors are reporting a number of cases where peach boxes have not been properly marked."

The presence in the English market of Canadian peaches will present to the British public another aspect of our resources.

Battle of the Herrings.

The battle of the herrings was the comical name given to a fight between an English force and a French detachment not far from Orleans in 1429. The English were conveying a large quantity of supplies, mainly herrings, for it was Lent, to the army that was besieging Orleans. The English had 1,000 men, the French 6,000. The former repulsed the assailants and saved the herrings, so the battle was named in honor of the supplies.

Amending His Constitution.

A well known attorney of heavy build and pompous to a degree that frequently reaches the state of being overbearing was leaving his office in a Broad street building the other day. With his high hat on and carrying a walking stick, he had stepped upon the sidewalk when he slipped and landed flat upon the pavement with a thud that shocked him as well as caused embarrassment.

Just then another attorney who enjoys an equal distinction in the legal world passed and laughed at the fallen lawyer. When the latter was trying to get up he remarked to the other:

"I guess I am getting old. My constitution will not stand what it did years ago."

As he arose to his feet his friend facetiously remarked, "Well, then, Dick, you ought to get an amendment to your constitution."

Looking at his friend with a cold stare, as cold as the ice he had fallen upon, he asked:

"Well, what kind of an amendment would you suggest, if you know so much?"

"I don't know exactly," was the reply. "I don't give advice to my clients without some kind of a retainer, but as you are an old friend of mine I would suggest a cushion or a mattress."—Minneapolis Journal.

Fooled Him.

"Why am I like a pin?" asked Mr. Jones triumphantly of his wife. He expected she was going to say, "Because you are so sharp," and he was simply paralyzed when she replied:

"Because if you should get lost it wouldn't be worth while to spend time looking for you."

Yes, He Was Good.

"Were you a good boy in school today?"

"I think so, dad. Anyway, teacher called me a holy terror."—Buffalo Express.

Ephraim's Luck

A Cat and a Girl Both Win

By EVELYN WINTHROP

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Amy Wallace slammed the gate of the chicken yard and came down the path with tragedy written on her stormy countenance and in the very pose of her outstretched hand from which dangled the lifeless remains of a promising young broiler.

"Another one?" queried her sister disconsolately. "That makes—let me see—seventy-two chickens killed in the last six weeks. At a dollar a pair those broilers would have fetched $36!"

"It is an outrage," sputtered Amy, flinging the defunct chicken far from her sight. "That cat must be killed at once!"

"Did you send Mrs. Beemer a bill for the chickens?" asked Louise, intent on her needlework.

Amy nodded. "Sent it Monday."

"Heard from her today?"

"Ye-es."

"Did she say she was a soldier's widow and that the gray cat was her only solace?" Louise smiled mischievously.

"Word for word. Laugh, if you must, young woman," went on Amy gloomily, "but remember, please, that I am not a talented female artist who can earn the price of a gown with a few daubs of paint. I am a mere, commonplace plodder, and I haven't a talent in the world save for poultry raising, and now I begin to doubt my ability to succeed at that."

"I'll see Mrs. Beemer myself," announced Louise, arising and folding her work with an air of decision. "She must either pay you $30 and promise immunity from further annoyance from the cat or she must kill the beast."

"She won't do either," mourned Amy from the piazza as Louise passed out of the gate and crossed the street to the abode of the Widow Beemer.

Louise Wallace found the Widow Beemer seated on the back steep in the act of placing a saucer of milk before the huge gray cat, Ephraim.

"Evening, Lovey," remarked the widow amiably. "It's some warmer today."

"It is" agreed Louise coldly. "Mrs. Beemer, that cat has got to go."

"You mean Ephraim?" quavered the widow.

"Of course."

"I'm a soldier's widow"— began Mrs. Beemer in the melancholy tone she reserved for that oft repeated statement, but Louise lifted a slim finger warningly.

"And Ephraim is your only solace," added the girl dryly. "We know all that, Mrs. Beemer, and we are very sorry, but you must see that we can't countenance the chickens at this rate. It's preposterous. Ephraim seems to kill just for the mere pleasure of the deed. He's a cold blooded old murderer."

The pale gray Ephraim turned a light yellow eye in her direction, and a faint sneer lifted his black lip. Then his red velvet tongue darted in and out of the milk, and his eyes were hidden.

Ann Beemer sighed. "Very well," she sniffed tearfully. "I'll have to give him up, I guess. He's the only comfort I've got now. But you can just take him away and kill him, Lovey. I'll kiss him goodby if you don't mind."

"If you will put the cat in a bag, Mrs. Beemer, I'll find somebody to dispose of him," interposed Louise impatiently.

With a hard little glitter in her black eyes, Ann Beemer brought a covered basket and thrust the scratching, spitting Ephraim within. She tied the cover securely and gave the basket into Louise's hands. Then she threw her checked apron over her head and rocked mournfully to and fro.

Louise paused at the gate and, looking backward, felt a pang of pity for the old woman. Then she thought of the mournful Amy across the street and Ephraim's bad reputation in the community as a chicken slayer and passed through the gate.

"I'll run around to Latimer's and see if one of the boys won't chloroform the cat. Amy will be relieved, indeed, when I return and tell her that Ephraim has gone to join his forefathers."

It was no light task to carry the shaking basket within which the big gray cat fought tigerishly for escape. Her hands were quite sore when she reached the Latimer place and found herself in the midst of a curious group of boys and girls at the back door. Mrs. Latimer came out and joined them.

"I want somebody to chloroform a cat," said Louise. "It's Ephraim, you know; he's been killing off our broilers. I thought one of the boys might. I'll give a dollar."

Mrs. Latimer shook her head. "I don't want any of my folks to kill a cat, Miss Wallace; it's awful bad luck, you know. Perhaps Peter Swanson's folks will do it for you. Swedes don't believe in luck and such things."

"Very well," said Louise wearily. "Will you let Billy carry the basket for me? Ephraim's very heavy."

"I guess there won't be any harm in that—and he was wishing this morning that he could earn a quarter," insinuated Billy's shrewd mother.

"I'll see that he gets a quarter for the job," smiled Louise. And then, followed by the curious Billy and trailed by the remaining Latimers, they sought Peter Swanson, the blacksmith.

"I couldn't kill no cat, miss," said Peter apologetically, when Louise had told her story, "They tell me it brings bad luck. Just now I can't afford no bad times. Maybe the Eyetalians in the Holler might"—

Louise sought the Italian settlement in the Hollow. Pietro Roncaglia averred that Ephraim possessed the evil eye and crossed his brown fingers shudderingly. Even the rattling crispness of greenbacks failed to break his resolution.

Old Abraham Johnson's black face expressed mingled greed and alarm when approached by Louise and her funereal train. He gazed longingly at the money and then clutched the voodoo charm that hung about his throat.

"I hate to dis'pint yo', Miss Louey, honey, but it am pow'ful bad luck to kill a cat. De bery debbil's in dat Ephraim. Folks say he's de recarnival ob ole Eph Beemer, himself! I need de money right bad, too, miss—t'ank you, honey."

These were examples of the various interviews that Louise held that morning. Noon time found her at her own gate tugging the heavy basket containing the still active Ephraim. Her sister drew forward a rocking chair in the porch and Louise fell into its comfortable embrace.

"What is in the basket?" asked Amy. "Ephraim."

"Tell me about it—do," crowed Amy.

Louise told her. "I can't find a person who will make way with that cat for love or money, and I believe Mrs. Beemer knew I couldn't—she gave Ephraim into my hands almost too willingly," she ended plaintively. "I didn't realize that intelligent people could be so silly and superstitious."

"We must dispose of the cat ourselves, then," said Amy firmly. "We are not superstitious."

"No, we are not, but it's horrible to kill anything like that, you know. I'll go out this afternoon and see if I can't find some boy who will do it. They can't all be fools."

At that instant the basket containing the doomed cat swayed violently on the grass where Louise had dropped her burden; then the cover flew up, and with a spiteful hiss Ephraim dashed out and scrambled up the black walnut tree over their astonished heads.

"That impish Tommy Latimer must have untied the cords," said Louise bitterly. "I saw him quarreling with Billy over the basket—and I gave them 50 cents too."

Amy had picked up a large stone and weighed it in her hand. "I believe I could hit that cat," she said viciously. "If I can it will stun him—perhaps kill him." She shuddered slightly, aimed the missile carefully at the crouching Ephraim, threw the stone and turned her back. Louise had closed her eyes tightly.

They heard the stone crash through the branches and then there followed a silent space. After that, silence.

"I believe I killed him," breathed Amy.

"You certainly threw very near it," said an unexpected masculine voice, and the sisters turned to view the indignant countenance of Mr. Rupert Ames. That young gentleman clutched one shoulder as if in pain.

Over his head Ephraim crouched, spitting angrily and sharpening his claws on the rough branch to which he clung.

"Did I strike you, Rupert?" demanded Amy penitently. "I was trying to hit the cat, you see."

"You must be very fond of him," observd Mr. Ames, drawing near to them.

"I'm very sorry. I hope you are not badly hurt. Fetch the witch hazel, please, Louise." Amy let her hand rest in Rupert's close clasp longer than he had dared hope. "We hardly expected to see you," she added pointedly.

"I felt that you needed me," lied Mr. Ames cheerfully. "My inner consciousness told me you were in trouble of some sort and required masculine assistance. What can I do for you?"

When Louis returned with the lotion they told the story of Ephraim and the slain broilers. "Will you kill the cat, Rupert?" they pleaded tearfully.

Mr. Ames shook his head. "I couldn't," he said regretfully. "You see, I'm superstitious, too, I am," he asserted in the face of their incredulous looks. "I know if I killed that cat and every one of his nine lives were extinguished—why, I'd never have a chance of marrying Amy after all!"

Louise smiled, and the swift color came to Amy's cheeks. "That was all settled six months ago," she said coldly. "I'm going to be an independent buisness woman and"—

"Very good," said Mr. Ames crisply. "I must be running along, now. My motor's down the road a piece—had a breakdown, you know, and just thought I'd drop in and see you. Hope you get the best of Ephraim."

Louise disappeared into the house, and Amy's face lost its color. "Then you won't kill Ephraim?" she faltered.

"I cannot, Amy, but I'll tell you how you can get rid of him. Just marry me and give up this notion of poultry raising. Louise is dying to get back to town, and I want you—I need you. Let Ephraim shift for himself."

"You merely happened in here. You had a breakdown," said Amy severely.

"My resolution not to see you broke down," confessed Rupert, drawing her into his arms. "For my part, it's great good luck not to kill a cat, eh, Ephraim?"

But the cat, taking advantage of lovers' meeting, was merely a pale gray streak headed for the welcoming arms of the Widow Beemer.

Sending a Man to Coventry.

The expression "sending to Coventry" had a military origin. It arose, so it is said, in the days of Charles I., when the inhabitants of Coventry strongly objected to any intercourse with the military quartered in their town, and a woman known to speak to a man in a scarlet cloak was at once the subject of scandal. So rigid were the natives that the soldier was confined to the mean steps for conversation. Thus the term "sending a man to Coventry" if you wished to shut him from society took root in the English language.—London Chronicle.

Distances at Sea.

That man was laughed at who on his first voyage said that the ocean did not look so large as he supposed it would, but he was not alone in experiencing disappointment. The horizon at sea gives no idea of the limitless water beyond. A sea captain declares that the average landsman cannot see more than ten miles from the ship in any direction, and it would have to be a mountain or some stationary object for him to be able to distinguish it.

In the Spring.

The country schoolteacher had been telling her scholars about the seasons and their peculiarities, and to impress their minds with the facts she questioned them upon the points she had given. Several queries had been put, and finally she reached the stupid boy in the corner.

"Well, Johnny," she said, "have you been paying attention?"

"Yes'm," he answered promptly.

"I'm glad to hear it. Now, can you tell me what there is in the spring?"

"Yes'm, I can, but I don't want to."

"Oh, yes, you do. Don't be afraid. You have heard the others. Be a good boy, now, and tell us what there is in the spring."

"W'y—w'y—mum, there's a frog an' a lizard an' a dead cat in it, but I didn't put 'em there. It was another boy, for I seen him do it."—Exchange.

Mated.

Any one with half an eye could see that he was madly in love with her, but he had not courage enough to put his fate to the test. But she was a young lady who knew her way about, as the saying goes, and one night she suggested a game of chess. He, poor fellow, eagerly swallowed the bait. If he was a novice at lovemaking he was certainly no novice at chess, and he soon had the fair maid hopelessly beaten.

"Ah!" he exclaimed as he put her in a hopeless corner. "You're in a tight corner now, Miss Mabel."

She looked at him with those beautiful eyes of hers and then said:

"I hadn't noticed any compression, George. Have I no escape?"

"None whatever," said the guileless George. "I shall mate you next move."

"Oh, George!" said she, with a becoming blush. "Er—hadn't you better ask father first?"

They are married now, and George often wonders if she is as dense at chess as she would make him believe.

Lincoln With His Children.

It was a frequent custom of Lincoln, this of carrying his children on his shoulder. He rarely went down street that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the species of tyranny they exercised over him are still subjects of talk in Springfield. Mr. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, told one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children crying, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by with the boys, both of whom were wailing aloud. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts and each wants two."—From Tarbell's "Life of Lincoln."

Paying For Extras.

In one of the luxurious golf club houses in the south of England a visitor approached the steward and asked for a luncheon ticket.

"Five shillings," said the official.

"That's rather a lot, isn't it?" inquired the visitor.

"A lot? Think of the cost of this club. See those pictures? They're worth thousands of pounds. And those tapestries? Their value is simply enormous."

On the following day the visitor again asked for a luncheon ticket and tendered half a crown.

"I've already told you, sir," said the steward, "that the charge is five shillings."

"Yes, I know," was the reply, "but I only want half a crown's worth today. I saw the pictures and the tapestries yesterday."—Tales of Golf.

THREE TIMES AND OUT.

When a Girl Quit Telling of Her Bad Break.

Just before high school closed Bertha's English teacher had a party for his star class in themes. Every one was delighted, for the teacher was the idol of the class. Bertha was particularly pleased, for there she would see two good friends, Egbert and Mac, and she would have a perfectly splendid time—she knew she would.

Happily one, Egbert by name, asked if he might take her to the party, and she consented, reluctantly, of course, just for policy's sake.

That night at the party Bertha was having a gay time with her classmates, the two boys in particular.

In the parlor conversation lulled, and in an effort to free themselves from any responsibility they sought the porch as a retreat.

They sat in the soft light and chatted in low tones. Suddenly they stopped talking. They were conscious of some one's approach on the walk in front of them. They were silent.

A queer looking woman, very peculiarly dressed, passed by.

Bertha was impressed by the woman's oddity, and so for want of something better to say she remarked:

"Well, I wonder who that crazy freak is!"

Mac was silent a moment, then replied:

"That was my mother."

They didn't know what to say, so she suggested that they go in the house.

Many years passed. Bertha moved west and didn't see Mac after that night. One evening she and her sister called on a friend in the village that she now called home.

A nephew of the hostess was visiting her.

She introduced the girl to him, but Bertha didn't catch his name. In some way they began to talk about "breaks," and Bertha began to tell about the terrible one she made years ago when she was in high school.

She noticed that the boy looked rather queer, but she paid no attention and continued with her story. When she had finished the nephew spoke up and said:

"Yes, it was my brother to whom you said that."

The lad had recognized the story and Bertha's name.

A month later Bertha was on the train and met an elderly gentleman, who told her his name. It was the same as that of the nephew, but Bertha didn't connect them. It was the name that reminded her of the funny and yet sad breaks she had made to the brothers.

Never dreaming that this man was associated with or related to the same family, she proceeded to tell the stories.

"Yes, I remember hearing the boys tell about it. It was my wife of whom you spoke."

And they laughed heartily at the very peculiar coincidence, but Bertha was careful after that and never told of the breaks again, but tried to lose them from her stock of stories.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Practice Making Perfect.

Randal's mother had talked to him many times as to the importance of getting home early—this allowed him to play with the children in the neighborhood. Recently, after many promises of an early return, he came home late, as usual.

"Mother's little boy cannot go out to play any more for two or three days, until he learns to keep his word," his mother said, in despair.

"Well, mother, I don't see how you ever expect me to learn if you don't let me practice," was the unexpected reply.—Lippincott's.

TRAVERS IS ARRESTED

Warrant Alleges That He Falsified the Official Statement of the Bank Sent to the Minister of Finance at Ottawa—Same Charge as In the McGill Case—Abe Orpen, Contractor, Is His Bondsman.

Toronto, Dec. 22.—William R. Travers, vice-president and general manager of the collapsed Farmers' Bank of Canada, was arrested at 5.20 yesterday afternoon, charged with falsifying the monthly statements of the bank to the Minister of Finance. He was taken to police headquarters by Detectives Newton and Murray, where he was held till he could secure $20,000 bail, which was done at 8:30 o'clock upon the bonds of Abe Orpen, contractor and prominent sporting man.

The charge is laid under section 153 of the Bank Act, the same section under which Charles McGill, the general manager of the defunct Ontario Bank, was convicted and sentenced to serve five years in Kingston Penitentiary, the maximum penalty under the act.

The charge in the information, which was laid by Inspector of Detectives Walter Duncan, after a lengthy conference with Crown Attorney Corley, Curator G. T. Clarkson, and Jas. Bicknell, K.C., solicitor for the Bankers' Association, at the offices of the latter in the Lumsden Building, reads:

"That the said W. R. Travers, during January and the following months of 1910, down to December, of the same year, 1910, being vice-president and general manager of the Farmers' Bank, one of the chartered banks of Canada, did wilfully make false statements respecting the affairs of the said bank, in making returns to the Minister of Finance and the Receiver-General during the said months, and particularly did falsely state in each of the said returns the amounts of railway and other bonds, debentures and stocks and bonds in Canada, and the amounts of current loans in Canada held by the said bank as part of the assets, thereof on the last judicial day of the month last preceding each of said returns, said false statements being contained in the items numbered respectively 11, 12 and 14 of the schedule of assets forming part of the said several returns contrary to form of the Bank Act."

Detectives Murray and Newton were at once sent out to look for Mr. Travers as soon as the warrant had been sworn out before Police Court Clerk Curran Morrison at the City Hall. They went to the Farmers' Bank premises, at Bay and Adelaide streets, and found no one there, and thence to the King Edward Hotel. They were just leaving by the King street entrance when their man came along the street.

"My God, a warrant," he remarked when he was told that he was under arrest and asked that he be allowed to walk alone to headquarters. This was granted, and the officers followed at a distance.

Arrived at the City Hall, he asked that H. H. Dewart, K.C., be notified, and this was done. Mr. Dewart arrived at the hall at 6.30 and at once bent every effort to securing bail.

Asked if Mr. Travers had any statement to make Mr. Dewart said: "I have not discussed the matter with Mr. Travers as yet, and will not to-night. He informs me that there is no basis for the charge, and, therefore, as I am not the solicitor for the bank, and only act for Mr. Travers under special circumstances, we had not previously discussed it. I understand that the charge is laid under the same section as that against Charles McGill, and that the charge are of a similar nature."

It is understood that the charge involves more than $100,000 by which the assets of the bank are said to have been enhanced in the monthly return. This is said to have been done by exaggerating the holdings in securities and concealing the losses. These losses are said to have been made largely in Cobalt stocks either by loans upon that security or actual purchase of those stocks by the bank.

The statements were also signed by Lieut.-Col. James Munro of Embro, president of the bank. Spoken to by a reporter Col. Munro declared that he had not before heard of the arrest. He said that he was astonished to hear of it, and that he could not conceive that Mr. Travers would make any false return whatever. He declared that he had every confidence in him. He declined to make any further statement.

BODY IN A BARREL

Employe of Montreal Storage Firm Faints When He Finds Cadaver In Barrel—Was Shipped From Jarvis, Ont., by Man Named McSorley, a Medical Graduate of Defunct Bishop's College.

Toronto, Dec. 22.—What at first seemed to indicate the discovery of a murder, apparently turns out to be the revelation of a grave robbery for a man not altogether accountable for his actions. In any event, John McSorley, aged about 55, living near Jarvis, Ont., was arrested at his home shortly before midnight by Provincial Inspector Reburn.

Yesterday morning, at Montreal, an employe of the Canada Cold Storage Co. knocked in the head of a barrel supposed to contain turkeys and fainted when he found, instead the body of an old man. The body sat with the head between the knees and the arms folded, the limbs having been doubled up and bound with a heavy cord. The doctors say it will require 48 hours before an autopsy can be made of the body, which must be thawed out. The body is clothed in a cheap suit of underwear and a pair of heavy ribbed woollen socks. The features are those of a heavy man. The hair is thick and white, and the man was about 60 years of age, with a short grey beard streaked with brown. The flesh is scraped on one of the shins almost to the bone, but this was probably caused by pushing the body into the barrel. There is no indication of foul play.

The barrel had been addressed to the Janitor of Bishop's College, Ontario street, Montreal, which, however, went out of existence in 1906. It had been shipped from Jarvis, Ont., and was first addressed to J. Bousefield, St. Lawrence Market, Toronto, and then sent to Montreal, the shipper being J. McSorley of Jarvis, who, it is believed, took his medical degree at Bishop's College thirty years ago, but never practiced his profession.

A despatch from Jarvis last night says: "Belief here is that the body found in the barrel at Montreal yesterday was stolen from a graveyard here. Certainly no one is mysteriously missing from the neighborhood. Search of the burial records show that there were two interments of elderly men here shortly before Nov. 23, when the barrel was shipped from Jarvis.

"One was that of Matthew Johnson, a man of 70, with very white hair and a chin beard, the cheeks and jaw being shaved. He was buried Nov. 16. The other, buried in the R.C. cemetery three miles from the village, had no beard. Snow covers the ground at present, so that it can't be learned from the surface whether the grave can be opened, but Inspector Reburn of the provincial police department will undertake the exhumation to-morrow.

McSorley is about 60 years of age and has lived here all his life. He was educated for a doctor. He earns a livelihood now by poultry and cattle buying, painting and paperhanging, and doing other odd jobs. Since meeting with a serious accident some years ago he has been regarded as not altogether accountable for all he does. He has two or three brothers in this vicinity who are highly respected by the entire community. McSorley was seen at the depot yesterday shipping poultry, but was not noticed to-day. Late to-night Inspector Reburn arrested him at the home of one of his brothers. He denied all knowledge of the body, saying he had shipped the barrel for another man whom he does not know."

King Summoned Asquith.

London, Dec. 23.—Premier Asquith, who came down from Scotland especially at the command of King George, had an audience at Buckingham Palace yesterday. It lasted only three-quarters of an hour. It is understood that His Majesty wished to be fully advised as to the Premier's views and the Cabinet's plan for the future before leaving London to-day to spend Christmas at Sandringham.

Mr. Asquith saw none of his colleagues while he was in London, and he returned to Edinburgh on an afternoon train.

Forfeiture Suits.

New York, Dec. 22.—The Federal Government filed nine complaints here yesterday against Duveen Brothers, the international art dealers, in a series of civil forfeiture suits, aggregating approximately $600,000. The suits are a sequel to the arrest in October of several members of the firm on charges of gross undervaluation of imports. The goods involved are all under seizure.

Child Was Strangled.

Toronto, Dec. 22.—Chief Coroner Johnson held an inquest at the morgue last night into the death of an unknown infant whose remains were found in a cardboard box in the waiting-room of a departmental store Saturday last.

The jury decided that the child had been strangled by some person or persons unknown to them.

Fifteen Years for Assault.

Peoria, Ills., Dec. 22.—Joseph Hoffman, a young farmer, who assaulted Miss Mame Clark, a school teacher, at Big Hollow, Nov. 1, was yesterday found guilty and was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary.

"ASHTON-KIRK, INVESTIGATOR"

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

CHAPTER VIII.

THE NEWSPAPERS BEGIN TO PLAY THEIR PART.

Next morning Ashton-Kirk lounged in a comfortable window-seat, almost knee-deep in newspapers. The published accounts of the assassination were, in some instances, very sensational. Drawings, by special artists of persons concerned, were much in evidence, also half-tones of the exterior of 478 Christie Place. The names of Osborne and Stillman figured largely in the types; but what interested the investigator most was a portrait of the musician—the violinist, Antonio Spatola, and the story of his arrest.

The pictured face was that of a young man with a great head of curling hair. The features were regular, the expression eager and appealing.

"I would have pronounced him a musician, even if I had not heard that he was one," said Ashton-Kirk. "The head and face formations have all the qualities." Then he ran over the story of Spatola's arrest and the causes that led up to it. At the finish he smiled. "They have tried and convicted him on the first page. If there was any way for them to do it, they'd execute him in the evening editions and print his dying words in the sporting extra. But," and he nodded his head appreciatively, "Osborne has a good case against him, at that."

Both the clerk, Isidore Brolatsky, and Berg seemed to have talked freely to the newspapermen. The character of Hume was treated in a highly coloured manner. The visits of the Italian musician to the numismatist, his ambition to shine as another Kubelik, his ungovernable temper, the high words that followed Hume's frequent sneers at his ambition and the fact that he once drew a knife upon his tormentor, were presented in full. But what appealed to the space-writers most was Brolatsky's story of how Hume had once called Spatola "Mad Anthony," and afterward showed him the portrait of General Wayne.

"This apparently drove him frantic," wrote one reporter, "and, noting this, Hume frequently applied the name to him, and more than likely displayed the portrait as well. The last time that Spatola visited Hume was upon the night of the murder. He evidently went to regale the numismatist with music; for the delicatessen dealer, Berg, saw under his coat what was evidently his violin. During the course of the concert, Hume probably resumed his sneers; unable any longer to bear it, the Italian apparently struck him down, and then in blind rage of resentment, smashed and otherwise destroyed every one of the Wayne portraits he could find."

Fuller came in with another newspaper just about this time and Ashton-Kirk showed him the story.

"The Standard, then, seems to ignore the theory held by Osborne and Stillman that the murder was done in an attempt to steal the portrait found partly cut from the frame," said the assistant after studying the account. Then, inquiringly, he added: "What do you think of it, sir?"

"As a piece of sensational writing, I have no fault to find with it," said the investigator. "But the Standard's young man is no deep thinker. The single fact that Hume was a lover of real music should have shown him that his theory was wrong."

Fuller considered a moment.

"I don't think I quite get that," said he.

"It is simple enough. Hume being sensitive to harmony, asked Spatola very frequently to play for him; and, acording to Brolatsky, paid him rather well for each performance. To furnish good music, Spatola must not only have talent, but also a violin that was at least fairly good."

"Yes, sir, I see that."

"Having a violin that was at least fairly good, Spatola, being a poor man, would take care of it. He would carry it in a case—he would especially do so in wet or damp weather. And it rained on the night of the murder. If he carried his violin in a case, there was no need of his putting it under his coat. And, another thing, a violin case is of such a size as to prevent its being so carried, isn't it?"

Fuller nodded.

"I think that's very good," said he.

"It would have been a very easy thing for the Standard's man to have made a few inquiries as to whether Spatola used a violin case or no. If he had done so, I am inclined to think that the answers would have been in the affirmative. But there is another and more vital point upon which I would base an objection to the reporter's theory. He says that, goaded into a rage, Spatola struck his tormentor down. But he forgets that if the murderer did not visit Hume's with the intention of doing murder, it was rather a freakish thing for him to provide himself with a bayonet. However, that is a point that I discussed with Mr. Stillman yesterday; at first he was inclined to assume a somewhat similar position."

"But the broken and cut portraits" questioned Fuller.

Ashton-Kirk smiled a little.

"Probably I shall be able to properly account for them when I return from a little trip that I am about to take to-day," said he. "That is," as a sort of afterthought, "if some things turn out as I think they will."

Fuller unfolded the newspaper that he had brought in.

"It is a late edition of the Star," he said. "The paper seems to have scored a beat, for it has some developments that may put a different face upon everything."

Ashton-Kirk took the sheet, and as he glanced at the flaring headlines, he whistled softly. The lines read:

Mysterious Woman In A Motor Car!

She Visits 478 Christie Place on the Night of The Murder!

Did A Beautiful Woman's Hand Deal the Deadly Blow?

A New Element Added to the Hume Sensation!

"The Star man seems to have struck up an acquaintance with Sams," said Ashton-Kirk, with interest. He thought for a moment, and then added to Fuller:

"Tell Stumph when Miss Edyth Vale arrives to show her here at once."

"Oh, you have been expecting her then?"

"No; I have not. But I am now."

After Fuller left the room, the investigator turned eagerly to the Star's leaded narrative. This laid great stress upon the evident wealth and dazzling beauty of the mysterious midnight visitor in Christie Place; and second only to her did they feature the well-dressed stranger whom Berg had seen enter at Hume's door before he had closed his own place for the night. The revolver shot that had followed the woman's entrance and the parrot-like scream which had, in turn, followed that, lost nothing in the telling.

"Who was the woman? That is the mystery," the newspaper said in conclusion. "The hack driver caught but a glimpse of her, and in the excitement of the moment failed to take the number of the car. But the latter was a Maillard he is positive. There are several headquarter's men following up the clew as this goes to press; and startling developments are expected at any moment.

"As to the second man whom the fancy grocer, Berg, saw go into Hume's, there is a well-founded belief that he is very well known in select circles and had called at Hume's frequently upon a matter concerning which both he and Hume were always very secretive. The Star called up both his apartments and his office, but he had not been seen at either place on the day after the murder. The clubs of which he is a member were resorted to, but with no more success. As this gentleman is known to be engaged to the beautiful heiress of a huge fortune, the Star's well-known special writer, Nancy Prindeville, was detailed to get her statement. But a man servant stated that his mistress had given positive orders that she could not be seen."

The investigator threw down the paper.

"Well," said he to himself with a shrug, "that makes it a little annoying for the young lady. The fact that they refer to Morris when they speak of a young man 'well known in select circles' will be plain to everyone, for the facts of Morris' visits have been rather well exploited in all the other papers. And as newspaper men are not without daring in their conjectures, I wonder how long it will be before one of them openly associates the 'beautiful heiress' with Allan Morris' betrothed. I would, I think, offer even money that the thing is hinted at before night."

He sat for some time in the midst of the scattered sheets thinking deeply; then he pressed the bell call and Fuller presented himself.

"I want you to take up the investigation of Hume and Allan Morris where you left off the other day. Put Burgess, O'Neill and any others that you desire on the matter. I want complete information, and I want it quickly."

"Yes, sir," answered Fuller.

"Follow up anything that promises results concerning Morris' father. Especially find out if he ever knew Hume. Get every fact that can be gathered about the latter. You, or rather Burgess, hinted in the preliminary report that it was thought that he had at one time lived abroad. If it is possible, establish that fact. In any event go into his history as deeply as you can."

"Very well," said Fuller, with the easy manner of a person accustomed to carrying out difficult orders.

As the young man went out at one door, Stumph knocked upon another: then Miss Edyth Vale, very pale, but entirely composed, was shown into the room.

CHAPTER IX.

MISS VALE TELLS WHAT SHE KNOWS

Ashton-Kirk arose, kicked aside the litter of newspapers, and placed a chair for his visitor.

"Your man told me that I was expected," she said. "How did you know that I would come this morning?"

"I knew that you'd be sure to read the newspapers," said he. "And I was pretty confident as to the effect the Star's account would have."

She sat down quietly and for a few moments did not speak. A slight trembling of the lower lip was the only indication of the strain under which she was labouring. Finally she said:

"I am very sorry that I deceived you yesterday morning."

"I was not deceived; so there was no harm done," he explained.

She began tugging nervously at her gloves, much as she had done a few mornings before. Her face was still composed; but deep in her beautiful eyes was an expression of fear.

"I might have known that I could not do it," she said. "But the impulse came to me to deny everything as the easiest and safest way out of it all; and I obeyed it. I was not calm enough to consider the possible harm that it might do. However," and her firm voice broke a little, "I suppose the newspapers would have ferreted out the facts in any event."

"They are very keen in the pursuit of anything that promises a good story," agreed the investigator. "But if you had given me the facts as you intended doing when you called me on the 'phone yesterday morning, I'd have had twenty-four hours start of them, at least."

She leaned toward him earnestly.

"I am going to be frank with you now," she said. "And perhaps it is not yet too late. I did intend telling you everything when I telephoned you, but, as I have said, the impulse came to hide it, instead!"

"It was fear," said Ashton-Kirk, "and was, perhaps, perfectly natural under the circumstances."

"When I left you two mornings ago," said Miss Vale, "I felt easier in my mind than I had in months before. From what I had heard of you, I felt sure that the little problem which I had set you would prove absurdly simple. This feeling clung to me all day; I was light and happy and astonished my aunt, Mrs. Page, by consenting to go with her to Mrs Barron's that night, a thing that I had been refusing to do for a long time.

The Patient Brain

A Tireless Worker So Long as Supplied With Rich, Red Blood.

The brain is one of the most patient and industrious organs of the body. It can be induced, by good treatment, to perform prodigies of work.

But it is sensitive and will not brook abuse. It responds to the lash at first, but if the lash is laid on too hard it balks.

The brain insists on having plenty of good, red blood wherewith to renew its waste and from which to manufacture the nerve force supplied to the whole body.

Nervous trouble is generally brain trouble, and no suffering is to be compared to mental suffering, with the accompanying dread, suspicion and melancholy.

One-fifth of the blood in the human body is consumed by the brain, so make the blood rich and red by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and you will overcome diseases of the nerves.

There is no other way. Stimulants arouse false hope. Narcotics deaden the nerves, and temporary relief is followed by a condition which is worse than the first.

Get the blood right and the nervous system will adjust itself. Headaches will disappear; irritability will go, digestion will improve, and weakness and despondency will give place to new hope and courage, new vigor and energy.

Mrs. Geo. Fuller, Lakeland, Man., writes: "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cured me of nervous headache, from which I was a great sufferer, and I am no longer troubled with twitchings of the nerves in the arms and legs."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will enable you to avoid such extreme nervous trouble as prostration and paralysis, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

NUGGETS OF GOLD

Some of the Largest Ever Struck Were Found by Chance.

THE OLIVER MARTIN CHUNK.

It Was Turned Up by a Miner Who Was Digging a Grave For His Drowned Comrade—A Starving Miner Unearthed the "Welcome Stranger."

Nowhere does fortune indulge her love of the dramatic and the sensational more fully than in the gold fields.

Take, for instance, the story of the discovery of the world famous "Blanche Barkley" nugget in the early days of Australian gold mining, which sent a thrill around the world. Samuel Napier, a sailor, with his brother Charles and one Robert Ambrose, their cook and general handy man, had been digging for gold for six months at Kingower, about forty miles from Bendigo, without discovering as much of the precious metal as would pay their living expenses, when one August day, to tell the story in Napier's own words: "We had dug down about fourteen feet to the pipe clay stratum and were shuffling around in the bottom of the shaft more dead than alive from the heat. Old Ambrose lit his pipe and leaned against the side of the hole to rest. Just then I struck something with my pick. I turned it up so the light could strike it, and, by jiminy, it was a chunk of gold as big as a hubbard squash!" The nugget sold for $35,000.

Among the thousands who flocked to the Victorian gold fields in the early fifties were two Cornish miners, John Deason and Richard Oates, who staked a claim near the village of Moliaque. They set to work with vigor, confident that in a few months they would be able to retire to their native Cornwall rich men, but their expectations were doomed to cruel disappointment. Not only months, but many years, passed and found them still as far removed from fortune as at the beginning, and by 1869, fifteen years after they began their search for gold, they were reduced to the last straits. Starvation stared them in the face.

In despair the miner seized his pick and wandered away to the outskirts of the gold field, and as he wandered, downcast and heavy hearted, he noticed a gleam of yellow in a rut made by a peddler's cart. Lifting his pick, with a few frantic blows he brought to light an enormous nugget, which, with all his strength, he could barely raise an inch from the ground. The nugget, which was soon known the world over as the "Welcome Stranger," actually weighed two hundredweight and was sold for nearly $50,000.

And these were but a few of the many similar blocks of gold discovered in Australia under equally dramatic conditions. While a native shepherd named Kerr was tending his sheep one day his attention was arrested by a yellow rock projecting a few inches above the soil. In his excitement at the discovery he ran to fetch his master. The rock was unearthed and proved to be a nugget of two hundredweight, from which 160 pounds of pure gold were extracted.

A few years later another monster nugget made its appearance at Ballarat. A party of miners had worked a claim to a depth of sixty yards when one of them struck with his pickax a hard, irregularly shaped mass, which on being unearthed proved to be a block of almost pure gold twenty inches long, a foot wide and seven inches deep. Its weight was almost one hundredweight and a quarter and its value $46,625.

It was the periodical discovery at Ballarat of these monster nuggets which first fired the blood of the entire world in the faraway fifties. But even Ballarat has no other romance to rival that of the discovery of two huge nuggets within a few days in the same claim. The story runs that four miners had worked their claim down to about sixty feet when one of them brought to light a nugget weighing nearly one hundredweight and worth $27,500. In their joy at such a rich treasure trove the men abandoned the diggings and took their nugget with them to England. They had scarcely left Ballarat when their successors in the claim, with almost the first stroke of a pick, turned over another nugget heavier than the first and valued at more than $75,000.

Of all the romantic stories told of gold discoveries in California not one is more remarkable than that of which Oliver Martin was the hero. For months Martin and a companion named Flower had been prospecting for gold to no purpose. Worn out by hardships and half dead from starvation, they were on the point of abandoning the quest in despair when fate administered her last crushing blow.

They were overtaken by a terrible storm, in which Flower was drowned. Martin, weak though he was, set to work to dig his fallen comrade's grave at the foot of a tree and had dug down barely two feet when his spade struck a hard, unyielding substance, which, to his amazement and delight, proved to be an enormous nugget, the largest ever found on the American continent. The "Oliver Martin Chunk," as it came to be known the whole world over, weighed 151 pounds 6 ounces and was the nucleus of a fortune of a million dollars which Martin accumulated in later years.—Cassell's Saturday Journal.

The Better Way.

Barber—Shall I take a little of the ends of your hair off, sir? Customer—Yes, I think you had better take it off at the ends unless you can get it out of the middle.

RUBBING UP THE ARMS.

Said to Have Excellent Results in Cases of Fainting.

When my wife faints, which is miserably often, says a writer in the London medical journal the Lancet, I do not only friction in the usual absurd way, rubbing backward and forward, which must alternately check and accelerate the passage of the blood—but, taking hold of one of her hands with my left hand, I place the thumb and finger of my right hand tight round her wrist and then pass them firmly upward toward her elbow.

Having brought them back loosely to the wrist, pass them firmly up again, and when I have repeated the operation two or three times, sometimes on both arms, I have the pleasure of hearing the ejaculation, "I feel better now." When I first had recourse to this means of resuscitating my lady she exclaimed instinctively on two different occasions, without being at all aware that I had in any particular intention, "Oh, that's what I seem to want!"

From the invariable and immediate effect of this mode of action I flatter myself that it is not unworthy the notice of the medical practitioner in the friction of cholera patients, a process which should be much more resorted to and more energetically persisted in than it generally is.

GERMAN RED TAPE.

A Lesson in Picking Up Things in the Streets of Berlin.

Take care how you pick up a thing that is lost in Berlin. The other day one of our deputies going through the Prussian capital on his return from a convention at Frankfort noticed a key at the edge of the sidewalk. Picked it up to hand it to a policeman. The representative of the city police refused to take it, saying, "You must take this key to the special bureau of things that are lost."

"Very well. Where is it?"

The agent named the street.

"Is it far from here?"

"A half hour, three-quarters of an hour if you don't walk rapidly."

The deputy replaced the key on the pavement. "Some one else will pick it up," he said.

"Not at all," said the agent in a commanding tone. "You should have left it where it was, but now you are obliged to go to the bureau. If you don't I'll make a complaint against you and you'll be fined, perhaps given a day in prison. That's the law."

The deputy was compelled to obey orders. Since that day he carries his hand in his pockets.—Ori da Rocca.

What Did He Mean?

"Have you noticed, my friend, how many fools there are on earth?"

"Yes, and there's always one more than you think."—Sourire.

JACK and JILL in FAIRYLAND

(COPYRIGHT, 1910, BY THE NEW YORK HERALD CO.)
All Rights Reserved.

1.—When Jill and Jack from the hill came back,
Well, what do you think they saw?
Why, a certain particular cat who'd been Away to London to visit the queen.

2.—Well, of course, they commenced to nurse pussy.
"But she's awful dirty," said Jack; "let's clean her.
"Frow her in the water" said Jill, always
On the spot with suggestions.

3.—But pussy must have heard her say "water."
Like a shot she was off,
Presto—bing!—Just like that,
You must never say "water" in front of a cat,

4.—Well, she ran and ran, with Jack and Jill after Her, till they came to Simple Simon, who, of Course, was fishing. He was also asleep—naturally,
But pussy didn't care for him, bless you. She Just whisked over the bucket in a whisk.

5.—But Jack fell down upon his crown
In the middle of the water,
And Jill (you may be sure of that)
Yes, Jill came tumbling after.

6.—Then—but look at the picture for yourself.
Simon was sure he'd got that whale at last
And rushed off to tell his mother.
So poor little Jacky and Jill went off
For a tangled, new-fangled tail,
But I think you'll agree
(Though you never asked me)
That it's really pretty awful to be taken for a whale.

that most of the sicknesses of life come from inactive bowels and from unhealthy condition of the organs of digestion. CAVAN

CAVAN, DEC. 19, 1910.—The final meeting of the Council for the year 1910 was held on Thursday last. We have reason to believe that the electors of the Municipality have no kick forthcoming at the way the business of the Township has been handled during the past year, and we trust that the year 1911 may see an equally efficient array of intellectual ability as that which presided over our municipal affairs during the past year.

A party was held at the home of Mr. Hal. Argue on Wednesday evening last. Miss Barton of Millbrook, a pianist of renown furnished the music for the evening. The guests which were about 60 in number expressed themselves as delighted with the very enjoyalbe evening spent.

We quote the following from the Canada Gazette, to "B" Squadron 3rd Dragoons, to be Provisional Lieutenant, James Norman McGill, Sept. 10th, 1910. We extend our heartiest congratulations to Councillor McGill.

Inspector O'Dell for Public Schools, paid a visit to this locality recently and we are pleased to say that he saw fit to condemn the school commonly known as Beechwod School, situated on the 11th line of Cavan. The above school house has been in a dilapidated condition for some time back and is a menace to the health of the pupils who are obliged to attend, especially at this season of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Swain of Lindsay were visiting friends in Cavan last week.

Mr. William Lees of Ebemeeser, and Mr. Frank Gardiner were among the delegates which attended the Institute Meeting recently held in Millbrook.

It has been intimated that the mortgage or the paper's covering the indebtedness of Cavanville Methodist Church will be burned sometime during the coming winter, an occasion which will be hailed with joy by the members of the above church.

Mr. Melville Staples is home for the Christmas holidays.

Miss Lizabel Howell and Miss Needham, wree the welcome guests of Mr. J. W. Gardiner over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim White were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Kennedy last week.

Cavanville Sunday School intend holding a Cantatta on Monday evening, Dec. 26th, next. So if you have a few nickels that are idle, here's your chance to put them into circulation.

Mr. Geo. Lock is a visitor to Toronto for a few days this week.

Mr. Ball of Orono was a guest of Mr. Arthur O'hara, for a few days last week.

The annual concert held under the auspices of the Methodist Church will be held as usual on New Year's Day which will be on the 2nd of Jan. this year. A grand Cantatta will be one of the principal features of the evening in which about 60 members of the school will take part. Miss Burnham will be the central figure in the above Cantatta which is entitled the "Defender of the Faith."

Mr. W. H. Bingham has fitted up his fine big course for a skating rink. The above rink being admirably situated should ensure a large patronage. The rink will be thrown open to the puble on Saturday evening for the first time.

A highly respected citizen in the person of Mr. Henry Skitch, Sr., passed away last Friday after a short illness. The deceased who had been a resident of Millbrook for a large number of years was in his 84th year. The funeral took place on Monday, Dec. 19th, to Gardiner's Cemetery. The Rev. Mr. Rogers conducted the funeral service. A widow and eight children survive, there being four sons and four daughters.

Mrs. Wm. Westall and daughter were visitors at the home of Mr. J. W. Gardiner, for the week end.

"Is Local Option a Failure in Millbrook?" is a question which has often been asked and answered in the affirmativ eby a number of our most prominent business men of the town. Accommodation is good, bills are more promptly paid and the moral aspect of the town in general has greatly improved under the new regime. It is nearly three years since Local Option went int oforce, therefore we are able to speak from experience.

Next Sunday will be a big day for the Methodist Sunday School when the annual distribution of prizes will take place. Owing to the difficulties there are to contend with in securing outside help to address the school on that day it has been decided that the regular paster, the Rev. Mr. Rogers shall address the school both afternoon and evening on that day. Special sacred music will be provided by the Millbrook orchestra.

Fits Two Seats.

A large and pompous person, wearing a high hat, a long coat, yellow spats and a congenial sneer, for several days made himself obnoxious around a Washington hotel a bit ago.

He announced he was from New York, ragged the bellboys, jawed the clerks, cussed the service, roared at the food, complained about his room and the elevator and the telephones and the bar and everything else.

One afternoon he walked over to the porter and said: "Here, you; I'm going to quit this town and go back to New York, where I can get some decent service. I want you to buy me two seats in a parlor car on the 4 o'clock New York train. Get me two seats, now, and meet me at the station with the tickets. I want one chair to sit in and one to put my feet in."

The seats were delivered at the train just before it pulled out. One of the seats was in car No. 3 and the other was located in car No. 4.—Saturday Evening Post.

Solon's Answer.

"What is the most perfect form of government?" was once propounded at the court of Periander, king of Corinth, one of the seven wise men of Greece. His six fellows were present, and of them Bias answered first, giving as his opinion, "Where the laws have no superior." Thales of Miletus, the great astronomer, declared, "Where the people are neither too rich nor too poor." In his turn said Anacharsis, the Scythian, "Where virtue is honored and vice detested." Said Pittacus of Mitylene, "Where dignities are always conferred upon the virtuous and never upon the base." Said Cleobulus, "Where the citizens fear blame more than punishment." Said Chilo, the Spartan, "Where the laws are more regarded than the orators."

The last to reply was the youngest but wisest of them all, Solon of Athens, who said, "Where an injury done to the meanest subject is an insult to the whole community."

MRS. PETER GREEN, Jr.,

Says:—"Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the Best Cough Syrup She Ever Used."

She writes:—"Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the best cough syrup I ever used. My baby had a very bad cold. I was using Dr.'s medicine but that didn't seem to help the awful cough she had until I got a bottle of this great syrup. I have it in the house at the present time for the children and I think I couldn't get along if I didn't have it. I wish to thank you for all the good it has been to my family."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree, which combined with Wild Cherry bark and other pectoral remedies makes it one of the greatest known preparations for Coughs, Colds and all Throat and Lung Troubles.

It is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents at all dealers.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

It gives just as much heat as you desire. It is safe, odorless and smokeless.

It has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. Burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and can always be easily unscrewed for rewicking.

An indicator shows the amount of oil in the font. Filler-cap does not need to be screwed down, but is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain. Finished in japan or nickel, strong and durable, well-made, built for service and yet light and ornamental. It has a cool handle and a damper top.

COLLIERY HORROR

After All Hope of Bringing Out Victims of Explosion In Little Hulton Workings Is Over, Bishop of Manchester Conducts Service at the Mouth of the Mine — Only Eight Men Were Rescued.

Bolton, England, Dec. 22.—More than 300 colliers lost their lives yesterday in an explosion in the Little Hulton Colliery of the Hulton Colliery Co., which is located a little distance outside this city.

The explosion occurred early in the morning, soon after the miners had entered the pit to begin work. It's force was terrific, and later investigation showed that the lower passages had been blocked. Heroic efforts were made by rescue parties all day long, but a fierce fire, which followed the explosion prevented the rescuers from penetrating beyond 400 yards into the workings.

At half-past nine o'clock last night all the rescuers were called out of the mine and a conference was held, at which Government Inspector Gerrard, the engineers and the mine manager were present. Inspector Gerrard issued a report after making a descent into the pit, in which he declares that it is impossible that any of the miners are still alive. He adds that nothing can be done except to bring up twenty bodies found lying near the shaft.

This report was communicated to the anxious crowds around the pit mouth, after which the Bishop of Manchester conducted a touching service in the open air, after which the crowd dispersed.

No explanation is given as to the cause of the explosion which completely wrecked the mine. This is the second great mine disaster in England this year, an explosion having occurred in the Wellington colliery at Whitehaven, Cumberland, on May 19, in which 136 miners were killed.

The explosion yesterday resulted in the temporary disablement of the machinery whereby the cages are lowered and drawn to the surface, and it was a considerable time before the first rescue party reached the bottom of the pit. In all they brought out eight men, still living, but the majority of these were in a serious condition from the noxious gases.

Ten bodies also were removed, and twenty additional bodies were found partly covered by heavy falls of coal.

One of the eight miners who escaped said that the force of the explosion was such that the limbs of many were blown off.

The report was heard several miles away. Last night thousands of persons from the surrounding country were still gathered at the pit head. The holiday garb of the city is already being replaced with emblems of mourning.

For a time the lives of 400 other men were in jeopardy, as a mine communicating with the one in which the explosion occurred was also damaged by the shock, and it was sometime before its occupants could be reached and brought to the surface.

Toronto to Winnipeg Line.

Toronto, Dec. 22.—The Canadian Pacific contemplates shortening its Toronto-Winnipeg line by fifty miles by building a new line from Nepigon, 70 miles northeast of Fort William, to Savanne, 71 miles northwest of Fort William.

A party of thirty surveyors are now engaged in preparing a new winter's work under F. R. Reed, one of the company's engineers at Winnipeg.

The present main line now diverges to the south from Nepigon until it reaches Fort William, when it turns to the northwest, until it reaches Savanne, running from that point until it strikes Molson, when the line again runs south into Winnipeg.

This will give the Canadian Pacific Railway the shortest route between the east and the west as far as Toronto is concerned. The distance from Toronto to Winnipeg by the new line will be 1,185 miles. It ought to be in use in eighteen months.

Twenty-Seven Killed.

Philadelphia, Dec. 22, 3 a.m.—Probably twelve firemen have lost their lives in a fire which destroyed the five-storey brick building of D. Friedland, leather dealer, 1,116 to 1,122 North Bodine street. More than a score of others have been taken to hospitals with fractured skulls. Twelve are still in the ruins.

Fifteen policemen have just been buried by a falling wall, which three hundred had been trying to pull over so that it would not crushed the buried firemen.

The blaze was discovered at 10 o'clock and in half an hour the building was a furnace. The firemen had climbed to the roofs of three small dwellings adjoining when falling walls buried them.

Recipe for 16 Ounces of Cough Syrup

No Better Remedy at any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs and asthma, and an unequalled remedy for whooping cough.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this recipe.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

REVELATIONS TO-DAY.

E. F. B. Johnstone Promises Developments In Oxford Case.

Woodstock, Dec. 22.—Sensational evidence savoring strongly of graft is promised by counsel, E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., for to-day, in connection with the Oxford roads enquiry. Yesterday's proceedings developed that M. T. Buchanan knew that the northern gravel road was for sale at $200, and had been enquiring about it before it was sold to the mysterious Mr. Tate, who is on record as having sold it to the county for $2,200.

This was revealed in a mass of correspondence produced by J. C. Hegler, counsel for Buchanan, who was on witness stand for four hours. It showed, in brief, that the county council had authorized the payment of $500 for the road early in February, and that Hegler had the property for sale for J. R. Bowman of Chicago. Prior to this Buchanan had enquired concerning it. Early in March it was nearly sold to B. B. McCarthy of Thamesford, who was a friend of Buchanan's, for $200. Isaiah Danks of Chicago, the owner, was to get $150, and $50 was to go to Hegler for commission. On March 17, McCarthy dropped out, for some unexplained reason, and on the same day Tate closed the deal for it at the same figure. Tate had sent a representative to Hegler to ask about it prior to this, and Buchanan seems to have been in touch with Tate at the same time. Mr. Hegler said he had never seen Tate.

A significant feature of Mr. Hegler's evidence was the admission that Danks, who acted with power of attorney for Elizabeth Cartwright, was the real owner of the road. This was brought out in the correspondence instructing as to the sale of the road, which passed between Hegler and Danks.

Another figure loomed up yesterday with considerable prominence in the person of John Youngs. He was a one time warden of the county. He was confronted with the statement Buchanan had made previously that Youngs offered him (Buchanan) $1,000 if he could get the Mathesons $1,200 or $1,300 for their road, for which the county paid $1,160. Youngs said he had merely done this as a "bluff."

R. E. Butler, lumber merchant, swore that Youngs was after the job of jailer in 1908, and had offered him $1,000 for his influence in securing him the position, which, considering free house, fuel, etc., would be worth $1,200 a year.

William Smith swore that Youngs suggested that he might get council to buy his toll road on the 12th line for $6,000 if Smith would give him $50. The road was ultimately bought for $4,600.

Sheriff James Brady volunteered that Youngs told him there was $100 for him if he would support his nomination for jailer.

All of which Youngs denied in the witness box.

Ottawa, Dec. 22.—The Canadian Government has decided to make an effort to develop a larger trade with the Argentine Republic and an order-in-council has been passed creating a Canadian trade commissionership for that country, with headquarters at Buenos Ayres.

Was Fatally Crushed.

Parry Sound, Dec. 22.—Robert Finlay, a brakeman on the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway, who was crushed between two cars at the company's yards here on Monday, died yesterday morning, of internal injuries.

He was standing between two cars, which, in rounding a curve, came together. Finlay was 35 years old and unmarried. His home was in Toronto.

Hardship on Workers.

Winnipeg, Dec. 22.—Manitoba's Workmen's Compensation Act, which comes into force with the New Year, will, according to City Solicitor Hunt's advice, work considerable hardship to aged or infirm civic employes. The city solicitor advised re-organising and weeding out of employes, as the city is liable for the sickness or incapacity of employes and aged and infirm, of whom many are employed in light positions. The solicitor points out that this was the experience in Britain and other places where similar legislation has passed. This legislation will naturally have similar effect on employes of private firms and corporations.

Lose Homes by Fire.

Brantford, Dec. 22.—Peter Vansickle, a prominent farmer of Lynden, had one hand cut off while operating a corn shredder

Two bad fires are reported from the county. Silas Hill had his house and contents entirely destroyed, the family with difficulty escaping. Hill himself was burnt about the face and hands. Harry Withrow, Townsend Village, had his house burned to the ground, losing everything. He was burned out similarly a couple of years ago.

The indications are that the House will be called together early in February.

Collided on Viaduct.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—A dozen persons were injured, one perhaps fatally, in a collision yesterday between the Manhattan flyer on the Pennsylvania Railroad, and a switch on the elevated structure at West 27th street, in the city limits. The locomotive of the flyer was thrown off the track finally, crashing against a distract gate, when the boiler exploded and set fire to the baggage car and mail coach.

UNSATISFACTORY HEALTH OF ARCHBISHOP McEVAY

The following in relation to the state of health of Archbishop McEvay, of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, will be read with unusual local interest:

Very Rev. Br. Burke handed out on Tuesday evening the following regarding Mgr. McEvay's condition, which appears in this week's Register-Extension:

"His grace, the most reverend archbishop, desires us to make the following, which is the only authorized announcement concerning the condition of his health:

"Notwithstanding the devotion to his service of the best possible medical assistance, and the outpouring of the pious prayers of his faithful priests, religious and people, he has not so far experienced any appreciable gain of strength; and, whilst assured of no immediate danger, he is nevertheless cognizant of the gravity of the conditions and fully resigned to the will of God in his regard. He also appreciates the concern of his people for him, and desires us to say to them that they have his heartfelt thanks for their great kindness to him, and for their conformity to his legitimate instructions at all times. At this season of "peace on earth, good will to men," he is desirous of conveying his sincerest Christmas wishes to everybody. FRIGHTFUL CATASTROPHES IN CHICAGO AND PHILADELPHIA---44 LIVES LOST

In Fire at Leather Goods Factory in Philadelphia Iron Girders Fall, Killing Twenty-four, Many of Whom Were Members of Rescue Party---In Chicago a Metal Canopy Collapses, Burying Twenty Beneath It---Chief Fire Marshall and Assistant Chief Among the Victims.

Special Wire to the Examiner.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., DEC. 22.—Twenty-four firemen and policemen are dead and several firemen, policemen and spectators badly injured in a fearful crash of iron girders and bricks during a fire at the Friedlander Leather Goods Factory, commencing at 3 o'clock this morning and lasting till daybreak. Many of the dead were a part of the rescuers who entered the burning building to assist the firemen caught by smoke and flames. It will be hours before the exact number of fatalities can be ascertained.

TWENTY KILLED AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, ILL., DEC. 22.—At the very moment that news reached here of the fearful loss of life at the fire in Philadelphia, twenty Chicago firemen, including Chief Fire Marshall James Horan, Asst.-Chief. William Burrows and Lieut. Fitzgerald were buried and killed under a heavy metal canopy in Morris and Company's meat warehouse at the Union Stock Yards, which collapsed during a half million fire beneath it. The fire was caused by the bursting of an ammonia pipe.

CHICAGO, ILL., (1 p.m.)—Urged by heavy winds, the fire which caused the death of a score of fire-fighters this morning, is still raging, and a full force of the fire brigades has been called out to attempt to stem the tide. All reserve fire fighting apparatus is now in commission and the Mayor may ask aid from other cities. It is feared that many bodies of the firemen within the building have been cremated. For a time, after the fearful death-dealing crash of the canopy, the firemen were unnerved, but were rallied by Assistant Chief Seyferlich, who took charge of the operations. Fire Marshall Patick Lacey, who, for a while, was thought dead, staggered out from the ruins later. He said that many others caught in the building could have got out, but were overpowered by ammonia fumes.

CHICAGO, ILL., DEC. 22.—At 2 o'clock the fire seems to be under control, with the damage amounting to two million dollars. As soon as the firemen can be collected there will be a roll-call, but it is known that from thirty to thirty-five were caught in the awful holocaust. The screams and groans of the imprisoned men have long since ceased, and it is thought that all are dead.

CHRISTMAS CHEER WILL BE DISTRIBUTED BY THE GOODFELLOWSHIP GUILD

On Sunday afternoon the Guild of Good Fellowship intends to spend a social hour from 3 to 4 p.m. at the Princess Theatre. There will be no regular address, but in its place will be Christmas carols, hymns and sacred songs, in which the whole audience will have an opportunity of taking part. The programme has been specially selected to make everybody feel perfectly at ohme, so that those who are in boarding houses and away from their friends, may partake of the spirit of fellowship and good will which animates this day. It is hoped that such a gathering, which is open to all men of 18 years, which open to all men of 18 yearsc, or over, will do something to bring good cheer to the lonely ones in our midst and help to make the festival a happy one for them.

All men will receive a hearty welcome, and the larger the crowd the brighter the singing.

Remember, 3 oclock on Sunday afternoon at the Princess Theatre.

PRESENTATION TO REV. AND MRS. J. R. WEBB

Congregation Surprise Them at Prayer Meeting Last Night by Giving Them a Handsome Oak Cabinet of Silver

SERVICES APPRECIATED

Rev J. R. and Mrs. Webb were very pleasantly surprised at the conclusion of the usual weekly prayer meeting in the Murray street Baptist church last night, when on behalf of the congregation they were presented with a very handsome oak cabinet of sterling silver.

Mr. Vincent Eastwood was chairman and the presentation was made by Messrs. R. E. Harding and Porter White. Speaking for the congregation, they referred to the fact that Mr. Webb had almost completed the fourth year of his pastorate and eulogised his pulpit power and the great work he was doing for the congregation. The members of the church had felt that they should express to him in a tangible form the esteem they had for him and their thanks for his efforts on behalf of the Murray street Baptist church.

The presentation was a complete surprise to Rev. Mr. Webb, who expressed his thanks in an appropriate speech.

KNEW WHERE TO GO

Special to The Examiner:

TOPEKA, KAN., DEC. 22.—Tobe, a bull terrier owned by Hal Hotchkiss, sustained a broken leg some months ago and was taken to Dr. Otto Kiene where the injured member was set and held tightly by a plaster cast.

The other day Tobe broke his leg again. The Hotchkiss home is fully a mile from the Kiene residence, but Tobe did not wait to be personally conducted to the doctor's. On three legs he beat it across the town to Dr. Kiene's, where, on the front porch, he sat and cried piteously until the doctor heard him.

Once more the leg was mended but Tobe is denied the companionship of other dogs for a while.

HORSES GO THROUGH THE ICE AT CHEMONG LAKE SOME NARROW ESCAPES

Mrs. Northey and Her Son, of Lakehurst, and Mr. Guiry, of Emily, Have a Close Call---Horses Fall Into a Fissure---Little Damage Was Done.

A number of people had a narrow escape from drowning in Chemong Lake yesterday, when a cutter went through the ice and the accident was closely followed by a similar mishap to a sleigh.

Mrs. Northey and her son, of Lakehurst, were driving to Peterborough in a cutter and were crossing Chemong Lake, when the horse went into a fissure in the ice. Before they realized their dangerous predicament however, the animal managed to scramble out again on to firm ice and pulled the cutter throug to safety.

A little while after Mr. Guiry of Emily, with a number of ladies in a sleigh, came along, and their team went into the same crack in the ice. The front part of the sleigh followed the team and the occupants were thrown out on to the ice. They succeeded in getting the horses out of the water, undamaged, but the sleigh was smashed.

The escape, in both cases, was very narrow.

MRS. WADLEY'S TOUR IS MEETING WITH SUCCESS

Many persons in Peterborough will be pleased to learn of the success, artistic and otherwise, Barbara Tennant (Mrs. A. Wadley) is meeting in her Canadian tour. Her next and third recital will be given in the Russel Opera House, Ottawa, about Jan. 18, and the booking are already so heavy that a very large attendance is assured. The programme on this occasion will be similar to that given in Kingston, with a new dramatic sketch, "Nell Gwynne," in which Miss Tennant takes the title role. Immediately following the Ottawa recital, recitals will be given in Montreal and Toronto. One of the great New York agencies has made overtures to Miss Tennant, for her services as leading lady in Shakesperian repertoire, but she has decided to first conclude her Canadian tour. Hon. Mrs. Lionel Guest, of Montreal, is asking some friends to meet Miss Tennant at her house on Sherbrooke street, on the occasion of the former's visit to Montreal.

Gifts Are Coming In For Children At The Shelter

The appeal on behalf of the children in the Children's Aid Society's Shelter, the Examiner is pleased to be able to say, is meeting with a hearty response, and it begins to look as if the little ones would have a happy Christmas after all. A number of parcels of toys, books, candies etc., have been left at the Examiner Office, in most cases, with no name attached, so that credit cannot be given in these columns to the kind-hearted people who sent them in. Others have made cash donations. Mr. R. J. Munro of the Munro House having left $5.00, and Mrs. Jeffrey, 570 Olive Avenue, $1.00, to be devoted towards giving the children a happy Christmas. Mr. J. E. A. Fitzgerald has laid the foundation for a substantial dinner by contributing two splendid turkeys. Let the good work go on. Anything that will be useful, or the source of enjoyment to children, will be appreciated. Your own little ones, among all the comforts of their cosy, well-appointed homes, are delighted with the presents they receive. Think, then, with how much greater a degree of enjoyment these waifs in the Shelter will receive the gifts that the public send in. Leave your gifts at the newspaper offices. The Review or Examiner will see that they are forwarded to the Shelter.

INVESTIGATION WHOLESOME.

Among the things that should engage the attention of the Whitney government is the condition and administration of the public institutions of the Province. But they naturally will not, and, by their default, the duty falls upon the Opposition. There is reason to feel that the administrative service in respect of the public institutions throughout the province, while inordinately expensive, is far short of the mark in the matter of efficiency, and the service of the most important purposes for which they are supposed to be maintained. It will doubtless be found, upon investigation, that not only is the expense fairly running wild, but that the competency of the heads is subject to question. The great expense is not confined to the institutions, but will be found to prevail in the department itself, which is evidently overmanned. In the departments, under the provincial secretary, where there were ten employers under a former regime, there are thirty now, almost literally falling over each other in the wild rush to find something to do. It is hoped that the opposition the coming session will find a wholesome outlet for their investigatory energies in letting in a little light upon the department in question.

THE BEST ANSWER.

Those who complain of the lack of definiteness in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's reply to the demands of the great farmers' deputation, complain without reason. There are two sides to every question. Sir Wilfrid heard only one side presented. A ready answer on his part favourable to the demands made, would not have been satisfactory. It would have argued lack of sense of responsibility. If Sir Wilfrid showed any hesitation to deal orasularly and finally with the demands made it was because he felt the responsibility of his position. The demands made by the farmers were far-reaching and important enough to be treated with the most mature consideration; but that very fact, and the fact that they affected other interests important, if not as important of those of the farmers, suggested to Sir Wilfrid the advisability of proceeding with caution. In failing to give, as is claimed, definitely satisfactory answers, Sir Wilfrid gave the only manner of answer a statesman could, upon his larger responsibility, reasonably be expected to give. He evaded no responsibility, nor can he evade any responsibility. The questions raised by the farmers are great questions and will not down. Their demands will have to be dealt with; but they must be dealt with deliberately and intelligently, not only in regard to their intrinsic importance, but with reference to the general national interests, concurrently affected. Sir Wilfrid gave the best answer possible under the circumstances.

OWNERSHIP AND OPERATION.

The farmers' deputation demanded government ownership of the Hudson Bay railway and of terminal elevators. In this they took an easily defensible position; but their added and associated demand for government operation is not so easily justified. We have the Intercolonial railway as a perpetual warning of the inefficiency of government operation. For years and years this railway has been a charge on the public treasury; it has failed to be self sustaining. It could be depended upon to achieve with consistent regularity an annual deficit. It has passed under the control of several governments, but under all there have been more or less unsatisfactory results. It is only since government operation, pure and simple, has been displaced by management by a commission that better results promising the closing of the gap between outlay — up-keep and operating expenses—and income are apparent. The Temiscamingue and Northern Railway is a government-owned but not government-operated road. It is managed by a comsion and has, under, perhaps, exceptionally favourable circumstances, paid its way. Whether it will continue to do so when settled conditions shall have succeeded the mining development "boom," is another question. We have city-owned water works, successfully managed by commission. Does any one imagine for a moment that we should have such satisfactory results under municipal management pure and simple, such as obtains in respect of our streets and other things? Government ownership or its municipal analogue, is one thing and government or municipal operation is quite another thing. Government ownership is desirable, and government operation, if the improbable should come to pass, is also desirable. It is only justified when assurance of success is guaranteed. In this connection the couplet of Pope suggests itself —

For forms of government, let fools contest.
Whate'er is best administered, is best.

THE BANK OF OTTAWA.

The 38th annual report of the Bank of Ottawa shows a very gratifying condition of affairs. The net profits for the year ended November 30, 1910, after deducting expenses of management, etc., amounted to $532,353. This, with the $456,919 ried forward at credit of profit and loss account on the 30th November, 1909, makes a total of $988,273. This has been appropriated as follows: Two quarterly dividends at the rate of 2½ per cent. and two quarterly dividends at the rate of 2¾ per cent. $400,000 was added to the Rest account, $100,000 written off Bank premises and $10,000 applied to officers' pension fund, leaving a balance carried ofrward at credit of profit and loss of $117,938.

Evidences of the growth are shown by an examination of the statement. The rest account on the 30th November, 1909, was $3,297,000. It now stands at $3,900,000, an increase of over $600,000 during the year. This increase was made up partly by premium on new stock issued and partly by the transfer as mentioned above of $400,000 from the profits. The bank is now in the pleasing position of having a rest account $400,000 greater than its paid-up capital, thus indicating a very sound condition of affairs. The fact that the bank was able to issue its new stock at a premium is also worthy of comment, and shows that the bank holds a warm place in the opinion of careful investors.

The bank is particularly strong in specie and assets immediately available, these amounting to practically $14,000,000. The current loans of the bank increased during the year by over $4,500,000, and now amount to $28,421,000, thus indicating that the bank is doing its full share in meeting the business needs of the country. The total assets increased during the year by almost $4,500,000, and have now attained the handsome total of $43,654,000. During the year Mr. George Hay, former president of the bank, died. Mr. David Maclaren now occupies the chair.

The local agency, under the management of Mr. G. C. Wainwright, contributes to, and shares, the evident prosperity the Bank of Ottawa enjoys.

THE LORDS' RECORD.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

Winston Churchill having stated that "no single important measure passed by the Commons can be carried into law when the Liberals are in office," an examination of the British Parliamentary records reveals the interesting fact that of important Liberal measures sent up since 1868 the Lords have killed 22 and mutilated 11. Not one bill sent up by Tory governments in the same period has either been mutilated or slaughtered. How long would the Canadian people stand for such disgraceful favoritism? The records show that when the Conservatives control the Commons England has a single chamber government and that the protective or destructive powers of the Upper House are only exerted when the Liberals have the popular majority.

CANVASS AND CARRIAGES.

(Montreal Herald.)

It is curious to notice among the ethical problems that have come to the front in the contest just over in Great Britain, the indications of a strong revolt against the personal canvass of the electors as well as against the use of vehicles to carry the electors to polls. There is very little doubt that it was due to the free indulgence in this latter that the first days elections returns went so largely to the Unionists. It was a pouring wet day and the Conservative purses and garages, being as usual the best filled, were opened liberally with a generous supply of automobiles which went to the home and places of business of the electors, carried them to the polling stations and after they had exercised the right of the free born, took them back again. Only a hard grained party man could resist such thoughtfulness. It may also be said that if the vehicles had not been supplied many of the electors would not have voted in such weather. "Very likely," say the electoral purist, "but better they should not vote at all than deposity a tinted ballot.'

At any rate both parties would suffer alike in that case, but with the unlimited use of vehicles the Conservatives are genarlly sure to benefit.

With regard to the question of canvassing the arguments against are just as forcible to-day as when Macaulay set them forth for the benefit of the Leeds electors in a document that had all the weight of a State paper, after the passing of the first Reform Bill, eight years ago. It is not an easy thing for a decent and self-respecting gentleman—a man of culture, such as Lord Morley, who like Macaulay, revolted most strongly against the practice — to go from house to house kiss babies, flatter mothers, all for the sake of cozening a vote out of a man, who if his political opinions were worth anything, would give his vote without fear or favour, without fawning or flattery for the side which enjoys his sympathy and support. Macaulay was ahead of his time, but there are thousands, hundreds of thousands who think with Lord Morley to-day, that there is no reason whatever in the nature of things why a general election which is or should be a solemn straightforward appeal to the judgment and good sense of the people, need be managed on the basis of an appeal to all the lowest motives by which humanity is influenced.

CANADA NOT SPONGING.

(Toronto Star.)

The Toronto News is distressed because we in Canada are laying the burden of our defence on the backs of the poor of England. It would be a heavy charge if it were true; but it is not true. The history of the last forty years is a history of growing self-reliance. Soon after Confederation all the British land forces were removed from Canada. A few years ago the British fleets were removed from the Atlantic and the Pacific coasts of Canada. In 1885 a rebellion in the North-West Territories of Canada was suppressed by the local forces of this country without any resistance from the United Kingdom. In 1899 Canadian troops assisted in maintaining British supremacy in South Africa. To-day Canada is regarded by British statesmen, not as a burden or a source of anxiety, but as a source of assistance in case of war. There is no part of the British Empire which gives as little uneasiness to those who are concerned about the defence of the Empire as Canada.

In the last fourteen years the expenditure the Canadian militia has been increased from $1,136,713 to $4,679,956. The estimates for the two coming years are seven millions and seven and a half millions; so that the increase in sixteen years will be six hundred per cent. We have established a navy, and the estimated expenditure for the two coming years are $3,670,500 and $3,381,500. Taking militia and navy together we shall be spending in 1912 ten times as much as in 1896. Surely this is not the attitude of a country which is determined to shift the burden of its defence on the poor of England.

If the poor of England are oppressed and burdened, it is not by the colonies, but by privileged classes in England. The poor of England, the toilers, the non-privileged people, belong to the same class as the emigrants who left the United Kingdom and built up Canada by their courage and labour. We have prospered in Canada, not because we have sponged upon the poor of England, but because we, or our ancestors, escaped by emigration from the oppressors of the poor. To-day that same process of emancipation is at work in the country which is fortunate to have such a Minister as Lloyd George.

What Things Have Been Settled By The Recent British Elections

(The Globe.)

The late eminent English historian, Dr. Freeman, was an evolutionary sociologist, and one of his favourite aphorisms was the dictim: "History is past politics, and politics is present history." Carlyle, giving his theory of history, takes the view that the great crises, the significant epochs, do not reveal themselves as such even to the "seer," and a fortiori not to the mere "onlooker." These views of history are not incompatible, and both have an instructive application to the crisis through which the United Kingdom has just been passing. Among those who were most active in the crisis there were undoubtedly more onlookers than seers, more politicians than statesmen in the popular senses of these terms; but it should be possible for outside observers to indicate with some degree of validity what has been accomplished by the two general elections held in 1910.

First in importance of these legislative achievements is the new fiscal system embodied in what is popularly known as the Lloyd-George "Budget." The future historian will probably, in seeking for some other fiscal measure with which to compare it, go back to the great financial revolution effected by the Budgets of Sir Robert Peel between 1842, when an income tax of seven pence in the pound was imposed, and 1846, when the Corn Laws were repealed. Just as Peel's financial legislation has never been reversed till this day, so Lloyd-George "land taxes," which must profoundly affect the sociological condition of Great Britain, can never be repealed. Peel's policy was worked out in many succeeding Budgets by Gladstone, and Lloyd-George's new taxes will be improved but never abolished by his successors in the Chancellorship of the Exchequer.

The practical discussions of the past two years were just what the people of Great Britain needed to correct the wrong tendency given to popular opinion by the glamour of Joseph Chamberlain's strong personality. He and his immediate followers have become frank, out-and-out protectionists, while the Conservative leader, Mr. Balfour, is obviously still an unconvinced Salisbury free trader. On this great economic issue the Conservative opponents of the Government are split up into factions, while the supporters of the Government—Liberals, Labourites and Nationalists alike—are strong, because convinced, free traders. To all appearance protection is really as dead in Great Britain as it was supposed to be during the years when Gladstone and Salisbury were at one in the recognition of the truth that free trade is the only solid basis on which an insular nation can surely rest its financial, commercial, and industrial system. Half the ocean freighting of the whole world is done in British vessels, and to this preeminence a protective system would be speedily fatal.

The problem of unemployment has not been completely solved, but the lines along which the nation must proceed in trying to solve it have been unchangeably laid down. The first step was taken by the granting of old age pensions, which put a premium on thrift and substitute a cheerful outlook for the gloom of despair in the evening of life. The second was taken by the establishment of labour exchanges, which mobilize the industrial army and thus break up the crystallization of industrialism by the undesigned effect of the poor law system. The third will be taken when the newly-elected Parliament gives effect to the Liberal pledge that the above reofrms will be supplemented by a system of insurance against industrial disability.

There are besides these settled issues two others of importance, which depend for their final settlement on the curtailment of the power of the House of Lords to make impossible the passage of a reasonable education act and the granting of local self-government to Ireland — perahps also to Scotland and England. It may safely be assumed that the difficulty about the Lord's veto will in some way be overcome, and then the long-tried patience of the harassed Nonconformists will be rewarded, and the bitter struggle of Ireland from the time of O'Connell till now for the right to an effective say as to how her own affairs shall be managed will be brought to a close. There is nothing in this outlook that need inflict a pang on the gloomiest of pessimists. The shadow does not go back for long at a time on the dial. The whole political life of the United Kingdom has been lifted by the crisis to a higher plane, and below this it will never again degrade.

The Globe omits another thing that the elections have settled, and that is the question of the abolition of plural voting. This has operated in a more direct way than the veto power of the lords to stifle the voice of the people. The Lords rejected a bill passed by the commons in 1906 to provide for the holding of all general elections on the same day, a provision that would practically prevent a rich man, having property in several constituencies, from having as many as twenty-five or thirty votes to other electors' one. This legislation will doubtless be re-enacted, and this time the lords will not disallow it. One man, one vote—equality in the matter of chosing representatives—will prevail.

FOR THE PUBLIC

New Formula Cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and Hoarseness in Five Hours

Much is being done in these days to stop the ravages of consumption, but probably nothing has been so effective as teaching the public how to break up a cold and cure coughs, bronchitis, tonsilitis, etc., with simple home-mixed medicine. A laxative cough syrup, free from whiskey is the prime need. A cough indicates inflammation and congestion and these in turn are due to an excess of waste and poison in the system. A tonic laxative cough syrup rids the system of congestion, while relieving the painful coughing. Get the following and mix at home: One-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Shake the bottle and take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times daily. Give children less according to age. Cut this out and save it for some friend.

Sues City of Guelph.

Guelph, Dec. 22.—Walter Buchanan, a farmer in Guelph Township, has issued a writ against the City of Guelph for unstated damages. He claims that the water of the River Speed is polluted by sewage from the city sewerage beds, in Guelph Township. The conditions have been condemned by the provincial authorities, and this is only one of several more actions likely to be taken by farmers living along the river.

Wouldn't Accept Testimonial

Quebec, Dec. 22.—A very rare example of dignity has just been given by Hon. Auguste Rial Angers, exlieutenant-governor of the Province of Quebec. Hon. Mr. Angers was admitted to the Bar fifty years ago. His friends planned a celebration and golden jubilee purse, which he has refused to accept.

Five Years For Bigamy.

WOMEN SUFFER

More Than Men

Women have more than their share of the aches and pains that affict humanity. They must "keep up," in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, etc. Mrs. Edward Calwood, of 123 S. Harold street, Fort William, Ont., says:

"I suffered with dull, miserable pains, soreness across my back and in my sides for months. They would catch me so badly at times that I could scarcely move around. I would have dizzy spells and altogether, felt generally run down. After using a number of remedies without finding relief, I learned of Booth's Kidney Pills and found them an excellent remedy. They not only relieved me of the miserable pains and soreness in my back, but cured me of my kidney trouble."

Booth's Kidney Pills cure Backache, Dull Shooting Pains, Thick and Cloudy Urine, Gravel or Stone, Rheumatism and all diseases of the kidneys and bladder. ??

State Blamed For Disaster.

Newark, N.J., Dec. 22.—Not the owners, tenants, occupants or building inspectors were responsible for the factory fire here of a fortnight ago, in which twenty-five girls lost their lives, but the laws of the State of New Jersey. Such was the finding of a coroner yesterday. One girl's case was taken as a typical one of all.

New York witnesses testified that Newark is full of fire traps, but although the jury recommended that the general situation receive "immediate and drastic treatment," it was forced to find that, inasmuch as the State Legislature had undertaken to prescribe the duty of property owners, they were relieved of all liability at common law, once they had complied with the statute.

Montreal Plumbers' Strike Settled.

Montreal, Dec. 22.—The Montreal plumbers, who have been on strike, made an unconditional surrender yesterday, and as many of the men as could get back went back, but their places had been taken in so many shops that it will be some time before they will all be employed.

DRESS SKIRTS

Our Dress Skirts are known not only for their always being of the latest style and representing fashion's newest thought but also for maintaining dressy appearance and correct fit.

This is attained by cutting them on scientific lines and by using high qualities of materials.

An ordinary skirt may look fairly well when just finished and pressed.

This is just where our skirts excel. They maintain their stylish appearance, perfect hang and correct fit.

This cannot be obtained by luck; it is the result of careful thought. Every skirt we have is all wool, stitched with silk, thoroughly shrunken and perfectly cut.

This is why, and a good reason why, they are becoming so popular. They never fail to satisfy the most careful dresser. We have the new Habit Back.

While the quality is high the prices are lower than you would pay for an ordinary skirt and in some cases less than you would pay for the material alone by retail. We represent the factory and the skirts are handed over to you with every saving.

JUNIORS AND INTERMEDIATES WILL PLAY A GAME

Owing to the hour having been rented by All Saints' Church Club there will be no practice of the Junior O. H. A. team to-night. To-morrow night, however, the Juniors and Intermediates will play a practice game with the following line-ups:

Juniors — Goal, Patterson; point, Reynolds; cover, Pratt; rover, Coughlin; centre, Hall; right wing, Anderson or McMartin; left wing, Giroux or Matthews.

For part of the practice the junior forwards and intermediate defence will work against the intermediate forwards and junior defence, and the remainder of the hour will be taken up with a game between juniors and intermediates.

Only the men named are expected out to-morrow night.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR O. H. A. TEAMS AND MANAGERS

Officers of O. H. A. clubs, especially managers and secretaries, should take cognizance of the following official information, which was issued Tuesday night by Secretary W. A. Hewitt:

Certificates are issued at the discretion of the Executive, and are revocable without notice. All players must have certificates signed by themselves, their club officers, and the secretary of the O. H. A.

O. H. A. clubs are warned not to play with or against professionals or teams suspended by the association.

Players eligible to play in the junior O. H. A. this season must be under twenty years of age on January 1, 1911.

Any club convicted of having in its membership professionals of any kind shall forfeit its membership in the association.

Junior certificates should not be sent in to the O. H. A. secretary unless each is accompanied with the proper official age declaration, issued either by the local registrar or the Registrar-General, or an extract from a baptismal records. Avoid all the confusion possible. Send the original documents—not copies.

Once a Pro, Always a Pro.

The O.H.A. Executive has no power of reinstatement in breaches of the amateur definition of any kind, and applications for reinstatement cannot even be considered by the committee. The O.H.A. rule is "once a professional always a professional."

Each club is responsible for its own players, and should not apply for a certificate for a doubtful player without notifying the secretary of the circumstances of his case.

Clubs of other recognized amateur hockey associations are regarded as such by the O.H.A. and interleague matches are permissible without official sanction.

No Permits This Season.

No change of residence permits will be issued this season. Don't ask for any, and save yourselves and the association trouble.

Clubs unable to agree on a referee must notify the O.H.A. secretary at least 72 hours before the match, in order to secure a competent official. At the same time they should send in their suggestions in writing as to whom they would prefer as referee, and what officials they object to.

Any club using players not qualified under the residence rule will be summarily suspended. The date this year is August 1.

No player can play in an exhibition match with any club but his own without first receiving a permit from the O. H. A. executive.

No player is eligible to play in the intermediate series who plays in more than one senior championship match this season, and no player is eligible to play in the junior series who plays in a senior match, or in more than one intermediate match this season.

Have Certificates Ready.

Club secretaries should see that the players have their certificates on hand early to show to the referee, so that there will be no delay in starting the game.

Home clubs should see that a dark distinguishing line is drawn on the ice between the goal posts, and small white flags provided for the umpires. white flags provided for the goal umpires.

No player can play in an O. H. A. schedule game who is or has been in the current season, a member of, or has played with, in the same association year, any other Club in a recognised hockey association—city and town leagues excepted—without special permission of the executive.

The Fee for Referees.

Each club shall pay half the expenses of the referee. It shall be $5. in addition to an allowance at the rate of 10c per mile one way for all distances. The minimum fee is $8, except in matches where a local man acts, when it shall be $6.

The expenses of the travelling club are at the rate of 10c per mile for one way for eight men, which expenditure must be guaranteed and paid by the home club.

When the home-and-home matches are played in the same city or town the home club is to take the net proceeds of the gate.

In Case of Default.

Any club intending to default a match must send to the secretary of the opposing club, and also to the secretary of the association, at least three days' clear notice, exclusive of the day on which the match is to be played. Unless the executive shall otherwise order, any club failing to send such notice shall be subject to a penalty of $25, together with all legitimate expenses incurred by the competing club in connection with such match. The penalty is expulsion.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

Ben Dusty packed his little hand satchel last night and this morning hiked for Picton, the capital of the Canning Country, where he will cavort around the surface of Manager Boulter's ice-plant, at $25 per week's cavorting, in the interests of the Picton team in Buck Irving's colossal Eastern Ontario Professional League. Ben had a farewell canter with the local intermediates last night and showed great form.

The Intermediates continue to turn out at practice in numbers, and last night's workout was one of the best of the season. Twelve were out and a lively practise game was played. Sorel, Ray, Dobson and McMillan worked out as a forward line against the regular defence, Hefferman, Bond and Derocher, and the team play showed a great improvement, the passing being more frequent and more accurate. The defence showed themselves steady and hard to draw out.

Hefferman and Sorel, of the Intermediates are eligible for the Junior O. H. A., and will play the first two games with the Juniors against Cobourg on New Year's Day and against Lindsay here on the 6th.

BELLEVILLE, DEC. 21.—Nearly in the Eastern Ontario Professional team which will represent Belleville in the Eastern Ontario Pro. League League have arrived, and are practising daily under the direction of "Buck" Irving, Manager Connolly and Trainer Lang. The following players will compose the team: Dusome of Galt champions, Sandford of last year's Brantford team; McDonald, of Kingston, who has been playing in New York; Gross and Manson of last year's Waterloo team, Crossett of Tillsonburg, McMillan of Cornwall, and Stalker of Midland. The first game will be played Christmas afternoon against the Trenton team.

DRISCOLL IS HEARTBROKEN

Special to The Examiner:

CARDIFF, WALES, DEC. 21.—Jim Driscoll to-day is crushed in spirit, his defeat last night by Freddie Welch seemingly having broken the heart of one of England's greatest fighters. Welch's victory places him in the front rank of the English lightweights, but it is conceded that he is not a worthy foe for a number of the American lightweights. English fighters remember that Packey MacFarland, the crack Chicago lightweight, made a chopping block of Welch before the National Sporting Club in London. The referee gave Welch a "draw," but every English sporting writer at the ringside admitted that Welch was badly beaten.

In their scheduled twenty-round fight last night Welch beat Driscoll to a standstill, and in the tenth round had Driscoll hanging on. In one of their clinches Driscoll repeatedly fouled Welch by butting him in the face, and the referee called off the fight and awarded it to Welch.

Hired Men at Victoria.

Vancouver, B. C., Dec. 22.—That many escapes of Chinese stowaways from vessels in this port during the past summer are due to the political patronage system of employing watchmen on the waterfront was the statement made before the royal commission on Chinese immigration yesterday by Collector of Customs J. H. Bowell, who was also controller of Chinese immigration until suspended in September in connection with the "passport" scandals.

He said that men employed by him to watch vessels laying in harbor, were drunken and inefficient, and spent most of their time carousing on board the ships they were supposed to guard. His hands were tied because he had to employ men whose names appeared on lists furnished him by political superiors, and he had no power to discharge these men.

"Where does this list come from?" asked Justice Murphy, the commissioner.

"When I want men, I wired to Ottawa," said the witness. "In reply I got either by letter or wire a list of possible employes. I select my men from this list. I would not employ these watchmen if I had my way."

Bowell is a son of Sir Mackenzie Bowell, and had been collector of customs many years.

Its Purpose.

They stood in front of one of Washington's leading furniture stores. The windows were full of beautifully inlaid pieces of furniture, such things as are only within the reach of the rich and are meant to lend an additional touch to the already perfectly appointed home. Among them was an afternoon tea table. It was a frail, delicately constructed piece on rollers and brought to mind an artistically gowned hostess serving tea to a select coterie, while the conversation dealt with nothing more heavy than the latest fiction and comic operas. With a long drawn out sigh the woman contemplated it. The man, following her gaze, saw it and was unimpressed. She hastened to explain.

"That there is a tea table. It's just grand to use when you ain't got no cook in the house and have folks in."—Washington Star.

$2,000,000 Fire In Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 22.—Fire in the modern factory district of this city early caused damage estimated at $2,000,000, the death of a fireman and an unknown boy, and the injury of six other firemen.

The fire started at 2 o'clock, when a high wind was blowing. When the flames were finally brought under control ten firms had been burned out and eight large buildings destroyed. An entire block from Ninth and Sycamore streets to Broadway was swept by the flames. The firms burned out are: Krippendorf and O'Neal Shoe Co., Taylor Poole Leather Co., Cehill Shoe Co., Twinlock Co., Sycamore Street Stable Co.'s barn; Griess Pfleger Leather Co., Victor Safe and Lock Co., warehouse of the A. & L. Nurre Co., picture frames and moldings; E. O. Duncan Paper Box Factory, Wildberg Box Factory.

The fire, it is believed, started in the engine room of the plant of the Krippendorf and O'Neil Co., which was all ablaze when the firemen arrived.

Fireman Robert Greer was buried by a falling wall. The boy was crushed by the falling of an iron electric light pole, 200 feet distant from the fire.

Three Years for Wounding.

Toronto, Dec. 22.—Three years in Kingston Penitentiary was the sentence given by Judge Morgan to James Shaw, who, on Nov. 14 last, shot and seriously wounded Mrs. Bessie Jones and Mrs. Georgiana Carr in a restaurant on East King street. Shaw pleaded guilty.

Edward Shaw, father of the young man, said the latter had not been addicted to drink until lately, that his mother had died when he was thirteen years of age and that he had since worked in restaurants and as a laborer.

Mrs. Jones swore that the prisoner had shown no ill-will towards her until the day of the shooting, but Mrs. Carr testified that he had previously threatened her.

Shaw said he had no ill-will towards either and had bought the revolver to shoot partridges with.

Judge Morgan, in delivering sentence, said that the fact that Shaw was under the influence of liquor didn't lessen his guilt.

Argus Eyed and Hydra Headed.

The term "Argus eyed" means watchful. According to the Grecian fable, Argus had 100 eyes, and Juno set him to watch all of whom she was jealous. When Argus was slain she transplanted his eyes into the tail of the peacock. "Hydra headed" is a term derived from the fable of Hercules and the hydra. The hydra had nine heads, and Hercules was sent to kill it. As soon as he struck off one of its heads two shot up in its place.

WOMEN HIGHWAYMEN CHARM THEIR VICTIM

Examiner Special.

OMAHA, NEB., DEC. 22.—Robert Mitchell, a Kansas City man, was returning a few nights ago to his lodgings, when a revolver was thrust in his face and he was compelled to turn over his money, $40. A woman, described as young and good looking, committed the robbery and escaped.

Two days later Rugustus Bartley, a Chicago railroad man and a stranger in the city, reported to the police that while walking along one of the streets just off the retail district before 10 o'clock at night he was held up by two women and relieved of $120 in cash. Bartley says that as he reached an alley two young stylish and good looking women stepped out. Both wore "peach basket" hats with plumes. They were garbed in dark coloured, tailor-made coats, buttoned close to their chins.

As the women met Bartley face to face, smiling sweetly, but speaking in a tone as cold as a Manitoba breeze, one of them commanded,

"Hands up," as from the pocket of her coat she pulled a revolver and levelled it on Bartley.

Bartley declares that being robbed by two handsome women is almost worth the price. He describes the experience as "delightful, though exciting."

WEDDING BELLS

DONALDSON—EAGLESON.

A very pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. Alex. Eagleson, of Coldsprings yesterday at noon, when his only daughter, Miss Pearl, was united in marriage to Mr. Thos. Donaldson, secretary-treasurer of the G. Walter Green Company of Peterborough. Relatives and friends to the number of about thirty were guests, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. G. Walter Green, of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Howard. The bride was given away by her father, looking charming in a gown of cream crepe de chine, with satin trimmings, and wore the conventional veil, caught up with lilies of the valley. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid, Miss McIntosh, of Coldsprings, wore a pretty costume of pale blue and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Neil, of Coldsprings, was best man.

After the ceremony the guests sat down to a sumptuous repast. Many very handsome presents testified to the esteem in which the young couple are held. The groom's gift to the bride was a set of black Persian lamb furs; to the bridesmaid, a pearl brooch, and to the groomsman, a pair of gol deuff links. Among the presents was a parlour suit from the G. Walter Green Company, a mahogany table from the employees of the G. Walter Green Company, a cheque for $50 from the bride's father and a dining room set from the groom's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson drove to Cobourg and left on a honeymoon trip to Ottawa and Montreal. On their return they will reside at 424 London street, Peterborough.

PAYING FOR MILK

From Farm and Dairy.

Prof. H. H. Dean, O.A.C., Guelph

Three systems of paying for milk are now in use among Canadian cheese factory patrons. The oldest and the one most commonly adopted is that of dividing moneys received from the sale of cheese, according to the weight of milk delivered, not taking into account any differences in the composition of milk or its relative cheese producing capacity. The injustice of this plan is readily seen in the following table of results based upon five years' experiments with milk ranging in fat content from 2.7 to 5.5 per cent. In this work nearly 200,000 lbs. of milk were used and 250 experiments made.

Per cent. fat in milk.	Lbs. Cheese produced per 100 lbs. milk.	Lbs. cheese per lb. fat.
3.0	8.69	2.89
3.5	9.84	2.76
4.0	10.36	2.57
4.5	11.03	2.47
5.0	11.77	2.35

The range in milk-fat percentages at factories will probably be from 3 to 4.5 per cent. This difference in fat content, makes a difference of about two pounds more of cheese a 100 lbs. of milk in favor of the milk testing 4.5 per cent. fat. We thus see the absurdity and injustice of basing cheese values upon weight of milk only.

BUTTERFAT TEST

The second system in use among perhaps less than 25 per cent. of the cheese factories of Canada, is that known as the "test" plan, or of basing values upon one milk constituent, the fat. This system was advocated about the time the Babcock test for fat was brought to the attention of dairymen in 1890. This test was hailed with delight by Canadian factorymen, and it has undoubtedly been of great assistance in developing the dairy industry of Canada.

As usual with a new thing, some extravagant claims were made for this test, among them that it determined the value of milk for all purposes. Some of the leading men connected with the science and practice of dairying in both Canada and the United States were carried away by this new-found dairy helper, and the country was flooded with "fat" literature on dairying, while dairy orators vied with one another in praise of the inventor and in making absurd claims for its effect upon the morals and practices of dairymen. Far be it from us to withhold credit where credit is due, and the inventor of the Babcock Test, Dr. S. M. Babcock, of Madison, Wisconsin, U.S.A., deserves the thanks of Canadian dairymen for giving to them free the results of his scientific discovery; at the same time, we are not bound to accept as truth all that any man may say, be he ever so great and learned.

FAT THEORY NOT PERFECT

Referring again to the table, we see that as the percentage of fat in the milk increased, the yield of cheese per pound of fat in the milk decreased. On this point science and practice agreed. Science says that as cheese is made from two milk constituents, fat and casein, one of these alone cannot be used as a basis for determining cheese production from milk with varying percentages of that constituent. In practice we found this to be the case, hence, we could not accept the "fat" theory and practice as a basis of settlement among patrons of cheeseries. We have maintained our position on this question during the past 18 years.

The third system takes into account both fat and casein, but as there was no short method of determining casein previous to 1907, we suggested the factor 2, as an addend to the fat percentage to determine the relative values of milks for cheese-making. This system, in varying forms, has been followed by a few factories in different parts of Canada and where the work has been done conscientiously, it has, generally speaking, given satisfaction.

However, we now have a practicable, short method of determining casein in milk, hence we advise the use of both the Babcock test for fat and the Hart test for casein in cheeseries. The casein test was perfected by Dr. E. Hart of the Wisconsin Experiment Station, and great credit is due him, and also the Wisconsin Station, for this second important test for dairymen from the same station. We look next for a single test which will combine in one, the features of the Babcock and Hart Casein tests, so that both milk-fat and casein may be determined at the same time and at one operation. The man who does this will deserve the thanks of dairymen in all parts of the world.

INSECT PESTS

From Farm and Dairy.

L. Caesar, B.S.A., Guelph

The following are the most serious and common insect pests in Ontario orchards: Codling Moth, Apple Maggot or Railroad Worm, Plum Curculio, Blister Mite, Oyster-shell Scale, San Jose Scale, Bud Moth, Aphids, Pear Slug, Pear Psylla, Fruit Bark Beetles, or Shot-hole Borers, Cherry Fruit Fly, and Peach Tree Borer. Of secondary importance among the insects are the Case-bearers, Tent Caterpillars, Tussock Moths, Canker Worms, and Round-headed and Flat-headed Borers.

Common fungi are: Apple Scab or Black Spot, Black Rot Canker and Leaf Spot due to the same disease, Baldwin Spot, Twig or Fire Blight, also known as Pear Blight; Pear Scab, Pear Leaf Spot, Brown Rot of plum, cherry and peach; Black Knot of plum and cherry; Shot-hole fungus or Leaf Blight or cherry and plum; Leaf Curl of peach, Peach Yellows, Little Peach, and Root Galls. There are many minor insect pests and diseases, but they are not of great importance to the fruit grower.

Note.—The most common and serious of these insect and fungus pests will be described and methods of combating them recommended in early issues of Farm and Dairy. Each year the problem of dealing with these pests is becoming more serious, and all who own an orchard should be acquainted with the nature of these pests and the best methods of holding them in check. —Editor.

COOL CURING ROOM

From Farm and Dairy.

A cool curing room of modern construction is a part of the Central Smith cheese factory in Peterboro County. Commenting upon the structure, recently, to an editor of Farm and Dairy, who called at the factory, the maker and manager, Mr. A. H. Campbell said: "It is better not to start cool curing at all than to build a poorly constructed cooling room. The cooling room in this factory was built according to specifications sent out by the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch and has given perfect satisfaction. We can keep the temperature in our room down to 58 degrees all summer. I believe that 58 or 60 degrees is the ideal temperature for the proper curing of the cheese.

"Our curing room saves us $300 to $400 a year. About five years ago I made an experiment in this line. I took two cheese and held them six months in our curing room and the loss in weight was only three-quarters of a pound each. In the ordinary curing room, the loss in weight will be 2½ to 3 pounds. It takes a cheese two days to dry out properly. After that time till the cheese are shipped a good cool curing room is a great benefit. As the Peterboro Cheese Board only meets once in two weeks all of our cheese are held 10 days and some twice as long."

"One of the greatest advantages of a cool curing room," continued Mr. Campbell, "is that the cheese are held for a few days and the maker sees what his product comes to and has to stand the loss if it is inferior. This is a great incentive to better work. When the cheese leave the factory in a couple of days he has nothing to worry about."

"Do you get any advantage in price on your cool cured product," was asked. Mr. Campbell replied: "On every board but one this season cheese from our factory was sold at the highest figure bid. We have averaged about one-sixteenth of a cent higher than the average price paid on the board."

An up-to-date cool curing room is only one of many commendable features of the Central Smith factory. Every facility is afforded that will enable the maker to make the finest cheese. Whey butter is made and sold to the patrons and is considered a profitable method of utilising the fat in the whey.

DAIRY BUTTER

From Farm and Dairy.

M. J. Lewis, Victoria Co., Ont.

The high prices at present prevailing for dairy butter would not be so favorable to the home butter maker were it not for the creameries. Creameries have put up the price on butter. If all butter were made at home as it used to be, the price would fall rapidly to its old level. If farmers realized this, more of them would bring all their cream to the creamery instead of making it up at home. The greatest difficulty which creameries have at the present time is to get a paying quantity of cream without having to go too far for it. If all cream was sent to the creamery, we would be able to make our butter cheaper and give the patrons larger returns.

One difficulty that I have encountered is that many farmers expect to get as much for the butter fat in their cream when sent to the creamery as they would if they made it up at home, taking no account of the time and labor expended in making the butter and disposing of the product in home dairying. Were a reasonable value put on their time, they would soon find that the creamery is the most profitable proposition of the two. I have in mind an instance of a lady who used to send her cream to our creamery. She is now making the butter at home and is pleased with the results. Every Saturday this woman and her son come on to the market and spend a full half day there disposing of their butter. I do not suppose they get more than 50 or 60 cents more for it than they would if the cream was sent to the creamery.

There is more sympathy and co-operation needed between the butter maker and his patrons. Patrons must realize that it costs money to make butter and market it,—even at a creamery. Few of them appreciate how much this cost can be reduced if all of the cream in a section were sent to the creamery instead of making it a convenient method of disposing of milk when it is inconvenient to dispose of it any other way.

TOURISTS IN JAPAN.

Troubles of Those Ignorant of the Language and Native Ways.

All Japanese inns, of course, charge a great deal more to the globe trotting European tourist who does not speak the language, since he or she is not content to travel strictly a la Japonaise and worries the entire household with a variety of strange demands—extra quilts to sleep on because they find the floor hard, an improvised pillow, special food (the ordinary guest takes what is given him and at the hour that his host pleases and is thankful), knives, forks and spoons because he has neglected to practice eating his food with chopsticks, a bath with fresh water in it because he will not follow the custom of entering the bath as soon as he arrives, thus getting the opportunity of first bath and the water while it is fresh, and half a dozen other requirements. He reserves his chadai also until he leaves, and often the host misunderstands this action and, fearing he will get no recompense for his extra trouble, augments the bill accordingly.

These visitors not unusually treat the waitresses like so many novel playthings, especially travelers of the sterner sex, who sometimes fail hopelessly to distinguish between professional geishas and ordinary maidservants.—Vera Cellum in Wide World Magazine.

MANYUEMA CANNIBALS.

African Savages That Grind Their Teeth to Sharp Points.

The most terrible species of cannibals living are the cruel, bloodthirsty Manyuema of Tanganyika, in central Africa. Living to the west of Tanganyika, these cannibals, clothed in primitive fashion with a piece of bark cloth rudely hammered out from a neighboring tree, have an appetite for human flesh which is well nigh insatiable.

They exercise the most fiendish cunning in tracking down their quarry, choosing fat, well covered people in preference to those who are lean and bony. Their favorite practice is to waylay their victims at eventide so that they may have before them a long night in which to affectually dispose of their prey by cutting it up into strips and drying it over a low fire in the woods. These dried strips of human flesh are carefully preserved for future use, and on two occasions these grewsome forest food depots were discovered and their owners killed by the Wafipa people, who inhabit east Tanganyika.

Most of these cannibals file their teeth to sharp points so as to enable them more easily to tear the flesh from the bone when they have to eat their abominable meal in a hurry.—Wide World Magazine.

Set not thyself to attain much rest, but much patience.—Thomas a Kempis.

STUMBLES OVER FATHER'S BODY

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, DEC. 22.—Ambrose Wilson, a young Jersey City business man, returned to his boarding place on Johnson avenue early to-day after a belated evening visit with friends, and tumbled headfirst over the body of his father, Frank Wilson in the hallway. Examination showed that the old man had been terribly beaten with some heavy implement and finally killed by a stab which severed the jugular vein.

The police, after a hurried investigation, arrested August Miller and his wife Jane, owners of the house. The two Wilsons, father and son, had boarded with them for several years.

According to the police the Millers had quarreled with the elder Wilson during the evening and a fight ensued, Mrs. Miller taking Wilson's part. Miller it is alleged, was worsted in the preliminary encounter and returned to the fray with a broom. He knocked Wilson down with this weapon, the police say, breaking the broom across his head. Then he took the jagged stick and shoved it into the older man's neck, severing the jugular vein.

OTTAWA, ONT., DEC. 20.—Mr. William Hutchison, Canadian commissioner for the exhibition at Brussels, and formerly of Ottawa, has sent a report to Mr. J. A. Hutchison respecting a hundred and fifty boxes of Fameuse and McIntosh Red apples which were sent to him by direction of the minister on October 6th. These apples were procured in the province of Quebec and in eastern Ontario. They were packed by our own men in boxes with corrugated straw board between the layers, each apple carefully wrapped in two papers. They were distributed to people of note in Brussels, and Mr. Hutchison says that he has received from them all very complimentary testimonials as to the quality of the apples. He has had interviews with many people, who want to know if it would be possible to have apples of such quality shipped into Brussels, and who state 'that they never tasted anything like the Fameuse or the McIntosh Red.

DELICATE CHILDREN

Made Strong and Healthy by Vinol

"I wish I could induce every mother who has a delicate, sickly child, to try your delicious cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol.

"It restored our little daughter to health and strength after everything else had failed. It tastes so good she loved to take it—not a bit of cod liver oil taste.—Mrs. C. W. Stump, Canton, Ohio." (We guarantee this testmonial to be genuine.)

The reason Vinol is so successful in building up puny, delicate, ailing children is because it is a combination of the two most world-famed tonics, —the medicinal body building elements of cod liver oil, aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic-iron. It contains no oil, and children love to take it and it cannot harm the most delicate child.

If we can induce you to try a bottle of Vinol as a body builder and strength creator for your child, and you do not find it is all we claim, we will return your money on demand. PINNED DOWN 6 HOURS

Special to The Examiner:

CHAMBERLAIN, S. DAK., DEC. 22.—With both legs broken, Patrick Waterbury, a Tripp County homesteader, who lives near the little town of Shoemaker, lay for six hours under an overturned load of lumber. He was returning to his homestead with a load, with which he expected to construct a new dwelling house, and while going down a steep hill the waggon tipped over, burying Waterbury under the lumber. His legs having been broken he was unable to do anything for himself.

After lying under the lumber for six hours he was discovered by an other homesteader named Reed, who chanced to pass along the road and who had him taken to a place where he could receive the medical attention which he required.

CLIMBS A MOUNTAIN

Special to The Examiner:

LOS ANGELES, DEC. 22.—Otto Fleishener, a wealthy retired farmer, whose home is in Keokuk, Ia., climbed to the top of Mount Wilson and walked back in eight hours to win a fine Jersey cow.

Fleishener is eighty-four years old. He is touring Southern California with his daughter, Mrs. August Werner, and her husband, with whom he lives in Keokuk. Driving in the foothills yesterday they stopped to talk with a rancher who boasted of his mountain climbing. Fleishener laughed at him and said that he would beat his record for a cow he had been admiring.

"I'll bet that cow you can't walk to the top of Mount Wilson and back in a day," said the rancher.

"Done!" exclaimed the old man.

"I never lost a cow with better grace" said the rancher. "I was mortally afraid they'd bring you back on a stretcher, and I've been reproaching myself all day for egging you on to such a mad trip at your age."

WEDDING BELLS

HALL—WATMAN.

A pretty house wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents last night at 8 o'clock by Rev. Canon Davidson, when Miss Ida Watman was united in marriage to Mr. Fred Hall. The bridesmaid was Miss Violet Watman, while Mr. Alex. Davis assisted the groom. The bride was attractively attired in a costume of white silk, with a wedding veil also of white silk.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of about fifty friends and relatives.

CRERAR—REHILL.

A pretty house wedding was celebrated this afternoon at 2.30 at the home of the bride's parents, 149 George street, when Miss Ida May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rehill, was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to Mr. Robt. Lorne Crerar, of Sulphide, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. W. Henderson, pastor of Charlotte street church, in the drawing room, beneath an arch of evergreens, and before a bank of geraniums. The house was neatly and appropriately adorned with Christmas decorations, for the occasion. The bride, who was prettily attired in a travelling suit of cream silk net and brown skirt, was given away by her father. The young couple were unattended. The wedding march was played by the bride's sister, Miss Alberta Rehill. At the close of the ceremony, the happy couple, and about thirty guests sat down to a dainty wedding repast, after which Mr. and Mrs. Crerar left on the 4.38 C.P.R. train for London, Owen Sound and Stratford on their honeymoon. The happy couple received the heartiest congratulations and best wishes of a large circle of friends.

HIGH CLASS CLYDESDALE GOES TO SMITH TOWNSHIP

Mr. R. D. Dundas, Lowlands Stock Farm, Springville, has sold to Mr. W. J. Grant of Smith Township, the pure-bred imported Clydesdale colt, "Prince of Craigton," two years old next spring. Mr. Grant has acquired a colt of exceptional breeding and quality, as his ancestry denotes. He was sired by the 1,000-guinea stallion "Silver Cup" by "Baron's Pride." Prince of Craigton's dam is a beautiful show mare by the noted "Hiawatha," which stands second in the list of successful sires. Mr. Grant's colt has already won two first prizes at exhibitions in Scotland, at Nairn and Falkirk. The fanciers of first-class horse flesh in Smith are to be congratulated upon having added to their possession such a distinguished and valuable animal.

A RUNAWAY

Peterborough Girl Had Narrow Escape in Lindsay

(Evening Post.)

Yesterday afternoon during the winter fair, a runaway occurred which might have resulted very seriously.

Miss Nellie Graham, of Peterborough, was driving the horse and cutter of Rolly Deune, of Peterborough, and as she went to turn at the east end of Kent street, in front of Wonderland, the cutter slid and turned over, throwing her out, but not injuring her.

The horse became frightened and bolted up Kent street, in a very dangerous fashion, zig-zagging along the street, but luckily it did no harm, and was at last stopped opposite the Butler house.

In the face of the fiercest opposition from every school or college, teaching the older phonetic systems, our business has increased during 1910 at an average rate of 7 p.c. per month. We naturally expect this opposition, for 30-Day Syl-la-bic Shorthand marks the beginning of the end of six months' stenography, just as electricity did the coal-oil lamp and the horse-car. "Wireless" was doubted at one time, and some, even yet, abuse "Hydro-Electric." Our Free Lesson will convince you. Write for it and our Return Fare Offer. Moon College, 282-286 Yonge street, Toronto.

A DISCOVERY

Examiner Special.

COTTER, ARK., DEC. 22.—A cedar tree yielded gold and silver when a rip saw at the Cotter pencil factory found its way into the heart of the trunk. A shower of coins which fell about the saw took employees by surprise, and it was only after the saw was shut down and an examination made that quiet was restored.

Apparently a buckskin purse containing a number of gold coins bearing dates between 1850 and 1860 had been buried in the tree. The purse and coins were well protected in their natural cedar chest. The tree's growth had closed the cavity which had been cut out by the person who had buried the purse.

E. B. Griswold, manager of the factory, is reticent about the find, and the story has gone the rounds until the exaggeration has made a snug fortune out of the treasure.

To Purchasers:

NOSEBLEED.

In Most Cases It Is Said to Do More Good Than Harm.

Epistaxis—that is to say, nosebleed—is an accident which will sometimes occur in the best regulated families and happily in most cases need occasion no alarm. In fact, it may often be hailed as an advantageous symptom, especially when it occurs in healthy, full-blooded young people. There are also certain diseases, such as Bright's or cirrhosis of the liver or typhoid fever, when an attack of nosebleed may do good rather than harm—when it is, in fact, simply a sign that Mother Nature is trying to relieve her child in one way because she is balked in another.

In these cases the flow is beneficial, but the subject of the attack should be watched in order that there should not be undue profusion, leading to a weakening of the vital forces or if too prolonged to a genuine anaemia.

When an attack of nosebleed seems to be doing no harm, as in the case of a young, healthy boy or girl, it is best to let it alone or at the most after a time to use some very simple remedy, such as the application of cold over the brow by means of a cloth wrung out of quite cold water or by sniffing a little cold water up the nostrils.

There are certain old fashioned remedies, such as putting the key of the front door down the back, which do neither harm nor good, but which owe their origin to the same theory—the application of cold and shock.

When cold water is snuffed up through the nostrils the addition of some mild astringent—alum or tannin, for example—will make the treatment more quickly efficacious.

Sometimes, when other slight remedies seem to fail, pressing on the nostrils will succeed in stopping the flow.

As to internal remedies, there is none known that is of any avail in a dangerous nosebleed, and when the danger point is reached there is nothing to do but plug the nostrils. When this treatment is called for the physician should be sent for to apply it, because he can by examination locate the exact point of bleeding and will know just where the pressure should come.

There are cases of nosebleed, fortunately very rare, where it is impossible to check the flow. These cases are caused by a diseased state of the system which prevents coagulation of the blood, so that it simply flows and flows away from the sufferer like water. It is well that these cases are rare, as they are generally fatal in spite of all treatment.—Youth's Companion.

So It Seemed.

The day after the arrival of his new sister (six-year-old Bobbie crept into the room to inspect and pass upon the new member. He looked in awe about the dim hushed room, and then, peering behind a screen, he beheld a strange and uniformed nurse, who had just given baby its bath, vigorously besprinkling the chubby form from a box of talcum powder.

A moment's gasp, and then, wide eyed with horror, Bobbie toddled hurriedly to his mother's bedside.

"Get up quick, mamma," he tremblingly whispered. "That new nurse is going to eat the baby. She's putting salt and pepper on it now!"

Lost His Bearings.

It was an English skipper of the olden time, who, having knowledge beyond the seeming needs, as he could read and use the charts, was dispatched to Rotterdam. The skipper had never been to Rotterdam before, so after getting over the bar and well away to the east he produced his charts and made a learned inspection, but the charts had been a long time in the locker and circumstances combined to alarm him extremely. He went up on deck and called to his mate, "Put her about; the rats have eaten Holland!"

Past Help.

The man with the old clock under his arm laid it on the jeweler's showcase. "I wish you'd see what is the matter with this," he said.

The jeweler removed the dial, screwed his eyeglass into place and inspected the works of the ancient timepiece.

"Nothing is the matter with it now. Its sufferings are over."

"Well, how much do I owe you?" asked the man.

"Nothing," answered the jeweler. "This isn't a professional treatment. This is a coroner's inquest."

Why She Was Anxious.

"Have you fastened up all the windows and the door to the kitchen?" she inquired as they were about to retire for the night.

"Sure," he replied. "But what's the use? I gave you the last dollar I had day before yesterday to pay for that new dress of yours."

"Oh, yes, but the dress is in the lower drawer of the dresser in the front bedroom, just where the burglars would be most likely to get in, and they might ransack the drawers and get the dress all mussed up and ruined."

This Year of the Trinity.

In Germany the father is the head of the family, in France the mother, in England the eldest son, in America the daughter.—Dan C. Sells.

The Present Time.

Now is the only point of time of great moment to you. If you devote yourself to now the past will be a dream, the future a present realization.

PETERBOROUGH

An Unreasonable Friend.

Several young artists in Philadelphia are telling a story on another wielder of the brush who is a fellow member in a little club. One of the rules of the club is that each member must keep his finished paintings up to a certain number. The artist on whom the story is told is noted for his indolence. He keeps up to the requirement regarding the number, but never exceeds it. But for his distaste for work the artist probably would be very comfortably fixed financially, as he has considerable talent. As a matter of fact, he is usually on the edge of penury. Several days ago, when his exchequer was unusually low, a friend visited him in his studio. The friend looked at several of the paintings, while the artist lay on a couch, smoking a pipe.

"I like this," the friend finally said, pointing to one of them. He named a good price which he was willing to pay. The artist looked at him mournfully.

"Aw, don't do that," he said. "If you do I'll have to paint another."—Philadelphia Times.

Ancient Bridge Superstition.

A primitive notion existed among the Romans and other races that a bridge was an offense and injury to the river god, as it saved people from being drowned while fording or swimming across and robbed the deity of a certain number of victims which were his due. For many centuries in Rome propitiatory offerings of human victims were made every year to the Tiber. Men and women were drowned by being bound and flung from the wooden Sublician bridge, which, till nearly the end of the republican period, was the one and only bridge across the Tiber in Rome.

Strategy.

The turkey was not a very large one, and Mrs. Pedagog's boarders began to be a little anxious on the subject of its going around. Finally the last bit was distributed, and the idiot, glancing at his portion, observed that he had drawn the neck and the pope's nose.

"Ah, Mrs. Pedagog," said he, with a genial smile, "you are a wonder at making both ends meet."—Lippincott's.

Looking Ahead.

Young Wife (in passion)—I'm going home to my mother! Husband (calmly)—Very good; here's money for your railway fare. Wife (after counting it)—But that isn't enough for a return ticket.—Every Woman's Magazine.

Early Intimations.

Fond Mother—I'm sure Horace will be a great astronomer when he grows up! This is the third time this week he has cried for the moon!—Bystander.

Boots in Russia.

All Russians have a weakness for handsome footwear, and the result is that there are more pairs of showy boots worn in the Czar's empire than anywhere else on earth. This preference extends to the women as well as to the men.

Nothing is stronger than aversion.—Wycherly.

Jury Returns Open Verdict In Colborne Case--Death By Strangulation

Colborne, Ont., Dec. 23.—After a four-hour session, the jury empanelled by Coroner Latta to enquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of Josephine Brimacombe at the Hotel Bristol on Saturday night last, returned an open verdict of death by strangulation, at 12.30 yesterday morning.

After the verdict had been rendered Henry I. Matthews, jr., was arrested by High Constable Richard Jarvis on the formal charge of murder of Josephine Brimacombe on Saturday, Dec. 17, preferred by W. K. Kerr, K.C., county crown attorney.

Matthews comes from one of the best known families in this section of the province. His father is a well-known navigator, and is master of the "Maise." His uncle, Henry I. Matthews, sr., was at one time connected with the Canners' Association, and he himself holds first mate's papers.

Matthews was mate on the steamer Argyle two years ago. His home was in Lakeport.

Matthews took his arrest at first quietly, but after the crown attorney read the warrant, he broke in with the words, pointing his finger at the document:

"Do you mean by that that I am accused of killing the woman?"

There was suppressed excitement in the theatre where the inquest was held, as the crown attorney answered, "Yes, and the hearing will be adjourned until a week from to-day, to be held in the council chamber in the Town of Cobourg."

W. J. Payne, K.C., is acting for Matthews, who was taken to Cobourg Jail on the 3.15 train.

The medical evidence conclusively showed that death came by strangulation, probably after an attempted assault, as the clothes of the victim were torn and out of place. Matthews evidence was contradictory to that of other witnesses. The noises in the room above were heard before he was seen coming down the stairs, and, if they occurred at the time indicated in the evidence, should have been noticed by him. He himself told a straight story in the box, and did not waver under cross-examination.

Tate Says County Councillor Planned Gravel Road Deal

Woodstock, Dec. 23.—Quietly stepping out from amongst the crowd of spectators in the body of the court room at a time when all hope of his revealing himself had vanished, Robert Tate, the "mysterious," took the stand yesterday afternoon, and, at the close of a grilling two-hours' examination, named ex-Warden M. T. Buchanan as the man who planned the Oxford and Northern Gravel Road deal, and, to Tate's recollection, received the money mulcted from the county.

Tate's story of the deal, forced from him only after he had been threatened with a term in the county jail, was a remarkable one from start to finish. He had been under a sweeping fire of questions for an hour and a half before Mr. E. F. B. Johnston secured from him the first statement reflecting unfavorably upon Buchanan's connection with the deal. From that point his evasions lost force, and the whole extraordinary recital of the deal was given.

Robert Tate was the man said to have purchased the road from one J. R. Bowman of Chicago for $200 and resold it to the county for $2,000. For months detectives searched for him. They did locate him, but he convinced them that he was not the Tate wanted. Since the investigation began the information regarding his identity has been so vague that the counsel for the county openly charged that he was a fictitious character. Tate came to Woodstock yesterday morning. His presence was made known by T. H. Yeomans of 171 Close avenue, Toronto, whose acquaintance with the man was discovered Wednesday night. When the news of Tate's presence was received, Mr. Johnston directed an officer to call "Tate." There was no response. The afternoon session was just drawing to an early close, when Mr. Buchanan stood up and announced that he was ready to produce Robert Tate.

Tate was sitting in the back of the hall. He arose and walked slowly to the witness stand amid a dramatic silence. He was nervous, and Mr. Johnston's opening question was not reassuring.

"If you are Robert Tate," he demanded, "why didn't you come here before?"

Tate in a low voice replied that he was waiting until he was called upon.

"You saw in the newspapers that we could not find you, that we thought you were a myth. You knew the authorities were looking for you, searching all the directories to find out if there was such a man. You knew that?" retorted counsel.

"Yes, I knew that."

"What was your motive for not coming forward?" Tate repeated his former explanation.

"That won't go," replied Mr. Johnston sharply. Tate said he had no other reason.

"Shall I tell you the reason? Buchanan—is that it?"

"I can't answer that," said Tate, after hesitating for some time.

SPIES GO TO PRISON

Leipsic, Dec. 23.—Capt. Bernard Frederick Trench, of the British Royal Marine Light Infantry, and Lieut. Vivian H. Brandon, of the Royal Navy were yesterday found guilty of espionage upon the German fortifications at Borkum, and sentenced each to four years imprisonment in a fortress.

The British spies were arrested at Borkum on Aug. 22 and 23, and until the opening of their trial on Wednesday were held in separate cells at the prison in Leipsic.

Brandon, who was first taken into custody, is a brother-in-law of Sir William Bull, M.P. Trench is a grandson of Lord Ashtown and a descendant of Archbishop Trent. When arrested both admitted frankly that they had come to Germany to collect information which they intended to place at the disposal of the British Government. This admission was repeated at the trial on Wednesday.

Yesterday's proceedings were not made public, as they consisted chiefly of the introduction of expert military testimony. The British representative, the consul at Hamburg, Mr. Oliver, was among those excluded. The interests of the defendants were looked after by Von Gordon of Berlin and Dromo of Leipsic.

When apprehended, it is alleged that the men were taking flashlight pictures of the fortifications at Borkum, and that they had secured also photographs of the defenses in course of construction on the island of Wangeroog, in the North Sea, near the entrance to Jade Bay. The spies made a favorable impression by their candid avowal of the duties in which they were engaged, and it had been anticipated that in the event of their conviction they would receive light sentences.

Lieut. Siegfried Helm, the German army officer who was arrested charged with having made sketches of the British fortifications in Portsmouth Harbor, pleaded guilty on Nov. 14, and by the court at Portsmouth, was placed under bonds of $1,250 not to repeat the offence.

On Dec. 2 the supreme court in this city sentenced two brothers named Geier to two years and six months penal servitude, respectively, for espionage. On the same day a French officer, Capt. Lux, was arrested at Friedrichshafen as a suspected spy.

Saved Part of Cargo.

Kingston, Dec. 23.—With the thermometer ten degrees below zero, the crew of the steambarge Navajo made a trip to the steamer John Sharples, wrecked near Stony Point, and got 1,600 bushels of corn from her cargo. The weather then compelled them to get back into port.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Alex. Bartlett, for many years police magistrate at Windsor, is dead.

The Winnipeg Street Railway Co. has ordered the strikers to turn in any equipment in their possession and receive their pay.

The gravest anxiety is felt regarding the fate of Cecil Grace, who flew across the English Channel and has not been heard of since leaving Calais.

The Mauretania has arrived at Fishguard, occupying four days fifteen hours and fifty-seven minutes on the homeward trip, at an average speed of 25.07 knots.

The disaster at the Little Hulton Colliery, Bolton, Eng., which was wrecked by an explosion followed by fire, is greater than was at first thought. It is probable that at least 350 lives were lost.

Two young men, Alex. Macrae and Vernon Coles, were drowned at French River, P.E.I. yesterday. They, in company with two others, started to cross on the ice, which gave way. The others were rescued.

The inquest into the death of the man who was struck by a radial car at Hamilton on Saturday night last, was concluded last evening. James McKay identified the body as that of Benjamin Young, and the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death.

Hurled Over the Bank.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Dec. 23.—Two men dying and another seriously injured is the toll of a series of accidents at the Ontario power plant yesterday afternoon. Edward Thompson and Harry Sillance are at the hospital and will die, the physicians believe. George Thompson will recover. Edw. Thompson and Sillance were both struck on the chest by a steel cable, which broke while freight cars were being lowered on the power company's incline to the lower river bank and hurled over the bank to the rocks, 60 feet below. Thompson sustained two broken legs, a fractured shoulder and a scalp wound. Sillence sustained a scalp wound and internal injuries.

George Thompson sustained a fractured elbow when he fell 20 feet from a partition in the power house.

When Canadian Niagara Power Co. employes reach the age of 65 they will be pensioned, the company announced yesterday.

Anti-Home Rule Campaign.

London, Dec. 23.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Canadian Associated Press understands that a joint committee of the Unionist Association of Ireland will meet in February to organize a campaign in England and Scotland against home rule. The campaign will be on a more extensive scale than the country has known since the rejection of Gladstone's bill by the Lords in 1893

Church of England Rectory Burned.

Brockville, Dec. 23.—News reached here yesterday of the destruction by fire of the Church of England rectory at Athens. The blaze originated during the absence of the rector, Rev. R. B. Patterson, and his family, and the cause is therefore unknown. Nothing but a piano could be saved and much valuable contents, including a well-stocked library, were burned.

At Portland, in the same vicinity, the residence of Robert Scott was burned by the explosion of a lamp. His daughter was alone in the house, and asleep at the time. She was awakened by fire and barely escaped with her life. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

Wanted to Drop Health Inspector.

Montreal, Dec. 23.—The anti-Masonic attitude of a majority of the Montreal aldermen was exemplified yesterday, when fifteen of the city fathers voted to drop the name of Dr. Laberge, city health inspector, from the payroll. This was defeated because a two-third vote is necessary, and then the same men voted to refer the matter to the Board of Control, it being up to the body to dismiss the inspector or to keep him in the city's employ.

Stabbed to the Heart.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 23.—Guiseppe Maurello, an Italian grocer of this city, was murdered early yesterday, being stabbed in the heart by an unknown person. Maurello lived in the rear of his store.

Five men and four women, all Italians, have been taken into custody by the police as being able to give a possible clue to the murderer. The crime followed a series of neighborhood quarrels.

Accidentally Shot.

Kingston, Dec. 23.—John Johnston, aged 30, a farmer of Willetsholme, received fatal injuries in an accident after shooting sparrows on his farm. He was about to put his rifle away, when it went off, the charge entering his head over the left eye. He was the only one at home at the time, and when his brother came he found him lying on the barn floor unconscious.

A Narrow Escape.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Dec. 23.—Yesterday, William Leblond narrowly escaped death, when a portion of the ice bridge went out. He was in the middle of the bridge when he discovered it going out. With the aid of a rope thrown to him by a policeman, he gained the shore, just as a portion of the bridge he was on went down stream to the Whirlpool rapids.

Mr. Fielding's Condition.

Montreal, Dec. 23.—Those who met the Finance Minister yesterday, while en route for the capital, were well pleased with his condition, and it is quite probable that he will be able to pay a flying visit to Nova Scotia before the re-opening of Parliament on Jan. 11.

"ASHTON-KIRK, INVESTIGATOR"

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

"Late in the afternoon, Allan—Mr Morris—came. As soon as I saw him I knew that something had happened or was about to happen. There was no colour in his face; his eyes had a feverish glitter, his voice was high pitched and excited. But I did not let him see that I noticed this. I talked to him quietly about a score of things; and by a most circuitous route approached the matter that interested me most—our marriage.

"To my surprise he plunged into the subject with the greatest eagerness. Before that, as I have told you, he always did his best to avoid it; the least mention of it seemed to sadden him, to cause him pain. But now he discussed it excitedly; apparently it was no longer a dim, far-off thing, but one which he saw very clearly. As you may imagine, I was both astonished and delighted. But this was only at first. In a little while I noticed something in his tone, in his manner, in his feverish eyes that I did not like."

She paused for a moment; Ashton-Kirk clasped his knee with both hands and regarded her with interest.

"It was a sort of subdued fierceness,' continued Miss Vale—"as though he were setting his face against some invisible force and defying it. When he mentioned our happiness that was to be, I could see his hands close tightly. I could read menace in the set of his jaw. As he was going, he said to me:

"'There has been something—a something that you've never been able to understand—keeping us apart. But it is about at an end. Human nature endures a great deal, sometimes, but it's endurance does not last forever. To-night, my dear, puts an end to my endurance. I am going to show what I should have shown long ago—that I'm a man.'

"Then he went away, and I was frightened. All sorts of possibilities presented themselves to me—vague, indefinite, formless terrors. I tried to shake them off, but could not. It became firmly fixed in my mind that something was going to happen—that Allan was about to——to——" here the steady voice faltered once more, "to take a step that would bring danger upon him.

"And that night I went to Mrs. Barron's as I had promised. I talked to people—I laughed—I even danced. But never for a moment did the fear cease gripping at my heart. At last I could stand it no longer. I felt that I must go to where this danger was confronting Allan; and as the house in Christie Place was the first that arose in my mind, I went there.

"I saw the cab upon the opposite side of the street; and the driver of it looked at me so hard that I drove on without stopping, as the newspaper states. But my courage came back in a few moments; I returned and went in."

"You halted on the stairs," said Ashton-Kirk. "Why?"

"Because I saw a light moving about in the hallway above," answered Miss Vale. Then she added: "But how do you know that I stopped upon the stairs?"

"I did not know it," replied Ashton-Kirk. "In his story the cab driver says you entered at Hume's door and went upstairs. I have found that the position which his cab occupied at the time was fully fifteen feet west of Hume's doorway, making it impossible for him to see whether you went up at once, or not. In the face of what immediately followed your entrance, or rather, what is said to have followed it, I thought it reasonable to suppose that you had stopped."

"Thank you," said Miss Vale.

"You say there was a light moving about; but what else did you see?"

"Nothing."

"But you heard something?"

"Yes, the revolver shot, and then the dreadful cry that followed it."

Ashton-Kirk unclasped his hands from about his knee, placed them upon the arms of his chair and leaned forward.

"But between the two—after the shot, and before the cry, you heard a door close," he said.

She gave a little gasp of surprise. "I did," she said. "I remember it distinctly now that you mention it. It closed sharply, but not very loudly."

The investigator leaned back and began drumming upon the arm of his chair with his long, supple fingers.

"Experience never quite takes away that comfortable feeling of satisfaction that the proving of a theory gives one," said he. "I suppose it is a sort of reward that Nature reserves for effort."

And he smiled at his beautiful visitor's puzzled look, and went on:

"The cab driver says that the cry resembled that of a parrot or cockatoo. What do you think?"

"It was not unlike their scream," said Miss Vale. "But I was too much startled to think of comparing it to anything at the time!"

"What happened after you heard this cry?"

"I waited for some little time, part way up the stairs. Then the light which I had seen glancing over the walls and across the ceiling, seemed to halt and die down. After this there was a pause, a stoppage of everything, and fear took possession of me. Suppose Allan had really intended visiting the place—suppose he had preceded me—suppose something dreadful had just happened—something in which he had had a part!

"Filled with thoughts like these, I ascended the remaining stairs. There was a light shining through the lettered glass of the door at the front but the hall was deserted; the far end was thick with shadows. I tried the door where the light was, but it was fast; the door nearest the stairs was open; I entered by that, and passed into the front room through a communicating doorway. Then I saw the — the body, turned out the light, ran stumbling through the rooms and down the stairs."

"Why did you turn out the light?" asked the investigator.

"I don't know. Partly, I suppose, to shut the awful thing upon the floor from my sight—and partly—"

She stopped, but Ashton-Kirk completed the sentence for her.

"And partly with the confused idea that you might hide the deed from public gaze and in that way save Allan Morris from the consequences of his crime," said he.

At this she sprang up, her hands outstretched appealingly; the fear now plain in her face.

"No, no!" she cried. "He is not guilty! He did not do it!"

"My dear young lady," said Ashton-Kirk, soothingly, "control yourself. Don't forget that before this thing is ended you will probably need all the self-command you can summon." Then as she resumed her seat, he added: "I did not say that he was guilty. I was merely telling you of the formless thought that you had in mind when you turned out the light."

She sat staring at him, the horror of it all still in her eyes. Then she nodded her head slowly, and said in a husky voice.

"Yes; that is what I thought, and that is why I called you on the telephone. I thought you would pity me and show me some way of covering it all up. But after I had your promise to come, I was seized with the fear that you might—that you might betray him. That is, I suppose, the real reason why I tried to deceive you. In my terror I myself thought Allan guilty. But, of course, now that I have had time to clamly think it over, I know he was not—that he couldn't be! No one who knows him will believe he did it."

"What reason had you for thinking he might be guilty?"

"His manner during the afternoon before the murder. He seemed so fiercely resolved, so different from his usual self."

"I understand. And what makes you think now that he is innocent?"

"I believe it because I understand his nature," said Miss Vale, earnestly. "He might be finally aroused—under provocation he might even be violent. But he could never do a thing like this — it is too utterly horrible."

"You have judged that it was probably he who was seen to go into Hume's before the murder?"

"Yes".

"Hume was alive when Berg closed up his shop; he was dead when you entered his show-room a half-hour or so later. Therefore he must have met his death while the cab driver Same sat on his box across the street. Now, while Morris was seen to go in, it is not at all positive that he was the man who came out. We are not sure that he was not present when the crime was committed."

Miss Vale reared her head proudly.

"Is it possible," she said, "that you are trying to fix this deed upon Allan Morris?"

"I am trying to find the real truth," answered Ashton-Kirk, gravely.

"The police," said Miss Vale, "according to the newspapers, thought that the criminal gained admission by way of the roof. This may or may not be so; but I think it is pretty evident that he made his way out in that manner. I was on the stairs while he was in the hall. He fled, but as he did not pass me, he must have gone upwards.

If Allan Morris had done this murder he would not have thought of this; not knowing the section, he would have been ignorant as to where the roof would lead. But if Spatola were the men who remained, it would have been different. Do the papers not say that he lives in a garret, or loft, in the same block? How easy it would have been for him to pass out upon the roof of 478 after the crime and then over the housetops of the block until he came to a scuttle which perhaps led into his very attic?"

"That," said Ashton-Kirk, "is very well conceived. But it has one weakness. You are not sure that the murderer did ascend to the roof after the crime. He way have been lurking in the shadows which you say were lying so thickly at the end after the crime. He may have been watching you as you discovered the body, while you ran down the hall once more and down the stairs. To be sure, you slammed the door behind you; and so locked it. But, like all spring or latch locks, it could be readily opened from the inside. No one else came out while the cab driver waited; but that was only for another fifteen minutes, according to his own statement. The murderer could easily have waited until he had gone and then slipped out, also locking the door after him."

Miss Vale sat staring at the speaker dumbly for a space; then she asked in a dry, expressionless way:

"And do you really think this is what happened?"

Ashton-Kirk shook his head.

"No," said he. "I merely mentioned it to show you that it is difficult to be sure of anything in a matter like this until," with a smile, "you are sure. It is one of the things that may have happened; but it is also open to question. A criminal whose crime has been discovered does not ordinarily linger upon the scene. You had just fled with the terror of the thing fresh upon you. How did he know but that you might scream it outside everyone you met."

Again she looked at him mutely. Then she said:

"What, then, is your theory of the crime?"

"I have a number of possibilities at this moment," he said. "Of course she said in conclusion. "I now understand that the entire matter will get into the papers. It is too late to prevent that. But it is not too late for you to fix the guilt where it belongs. And I have every confidence that you will do it. If I had not" and her voice quavered pitifully, "I don't know what I should do."

"I will do what I can. Success sometimes comes easily—sometimes one is forced to fight hard for it. But rest assured that I will do what I can."

She was going; he held the library door open for her while the grave-faced Stumph waited in the hall.

"It will, perhaps, be necessary for me to see Mr. Morris sometime during the course of the day," said Ashton-Kirk, as an afterthought. 'Would it be convenient for you to let him know that I can be seen at six?"

The fear that his soothing words had driven from her eyes, swept back into them; he saw her tremble and steady herself against the door-frame.

"I cannot let him know," she said. "I have not seen him since—since the time I have mentioned. I have waited, telephoned, sent messages, even gone in person. But I could not find him. No one seems to know anything of his whereabouts."

And Find Out if You Have Kidney Disorders. Also Make This Test.

Have you pains in the back over the kidneys?

Have you urinary disorders?

Do you suffer from severe headaches, dizziness or defective eyesight?

Is the skin dry and harsh?

Are you failing in health and strength and suffering from rheumatic pains or swelling of the limbs?

These are a few of the symptoms of kidney disease, and here is the test.

If the urine after standing for twenty-four hours is cloudy, milky or has particles floating about in it, or if there is a sediment in the bottom of the vessel, your kidneys are diseased.

There is no time to lose in beginning the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. Delay means the development of Bright's disease, and you do not want to take any chances with that. Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills will help you more quickly than any treatment you can obtain, and that is one reason why they are so successful and popular.

Mr. W. H. Mosher, South Augusta, Grenville county, Ont., writes:—"I used Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills and firmly believe there is no medicine to equal them. I was troubled for years with kidney disease, and this treatment has cured me. When I began the use of these pills I could only walk from my bed to a chair. Now I can go to the field and work like any other man. Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills are an excellent medicine." This statement is certified to by the Rev. E. H. "PIMPLES"

Broke Out All Over Her Face.

Pimples are caused, almost entirely, by bad blood, and there is only one way to get rid of them, and that is to get at the seat of the trouble by using a good reliable blood purifying medicine.

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for 35 years, and is one of the very best blood medicines procurable. After using it you will find that the pimples have disappeared, and you will have a beautiful clear complexion.

Mrs. Robert McNab, Badjeros, Ont., writes:—"I am greatly pleased to report the benefit I have derived from the use of Burdock Blood Bitters. About a year ago I became so weak and run down I could scarcely walk, and pimples broke out all over my face. I tried one thing after another, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I was advised by a lady friend to try B.B.B., and before I had used one bottle I felt it was doing me good so I used three bottles, and I am now well and strong, and the pimples have all disappeared."

JACK PENFIELD'S CHRISTMAS EVE.

By Clarissa Mackie

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

"A TELEGRAM from Christopher," said Mrs. Latimer, thrusting her head within the open library door and reading from the yellow slip in her hand.

"'Snowbound. Will arrive late this evening. Don't sit up.'"

"Thoughtful Christopher," murmured Dick Mason from the depths of his easy chair.

"Poor old Chris—what luck!" cried Amy, while Alice murmured to her lover, "I am so anxious that you should meet Christopher, Dick."

"Pray, who is Christopher? Tell me, that I, too, may be distraught at his nonarrival," drawled Penfield, surveying the love stricken Dick and his betrothed with some disgust and turning to Amy, who was viewing him with unmistakable relish.

"Christopher Browning is our cousin," she replied, with a wicked look at her sister. "The dearest fellow! Writes, you know."

"I didn't know," murmured Penfield apologetically.

"Well, Chris does write for the papers, magazines or anything that will take the stuff."

"H-m-m!"

Amy looked at him from mirth brimmed eyes. She was dressing a doll for the cook's little niece, and she tied a pink bow on the flaxen curls and then admired the effect with audible satisfaction.

"Isn't she too sweet? Now I'm going down to the village to leave this at Mrs. Lee's, and you may come, too, Mr. Penfield, for the way is long and the night is stormy."

Penfield arose with alacrity. Anything was better than sitting before the cheery fire and staring at the photograph of the girl he loved unwisely and trying to summon courage to ask carelessly whom the picture represented. Didn't he know?

When they reached the front door Amy ran back to the library, and he heard the rise and fall of her shrill girlish voice as she expostulated with her sister. It was evident that she gained her point, for when she returned she was smiling and her eyes were as bright as the snow crystals sparkling under the radiance from the wide open door.

They plunged into the softly falling whiteness, and Penfield bared his head to the cold fresh air and endeavored to thrust aside the burden that lay heavily upon his heart.

"Such an ideal Christmas eve!" said Amy. "When I was a little girl"—

"Oh, WHEN!" interrupted Jack mockingly.

"WHEN I was a little girl," insisted Amy serenely, "I used to believe that something wonderful must happen on Christmas eve. I would watch at the window and look for a messenger to arrive with marvelous news or expect that a long lost uncle would appear and shower gifts upon us. But it never happened. Nothing wonderful ever does happen to me," she added, with a sigh that was muffled in a mist of flying flakes.

"Time enough for things to happen when you are grown up, child," Jack said gravely, and then, stressing himself from the unpleasant thoughts that, vampire-like, seemed to cling to him, he added: "Come! A race to the corner!"

They reached it laughing and breathless.

Later, when they had returned and were sitting before the fire, each waiting for the other to make a bedtime start, Jack remarked lazily:

"When do you expect Mr. Browning to arrive?"

Amy giggled. Dick looked amused, and Alice and her mother exchanged glances of distress.

"Oh, any time before midnight, I suppose," replied Alice, with evident constraint. "We will not sit up—the arrival of the train is too uncertain. One of us will hear the bell and come down."

"I was about to volunteer to sit up and wait for him," said Jack. "I am in a wakeful mood tonight."

"Really, Mr. Penfield," began Mrs. Latimer anxiously, when Amy interrupted her eagerly:

"Oh, mother, let him sit up if he wishes to. We can get up and greet Chris afterward, but there is no use in all of us sitting here like owls until that train comes in. It may not arrive for hours yet, and Peters will be waiting at the station with the sleigh, so Chris will be all right."

"Very well, dear. It doesn't seem quite fair to Chris," remarked Mrs. Latimer gravely, "but you may settle that between yourselves."

"Perhaps I'd better go with Peters," said Dick. "I am ashamed that I did not think of doing so before."

"Oh, Peters has gone," said Mrs. Latimer. "I thought it best for him to be there in case the train should arrive earlier than expected."

"It's not a particularly bad night, Mrs. Latimer," said Penfield reassuringly. "Miss Amy and I got along famously. The snow is very light and soft, and it is not particularly cold. Of course down in the valley at Handerson, where the train is stalled, it has drifted, and that has caused the blockade. Mr. Browning will not mind the adventure unless he is an invalid," he added doubtfully.

"Oh, Chris is quite—robust," replied Alice sweetly. "Now that it is settled Mr. Penfield is to remain up to greet our cousin suppose we hang the stockings and go to bed. We must deposit our gifts on the table here, and mother will fill the stockings at some wee small hour, as usual. When Chris arrives mother and I will come down and give the child something to eat. You must keep up a rousing fire, Mr. Penfield."

"Depend on me for that," returned Jack.

There was much running to and fro and a great deal of merriment as the stockings were hung in the wide old chimney place. Then each one brought gifts carefully wrapped and labeled, and with many attempts at secrecy they were heaped upon the library table. Finally, with warm exchanges of Christmas wishes, Mrs. Latimer and her daughters withdrew, leaving the two men alone before the fire.

When Dick Mason had finished his cigar he, too, sought his room, and then Penfield kept his lonely vigil. It was 11 o'clock, and the storm was abating. The soft spat of snow against the window panes had ceased, and there was an occasional tinkle of sleigh-bells from the highway which proclaimed that belated Christmas shoppers were venturing out.

Penfield stared moodily at the picture of the girl he loved. It stood on the mantelshelf, framed in silver. It portrayed a girl in riding dress with one arm thrown over the neck of a horse, whose nose mussled her other hand. She was a wide eyed, soft featured girl, with dark hair parted in the middle and topped by a broad felt hat. Her round chin was lifted above the low collar of her white blouse, and from the crown of her hat to the tips of her riding boots she appeared the embodiment of life, health and love. Yet love she had withheld from Jack Penfield. He was thinking of that now as he sat there—thinking how strange it was that he should have found her picture in the home of his cousin's fiancee, among people whom he had never before met, but who had greeted him warmly as Dick Mason's cousin and had taken him into their midst as one of themselves. He had come out of the west a fortnight before—out of the west where he had made his home for years—away from the open life of the plains, the free air of Montana, where he was king on his own ranch, to the conventional east, where the simple heartedness of Jack Penfield, God created, was to the city folk a thing to be wondered at. In the wild free west God was everywhere. That was his fancy.

He had come east because a girl had implanted the germ of restlessness within him—a restlessness that forbade him peace of mind until he could persuade her to reconsider her decision. The picture before him was an enlargement of one he had taken himself with a pocket camera. Its duplicate in miniature was folded in his letter case next his heart. In the spring Kitty Brown had come to the west to visit his neighbors, the Clarks. She was a writer, one who was tired and whose body and soul needed relaxation. She found it under the free blue sky as she skimmed over the ranges side by side with Jack Penfield, their fleet horses ever in harmony with the spirits of the young riders.

"DID YOU TAKE THAT PICTURE, KITTY?"

And it is true she found something beside relaxation in the eyes of Jack Penfield when the day came for her to return to her enslaving pen.

"You do not understand," she had told him. "I could not give up my work, and I do not love you as much as I love that. You can see," she had added with that frank smile of hers, "that my love is a divided one, and you cannot accept that?"

"No," he had replied gravely, "I cannot accept a divided love." And so they had turned their horses' heads homeward, and their parting had been a warm hand clasp and—that was all.

That was all Jack Penfield had to think and dream about. The great eastern city swallowed her up. He had not asked for her address, but as the months went by and brilliant autumn claimed the land, and the broad plain and distant ranges changed color under her hand, cold touch, he grew restless, and finally in December he arranged his affairs, and, leaving his foreman in charge of the Bar T outfit, he had come to New York to find Kitty Brown. He had been too proud and reserved to ask for information from her friends, the Clarks, and his quest for the girl he loved had been quite hopeless. Then he had dropped in upon his cousin Dick Mason, who had pulled him up and carried him off for the holidays to the country home of the Latimers, and here he was, with the first clew to Kitty Brown staring him in the face. He felt no elation now, for with the nearness of her discovery came the thought that she would mold him anew again. Nevertheless he determined that he would subdue himself to sweet, motherly Mrs. Latimer in the morning.

There was a tinkle of sleighbells drawing nearer, the faint sound of an

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organs soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her ambition and her power and passion as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful surgery for women's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

THESE SHIPS PLACED IN A LINE WOULD REACH OVER 3½ MILES

THE fleet of the Canadian Pacific Railway consists of sixty-seven steamships of twenty different types. If all these ships were placed in a single line they would extend for a distance of three and a half miles. Twelve thousand men are required as crews and shore staffs to care for the transportation of the immense amount of freight, and the large number of passengers which they carry.

The amount of coal burned one day by this fleet is 2,925 tons, which would require about five trains of fifteen cars each to transport. The total distance travelled by these ships on their ordinary schedules per year equals fifty-seven times around the world.

The supplies used on these ships per month are enormous, most of which are purchased in the Canadian market.

The history of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, as steamship owners, dates back for more than a quarter of a century, for it was early in 1883 that the Company contracted on the Clyde for the construction of three steel screw steamships, the "Algoma," "Alberta," and the "Athabaska," for service on the Great Lakes, between Owen Sound, Port Arthur, and Port William. This was made necessary by the difficulties encountered, and consequent delay entailed, in the completion at that scenic section of the main line, which stretches along the north shore of Lake Superior. The inauguration of this service across the Great Lakes, which is still one of the most popular and profitable of the many ramifications of the Canadian Pacific Railway—marked a distinct step towards the completion of that great highway across the Dominion, which has proved such an important factor in binding together the Canadian provinces as a nation. The "Algoma" was replaced in 1909 by the "Manitoba," and in 1907 were added to this service the magnificent Clyde built steamships the "Assiniboia" and "Keewatin."

Following the completion from ocean to ocean of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1885, came the problem of finding eastbound traffic for the road, in order to avoid hauling empty cars over the mountain ranges lying between the Pacific coast and the already productive cattle ranges and wheat fields of Western Canada. The possibilities of attracting a portion of the traffic of China and Japan, from the Suez Canal to the Canadian Pacific route, appealed to the management, and resulted in the establishment, in 1887, of the trans-Pacific service with the chartered steamships "Batavia," "Parthia," and "Abyssinia." They remained on the route until 1891, and were replaced by the world-renowned "Empresses" of "India," "Japan," and "China," which at that time set a mark for comfort, safety, regularity of service, that has scarcely been equalled, and never surpassed in the history of ocean travel.

The car ferries "Ontario," and "Michigan," (very appropriately named), were built and put into service between Windsor, Ontario, and Detroit, Michigan, in 1906, at which time the Canadian Pacific Railway first became a factor in the great traffic between Chicago, the Western States, and the Atlantic seaboard.

The next move in the expansion of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's steam navigation interests came in 1901, when the approaching completion of the Crow's Nest branch, and the growing traffic of the Kootenay, Columbia River, and Okanagan Districts, led to the acquisition of the Columbia and Kootenay Navigation Co., with its fleet of stern wheel steamers, tugs, and car barges. These have since been added to and improved until the British Columbia Lake and River service of the Canadian Pacific Railway is not only popular with the travelling public, but it is an alternative link in it's transcontinental chain. In 1897 came the Klondyke rush and the urgent necessity for providing accomodation from Vancouver and Victoria up to Skagway, and the gold fields, for the rush of prospectors. To secure a portion of this business led to the purchase of the steamships "Tartar," and "Athenian," for this service. These two vessels were afterwards transferred to the trans-Pacific service, and were replaced by some of the vessels of the Canadian Pacific Navigation Company, a corporation which was acquired by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in 1903, and is now known as the British Columbia Coast Service. The ships of the fleet cover the coast from Seattle to Skagway, and are sometimes known as the "Princess" fleet. The best known of these ships are the "Princess Charlotte," and "Princess Victoria." These magnificent steamships perform a service that is without a parallel in the history of steam navigation; that is the triangular run between Vancouver, Victoria, and Seattle, and return every twenty-four hours, a distance of 330 miles, and making three stops of approximately two hours each. At each stop they take on board an entirely new set of passengers, and the ship is cleaned, coaled, watered, and provisioned, all in the short time between steadling the parting and welcoming the incoming guests. This exacting service they perform week after week, day in and day out, with remarkable regularity.

In 1903 the Canadian Pacific Railway bought from the Elder-Dempster & Co. fifteen of their largest and best steamships, and established the Atlantic services to Liverpool, Bristol (Avonmouth) and London. The following year the London service was extended to include the port of Antwerp, resulting in the building up of a large trade with the latter port both in cargo and passengers.

The year 1906 marked the establishment of the service between Quebec and Liverpool by the superb "Empresses" of "Ireland" and "Britain," which have been such a strong factor in popularizing the matchless St. Lawrence route, not only among Canadian but also among the people of the United States, especially those of the middle and western sections. These steamships, carrying a maximum of 1,500 passengers of all classes, and sailing once a fortnight, since their advent to the St. Lawrence route, have created so much new business, that the existing lines both the Canadian Pacific and their competitors, have experienced no falling off in their carryings.

The "Montcalm" was transferred from the Atlantic to the Pacific service in 1909, on which occasion the son of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, the President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, with his bride travelled eastward from Montreal clear around the globe on a Canadian Pacific liner, and were on a Canadian Pacific train or ship the whole of their journey, which may have been a reputation of what the future may have in store in the extension of this Company's services.

LONDON'S POLICE FIGURES

Some Statistics of the Highways and Byways of the Metropolis

Crime as a profession is declining in London; Londoners are becoming more fond of walking and more careless; the "growler" is still making a determined struggle for life; between 2 and 6 a.m. is the burglar's busy time; he likes insecure windows best as a means of entry; and Jane Heath, a retired charwoman receives a pension of $62 a year.

These are only a few of the things which the average Londoner does not know, and which he can learn from a perusal of a primly-bound panorama of London, issued under the title of "Report of the Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis for the year 1909."

There is one constable now serving in the forces who joined in 1867. Those were the "good old days" when the burglar's life was worth living. In those days (to take the record of the year 1870) there were 19,095 felonies relating to property when the population was 3,618,992—and only a few more than half the felons were caught. Now the police catch 18,322 people for 17,982 felonies; and although the population has doubled, the total amount secured by "professionals" only advanced from $396,110 to $666,105, while the amount recovered advanced from $98,620 to $124,920.

The returns of public vehicles allow some interesting inferences. Hansom cabs, for instance, have fallen in number from 6,696 in 1905 to 3,299 last year, and fleets of taxi-cabs have been launched to take their place. There were only nineteen taxi-cabs in 1905, but there were 3,996 last year.

There is, of course, a notable increase in motor-omnibuses and tramcars, and a corresponding decrease in their horse-drawn predecessors; but the most remarkable thing about the public carriage statistics is this: there are fewer vehicles in use now than there were in 1905. In that year there were 16,585 vehicles on the road. Last year there were 15,906. Many of them are larger, of course, but then the population has also grown considerably in the same time. So, obviously, London walks a good deal now.

London still goes on in its absent-minded way shedding its possessions in cabs and omnibuses. Sixty-five thousand three hundred and seventy five articles were reported found by the conductors of public conveyances last year.

Twenty-eight thousand and sixty two of these articles were restored to their owners. The rest, after three months, went to the drivers or conductors who found them. One man was rewarded with thes um of $450 for his find, another received $280.

NOT SAFE TO GIVE WARNING

A Scottish parish minister was going from home and procured the clergyman of a neighboring parish to officiate on Sunday. The parish minister's servant, who was also beadle, was sent over to the station to drive the visiting reverend gentleman to the manse.

When the train arrived the beadle asked the visitor to be good enough to wait awhile, as he had some errands to do before going home. It was two good hours before he returned. The minister was furious and threatened to report the beadle to his master.

"Weel, sir, ye can dae that if ye likt," said the beadle, "but he tell't me himself' to wait till it was dark afore I drove ye ower, for if the folk o' the village saw wha was to preach nae-body wud turn oot the morn."

JACK PENFIELD'S CHRISTMAS EVE

A Short Story

arrival at the door, and he listened to his feet to greet the coming stranger, whom he had almost forgotten. The hall door closed softly, and then the door of the library was pushed gently open and a slim, dark clad figure, with arms brimming over with packages, slipped into the room and then paused abruptly as Penfield advanced.

"Mr. Browning"— Jack stopped short and stared with unbelieving eyes.

The girl laughed softly, and there was joy in her eyes as she raised them to his.

"WHERE did you come from?" she asked, dropping her parcels to the table and extending both gloved little hands.

"From the Bar T," he replied laconically, holding her hands firmly in his great brown palms.

"Explain why you are here of all places. I left you riding the ranges in Montana, and I see you again in the country home of my cousins, and you call me MR. Browning!" she said, withdrawing her hands and removing the heavy cloak that enveloped her.

"I was expecting Christopher Browning. I was sitting up for him. I was surprised when you entered."

"I am Christopher Browning," she said saucily. "Don't dare to tell me that you did not know THAT!"

"I didn't know it," he admitted humbly. "I knew you as Kitty Brown"—

"Oh, the Clarks always abbreviated it. And so you did not know you were waiting for me?" she said musingly, drawing nearer the fire and holding her hands to the comforting warmth.

"I've been waiting for you ever since you left the ranges, Kitty," he said gravely.

She turned away suddenly, and her voice shook slightly as she replied, "I told you that you must not."

"I cannot help it, Kitty. You must know"— he began, drawing nearer to her.

"You may help me distribute my gifts," she said quickly, recovering her composure, "and while we are filling the stockings you must tell me how you came to make the mistake in my name and why you, instead of my affectionate cousins, are waiting for me now."

Jack told his story while the girl distributed the parcels she had brought among the limp stockings. There was even a gift for the capacious sock that represented Dick Mason's Christmas.

"I have nothing for yours, Mr. Penfield," she said, regretfully surveying the remaining empty sock.

"A little note saying that you had changed your mind"— he began.

"But I haven't changed my mind," she murmured faintly.

"Are you sure?" he insisted. "Your eyes, Kitty, betrayed you when you came into this room. You WERE glad to see me. Say that you will go back to the Bar T with me in the spring."

She hesitated. "Oh, there is something in the sock," she said evasively, and she stepped forward and, thrusting a hand into the toe, brought forth a small card, which she extended toward Penfield.

He took it and glanced at the opposite side. He uttered an exclamation of surprise. Then he held it out to her.

She took it reluctantly. As she looked a warm flush spread over her face, and she cried impulsively, "Why, that's mine!"

It was a snapshot of the master of the Bar T ranch standing in the corral, surrounded by hundreds of horned cattle.

"Did you take that picture, Kitty?" asked Jack eagerly.

She nodded shamefacedly.

"How did it get in there?" he asked, with a puzzled look.

A merry voice called from the doorway: "I found it on the floor of your room, Christopher Kit, carefully wrapped in tissue paper, after you went home at Thanksgiving. Of course I recognized Mr. Penfield when he arrived yesterday, and—and I wanted something wonderful to happen on Christmas eve, and for the first time in my life it has happened. And that's all, except merry Christmas both!"

"Bless the child!" murmured Jack happily, gathering the abashed Christopher into his arms.

"That's what I say, too," she whispered-softly.

Not the Christmas Spirit.

"It isn't the presents—it's the spirit," said Jamsey Jones, the millionaire miner of Goldfield, apropos of Christmas. "I was in a jewelry shop last January, and something that took place there showed me that with too many of us the Christmas spirit is not the proper one. I was talking to the proprietor. One of the clerks stepped up excitedly, his eyes beaming with the hope of a big sale.

"'Say, boss,' he whispered, 'give me the key to the safe. There's a lady wants a solitaire just like the one she has on. She thinks it will be fine to have two rings alike.'

The proprietor did not bring forth the key. He only shook his head and said coldly:

"'Don't waste any time on her. The ring she has on is a Christmas present, and she only wants to find out what it cost.'"

One Consolation.

"My wife is suing me for divorce," sighed the man. "I wish I were dead."

"Cheer up, old boy. It's a whole lot better to have your wife spending alimony than life insurance."—Detroit Free Press.

DRUIDS PLANT OAK

Strange Ceremony in England in Honor of the Peacemaker

Frequenters of Finsbury Park London, Eng., recently witnessed a strange and, in spite of certain grotesque features, a not unimpressive ceremony. Druids from all parts of the kingdom, from the Continent, and even from distant Colonies assembled to take part in a ceremony of planting an oak to the memory of King Edward, "the Peacemaker."

There was an inclination on the part of many of the spectators to make fun of these hundreds of reputable citizens clad in long white gowns, wearing fantastic cowls, and carrying various symbols of their Order, marching solemnly across the park, only for the purpose of planting a tree. But when they had all assembled at the chosen spot and had spread around it in a series of wide circles, and the first hymn, the invocation to the Trinity, was raised by at least 1,000 voices, the spectacle was not without its touches of solemnity.

It was not necessary, says a writer in a London paper, to accept the theory of the descent of this Order from the worshippers of the oak and the mistletoe in ancient days to see a certain beauty in their proceedings. All that was needed was to remember that the promotion of universal peace is one of the principles of the present-day Order, that the oak is their symbol, and that the planting of the sapling in Finsbury Park was intended to commemorate the efforts of the late King Edward in the direction of world-wide peace.

A symbolic procession walked around the newly-planted tree, when they received the Druidic salutation, consisting of the clapping of hands and the making of some mystic signs, while wierd Druidic hymns were sung by French and German choirs.

C. P. R. MAN POPULAR

C. B. Foster Honored by Associates at Vancouver

C. B. Foster, the successor of C. E. McPherson, as general passenger agent of the western lines of the C.P.R., was presented in his Vancouver office with a gold watch and fob, on the occasion of his leaving for Winnipeg to take his more important position. The presentation was made by D. E. Brown, the first passenger traffic official the C.P.R. had on the Pacific division, and was the joint gift of the passenger staff of the Pacific coast, which includes the cities of Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle, Tacoma and Bellingham. In the presentation address, Mr. Brown mentioned that when the company took over the line in 1886, there were but two passenger traffic men west of Lake Superior, Robert Kerr and the speaker. He complimented Mr. Foster on the loyalty of his staff, a loyalty which, Mr. Brown said, had been inspired by Mr. Foster's own fair treatment.

Mr. Foster was formerly D.P.A. at Toronto, and is widely known throughout Ontario.

EDUCATES HER YOUTH

Afterwards Germany Helps Them to Get Employment

Education in Germany has now reached a very high level of efficiency, and the nation's interest in its youth by no means ceases with the termination of school days. Before the German boy leaves school his teacher enters into communication with the parents, who are supplied with a pamphlet showing the chances and conditions in the various trades carried on in the neighborhood. The children visit the labor bureau from time to time until a position is secured for them. Once established in a workshop, the boy attends continuation schools for four or six hours a week. There are inducements to parents to place their boys in unskilled trades, where the immediate earnings are from 5 shillings to 12 shillings a week.

If the boy takes up an unskilled trade he will join a general continuation course to stimulate his general intelligence; if he wants to be a shoemaker, a confectioner, or a compositor, he will join a technical course arranged with a special view to his trade; if he is a stonemason, a cabinetmaker, or a joiner, he will attend the building continuation school; there are also commercial classes for the clerk or bookkeeper. In Munich there are completely separate courses for chemists, saddlers, coopers, metal workers watchmakers, lithographers, jewelers, to name only a few, each with its expert craftsman to teach the practice and theory while composition, arithmetic, bookkeeping and drawing are taught also by special teachers for the purposes of the special trade.

AN ORGAN ON THE ROOF

A Queer Custom at a Bohemian Monastery—Primitive Instrument

In these days, when the music in churches and chapels has reached such a high standard, it is surprising to find such a primitive organ in use as one in Bohemia. This organ is one of the oldest forms of the mechanical organ, and is a very humble affair in comparison with some of the magnificent instruments to be found in English places of worship. It is still used in the Catholic Redemptorist monastery at Prague, and is played by one of the monks every Sunday morning on the roof of the monastery.

Although this strange organ is but a primitive-looking thing, it has a very sweet tone, and the harmonious sounds are heard for a great distance. Prague is an old-fashioned town in Bohemia, and its ideas are not very progressive, so that this strange old barrel-organ is quite in keeping with its surroundings. It has been in constant use for over one hundred years.

MARQUIS A SMUGGLER

A Dangerous Smuggling Game Carried on Along Italy's Frontier

Marquis Gino Capponi, a member of a famous old Florentine family of that name, has been arrested at Varese, Italy, under extraordinary circumstances.

To retrieve his fallen fortunes, the Marquis, who is now 54 years of age, placed himself at the head of a powerful band of smugglers, mostly of Neapolitan origin, operating on the Italo-Swiss-Austrian frontiers with ramifications in most of the big Italian towns. The Marquis was condemned by the criminal courts last May, but managed to elude capture by fleeing to Lugano. He continued to superintend daring incursions of his armed bands into Italy, carrying cargoes of contraband tobacco choice lace, watches, coffee, sugar, and huge quantities of saccharine, which were distributed by parcel post to hundreds of agents.

For several months hardly a night passes without an exchange of shots between the Customs guards and the smugglers, who usually number from thirty to a hundred, and who, to enter Italy, must scale or penetrate a thick fence of metal network twelve feet high extending all along the border line, and wherefrom numerous bells are suspended, whose least tinkle serves to arouse the guards.

The captured Marquis foolishly led in person one such expedition, into which the Italian officials poured a volley of musketry, disabling some and obliging the fugitives to drop over a ton of tobacco and saccharine. Another of Capponi's gangs succeeded in rushing the frontier, and got nearly as far as Bergamo, when they were pounced upon. They had in their possession three million contraband cigars and cigarettes.

OBJECTED TO TIGHT LACING

The interest which Queen Amelie has always taken in medical work is well known. She studied medicine, passed her examination, and obtained a degree, and is thus the only Queen M.D. extant. Her Majesty made a specialty of nursing, and maintained a dispensary and hospital for sick children at her own expense. Among the reforms which she preached to her own sex was the discontinuance of tight lacing. It is said that her Majesty was delighted when the Rontgen rays were discovered. She photographed by the aid of the rays a tight-laced lady, and thereby was able to prove how pernicious the habit is, and to show the deformity caused by undue pressure on the internal organs. It has been said that the Queen's precept and example have diminished tight-lacing in Portugal.

THE ONLY WAY

"Is it true, doctor," asked the summer girl, "that eating cucumbers will remove freckles?"

"Of course," replied Dr. Kidder, "in certain circumstances."

"Really! What circumstances?"

"Well, provided the freckles are on the cucumbers."

"Mr. Rashleigh at home?"

"No, sir; gone away for three months."

EXCEPTS THE ONER

A pupil had been naughty all day, and the teacher sent him a note ordering him to stay after school.

The boy wrote an answer on his slate saying:

"Dere teacher.—Except the oner with pleasure. Always keep mi engagements with the ladies. Will be at the tristing place at four p.m."

A BAD BREAK

Gladys—"Marian has broken her engagement."

Lilian—"Why?"

Gladys—"Her fiance sent her some poetry and headed it 'Lines on Marion's Face.'"

A SAFE RULING

In the trial of a case recently in one of the Middlesex courts, a witness was asked to repeat a conversation that she had with her husband.

Objection was made that the question should not be answered because the conversation was private in its nature. The judge then asked the witness whether anybody except herself send husband were present. She replied that her mother and the husband's mother were. Whereupon the judge remarked:

"It appears that both mothers-in-law were present; I shall therefore rule that the conversation was public."

A WOMAN'S BACK.

Not One Woman In Twenty Has a Stong Back.

The kidneys are to blame nine times out of ten.

When the blood isn't properly filtered the poisons that ought to be carried off by the kidneys are sent back through the system, and it's hardly to be wondered that backaches and lame backs come to make life miserable.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles. They begin by expelling all the poisonous matter from the kidneys, and then heal the delicate membranes and make their action regular and natural.

Mrs. A. H. Hutton, Jr., McCreary, Man., writes:—"Two years ago last spring I had a very severe pain in the small of my back. When I would rise it seemed as if my back would break. My kidneys were very badly out of order, and I would have to get up three or four times during the night. I took one box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they effected a cure."

The captured Marquis foolishly led in person one such expedition, into which the Italian officials poured a volley of musketry, disabling some and obliging the fugitives to drop over a ton of tobacco and saccharine. Another of Capponi's gangs succeeded in rushing the frontier, and got nearly as far as Bergamo, when they were pounced upon. They had in their possession three million contraband cigars and cigarettes.

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

A Cool Hold-Up.

Vancouver, Dec. 23.—Proprietor Jackson of the Milton Cafe, East Cordova street, was behind the counter when a stranger arrived on the scene at three o'clock yesterday morning. Looking up to see what the newcomer wanted, the owner of the cafe found himself staring into the muzzle of a large revolver, while the robber, who was unmasked, coolly told him to keep quiet till he was through. Several guests were in the place at the time, and the robber also issued the same instructions to them, passing them along as well as the cooks in the kitchen, then he coolly went over to the cash register, rang up "No Sale," and extracted from the machine $70 in bills and silver. When he had stowed this away in his pocket, he backed out of the place, still covering everybody inside, and disappeared in the darkness.

A Straight Party Fight.

Montreal, Dec. 23.—There will be a straight party fight in St. Johns after all, as Ludger Trudeau, the Independent Liberal, retired from the field yesterday, and Marcellin Robert, Liberal, and Henry Hebert, Conservative Nationalist, were nominated by their respective partisans to fill the vacancy in the Legislature caused by the death of Gabriel Marchand.

Sir Lomer Gouin, Prime Minister, the Hon. Messrs. Mackenzie, Devlin and Decarie spoke for the Liberal candidate, and the Premier, especially, was particularly well received. J. M. Tellier, leader of the Opposition, Hon. J. Prevost, T. Marcel and A. Lavergne, M.P.P., also spoke. Since the Independent Liberal is out of the road, the Liberals have very good chances to carry the county, although the opposition are using the naval cry for all it is worth.

Threatened With Death.

New York, Dec. 23.—The work of selecting a jury was begun yesterday before Judge Hazcott in Brooklyn in the trial of Stanislao Patienza, one of the ringleaders of the band of kidnappers, who was arrested with several others for kidnapping two eight-year-old boys. He was indicted with Maria Rappo, who was convicted on Tuesday, and faces a sentence of fain five to fifty years.

The authorities have abandoned hope of getting a confession from Mrs. Rappo. It is said that she has been threatened with death by other members of the band if she reveals anything.

St. Bartholomew's Opening.

Toronto, Dec. 23.—The new St. Bartholomew Church will be formally opened on Sunday, Christmas Day, by the Bishop of Toronto, in the morning. Bishop Reeve preaching in the evening. St. Bartholomew's is a beautiful church and from its present appearance will rank favorably with the other Anglican churches in the city. The workmen are trying to complete the tower before the opening.

Will Stand Trial For Murder.

Goderich, Dec. 23.—George Vanstone, who beat to death his five-year-old son, Freddie, on the night of Dec. 15, was arraigned before Magistrate Butler yesterday afternoon and committed to stand trial on the charge of murder. He will come up at the next assizes, which will be on a date, not yet fixed, in March next. M. G. Cameron, K.C., is defending the prisoner.

Peary to Furnish Proofs.

Washington, Dec. 23.—After months of persistent refusal on the ground of interference with contracts with publishers, Captain R. E. Peary has promised to furnish Congress with the proofs upon which he relies to support his claim of attainment of the North Pole.

The assurance has been communicated indirectly to some of his advocates at the capital in connection with the bill to reward him with a rear-admiralship on the staff, in recognition of his Arctic achievements. Representative Macon of Arkansas has expressed in vigorous language his opinion of the explorer, and his doubt of his ever getting to the Pole, and purposes to fight it on the floor.

Refining Vat Exploded.

Winnipeg, Dec. 23.—At a late hour Wednesday night a steel refining vat in the packing establishment of Gordon Ironsides and Fares, Logan avenue west, exploded with a thunderous roar. It wrecked everything in that part of the building and shattered the walls so that part of the roof collapsed. Such was the power of the explosion that street railway and electric light wires were broken. The damage is estimated at $5,000.

Trainmen Killed In Collision.

New York, Dec. 23.—In a rear-end collision of a freight and a regular train on the New York, New Haven line, on the branch of the Pennsylvania, near Milleton Junction, N.J., at 1.30 yesterday morning, Fireman F. J. Knox of Wilmington, Delaware, and Brakeman J. F. Mapleton of Trenton, N. J., were instantly killed. The passengers were severely shaken up, but sustained slight injuries.

Not Unanimous.

Ottawa, Dec. 23.—It is understood that the recommendation of the Quebec Bridge Commission in favor of the St. Lawrence Bridge Co. being given the contract for the construction of the Quebec bridge, is not unanimous. Two of the commissioners are in favor, while one is opposed. The reports will be laid before council, but it is not expected that a decision will be reached before next time.

Clothes Caught In Shaft.

Brantford, Dec. 23.—William Legg had one arm shattered at the Adams Wagon Works here yesterday, in a shaft in which his clothes caught, and will lose the member. William Dean, foreman, just managed to save Legg's life by pulling the belt from a revolving pulley, severely injuring his hands in doing so.

Dr. Cook In New York.

New York, Dec. 23.—The steamship George Washington with Dr. Fred. A. Cook aboard, reached quarantine shortly after 9 o'clock last night. The doctor was cheerful and apparently in good health. He said he did not care to give out any general statement.

Cattle Going East For Christmas.

Brantford, Dec. 22.—J. Bruce Walker, Canadian Immigration Commissioner at Winnipeg, declared here yesterday that 20,000 westerners had come east for Christmas, which he estimated meant the spending of $600,000. The west this year had absorbed 100,000 immigrants, 75,000 of which were British of a much improved physique. The commissioner declared that there was a need for more mixed farming in the west, as evidence by the price of $3 for chickens at Winnipeg.

Accidental Shooting Jury.

Smith's Falls, Ont., Dec. 22.—Yesterday morning Provincial Detective Hudson, accompanied Coroner John McCauley, Inspector Harris and "Dan" McCauley, with a warrant, left for Montreal. The warrant was then taken by the officer to Chicago, where he will extradite Judge Mr. Clyde, J.P., who, it is alleged, had committed the shooting.

The jury on examination for "deliberately and feloniously" committing a heinous crime" is imprisonment for life, was empanelled five years.

It is probable that Mayberry will also be extradited by a charge of forgery, committed on the Grand Trunk, for which Mayberry's name is said to be signed.

Montreal, Dec. 22.—The body I saw at the morgue yesterday morning is beyond all doubt that of Matthew Johnson," said Rev. Mr. MacLennan. "I have known the old man for some fourteen years, and I am absolutely certain there can be no question in this. Johnson was my worker during the eight years I had charge of Knox Church, in Lorne.

Lakefield Is Visited By a Very Disastrous Fire--Canoe Factory Totally Destroyed

Local Industry Will Greatly Enlarge Its Present Premises--Increasing Business Demands This Being Done

THE PRESENT FACTORY IS INADEQUATE TO KEEP UP WITH RAPID EXPANSION

Messrs. J. J. Turner and Sons Will Add Two More Storeys to Their Present Building—Work of Construction Will Commence at Once.

MORE ROOM ESSENTIAL

The factory of J. J. Turner and Sons, at George and King streets, is to be considerably enlarged by the addition of two more storeys, which will then make this building five storeys. This extension is rendered necessary by the rapid growth of the firm's business. The continually increasing demand for the goods manufactured by Messrs. Turner has found the present quarters altogether crowded and far inadequate. Turners mitts and the other lines of their manufacture have a world wide reputation, and in order to meet the constant expansion of the business, more room will have to be provided, at the present factory. Ald. Turner's annual trip to Western Canada has opened up an immense field for this enterprising firm, their progress since opening their present building having been phenomenal.

Mr. J. E. Belcher is preparing plans for the new addition and the work of construction will be commenced shortly after the New Year. With two new floors at their disposal the third floor will then be used [illegible] department. The room at present in use for this branch of the work is much too small. The fourth floor will be utilized for the manufacture of horse blankets, and the fifth one for the oilcloth goods. This will mean the installation of considerable machinery and also the employment of additional help. A show room of spacious dimensions and plenty of light will be fitted up on the ground floor.

Messrs. Turner's factory is a progressive one and one of the city's foremost manufacturies.

KING'S DAUGHTERS ARE TO DISTRIBUTE GOOD CHEER

The King's Daughters have a long list of people who are deserving of charity and will undertake to see that any gifts sent in are distributed to persons who will appreciate them. The King's Daughters have been collecting information in different sections of the city with a view of discovering where good cheer is needed and knowing the conditions thoroughly will be able to distribute gifts systematically without any danger of overlapping. Citizens desiring to contribute towards the Christmas celebration of their less fortunate neighbours could not do better than communicate with some of the officers or members of the King's Daughters.

KICKED BY A HORSE AND BADLY HURT

Man Named Pearson is Painfully and Seriously Injured—Cut on the Head and Face by Horse's Shoes

NOW IN THE HOSPITAL

A man named Pearson, who has been employed at the Oriental for the last few days, was the victim of a very painful accident last night. The man got under the influence of liquor and was in the stable. By some misfortune he got near one of the horses and the result was that he got kicked in the head. One of the shoe corks struck him on the top of the head and cut into the skull, while a three cornered gash about four inches long was made on the side of his head near the left eye. He was found by an officer and taken to the police station this morning. Dr. McPherson was called and partially dressed the wounds at the police station. The unfortunate victim was then taken to the hospital, where Dr. McPherson dressed his wounds. He is in a critical condition.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

ANNIE LAURIE.

"Annie Laurie," a play woven around the heroine of the favourite old song, was the attraction at the Grand Opera House last night, and pleased the somewhat small audience present. It proved a melodrama of the old school, where the heroine is very young and fair, the hero very heroic and the villain thoroughly villianous, while it abounded in such expressions as "vile monster, "the girl must be mine," etc. The situations, however, were stirring and the climaxes sufficiently exciting to win applause from the audience. The scenic investure and costumes were all that could be desired and little fault could be found with the acting unless it was that the troupe was worked over-time by some of the cast..

CANOE FACTORY AT LAKEFIELD TOTALLY DESTROYED BY EARLY MORNING BLAZE

Main Building of the Lakefield Canoe and Manufacturing Co. Burned to the Ground—A Large Number of Boats Were Destroyed

DAMAGE ABOUT $7,000

Special to The Examiner:

LAKEFIELD, DEC. 23.—The main building of the Lakefield Canoe and Manufacturing Company was totally destroyed by a fire which broke out at 1 o'clock this morning. The contents included a large number of canoes and boats almost ready for shipment and the total loss will be about $7,000

The building burned is situated on the main street, between the Lakefield House and the residence of Mr. S. P. Wiggs, and both of these buildings were badly scorched but otherwise undamaged.

Fortunately for the Company their plant was not all together or the concern would have been totally destroyed. The finishing department, situated fifty yards along the street, was uninjured, as was the large boat livery on the river.

The fire broke out in the north-west corner of the building, near the place where the steam pipes entered from the boiler-room, and was discovered by Mr. Lawless, proprietor of the Lakefield House, who telephoned in the alarm. The Lakefield Fire Brigade responded and fought hard to extinguish the blaze, but it had obtained too great a headway to allow their apparatus any opportunity of checking its spread.

The burned building was a frame structure, about fifty feet by eighty, and one storey in height and was built about twenty-five years ago by the People's Christian Association, to be used as a meting place. Afterwards it was converted into a boat factory and was operated by the Strickland Canoe Company. Some time ago a syndicate took over the business and has ben operating it under the name of the Lakefield Canoe and Manufacturing Company. Hon. Laurence Graham is one of those interested. The loss is fairly well covered by insurance. Some 20 hands were employed.

At least the special musical programme will commence with a concert on one of the principal corners down street. On Christmas and New Years' Mondays the band will play in the forenoon and each night next week. A hearty response should be forthcoming to their appeal for financial assistance.

CREATED DISTURBANCE ON THE LAKEFIELD TRAIN

Two Men are Fined $10 and Costs by Magistrate Dumble at Police Court This Morning---Two Others Allowed to Go---A Big Docket Before His Worship To-day.

There was a "full house" at the police station this morning. Patrick Bard was the first called. He pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and disorderly in a public place. He said he came from Cobourg, so his Worship gave him permission to go, on the promise that he would get out of town on the noon train.

"Chas Gould," called the magistrate. Gould stood up and pleaded not guilty to a charge of being drunk. He said he came out from Ireland only a little while ago and he did not have a hapenny to pay a fine with. He stated that he never was in court before and that he would not come back. He was allowed to go.

James Newhall and Herbert Newhall were charged with unlawfully obstructing Mr. Geo. Jobbitt, conductor on the Lakefield train, on the way down from Lakefield last evening. They pleaded guilty and the evidence given by Mr. Jobbitt was as follows: James Newhall was the more talkative of the two. Both used very abusive and offensive, profane language on the train and caused a great disturbance among the passengers. They refused to give me their tickets and stated that they had none. One fellow then pulled out a dollar and I took it and punched out their tickets. I gave them the tickets and they threw them on the floor. I then picked up the tickets and went out. I heard glass smash and when I came back one of the window panes was broken and one of the men was up on a seat flourishing a big black bottle over his head. I put him down in the corner and choked him off and he was quiet until we got to town here. I locked the door and kept them there until the police came. I did not want to have them arrested or have any law about it, but they would not be quiet.

P. C. McGinty took them from the station. "$10 each and $2.00 damage to the G.T.R." said the magistrate, "in default of which I will give you 20 days."

STANDING COMMITTEES OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY BOARD APPOINTED

A meeting of the Public Library Board was held last evening, there being present, Messrs. E. H. D. Hall, chairman; May Morrow, D. Spence, A. Mowat, H. R. H. cuner, J. Corkery, J. H. Ritchie and Dr. McNulty. It was decided to hold the regular meetings of the Board on the first Thursday of each month. The rules for the government of the Board as amended were adopted. The arrangements for moving the old to the new Library was left in the hands of the chairman and the librarian and that when necessary for the purpose of removal, the old building be closed and notice in the papers be given to that effect.

The matter of arranging a contract with the Otonabee Power Co., for lighting the new library be left in the hands of the chairman and Mr. Ritchie.

The payment of a number of accounts was authorized.

Mr. John Matheson was appointed janitor at a salary of $25 per month The librarian's salary will date from December 15th and the assistant librarian will be requested to report for duty on January 3rd.

The committee appointed to select the standing committees reported as follows:—

Property Committee.—Messrs. T. F. Matthews, H. Ritchie and H. R. H. Kenner.

A number of requests were read asking for rooms in the library in which to hold meetings.

Annual Election Of Officers Of Local Astronomical Society

The Royal Astronomical Society held its annual meeting last evening in the Collegiate Institute.

After the presentation of the financial and other reports covering the work of the year the officers for the year, 1911, were elected.

The financial report, as presented by Dr. Marsh, the Treasurer, bore evidence of the very healthy condition of the Peterborough Centre. While all fees received for membership are forwarded to the General Treasurer of the Society, a very handsome grant, considerably in excess of the amount secured locally, is presented to the Centre here.

By means of this very liberal grant supplemented by the munificent gift of the Hon. J. R. Stratton, the Astronomical Society has been able to procure some very valuable instruments, books and lantern slides, thus placing the work upon a most excellent basis for thorough and practical handling.

The followin are the officers elected for the year 1911:

President—H. B. Collier.
Vice-Pres.—H. O. Fisk.
Secretary-Treasurer—Dr Marsh.
Councillors—T. A. S. Hay, Rev. G. W. Henderson, D. Easson, J. Carveth and Duncan Walker.
Librarian—T. A. S. Hay.
Curator—H. O. Fisk.
Auditor—Frank Adams.

Work for the ensuing term has been carefully planned and among the interesting features proposed, are a series of debates on such topics as "What arguments are there in favour of believing the Earth flat?"

After the business of the evening a number of very interesting mechanical lantern slides were thrown on the canvas and discussed.

CANADIAN RAILWAYS.

Some extremists take the view that the Government is not doing enough for the farmers, because the amounts appropriated to directly promoting agricultural interests are not as large as they might be. No interest has as much benefitted, or stands to be as much benefitted by transportation as the farming interests. Canada has done more than any other country in the world, in proportion to its population to provide transportation. Canada has a larger railway mileage than any other country of a like population. The country has aided railways to the extent, in the way of cash subsidy, of 200 million dollars, besides placing at the disposal of transportation development, represented by railways, 55 million acres of land of an equivalent value to the 200 millions of cash assistance. According to the latest government returns Canada has 24,731 miles of railway in operation. Add to that the 3,000 miles under construction, and double trackage, yards, etc., we have a total of 36,267 miles of railway, or one mile to every 210 of the population. And the work is not yet done. The three great transcontinental main railway lines are only a beginning; they do not meet the full need; indeed they serve to create new needs. Their usefulness is very limited till they are tapped by radiating branch lines, to directly serve districts that are opened up to settlement by main line construction. Every mile of needed new railway, especially in the West, means an added benefit to the farmer, and, through the farmer, to the country at large.

GROSS INJUSTICE.

To show how unjust the old country system of plural voting—which permits a man to vote in every constituency where he has property—operates, the London News has compiled a table illustrating how this condition operated in the last election to the advantage of the Conservative party, with which the landed classes are allied or in sympathy. In the old country these plural voters are called "out voters"—a rather striking appellation since they are a means of out-voting the average elector who has only one vote. The News shows that in twenty county divisions won by the Unionists in two days' polling, the plural or non-resident voters outnumbered the Unionist majorities, the inference being that the Unionists would have lost all the seats but for the outsiders. The list is as follows:

	Unionist. majority.	Out-voters
Newton	144	1,548
Melton	472	2,659
Eskdale	370	3,896
Altrincham	119	3,391
Darwen	219	3,062
Chippenham	26	1,244
Dorset North	32	1,242
Norfolk, Mid	35	1,478
Droitwich	72	2,858
Hunts, South	248	850
Kendal	308	945
Gloucester, East	781	1,275
Maldon	893	1,890
Horncastle	524	2,760
Staffs, West	479	1,656
Watford	883	1,766
Leominster	1,169	1,448
Derby, West	1,060	2,695
Stratford	1,085	2,344

There can be nothing more unfair, and, in the eyes of Canadians, more iniquitous, than a system that gives one man, from two to thirty, times more voting power than another. These votes almost exclusively belong to the landed classes, who are almost invariably Unionists. Under such conditions the verdict of the late elections is truly a remarkable one. If the electors supporting the Liberal programme had not been thus handicapped, the Unionist would have been more decisively beaten. Instead of the government majority being 128, it would probably have been 226. One man one vote, should be the rule under an honestly administered democracy. The plural voter is only dangerous, to any large degree, under the system of holding elections on different dates. This permits the "out-voters" to poll votes in every election, something he could not obviously do if the elections were all held on one day. The Lords slaughtered a bill in 1906 to provide for an uniform date of polling. They did well, from their point of view, for their refusal to sanction such legislation permitted the exercise of an undue advantage which saved the party interests they represent from being beaten to extinction.

A FAULT OF THE AGE.

Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada, and Chief Scout of Canada, speaking in Toronto, on the occasion of the organization of a Provincial Scouts Council, uttered among others, the following words of "truth and soberness":

"My interest in the Scout movement arises from my love for Canada and solicitude for her well-being. England has planted the seeds of a great destiny within the Dominion. My doubt is whether the people will be able to reap it. That will depend on the education you give your children. I am not convinced that your schools are turning out boys fitted, when they become men, to be the reapers of a splendid destiny.

"Your children in some parts of Ontario are without manners. That is not their fault, but their parents' and teachers' fault. What is worse, there are still some poor benighted souls, excellent but very ill-educated people, who seem to have persuaded themselves that rough manners are a sign of manliness and gentle manners the sign of servility.

"God help the people whose teachers teach that irreverence, is a mark of sturdy independence. Those people are nearer the truth who regard any man without reverence as worse than any beast. The humblest born and poorest man in the State who is moving by high ideals is a greater gentleman than a rich man without any. It is because the Scout movement tends to supplement the efficiency of your educational system by implanting in your boys the ideals they do not seem to learn in their schools that I so earnestly commend to your acceptance the Scout movement, which, if properly supported, promises to become a real blessing to this country.

Earl Grey forcibly excites attention to one of the gravest faults of our latter day civilization, to one of the gravest defects in our school system as applied, and, it may be urged, one of the gravest defects of our pulpit teaching. As the Examiner has frequently pointed out, reverence is the basis of all religion. The man who truly serves God, will practise reverence in all the relations of life. In our divine relations the spirit that underlies good manners and politeness becomes reverence. In our human relations, the spirit that underlies religion, becomes politeness, respect for others—respect for our elders and superiors and legitimately constituted authority. Respect for God,—religion,—involves respect for all that is good and pure, all that is gentle and kind, all that is cultured and refined. The man or woman who scorns the niceties of intercourse and demeanor, hallowed by the conventions of recognized good society, takes the first step in the course that if pursued to a logical conclusion leads to a godless and ungodly life. Failure in respect of the laws of politeness and refinement, that govern good society which, in its best manifestations is Christian society, is a stage in the development of the spirit that holds lightly the claims of human law; and the disregard of divine law naturally follows. St. Paul preached the religion of good manners—"be courteous to all men." Do our Sunday schools and week-day schools impress the value of the first steps on the way to the higher life,—politeness, and courtesy, the rudiments of reverence and religion. Coarseness, instead of courtesy, rudeness instead of respect and reverence are the characteristics of a great deal of child life to-day. Impudent, self-assertion is not self-respect and independence, but a manifestation of low ideals of life and conduct. This may seem a small matter to insist upon, but it is a fundamental essential of the development of high character. If we rear generations without high ideals, how can we expect a citizenship of high character and high achievement?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Welland Canal, which has just closed for the winter, had another record season. Since the close of navigation a total of 2,650 boats passed through the canal, up and down. This is between 500 and 600 more than last year. This emphasizes the importance of the enlargement and improvement of this great and indispensable medium of transportation.

London, Ontario, will have its municipal elections over on December 28th. The nominations were held on the 21st of December and polling will take place a week later. London may have some special provision for holding her municipal elections at so early a date. It is, perhaps, well that she began on time this year, for on Wednesday last 75 candidates for aldermen were nominated. The Mayor, doubtless in accordance with the two-term understanding, was elected by acclamation.

There must be something essentially belligerent and disturbing about street railways. The three great cities of Canada, are in grips with street railway troubles, Winnipeg, Montreal and Toronto. In the two latter cities, the trouble seems to come from improvident and too liberal franchises. In Winnipeg, where a strike is on, the employees, according to report, are in the wrong. The strike is said to be due to resentment over the discharge or suspension of employees guilty of drunkenness on duty. This is an offence which can claim no sympathy. Actions that involve danger to the life or limb of the public cannot for a moment be tolerated, and the Winnipeg street railway strikers can expect very little public sympathy.

The British parties in the last and the incoming parliaments show the following standing:

	1st	2nd
Liberals	275	271
Irish Nationalists	82	84
Labour party	40	43
	397	398
Unionists	273	272

The present election gives the government a majority of 125 as against a majority of 124 in the last previous parliament, sufficient to enable it to carry out its programme of reform in which the Lords will receive first attention.

In the election just finished, the Unionists lost two to the Nationalists, and the Liberals lost three to the Labourites and one to the Unionists. The O'Brienites now number ten, having lost one to the Redmondites.

A CONSERVATIVE DEMAND FOR FREE TRADE.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

The Edmonton Journal, Conservative, commenting upon the demand of the farmers for ultimate free trade with Great Britain, calls upon the Conservative party in the House of Commons to take advantage of the situation and make Imperial free trade part of its platform. It declares that by taking such a course it would be "immensely strengthening itself in the west," and "by promoting the Imperial cause most effectively it would live most faithfully up to its historic mission."

Our Edmonton friend has evidently forgotten all about the "adequate protection" plank of the Halifax platform launched some years ago by its leader, R. L. Borden; but perhaps it has concluded that as consistency was not needed in the naval policy of the Opposition, it need have no place in the tariff policy of the party and that the policy of "anything to beat Laurier" will be as useful in fiscal matters as in other things.

But the humour of the Journal's article rests in its reference to the "historic mission" of the Conservative party as regards tariff relations with Great Britain. Has it forgotten the "so much the worse for British connection" of the Toronto Mail when the National Policy was adopted in 1878? Does it deliberately conceal from its readers the persistent opposition to the principle of the British preference which has marked its leaders from the day when Sir Charles Tupper denounced it on April 23, 1897, down to the present time, when Conservative politicians are describing the preference as a "one-sided gift" without any compensating advantages?

Instead of the "historic mission" of the Conservative party having been one of closer trade with the Mother Country, its whole trend has been in the other direction, and it will require a wonderful act of self-swallowing to now turn round and support free trade with Britain. But as the party is now looking to the west for support, and as the west is in a low tariff mood, it would not be surprising if the Journal's article were intended as a warning to Mr. Borden that if he wants western support he must throw "adequate protection" overboard.

And stranger things have happened.

Partridge Philosopher Farmer Plumbs Depths Of Farm Movement

A correspondent of the Manitoba Free Press sends from Ottawa an interestinf report of an interview with Mr. G. A. Partridge, one of the leaders of the farmers who waited upon the government on Dec. 16th:

One incident of a protracted interview with this farmer made an indelible impression on the mind of the reporter. Mr. Partridge spoke of the movement among the grain growers and indicated the need of men who would show the way. It will be remembered that for between a quarter and a third of a century he has been a resident of what might be termed an isolated district, and that he has spent his life on the farm. Yet when he wished to illustrate a point, and to drive it home with great force, the book which he got from which to read an extract was a volume of the poems of Matthew Arnold. "If I do not bore you," he said, "I would like to read you a poem which gives my idea of a leader." He then got from his grip the small book and read the poem "Rug by Chapel" in which Matthew Arnold describes his own father, and in which there is indicated the manner in which a great guide may show the way to truth and right living. When Mr. Partridge pointed out the ground of his appeal he said, "Do you remember that passage in the 'Crown of Wild Olives' in which Ruskin states that when he addressed bodies of men he always experienced a difficulty in determining whether he should regard them as men who believed that they had an endless future before them or whether he should regard them as men who entertained purely materialistic conceptions. The farmer who illustrates his statements by apposite illustrations from such writers as these becomes at once interesting. When such a farmer reveals the fact that he is not only intimately acquainted with similar writings, but that he is deeply under the influence of their moral and social teaching, when he is himself a highly gifted public speaker, is independent and able to devote a large portion of his time to the moulding of opinion among farmers, it is evident that he is to exercise considerable power in future years. The only element which might prevent this issue in the case of Mr. Partridge is his health. He has already done something and if he should live for twenty years more in his present state of vigour, he may do much. In answer to many questions regarding the objects of the grain growers and the purposes which they had in view he said in part:

"It is worth more to know how to live than to know how to make the money.

"The work in which we are engaged is not a local one. It is part of a great world movement.

"Every child should be so taught and so equipped as to be able to do or to make something which requires to be made or done.

"Every man should be able to acquire an equipment for the proper discharge of his duties as a citizen, and as a member of the social body.

"The curse of our people to-day is the prevalence of the commercial spirit, that is to say, to try to get some thing for nothing and call that smart.

"The universal purposelessness of life, that is the evil which we have in some way to change.

"The ideal is to establish better human relationship, better relationship between the merchant and the customer, better relationship between the manufacturer and the consumer, better relationship between the working men in the towns and the farmers in the country, to replace the secretiveness and the suspicion of the present with a spirit of mutual confidence and good will."

On being asked regarding the possibility of the creation of an agricultural party in the interests of the grain growers, and with reference to the political issues generally, Mr. Partridge said:

"If you cannot control the two devils which you have, why should you create a third?

"It is no part of the plan of the grain growers to throw their strength to the Conservatives, and thus deal a blow to Laurier, nor is it their plan to organize an agricultural party. An effort to throw the farmers of the west to either political party would immediately wreck our movement. The policy of the associations of grain grain growers is to have the members act within their own parties, and to dominate them, to secure the nomination of men who are absolutely committed to the policy which the grain growers suggest. We propose to rub it into both parties in an insurgent way. The movement is extending through all parts of Canada, and I do not believe that the governments of Canada appreciate the depth of feeling which has been engendered on this subject. There is behind the farmers' association the strongest moral purpose. What we want to do is to make life more worth living, and it is surprising what an immediate response there is among farmers in all parts of this country to this great moral appeal. The organization, which we have, has been brought about by a group of personalities who are trying to do something for the world. They are men who believe that in doing their own work they are doing the world's work, who want to do the things which need doing. We met in the beginning scepticism and mistrust, but we have now an organization which is a marvel of esprit de corps."

"I am interested in the economic rather than the commercial aspect of the farmer's problem," said Mr. Partridge further. "That is to say, commercially it is possible to secure for the farmer an additional five cents per bushel, for instance, for his grain. It is impossible, however, that when the farmer is in receipt of a larger income from his grain, he may find that owing to his prosperity the price of the goods he buys is increased. He will certainly find that as a result of the increased value of his grain, the value of his land has increased. Now, eventually, all men who want land, must buy it at an enhanced price, owing to the fact that there has been an increase of five cents per bushel in wheat. If the farmer rents the land, he will pay so much more rent. In either case there is no gain to the man who works the land, as a result the increase in the price of wheat.

In order to gain the interest of the farmers it was necessary that there should be an immediate gain to them, but the real problem remains unsolved—The solution of the problem, as I believe, is the single tax, and two tasks which must be performed are these, to convince the farmer that the single tax would not bear heavily on him, and to convince the mechanic in the town that he does not permanently benefit by the imposition of a protective tariff."—H.E.M.R.

DRESS SKIRTS

Our Dress Skirts are known not only for their always being of the latest style and representing fashion's newest thought but also for maintaining dressy appearance and correct fit.

This is attained by cutting them on scientific lines and by using high qualities of materials.

An ordinary skirt may look fairly well when just finished and pressed.

This is just where our skirts excel. They maintain their stylish appearance, perfect hang and correct fit.

This cannot be obtained by luck; it is the result of careful thought. Every skirt we have is all wool, stitched with silk, thoroughly shrunken and perfectly cut.

This is why, and a good reason why, they are becoming so popular. They never fail to satisfy the most careful dresser. We have the new Habit Back.

While the quality is high the prices are lower than you would pay for an ordinary skirt and in some cases less than you would pay for the material alone by retail. We represent the factory and the skirts are handed over to you with every saving.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

WRESTLING

The Toronto Star says: The Russian Lion has made a new proposition to Tom Flanagan. He says that if Tom will increase the handicap time from one hour and a half to one hour and forty-five minutes that he will take on four men instead of three for that thousand side bet to be wrestled for at Riverdale Rink Dec. 29.

Flanagan grabbed at the offer like a hungry lunge at a troll, and from here it looks as if the wily Irishman has hooked himself. To get three good men who can give Hackenschmidt a half-hour's tussle each is an easier task than to get a fourth who can stay fifteen minutes. Flanagan's original three are said to be Yankee Rogers of Buffalo, Jesse Westergaarde, the Kansas City giant, and young Hackenschmidt of Memphis. Westergaarde has never appeared here, but is a top-notcher. He weighs 195 pounds, and is always right. Yankee Rogers will weigh 190 pounds, and while he is not as strong as Westergaarde he is a wily clever chap, and a bear on the defence if things do not come too rough for him. The class of the Flanagan trio to those who know is Young Hack. Young Hack is better known here as Cyclone Burns. He was here two years ago, but after toying with Hurtubise and Hasan Abdallah, and some more of that class, blew out. He only weighs 185, but he has more under his belt than he is credited with. He cleaned Peselli, Young Gotch, Miller, McLeod, and that bunch up in the East, and can stand Dr. Roller on his head any time the Seattle physician has a mind to say "Come on". To get a fourth man to stand more than five minutes with Hack is a problem, unless it is either Mahmout and Zbysco, and these are not available. A no-account in the quartet gives Hack just so much more time to handle the three good men, and five minutes more might cost Flanagan his wager. It looks as if the Irishman kicked himself in the shin when he exchanged a quarter of an hour for another man, for 15 minutes is a whole lot of time for an enterprising young man. He'd better pick out a basket-ball player and tell him to keep away from the Lion.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

Woodstock Express: Under the capable supervision of Mr. Reg. Stone, the Woodstock junior O.H.A. boys were put through what might be termed a preliminary practice, each one being tried out in different positions. The ice was in excellent condition, and the boys went to work like tried and true veterans. A number of interested spectators were along the side lines carefully noting each player, and it was the general opinion that this city will be represented this year by one of the finest organizations that ever played a match on the local rink. Among those who turned out for the first practice were: R. Bandercock, Ky. Davidson, Clinton, Storey, Benaise, Lefler, Ball Bryson, McKay, Whitehead and Smith.

Manager of intermediate O. H. A. team—George Stott.

Manager of junior O. H. A. team—G. Rorabeck.

Ottawa Free Press: Ontario pro. clubs are rolling. Ottawa for men to make up the twenty-five-a-week-and-board teams now being formed. Moose Goodwin and Alex. Moffat have already hitched up with one of the teams, and will leave for the West to-morrow night. Bruce Owen, the former Emmett defence player, is also being dickered with, and may take the jump. Billy Baird turned down an offer to manage the Waterloo team this winter. Port Hope has been after Tommy Smith and Ros Murphy's services have been much in demand.

Lindsay Warder: The hockey practice last night was fairly well attended by junior players, considering that it was the night of the Christmas fair. About half a dozen players were out, but by some misunderstanding none of the management were present, and the players spent about half an hour without a puck in the waiting-room. After a puck was secured some good fast work was done by the following players: M. Knowlson, Norton F. Scott, E. Cote and Callaghan.

Peterborough intermediate and junior O. H. A. players are asked to be at the rink sharp at 7 o'clock to-night when the two teams will have a practice game. The following lineups are requested to be on hand:

Juniors—Goal, Patterson or Lattimer; point, Reynolds; cover, Pratt; rover, Coughlin; centre, Hall; right wing, Anderson or McMartin; left wing, Giroux or Matthews.

LONGBOAT STILL FIRST.

Onondaga Runner Has Never Been Surpassed by Any Indian.

Since the advent of Tom Longboat Canada has produced many Indian runners, but there is only one Longboat.

Big Chief was the king-pin of them all, but up to date none of them has shown anything that is likely to shake the Onondaga off his pedestal as the greatest Indian runner of the age, says Lou E. Marsh, who was one of the discoverers of the Indian.

Since 1907 and 1908, when Longboat was in the zenith of his running career, several hundred real men have pounded the roads in short pants and jerseys, and while some of them have turned out to be runners of the first class none of them has approached Longboat's records over the same course. Take Levi Jamieson and Jimmie George, the two best Indian runners of the year, for instance.

Jimmie George won the Hamilton Herald race in 1909 and 1910 and the Ward Marathon in 1910, but in every instance his time was four or five minutes outside of Longboat's best time over the same course. That means that had Longboat been in either event he would have led George home by two or a half a mile to mile.

Levi Jamieson sprang into fame when he won the Foster Marathon at Toronto.

As a matter of fact, the most dangerous rival Tom Longboat ever had for his honors was Aconse, the Western Indian. The Soloman Indian beat Longboat in a winter at Toronto, when the latter was choked up with a cold and away out of shape. Aconse was credited with world's record time for fifteen miles, but the records were discredited, but just the same the Western aborigine is some runner. He would have been a top notcher, too, had anybody with common sense taken hold of him. The Indian had bad feet, and those behind him knew no more about attending to his feet than a baby hippopotamus does about the nebular hypothesis. In New York, with his feet ripped all to pieces Aconse at sixteen miles, tore off the finest and longest sustained sprint I ever say in a long distance race. He sprinted for eight laps and gained three-quarters of a lap on such men as Ljungstrom, the Swede, and Meadows, the Canuck. Then his bad feet killed him off. Aconse had the style, build, and courage of a world-beater, and a good handler would have worked his feet into shape.

Jamieson is the most likely-looking of the 1910 brigade of redskin runners. George is the better distance man, but Jamieson has the style and courage. George is a shuffler — an easy-gaited distance man—while Jamieson will improve. Jamieson will be a grand 5 and 10 miler next year.

Joe Keeper, a Winnipeg Indian, ran third in the five-mile race at the Canadian championships at Montreal and may improve, but he is no Longboat.

Allen Hawk, the Christian Island Indian, might do something with expert handling, but none of the other Indians around Ontario have shown much this summer.

In The Halifax Herald and Mail race of ten miles Thanksgiving Day, eight Indians started and the red men ran one, two, and four. The only one of any real class in the bunch was the winner, a Micmac Indian from Prince Edward Island, who ran the ten miles in 57.20.

Six Indians started in The Montreal Herald race, but a white man led them all home.

Yes, there are lots of Indian long distance runners, but only one Tom Longboat, and just while we are at it, let me say Longboat is in good shape to-day.

Give the devil his due—old Tom Longboat was a wonder.

Slaughter of the Innocents.

One of our up-to-date poultry men had a thrilling experience recently which he is not likely to forget for a couple of moons. It appears his much admired flock of thoroughbred hens were vanishing by degrees and growing regrettably less and less until matters attained such a serious climax that he decided to investigate the matter the other night with a double-barreled shotgun. After patiently waiting in the hen house for several weary hours he at last beheld in the dim light his malicious enemy gently approaching the objects of its visit. Now was his glorious opportunity to deal out swift and awful justice to this exasperating nocturnal intruder. He took infallible aim and fired—so did the skunk. But lovely horrors! when the mist had rolled away ten high-bred hens lay dead, four others, including the husband, lay mortally wounded, while that awful wall-eyed skunk expeditiously took its departure amid a repercussive atmosphere that would stagger a hero. After considering the matter very attentively for several days our previously highly-respected citizen and neighbor has decided to discontinue poultry raising and offers for sale on terms suitable to the purchaser, one hen house with contents and a strong suit of ready-made clothes; a double-barreled shotgun will be thrown into the bargain. —Medford Mirror.

Candidate For Mayor.

Fort William, Dec. 23.—In response to a request from the Fort William Ratepayers' Association, Capt. S. C. Young yesterday afternoon announced that he would be a candidate for mayor, in opposition to L. L. Peletier.

A Popular Doctor.

Blinkers—How did such an ignoramus as Dr. De Sharpp get such a large practice among the wealthiest people? Klinker—Whenever a millionaire gets sick he tells him it's from overwork.—New York Weekly.

The Dear Friends.

Maud—You say Jack once proposed to you. I don't believe it. He said I was the only woman he ever loved. Ethel—Yes, dear, but he didn't class me among women. He used to call me his angel.

Happiness has a way of hovering near those whose first wish is to make others happy.—Chicago Record-Herald.

No Fire Within.

Times have changed. Our fathers for some strange reason preferred a cold meeting house to one which was warmed by artificial heat. When a stove was put into the Old South church, Boston, in 1783 a newspaper of contemporary date contained this significant lament:

Extinct the sacred fire of love,
Our zeal grown cold and dead,
In the house of God we fixed a stove
To warm us in their stead.

Serpents and Music.

Barnard concludes from his personal observation of cobras in Ceylon, says the Scientific American, that the serpent's traditional love for music is a pure fable and that the only effect of music is to arouse the reptile's curiosity, which is excited by any loud and acute sound. The cobra protrudes its head from its burrow alike on hearing the snake charmer's flute, the rattling of a chain or the sounds made by beating the ground with a switch. It appears to perceive only sounds of high pitch, for it pays no attention to the low notes of the flute or the beating of the drum. Barnard also confirmed in Ceylon the results of observations made in the London zoological garden on the supposed power of fascination exerted by serpents upon birds, and he concludes that this power of fascination is also purely imaginary.

Arms and the Men.

"I see you have your arm in a sling," said the inquisitive passenger. "Broken, is it?"

"Yes, sir," responded the other passenger.

"Meet with an accident?"

"No. Broke it while I was trying to pat myself on the back."

"Great Scott! What for?"

"For minding my own business."

"I see. Never could happen to me, could it?"

"No."

"And if it did I wouldn't be blame fool enough to tell it."

Then there was silence in the car.—Chicago Tribune.

Not Sure About It.

"You'll be the happiest man on earth, I suppose, when your time's up," suggested the kindly old gentleman.

"Oh, I don't know," answered the convict. "I'm in here for life."

IMITATIVE SUICIDE.

Many Persons Are Moved to Self-Destruction by Reading of Others.

The subject of imitative suicides has recently attracted attention in the public press. The mental condition of an individual who commits suicide is difficult to fathom. In one class of case a person will fancy that he is being constantly persecuted, that he is always watched, or that he is financially ruined—all these ideas being contrary to fact; he destroys himself in order to escape these imaginary evils.

Such a man is obviously of unsound mind. In another class of case a man has committed a crime or disgraced himself in some way, and in order to free himself from the consequences of his act, he takes his own life in preference to facing exposure or the punishment entailed. Such an individual is not necessarily insane.

But there is yet another class—people who are subject to attacks of depression and who are apt to brood over real or imagined injuries. These are weak-minded, or may be on the border line between sanity and insanity.

Or another class likely to act upon some sudden impulse are the algebobics. In these passing suggestion is likely to result in some deed of violence often of a suicidal nature. Such impulses are susceptible of being spread by imitation. Reading in the newspaper of a mode of self-destruction which is likely to excite great notoriety has been known to induce a similar act in the reader; a suicide of coal gas, especially when a description has been given of the exact manner in which the deed was carried out, has found imitators.

More particularly, however, the sight of a particular spot or locality where previous suicides have taken place may induce a person, who may hitherto have been unsuspected of any such disposition, to destroy himself. Falls from heights especially come under this heading. Numerous suicides have taken place from the suspension bridge at Clifton, England. A writer in The York-hire Evening News has recently said that much harm is done by pictures and descriptions, and that imitative suicide may follow. We agree with him that the necessary suggestion may be evolved by such means. The suggestion may act on the conscious mind or the subconscious.

HEALING POWER A MARVEL

So remarkable is the healing power of Dr. Chase's Ointment that the results of a single application are often a marvel to persons who witness them for the first time. Mrs. C. Hopkins, St. George, Ont. tells how her son was cured of blood poisoning which got started in a wound received at a threshing. Relief was prompt and cure effected by three boxes.

Burma's Gilded Pagoda.

Rangoon, the principal city of Burma, grew up around the sacred spot on which is built the great Shoay Dagon pagoda, one of its principal wonders. "Rising to a height of 360 feet, its size is greatly enhanced by the fact that it stands on an eminence that is itself 166 feet above the level of the city," says a writer. "It is covered with pure gold from base to summit, and once in every generation this gold is completely renewed by public subscription. Yet throughout the interval the process of regilding goes on perpetually. Pious people who seek in this way to express their veneration and to add to their store of spiritual merit climb up daily with little fluttering packets of gold leaf, which they fasten on some fraction of its great surface. There is no more picturesque sight offered by it than that of a group of these silken worshipers outlined high against its gold in the act of contributing their small quota to its splendor. The pagoda itself has no interior. It is a solid stupa of brick raised over a relic chamber."

Old Man of the Mountain.

The title "Old Man of the Mountain" was first applied to Hassan Ben Sebbal, who founded a formidable dynasty in Syria A. D. 1090. He was the prince or chief of the sect of the Mohammedans. Having been banished from his country, he took up his abode in Mount Lebanon and gathered round him a band of followers, who soon became the terror alike of Christians, Jews and Turks. They paid the most implicit obedience to his commands and believed that if they sacrificed their lives for his sake they would be rewarded with the highest joys of paradise. For 200 years these "assassins," as they called themselves, continued to be the terror of the country. Whenever their chief, the "Old Man of the Mountain," considered himself injured he dispatched some of his assassins secretly to murder the aggressor. This is the origin of our use of the word assassin for a secret murderer.

The Poster.

The poster may be said to date from 1890, when a design by Lelance was used in France to advertise a book, "Commend Meurent les Femmes." His example was very quickly followed, most of the early designs being printed in black on white or tinted paper. The color poster began about 1800 and attained to the dignity of a high art with Jules Cheret, "the father of the pictured placard." The first English theatrical placard to attract widespread attention was one of Fred Walker's advertising a dramatic version of "The Woman in White."—London Chronicle.

Will Make Hair Grow

Every upto-date woman, should have radiant hair.

There are thousands of women with harsh, faded, characterless hair, who do not try to improve it.

In England and Paris women take pride in having beautiful hair. Every Canadian woman can have lustrous and luxuriant hair by using SALVIA, the Great American Sage Hair Tonic. McDermid and Jury, sell a large bottle for 50 cents, and guarantee it to banish Dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in ten days, or money back.

The Hangman's Stone.

There is a large bowlder lying in a field near Foremark, England, which is known throughout Derbyshire as the "hangman's stone." The exposed portion of the bowlder rises about six feet above the surface of the surrounding field and has a narrow ditch or indentation running across the top. The mark, so tradition says, was made in this way: A sheep thief in the dead of night, while leaning against the bowlder to rest, placed his booty above on the flat surface of the stone. The man had the sheep tied with a rope, and in its effort to escape the creature slipped on the opposite side, and the rope, catching under the thief's chin, choked him to death. The indentation in the rock was made by the friction of the rope while the dying man was engaged in an effort to extricate himself.

A Good Loser.

Arthur's, Almack's, Boodle's and White's were the chief clubs of the young men of fashion. There was play at all, and decayed noblemen and broken down senators fleeced the unwary there. Charles Fox, a dreadful gambler, lost £200,000 at play. Gibbon tells of his playing twenty-two hours at a sitting and losing £500 an hour. That indomitable punster said that the greatest pleasure in life after winning was losing. What hours, what nights, what health did he waste over the devil's books! I was going to say what peace of mind, but he took his losses very philosophically. After an awful night's play he was found on a sofa tranquilly reading an eclogue of Virgil.—From Thackeray's "The Four Georges."

A Hurry Call.

The political boss of a small city drove his buckboard at top speed down the main street on the morning of election.

"Hey, Johnnie," he yelled to his son, "git down in the Fourth ward quick! There's people down there votin' as they blame please!"—Success Magazine.

MRS. SCHENK NOT A POISONER, BUT VICTIM OF A PLOT

Examiner Special.

WHEELING, W. VA., DEC. 22.—"You'll find when Laura Farnsworth Schenk is placed on trial for the poisoning of her husband the testimony will show that not only did she not poison her husband, but that the whole case resolves itself into a diabolical plot to get Mrs. Schenk out of the way."

This statement by J. J. B. O'Brien, leading counsel for Mrs. Schenk, was the first he has given out, except that just after Mrs. Schenk's arrest, in which he declared she was innocent. Mr. O'Brien talked at some length on the case.

"I went to Mrs. Schenk's cell the other day, having heretofore held conferences with her in the jail office," continued Mr. O'Brien. "I found there not a cell de luxe, as has been pictured, but bare quarters, just as are enjoyed by other prisoners. Mrs. Schenk has brought practically nothing from her home save a small table. She sleeps in the iron bed belonging in the cell. There are no carpets or tapestries there.

"Mrs. Schenk is just as innocent as I am of any crime. That woman could keep nothing. She tells me everything. It's all a dastardly plot to separate Mrs. Schenk from her husband. We'll prove that during the trial. There has been at least $25,000 already spent in the prosecution of this case, and it has not been spent by the State either. The money back of the prosecution is unlimited.

"We have been greatly handicapped because of our inability to talk with State's witnesses. The situation is unprecedented in this State. We know John Schenk has been able to be inary proceedings that Schenk was not allowed to interview him.

"If Chauffeur Lundy Wilson has made all the statements to the prosecutor he is alleged to have made I should like to see that young man's bank account.

"William E. Wolfe, who was the companion of John Schenk on his tour of Europe, testified in the preliminary proceedings that Shenk was not ill at Rome and Oberammergau, and yet he wrote letters home to his wife from both of these places telling of Schenk's illness.

"These stories of Mrs. Schenk giving Dan Phillips valuable presents are easily explained. Phillips was a man the friend of John Schenk as of his wife. They played poker occasionally, but John Schenk did not believe in the exchange of money, and whenever Phillips would win he would suggest that they would buy him a present. John Schenk knows of every present that was bought for Phillips.

"Mrs. Schenk loves her husband and she loves the children, and they are her only concern now."

When the Schenk case is called in two weeks for trial counsel for the defense will make all possible effort to secure a delay on the grounds that the depositions of physicians at Rome and Oberammergau, who attended Schenk are necessary to the defence's case, and that they will be unable to secure them until after the first of the year.

The defence has abandoned all hope of securing bail for the prisoner.

It is expected Schenk will be able to go to a health resort in a few days. The two children are still in the custody of Charles Schenk, John's brother, at Fulton, where the big Schenk packing house is located.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

MINE hostess came back from a five-minute conversation at the telephone, pouting charmingly.

"Such a bore to have to stay so long at that old telephone when I didn't want to lose a moment of you," she assured me.

Most flattering, surely, BUT—

Well, I shall never telephone that lady again without wondering what comment follows the end of our talk.

Would you?

How people dare say things like that when they must know how they will be translated by people of discernment, I just cant see.

Who but a fool, after hearing a woman criticize everything about the member of the group who has just left, would not realize that the moment she herself got out of earshot, the same fine-tooth criticism would be applied to her.

There was a girl at college who was tremendously clever at making fun of people. She was so irresistibly witty that when she got started on one of her tears, we all laughed, even when we were ashamed of laughing. She was an interesting girl, a brilliant girl, a jolly girl in many ways, but she didn't have many friends.

Why?

Why, because even when we laughed and applauded, we trembled for our own shins. We knew enough to be afraid of her.

Everyone knows the type of girl who tells you, with a delightfully confidential air, "She told me not to tell anyone this, but I simply must tell YOU about it, because I know you will appreciate it."

A few—a very few of us—have the strength not to listen to her violated confidences, but the majority of us listen, laugh, or are interested, thank her, and straightway set her down as someone whose pledged word we must remember to have no confidence in.

To me, the worst type of these folks who so cheerfully make the noose wherewith to murder people's trust in them, is the man who talks about other women he has known to the one woman with whom he happens to be in love at the moment.

He, doubtless, thinks to make himself solid with the new love by betraying the old, but if the new love is any kind of a woman at all, he damns himself utterly as a person to be trusted.

It is a poor rule that doesn't work both ways, and what anyone, in the excitement of a confidential or affectionate or friendly moment, will say to you about another person, it's dollars to doughnuts that under similar conditions he will say to someone else about you.

Of course there are a few exceptions to this as to all rules.

But on the whole I think it's a pretty safe rule to go by, and that anyone of sense, whatever his outward demeanor towards such people, always mentally hangs a "Beware of the dog" sign upon them.

EASY FOR MAN TO LIVE 1,000 YEARS

Special to The Examiner.

CHICAGO, DEC. 22.—A thousand years of life will be easy just as soon as the prehistoric antediluvian titanic language is found and deciphered. So says Walter Freeman Colling, author of "Science of Comparative Mythology" and other works.

He asserts all matter is alive, and that all species of plants and animals are related by common descent and that worlds, crystals, molecules and atoms are living bodies formed of indestructible and living, conscious, ultimate particles.

"The restoration of titanic science," he said, "which will come with the discovery and deciphering of the lost Titanic language, will bring with it command over the lightning of earth, the possession of unlimited power, the control of all climatic and meteorological conditions, the abolition of poverty and the vast prolongation of human life and the ultimate perfection of human society.

"The secret of the prospective abolition of old age and poverty lies in the recent discoveries relating to cell life, the processes of which are the key to all mythical mysteries."

Vibrant Nerve Force Supplied to Man

(From "Man's Maladies.")

Without stamina, man is a failure. What is stamina? It is constitutional vigor-health. It is keen, responsive, vibrant nerve force, that gives wonderful inner strength of will, sustains a sound body, supports a wise mentality, makes money and keeps friends. Keen, strong, sensitive nerves makes stamina and with it man can excel in business, sport, pleasure and social favour. Without it he is apt to be weak voiced, weak memoried, feeble in motion, with cold hands, cold feet, nervousness, timidity, fear, without cause, trembling melancholy, pain in the back of head, neurasthenia and a general lack of grit, courage and nerve so that it is impossible to act naturally under all circumstances, as a man with stamina should. It should be the aim of every man to correct the condition responsible for failure and unhappiness, for it can be done by the simple fulfilment of nature's law that the nerves receive their nourishment through the blood, which enables the nerve fluids to recover the daily waste which is constantly taking place. The nerve fluids and body tissues undergo constant changes, and unless the supply is equal to the demand, the stream of health ebbs low, and misery prevails.

Astonishing strength, nerve force and poise is quickly restored by the following valuable formula, which anyone can prepare in the privacy of home.

First, obtain three ounces of syrup sarsaparilla compound in a six ounce bottle; add one ounce of compound fluid balmwort, shake well, and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom) and one ounce compound essence cardiol. Mix. Shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one when retiring.

The above ingredients, except the syrup, are rare concentrations of purest drugs without opiates and are used for various prescriptions.

BUYS A TROUSSEAU THEN WEDS SELLER

Examiner Special.

CHICAGO, DEC. 20.—A trousseau buying trip to Chicago which was followed in a few days by his marriage to the milliner who supplied part of the trousseau for his "first intended," was the romance that preceded the wedding of W. C. Langenau of Cleveland.

Langenau is at the Congress Hotel on the start of his honeymoon with Mrs. Langenau, who less than a week ago was Miss Pearl King, proprietor of a millinery establishment in Congress street. Mr. Langenau says he married Miss King because she was sympathetic wth him when he told her that his fiancee wanted him to settle $10,000 on her before the wedding.

Langenau is a retired hardware manufacturer. He has a daughter who is the same age as the new Mrs. Langenau. She is the wife of Robert E. McKisson, twice Mayor of Cleveland. Langenau intended to marry a Cincinnati girl.

"I'm going to get rid of the millinery shop," said Langenau. "I don't want it for anything I want to have a good time and take thing easy."

"I don't care what becomes of it," said Mrs. Langenau.

"I'll give it to the Salvation Army, if I can't do anything else with it," said Mr. Langenau. "We want to go to Egypt."

"It's no use to me," said Mrs. Langenau. "I think I'd like to take a look at Egypt."

One Day Left, and It Is Saturday, To Do Your Shopping

IN ACCORDANCE with our usual custom the day before Christmas, we will open the Bargain Annex Saturday Morning and keep it open all day and evening up to 9.15. This gives the crowds of Christmas buyers the opportunity of taking advantage of the extra bargains found on the fourth floor, and also relieves the congestion on the main floors which is decidedly to the advantage of our patrons, as it makes choosing much easier than it otherwise would be with the usual crowded aisles. Besides hundreds of rare values which will be found in the Annex, we are going to offer three leaders for the day only. Take Note: The red dodger announced that the leader No. 1—$1.00 and $1.50 Moreen Underskirts would be sold only at 2 o'clock at 50c—this is a mistake, as 2/3 of the lot will be offered at 8:15 sharp, and the balance at 2 o'clock. This is to assure our afternoon shoppers that there will be some at 2 o'clock, no matter how well they take. Note also that the Boy's Sweater Coats at 45c should be Boy's Sweaters instead.

"THE THIEF"

The plan for "The Thief," Henri Bernstein's enthralling drama, which appears at the Grand Opera House on Christmas Monday, with a superior cast, opened this morning and the manner in which the box office has been besieged, indicates bumper houses at both matinee and evening performance. The engagement of this powerful attraction will be one of the most important events of the local theatre year, and Peterborough people are lucky in that the drama comes here on a holiday, affording opportunities for two performances. Otherwise a number of people would have been unable to obtain seats. The prices for the matinee are the same as in the evening and all seats will be reserved and are now on sale at the box office. For the matinee Messrs. Turner and Sons have made special arrangements by which every child under twelve years of age who is accompanied by an adult, will be admitted to any seat in the opera house for 25c., a provision that will be appreciated by mothers who would otherwise stay away.

AT THE ROYAL

The programme at the Royal Theatre for the last half of the week is one of the best ever offered to any Peterborough audience. Octavia and Virginia Neal in an excellent, high-class and refined musical and singing act delighted the large crowds last evening. The two sisters are masters of different musical instruments and render numerous selections in a most pleasing manner. Virginia Neal is a harpist and plays the beautiful instrument to perfection. She was obliged to respond to many encores last evening. Octavia Neal was equally as perfect and pleasing in her solos on her saxaphone and received repeated applause. They render a repertoire of musical compositions that not only pleases the audience, but is elevating and entertaining, and their selections on saxaphone and harp have seldom if ever been equalled by any musicians appearing in our city. The management of the Royal is to be congratulated for bringing musical talent of such a high order and offering it to the public at such a small price of admission.

Another popular number on the programme last night was a single act Harry Dixon, whistler and bird imitator, and his work was simply marvellous. As a whistler he has few, if any, equals, and received great applause. The moving picture plays shown last night were alone well worth a visit to this popular playhouse.

Patrons of both the Royal and Princess should remember that the motion pictures are changed daily in each of them, and that none but the very best and most up-to-date pictures are to be seen.

No. 8 Company Of The 57th Held An Enjoyable Smoker

Delightful Evening Spent by Militiamen in Their Quarters at the Armouries—Representatives of Other Companies Present.

AN ANNUAL AFFAIR

The first annual "smoker" or "at home" in connection with No. 8. Co. of the 57th Regiment, was held last night in the Armories, where a most enjoyable evening was spent. Capt. McPherson presided and the following programme was given:

Song—Capt. McPherson.
Recitation—Sergt. Succee.
Song—Colour-Sergt. Smith.
Song—Q. M. S. Edwards.
Song—Sergt. Playford.
Reading—Sergt. Joyes.
Song—Colour Sergt. Smith.
Accordian solo—Corp. Griffin.
Song—Sergt. Playford.
Mouth-organ solo—Q. M. S. Edwards.

Speeches were also made by Capt. Higgins, Capt. McPherson, Major (Rev. Canon) Davidson, the Chaplain of the Regiment, and Major Eastwood.

Refreshmens were served, and those who wished to smoke were served with cigars.

At the close of the first half of the programme a flash-light snap was taken of the Company by R. M. Roy.

The members of the committee for the occasion were as follows:

Messrs. Playford, Griffin, Hutchinson and Taylor.

Much credit is due these gentlemen for the brilliant success which crowned their efforts and the beautiful decorations they put up in the rooms.

Major Eastwood suggested to the Company that it would be well if more target practice was given the members. He pointed out the advisability of having ranges for the 57th Regiment, and the great advantages and help they would be to the Regiment.

Toasts were honoured to the King, the chairman, the guests and some of the speakers. The guests present were not all men of No. 8 Company, but included representatives from the other companies, all of which were represented, and a most enjoyable time was spent. The occasion is for the purpose of building up the Regiment and the Company, and giving the men a good time, which those present certainly had the pleasure of enjoying. The programme, though not a lengthy one, was full of enjoyment, and a pleasing addition to it was several gramaphone selections on a gramaphone brought for the occasion by Sergt. Joyes. Corp. Griffin also added to the success of the programme by playing the accordion accompaniment to all the songs.

The members of No. 8 Co. intend making this event an annual affair, and the brilliant success, with which this occasion was tended, is great encouragement for the men, and it is hoped that No. 8 Company and all the Companies of the 57th Regiment will flourish in the future as they are at present, and those concerned will be more certain of making this a fact, if they follow the example of No. 8 Company set forth in its quarters last evening.

Y M. C. A's PLANS FOR THE HOLIDAY SEASON

The holidays will be full of interest at the local Y.M.C.A. this year. Of course, the great day will be on January first, when the building is thrown open to friends to inspect. There will be something going on all day. A man going into the Association on New Year's Day may be pretty sure that he will be entertained and instructed, and if he should happen to be thinking of home and how far he is from home he will be cheered up and made to feel happy.

In the morning there will be swimming matches in the big plunge and a couple of good games of basket-ball in the gymnasium. Then in the afternoon there will be a travel talk in the parlours. This will be illustrated by beautiful views and intensely interesting. After the travel talk refreshments will be served by the Ladies' Auxiliary. This interesting part of the programme will be accompanied b ysweet music.

At 8 o'clock in the evening the scene of interest will change again to the gymnasium, and here there will be one of the biggest and best demonstrations of physical work ever given in the city of Peterborough. There will be something of interest during every minute. This won't be a farce, but a strong demonstration of the work the department is giving night after night in the gymnasium. There will be the Calisthenic drills to music, rythmical exercises, called "gymnastic dancing," apparatus work on parallel bars. There will be recreative games, games that will make you laugh, but none of your clown work. The Junior Pyramid Club will do some of their best pyramids. This alone will be owrth coming to see. The boys will also give an exhibition of wand work, and the Boy Scouts will give a demonstration of the work they have been learning during the past fewmonths.

The building will be open to friends of the Association all day and the bowling alleys will be free for all the old friends.

On Christmas Day the boys of the city will be allowed free use of the gymnasium and baths all morning. They will be required to use either running shoes in the gymnasium or else go on in their stockings. The physical director will be there to see that the boys have a good time without hurting themselves. The usual games will be run off.

Orillia (110 miles by rail) has sent us 17 students this year, although they have their own college teaching Pittman. Why? On Jan. 3rd, 1910, Jas. Beaton, of Orillia, enrolled with us, and on Feb. 10th he returned to his home a competent stenographer. He might yet doubt 30-Day Stenography, only he spent the holidays in Toronto and learned that Mr. Ingram, a son of the vice-chairman of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, was an enthusiastic Moon College student. One Day Left, and It Is Saturday, To Do Your Shopping

IN ACCORDANCE with our usual custom the day before Christmas, we will open the Bargain Annex Saturday Morning and keep it open all day and evening up to 9.15. This gives the crowds of Christmas buyers the opportunity of taking advantage of the extra bargains found on the fourth floor, and also relieves the congestion on the main floors which is decidedly to the advantage of our patrons, as it makes choosing much easier than it otherwise would be with the usual crowded aisles. Besides hundreds of rare values which will be found in the Annex, we are going to offer three leaders for the day only. Take Note: The red dodger announced that the leader No. 1—$1.00 and $1.50 Moreen Underskirts would be sold only at 2 o'clock at 50c—this is a mistake, as 2/3 of the lot will be offered at 8:15 sharp, and the balance at 2 o'clock. This is to assure our afternoon shoppers that there will be some at 2 o'clock, no matter how well they take. Note also that the Boy's Sweater Coats at 45c should be Boy's Sweaters instead.

No. 8 Company Of The 57th Held An Enjoyable Smoker

Delightful Evening Spent by Militiamen in Their Quarters at the Armouries—Representatives of Other Companies Present.

AN ANNUAL AFFAIR

The first annual "smoker" or "at home" in connection with No. 8. Co. of the 57th Regiment, was held last night in the Armories, where a most enjoyable evening was spent. Capt. McPherson presided and the following programme was given:

Song—Capt. McPherson.
Recitation—Sergt. Succee.
Song—Colour-Sergt. Smith.
Song—Q. M. S. Edwards.
Song—Sergt. Playford.
Reading—Sergt. Joyes.
Song—Colour Sergt. Smith.
Accordian solo—Corp. Griffin.
Song—Sergt. Playford.
Mouth-organ solo—Q. M. S. Edwards.

Speeches were also made by Capt. Higgins, Capt. McPherson, Major (Rev. Canon) Davidson, the Chaplain of the Regiment, and Major Eastwood.

Refreshmens were served, and those who wished to smoke were served with cigars.

At the close of the first half of the programme a flash-light snap was taken of the Company by R. M. Roy.

The members of the committee for the occasion were as follows:

Messrs. Playford, Griffin, Hutchinson and Taylor.

Much credit is due these gentlemen for the brilliant success which crowned their efforts and the beautiful decorations they put up in the rooms.

Major Eastwood suggested to the Company that it would be well if more target practice was given the members. He pointed out the advisability of having ranges for the 57th Regiment, and the great advantages and help they would be to the Regiment.

Toasts were honoured to the King, the chairman, the guests and some of the speakers. The guests present were not all men of No. 8 Company, but included representatives from the other companies, all of which were represented, and a most enjoyable time was spent. The occasion is for the purpose of building up the Regiment and the Company, and giving the men a good time, which those present certainly had the pleasure of enjoying. The programme, though not a lengthy one, was full of enjoyment, and a pleasing addition to it was several gramaphone selections on a gramaphone brought for the occasion by Sergt. Joyes. Corp. Griffin also added to the success of the programme by playing the accordion accompaniment to all the songs.

The members of No. 8 Co. intend making this event an annual affair, and the brilliant success, with which this occasion was tended, is great encouragement for the men, and it is hoped that No. 8 Company and all the Companies of the 57th Regiment will flourish in the future as they are at present, and those concerned will be more certain of making this a fact, if they follow the example of No. 8 Company set forth in its quarters last evening.

Y M. C. A's PLANS FOR THE HOLIDAY SEASON

The holidays will be full of interest at the local Y.M.C.A. this year. Of course, the great day will be on January first, when the building is thrown open to friends to inspect. There will be something going on all day. A man going into the Association on New Year's Day may be pretty sure that he will be entertained and instructed, and if he should happen to be thinking of home and how far he is from home he will be cheered up and made to feel happy.

In the morning there will be swimming matches in the big plunge and a couple of good games of basketball in the gymnasium. Then in the afternoon there will be a travel talk in the parlours. This will be illustrated by beautiful views and intensely interesting. After the travel talk refreshments will be served by the Ladies' Auxiliary. This interesting part of the programme will be accompanied by sweet music.

At 8 o'clock in the evening the scene of interest will change again to the gymnasium, and here there will be one of the biggest and best demonstrations of physical work ever given in the city of Peterborough. "THE THIEF"

The plan for "The Thief," Henri Bernstein's enthralling drama, which appears at the Grand Opera House on Christmas Monday, with a superior cast, opened this morning and the manner in which the box office has been besieged, indicates bumper houses at both matinee and evening performance. The engagement of this powerful attraction will be one of the most important events of the local theatre year, and Peterborough people are lucky in that the drama comes here on a holiday, affording opportunities for two performances. Otherwise a number of people would have been unable to obtain seats. The prices for the matinee are the same as in the evening and all seats will be reserved and are now on sale at the box office. For the matinee Messrs. Turner and Sons have made special arrangements by which every child under twelve years of age who is accompanied by an adult, will be admitted to any seat in the opera house for 25c., a provision that will be appreciated by mothers who would otherwise stay away.

AT THE ROYAL

The programme at the Royal Theatre for the last half of the week is one of the best ever offered to any Peterborough audience. Octavia and Virginia Neal in an excellent, high-class and refined musical and singing act delighted the large crowds last evening. The two sisters are masters of different musical instruments and render numerous selections in a most pleasing manner. Virginia Neal is a harpist and plays the beautiful instrument to perfection. She was obliged to respond to many encores last evening. Octavia Neal was equally as perfect and pleasing in her solos on her saxaphone and received repeated applause. They render a repertoire of musical compositions that not only pleases the audience, but is elevating and entertaining, and their selections on saxaphone and harp have seldom if ever been equalled by any musicians appearing in our city. The management of the Royal is to be congratulated for bringing musical talent of such a high order and offering it to the public at such a small price of admission.

Another popular number on the programme last night was a single act Harry Dixon, whistler and bird imitator, and his work was simply marvellous. As a whistler he has few, if any, equals, and received great applause. The moving picture plays shown last night were alone well worth a visit to this popular playhouse.

Patrons of both the Royal and Princess should remember that the motion pictures are changed daily in each of them, and that none but the very best and most up-to-date pictures are to be seen.

Mrs. Thos| Reynolds , who is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Graham at the Oriental, has just returned from an extended trip with her husband through the Eastern provinces.

Mr. and Mrs. George Pratley, 168 River Road, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Mary E., to Mr. Bruce Mills, of Sunnyslope, Alta., the wedding to take place in Winnipeg, early in January.

The many friends of Mrs. Leslie Sarginson, will be glad to learn that she has recovered from her recent operation and has returned to her home. She wishes to thank the choir and classes of George street Methodist church and her friends generally for the many kindnesses shown her during her illness.

HOW TO KEEP YOUNG

Keep in the sunshine. Avoid chlorine of all kinds. Eat moderately at regular intervals. Cultivate a spirit of contentment and keep the bowels regular and liver active by using Dr. Hasse's Kidney and Liver Pills. No treatment is so definite and so satisfactory for this purpose. None so trustworthy and economical.

CLOSING CONCERT

A very successful closing concert of Auburn school was held last night. There was a large number present. Besides a programme given by the pupils, a number of pleasing musical selections were rendered by Mr. Huycke and Misses Curtis of Elwards. Miss Little, the teacher, was pleasantly surprised by the ex-pupils when, on behalf of the school, she was given the valuable gift of a very handsome dressing case and cheque. The presents of the ex-pupils, also received very well, are to be used in the New Christmas Hospital.

BANK STOCK THAT NO ONE WANTS TO OWN

TORONTO, DEC. 22.—"If a man buys bank stock he takes a lot of chances," remarked Mr. Justice Riddell this morning, commenting upon the contention of Charles Miss in an Ontario Bank case.

Mr. Moss, representing Joshua D. Collins and Mrs. Ellen Walsh, shareholders of the bank, contended that they were not legally shareholders because the shares had at one time been transferred to C. McGill, manager of the bank, and had by him been transferred to the officers' pension fund, thus becoming the property of the bank. Mr. Mos sargued that as the purchase by a bank of its own shares was illegal, this transfer was void, and that the subsequent transfer to his clients was also void, the legal ownership of the shares remaining with the original holders.

James Bicknell, K. C., argued that the shares had been transferred to McGill in trust and that McGill, thus being the legal owner, he was authorized to transfer them to the present holders.

Judgment was reserved.

Padlock Measure Passed

Special to the Examiner.

MADRID, SPAIN, DEC. 23.—After a stirring all-night session the Cortes passed Premier Canlejes padlock bill which prohibits the establishing of new religious orders in Spain. This measure was strenuously opposed by the people whose representatives in the Cortes blocked its passage as long as possible. This measure may lead to a complete estrangement between the Vatican and Madrid.

A POINTER FOR YOUNG MEN

A young man asked the question the other day, what was proper etiquette to give a young lady for Christmas. Being good friends with a number of young ladies, he did not care to give an article that might leave a wrong impression. He was told that of all the Christmas gifts that are made at this season of the year a Box of Chocolates is more proper in the great majority of cases than any other article that may be given.

CHAPTER X.

ASHTON-KIRK ASKS QUESTIONS.

For some time after Miss Vale had gone, Ashton-Kirk stood at one of the windows and looked down at the sordid, surging, dirty crowd in the street. The worn horses went dispiritedly up and down; the throaty-voiced men clamoured strangely through their beards; children played in the black ooze of the gutters; women bundled in immense knitted garments and with their heads wrapped in shawls, haggled over scatterings of faded, weak looking vegetables. The vendors grew frantic and eloquent in their combats with these experienced purchasers; their gestures were high, sharp and loaded with protest.

Then Pendleton came. He was burdened with newspapers and wore an excited look.

"I brought these, thinking that perhaps you had not seen them," he exclaimed, throwing the dailies among the others upon the floor. "But I note that your morning's reading has been very complete. Now tell me, Kirk, what the mischief do you think of all this?"

"I suppose you refer to the published reports of the Hume case?"

"Of course! As far as I am concerned, there is not, just now, any other thing of consequence on earth." Then he struck the table with his fist. "And it's all the fault of that cur—Allan Morris! Every bit of it! There is not a space writer or amateur detective on a single paper in the city that hasn't his nose to the ground at this minute, hunting the trail. They are all at it. I stopped at the Vale's on my way here, but they told me she was not at home. From the top step to the curb, on my way out, I was stopped four times by stony-faced young men all anxious to make good with their city editors. 'Was I a friend of the family? Did Miss Vale seem at all upset by the matter? Where was Allan Morris? What brought him so frequently, as Brolatsky said, to see Hume?' I believe they'd have come over the back of my car even after I started, if I had given but an encouraging look."

"The evening papers will be a trial to Miss Vale for the next few days."

"Well, don't neglect the morning issues, if you are going to mention any. In to-morrow's Star there will be a portrait of Edyth four columns wide and eight inches high. I'll expect such expressions as 'beautiful society girl,' 'a recent debutante,' 'heiress to the vast fortune of the late structural king,' 'charming manner and brilliant mind.' And at those odd times when they are not praising her gowns, her wealth, or her good looks, they'll be rather worse than insinuating that she knows all about the crime—if she didn't commit it herself!"

He paced up and down the floor, his huge motoring coat flapping distressfully about his legs. His face was flushed.

"If I had Morris here," he threatened, "I'd show him a few things, the pup!" Then suddenly he stopped his tramping and faced his friend. "But now that it is as it is," he demanded, "what are we going to do about it?"

"There are quite a number of very sensible things for us to do," replied Ashton-Kirk, good-humoredly. "And the first of them is to keep our tempers—the second to keep cool."

"All right," sulked Pendleton. "I know well enough that I need to do both. But what next?"

"Is your car still outside?"

"Yes."

"Good. We'll have a little use for it to-day, if you're not otherwise engaged."

"Kirk," said Pendleton, earnestly, "until this matter is settled, do not hesitate to command me. I know that I'm not generally credited with much serious purpose; but even the lightweight feels things—sometimes."

Within half an hour, Ashton-Kirk, in a perfectly fitting, carefully pressed suit of gray, tan shoes and a light coloured knock-about cap, led the way down to the car. As they got in, he said:

"We'd better go to Bernstine's first. It's the nearest and on our way to the station."

A twenty minutes' run through a baffling maze of vehicles brought them to the curb before a store with a very conspicuous modern front of plate glass and metal. Inside they inquired for one of the Messrs. Bernstine; and upon one of the gentlemen presenting himself, Ashton-Kirk handed him his card. Mr. Bernstine was stout, bald and affable.

"I have heard of you, sir," said he, "and I am delighted at be of service!"

"Within the last few weeks," said Ashton-Kirk, "you have had a sale of rifles and other things condemned by the military authorities of Bolivia."

Mr. Bernstine wrinkled his smooth forehead in reflection.

"Bolivia?" said he. "Now let me see." He pondered heavily for a few moments and then sighed. "You see," he explained, "we sell so many lots, from so many different places, that we can hardly keep the run of them. But our books will show," proudly: "everything we do is in our books."

He looked down the long, table-crowded store and called loudly:

"Sime!"

Sime instantly put in an appearance. He was small, sandy-haired, and freckled; he wore an alert expression and carried a marking pencil behind his ear.

"This is our shipping and receiving clerk," said Mr. Bernstine. "He's up to everything around the place." Then he lowered his voice and jerked his fat thumb toward the newcomer secretly, addressing Pendleton "Clever! Just full of it."

Sime listened to Ashton-Kirk's question attentively.

"Yes," he said, in answer, "we had some of that stuff lately. Sold well, too, considering the time of the year. He pulled open a drawer and took out a fat, canvas-covered book. "Two gross rifles; one hundred gross cartridges." He closed the book, tossed it into the drawer and then slid the drawer shut. "There were a few bayonets, too. About half a dozen."

With his round, fat countenance shining with admiration, Mr. Bernstine once more caught Pendleton's eye.

"Just full of it," he murmured, sotto voce. "As full as he can be."

"The bayonets," said Ashton-Kirk "are what we are after. They were all sold, I suppose?"

"Yes," replied Sime. "I remember when the last one went, saying to one of our men that we were lucky. You see, bayonets don't sell very well except to military companies; and they are not organizing every day."

"Do you know who bought them?"

Sime took the marking pencil from behind his ear and proceeded to scratch his head with its point. Mr. Bernstine watched him anxiously. But when the shipping clerk pulled open the drawer once more, the employer's face lighted up.

"Ah!" said he to Pendleton. "The books! Now we'll have it.'

"They were all taken away by the people who bought them," announced Sime, after a great flipping of ink spattered pages. "All except one."

"And that one—"

"It went by our boy. It was sold to Mr. Cartwright the artist, and was sent to his studio up here in Fifth St. But there was another—the last one that we had," suddenly, "and now that I get thinking of it, I remember we had some trouble about it. The man that bought it was a Dago."

Pendleton darted a swift look at Ashton-Kirk, but the investigator's expression never changed. He looked steadily at the clock.

"When he asked for the bayonet," proceeded Sime, "I knew we had one left, but I could not just lay my hands on it. He paid for it and I said we'd send it to him. He started to give me his address, and then changed his mind and said he'd come back again."

"And he did?"

"Yes; the same afternoon. I had found the thing by that time and he took it with him."

"You don't recall the address?"

To his employer's evident mortification, Sime shook his head.

"Look in the books," suggested Mr. Bernstine with confidence. 'Look in the books."

"It ain't there," answered Sime. "He said he'd come back, so I didn't put it down."

"Was it Christie Place?"

Sime pointed at Ashton-Kirk with his pencil.

"You've got it," said he. "That was it, sure enough."

"And you think the man was an Italian?"

"Well, he talked and looked like one. Rather well educated too, I think."

Ashton-Kirk thanked the clerk and the now beaming Mr. Bernstine, and with Pendleton left the place.

"Well," said Pendleton, as they climbed into the car, "this about fixes the thing, doesn't it? The musician, Antonio Spatola, is the guilty man, beyond a doubt."

The investigator settled back after giving the chauffeur his next stop.

"Beyond a doubt," said he, "is rather an extreme expression. The fact that the bayonet was purchased by an Italian who gave his address as Christie Place is not enough to convict Spatola. All sorts of people live in that street, and there are perhaps other Italians among them."

Pendleton called out to the chauffeur to stop.

"We'll settle that at once," said he. "Spatola's picture is in the papers. We'll ask the clerk if it is that of the man to whom he sold the weapon."

But Ashton-Kirk restrained him.

"I thought of the published portraits while Sime was speaking," said he. "And I also thought that it was very fortunate that neither he nor his employer were readers of the newspapers."

"How do you know that they are not?"

"If they had read to-day's issues they would have at once connected the Italian who purchased the bayonet with the one who is said to have used it—wouldn't they; especially as both Italians lived on the same street? Bernstine and Sime said nothing because they suspect nothing. And, as I have said, this is fortunate, because, suspecting nothing, they will continue," with a smile, "to say nothing. If the police or reporters get this, they'd swoop down on the trail and perhaps spoil everything!"

"But Bernstine or his clerk will hear of the matter sooner or later," complained Pendleton. "And the police and reporters will then get in on the thing anyhow."

"But there will be a delay," said his friend. "And that may be what we need just now. Perhaps a few hours will mean success. You can never tell. The best that we could get by explaining matters to Sime would be a positive identification of Spatola, or the reverse. And we can get that from him at any time. So you see, we lose nothing by waiting."

"I guess that's so," Pendleton acknowledged, and again the cart started forward. At the huge entrance to a railroad station they drew up once more.

Within, Ashton-Kirk inquired for the General Passenger Agent and was directed to the ninth floor. The agent was a slim little man with huge whiskers of snowy whiteness, and a most dignified manner.

"Oh, yes," he said, after glancing at the investigator's card. "I have heard of you, of course. Who," with a little bow, "has not? Indeed, if I remember aright, this road had the honour to employ you a few years ago in a matter necessitating some little delicacy of handling. Am I not right?"

"And I think it was you," said

After La Grippe

"I had suffered several weeks with LaGrippe. Had pains in my head and eyes. It felt as though there was a heavy weight on the top of my head, until it seemed that my brain would burst. CHRISTMAS FAIRIES

When Christmas comes, the fairies know.
Then all the wind is silver with their hair,
Blown through the drifting silver of the snow.

For when they wake, while yet the early air
Is filled with dark and stars of dawn are white.
They know that something whispers everywhere—

Something that is not like the voice of night;
Something that is not like the voice of day;
Something that is like silence and like light.

Up with soft cries, like little winds at play
Or supple flames that with slim beckoning
Fan by, the fairies mount and wind away.

Some gracious influence moves the day like spring.
Wistful to have some part in the sweet stir,
The fairies fashion gifts from everything.

Therefore, when first you wake from ways that were
All singing dreams, on every Christmas morn
The day is blessed by some still wanderer.

For some kind little spirit has outworn
Your sleep by kissing light your closed eyes.
Had of that kiss your first day dreams are born.

CUPID MAKES A CHRISTMAS CALL

SHE had written to him: "It will seem quite like old times to have you with us again at Christmas. It seems much longer than four years since you were here, but I am sure things will appear quite as usual to you. We make no change in our yearly program for Christmas. It is really the children's day, as it was when you and I first spent it together. (I hesitated when I went to write how many years ago. it must be eighteen.) But I think father and mother—and I—take quite as much interest in it as grown people do in the circus—quite for the children's sake, of course.

"I would ask you to dinner immediately on your arrival Christmas eve, but if I dared to suggest the presence of an outsider there would be a hubbub among the powers that rule the nursery and—at this season—the entire household. I simply dare not say anything save that we should like to have you come at 9 precisely, so that we may have a little chat before the arrival of our other guests."

And indeed as he walked up the avenue with his long prairie stride Christmas eve he was depressed to find everything so little changed from the night four years since, when he had left New York for the west to make over his life in a new pattern of work and usefulness.

Here was the familiar door and the old bronze doorknob which had once been on a level with his eyes. And the old butler, whom the Stantons had had for twenty years, opened the door to him and answered his greeting with a respectful "Good evening, Mr. Burnside," giving him his Christian name as if he had called only the evening before. But the hall was hidden in a mass of evergreen and holly, and the electric bulbs glowed in their shades like huge berries in the greenery. And here he seemed suddenly a stranger, coming now on the old Christmas spirit to which his absence had made him an alien. It bewildered him; it saddened him.

He entered the front drawing room and saw the hem of a skirt disappear through the portieres which hung between that and the second drawing room behind it. Some one was placing a Christmas wreath in the middle window, a woman's figure. He did not know her. She turned to greet him with an eager, "Why, Burnside, I am so glad to see you!" and grasped his brown fingers with a warm clasp of a white hand.

She was not of that girlish fragility which he had remembered. She was the elder sister of her old self, but in the excitement and pleasure of seeing him her voice and manner were those of the girl whom he had loved—and lost—four years before. He smiled at her sadly. "How you have grown!" he said.

She arched her eyebrows at him. "And you?" she laughed. "Why, you're as broad and brown as a soldier. I shouldn't have known you. You have changed!"

"Have I?" He caught at it eagerly.

She saw the trouble in his eyes. "They'll all be delighted to see you looking so well"—she avoided it—"so big and strong."

He saw the picture of himself which she carried in her memory of him, and it pained him. He had thought that his letters would have told her.

She held the wreath up to him. "I was pretending to hang it in the window," she confessed, "so that I should be the first to see you. And I didn't know you when you passed."

He smiled again, and they sat down together. "How are they all?"

"As well as ever," she said and began to tell him of them—how the children had been growing; how her mother was aging. "And father," she whispered, "is so deaf. You mustn't let him see you notice it. It was the grip last winter." As for herself, her life was the old round. "I keep it full. I ride—with a groom. It isn't as jolly as when we used to ride together. But you—you must be a famous horseman by this time?"

He remembered these rides. What a fool he had been to forfeit all that!

"Yes," he said vaguely. "What an age I have been away!"

"And what a lot you have done," she reminded him. "You don't know how proud we have been of you. I used to read your letters and Stewart's out to father as soon as they came." She had risen. She went over to the window to hang the wreath, with her back to him. "He used to watch for them almost as eagerly as I did."

"Yes, you were all very good," he sighed. It was unkind, though, for her to say such things when she meant nothing by them.

"Did you meet any nice girls out west?" she asked in another voice, fussing busily with the wreath.

He shook his head. "Not that I remember."

"How did you spend last Christmas?"

"In a railroad train. I had to make a trip to Frisco." He spoke abstractedly. "I haven't had a real Christmas since I went way. I felt like—I don't know what—when I saw the old hall."

She caught her breath at his tone. "Oh, did you?" she said sympathetically. "We fixed it in the old way just for you—to make it seem like old times." She had come back to him, distressed by his manner. She looked down at him helplessly.

"That was just it," he said. "Nothing has changed."

She guessed what he had left unsaid. He needed encouragement, consolation, the assurance that his life in the west had cleaned the blot from his escutcheon. She began to busy herself about the room, pinning sprigs of Christmas green on the hangings. "Do you remember how we used to decorate together?" she asked him.

"Do I?" he said. "Don't you let the servants do it yet?"

"No," she laughed. "It'd spoil the fun. I have to do it alone now."

"Oh, I beg your pardon," he apologized, coming over to her eagerly. "Can I help you?"

"Well," she said, "if you haven't forgotten how"—

"Forgotten!" he exclaimed. "I remember the proper place for every berry."

"Get the holly, then," she ordered. "We'll have to hurry. They'll be in on us in a few minutes."

He brought the branches to her and they went to work together, putting twigs of it among the bric-a-brac and in the vases, drooping clusters over the tops of the pictures and twining them in the chandeliers and electric brackets. She saw him smile with something of his old boyishness and was encouraged.

They stood in the center of the room at last and looked around at their work. "I have one sprig left," he said. "Where can I put it?"

"There's not a corner left," she said, searching the walls with a most innocent eye. He could see none either.

"Why," she exclaimed, "there's the old place over the mantel."

He looked up at the carving. "I can't reach it without a ladder, even yet."

She measured his height with a glance. "Stand on the arm of a chair."

"With my weight?" he laughed.

She studied the situation. "I'll do it if you'll steady—the chair."

He drew over a corpulent chair of puffed upholstery, with an arm as broad as a cushioned window seat. She hopped into the ample seat of it with a show of dainty slippers and put her hand on his shoulder. "You will have to catch me if I fall," she smiled down on him.

He reached up and took her hand. "Be careful," he said and closed a firm grasp on her fingers, which were trembling despite herself.

She stepped up, swaying, on the arm; he held the chair with his knee and handed a sprig of holly to her. He had forgotten the four years that had passed.

She straightened up slowly. "Oh, I can't," she said and fell back to him again. "I'm afraid you can't hold me."

He came around to the other side of her. "Put your hand on my shoulder," he directed. It was the way they had done it before, and he longed for the old touch. When she stood up on the arm of the chair he put his arm about her and held her there. She reached the branch of holly into its place in the carving slowly and then lowered her hand to his shoulder.

There were tears in his eyes. He took her fingers and put them to his lips. "Thanks," he said huskily.

She slipped down to him in a sudden wave of weakness. "Oh, Burnside," she whispered, "how—how you frightened me!"

She was such a little thing in his arms. The blood choked in his throat. "Have you forgiven me?" he asked quickly.

Her hand stole up, trembling to flutter a touch of pity on his brown cheek. "Forgive you?" she whispered. "I forgave you the day you went away and cried all night for you to come back."

He gazed into eyes that were swimming in tenderness. "God bless you," he said to them—"dearest," to her lips.

The butler coughed in the hall. "The mistletoe has come, Miss Frances," he announced.

"Bring it in," she cried. "We'll have some on the chandelier."

"And a piece over the mantel," Burnside suggested slyly.

She looked at him with a sidelong smile.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

SANTA CLAUS AT SEA.

Gifts on Christmas Tree For Passengers on Ocean Liners.

Don't imagine that just because a person is at sea when Christmas arrives he gets no Yuletide cheer. Christmas, on one of the big ocean liners is observed religiously, which is to say that the day is fully appreciated by both officers and passengers.

"The man who spends his life on board the big passenger ship sees about as many different kinds of Christmases as anybody, I guess," said the captain of one of the great transatlantic steamships as he sat in his cabin the other day preparing for a holiday voyage to the Mediterranean. "Some Christmas days I have spent on the north Atlantic, others while in the China trade and still others in the south Pacific and the Mediterranean.

"The fact is that I have spent only one Christmas day at home since I was married—and I haven't been a bachelor for a good many years. Now we sail from New York very soon and will touch at Gibraltar, Genoa and other ports, and before we reach here again Christmas will have been passed.

"When your ship is running on a voyage to the Mediterranean, with a crowd of jolly passengers aboard who are off on a trip to enjoy themselves, Christmas is a day to be remembered. Friends and relatives send gifts on ahead, so that they may be handed to passengers at the right time, and of course this personal remembrance from home makes more enjoyable the celebration which is always prepared on board the ship itself.

"The 24th of December passes about as do other days until dinner time arrives, and then the chefs and stewards outdo themselves in providing an elaborate menu and in table decorations. If the weather is fine, and it is likely to be, the passengers are in high spirits, for the Christmas feeling is infectious, no matter where you go.

"Toward the end of the dinner speeches are made, songs are rendered, stories are told and toasts are given, and when this is completed all go to the main saloon, and the Christmas tree is revealed, standing there in the middle under the big skylight. It is a big tree, too—just as big as can be obtained and put in place—and on it are hung gifts from the ship for every passenger, not costly at all, but remembrances that are likely to be long preserved as souvenirs of a pleasant occasion.

"Then, if the sea is not high, the candles are lighted, and the tree bursts into beautiful illumination.

"After a distribution of gifts from the tree a concert is given if the weather is bad. But whenever Christmas eve is pleasant and the latitude is suitable the passengers go on deck, which they find to be shielded from the wind by canvas, brilliantly lighted and decorated with flags and bunting. And, I tell you, on a moonlight night, with a calm sea and soft, pleasant air, in the Mediterranean, for example, a Christmas eve ball aboard a great ship is something for most passengers to remember.

"I'm sure I can't imagine anything more charming for those who enjoy dancing. The romance, the poetry of it all, must be delightful to the passengers."—Boston Globe.

Burn This Letter.

One unique suggestion coming to the patent office recently is for a self-burning letter. Though the commissioners tried to keep the process secret, the story soon leaked out, and the suggestion was offered as a defence to the ardent swain who pours forth his soul in endearing and eloquent correspondence which later in the hands of some unsympathetic lawyer increases the damages in a breach of promise suit or in the divorce court helps to swell the alimony and excite popular derision.

Love letters have always played a conspicuous part in the affairs of nations and a still more momentous role in the history of hearts, but they generally possess peculiar features that make them "impossible" in cold type. Of course much depends upon the eyes that read them, but no matter how romantic the reader, if the eloquence is not intended particularly for him or her, the sentiments appear "stilted," "silly" or "disgustingly sentimental;" hence the advantage of the self-burning letter. So far as has been learned, however, the "novel contrivance" is but a sheet to which a certain brand of very flat match is attached for a suggestion.

Miss Braddon's First Effort.

When Miss Braddon, who lately celebrated her seventy-third birthday, was asked some time ago as to her first appearance in print, she replied, "To the best of my recollection, the first thing of mine that ever appeared in print was a song, in the seventeenth-century style, that was published in The Beverley Recorder in May, 1857." This first printed effort of the prolific and popular authoress, which was entitled "Rest," and signed "Mary Seyton," consisted of four verses, and opened thus:—

All joys on darth have we,
All fears on earth we see,
All cares on earth there be,
But never rest.

THE VETERAN'S CHRISTMAS TALE

I NEVER think of Christmas but I think of the one I spent when on detached service down in Virginia in '02. I was a captain then, and, being on special service, I happened to be temporarily attached to the command of General Ooz at Gauley Bridge, Va. I was warmly welcomed as I arrived on Christmas eve and brought some letters to both officers and men, the first many of them had received for nine months. The command was the First Kentucky, and a fine lot of fellows they were. Captain Ralph Hunt invited me to share his tent, and as we sat smoking together after taps he threw me a letter, saying, "Read that."

Dear Ralph—I have sent you a turkey and some fixings and also some new underwear, and I hope the box will reach you in time for Christmas.

"That's enough," he said, for there was a lot more in the letter, and it was signed Susie. "The box is under my bunk, and as you are to leave tomorrow night you are sure of a good dinner anyhow." So we turned in, and Christmas day dawned clear and cold, and when it came time for dinner the captain's orderly had done himself proud by cooking that turkey in fine style.

"The pickets are driven in," said Captain Hunt as he stood in the tent opening with a turkey leg in one hand, and the next moment he was ordered to take his company, make a reconnoissance and report the strength of the enemy.

The country about Gauley bridge was thickly covered with scrubby pine and cedar. Pushing through this until he obtained a position commanding the road by which the Confederates must advance, the captain halted his men. He sent a few men in advance as scouts, and then he and I and a corporal went forward about twenty yards. The scouts, bewhiskered by the underbrush, got into our rear, and as soon as we heard them advancing in our front Hunt advance-guarded it was his scouts returning. "That turkey isn't cold yet, and we'll finish it when we get back."

In place of our scouts the advancing party was the advance guard of Confederates. Hunt recognized the officer in command as Captain Loughborough, and the three of us jumped to cover. But Loughborough, who was in advance of his men, had caught sight of Hunt, and, with a volley of oaths, he cried:

"Come out, you —— Yankee, and be shot!" As he cried this he covered Hunt's hiding place with a long Mis-

I was looking out at the whole thing through the branches of a thick cedar, and the two men were not more than fifty yards apart. The Confederate dropped in his tracks and never moved, and at once a volley was poured into the captain's bush, but not a bullet hit him. Hunt's men, supposing that the three of us must have been killed, beat a retreat and made good their escape, and we were surrounded and captured. At first the Confederates were for wreaking vengeance on Hunt for the death of a favorite officer, but the gallantry he displayed and his perfect coolness while in their power finally won their regard. When asked to give his parole he refused, saying:

"You fellows spoiled my Christmas dinner that I and my friends here had just sat down to, and I propose to get back and finish it if I can. You get no parole from me." I and the corporal gave our parole, but Captain Hunt was mad clear through. He was ironed and, after marching with our guard through several towns of Virginia, we brought up at Richmond and were thrown into Libby. We never heard who ate our Christmas turkey.—J. A. Eczema on Leg for 25 Years

I have been treated by doctors for twenty-five years for a bad case of eczema on my leg. They did their best, but failed to cure it. My own doctor had advised me to have my leg cut off, but I said I would try the Cuticura Remedies first. He said, "try them if you like but I do not think they will do any good." At this time my leg was peeled from the knee down, my foot was like a piece of raw flesh and I had to walk on crutches. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. After the first two treatments the swelling went down and in two months' use of the Cuticura Remedies my leg was cured and the new skin grown on. The doctor could not believe his own eyes when he saw that Cuticura had cured me and said that he would use Cuticura for his own patients. But for the Cuticura Remedies I might have lost my life. I am truly grateful for the wonderful cure that Cuticura wrought. I have many grandchildren and they are frequent users of Cuticura and I always recommend it most highly as a sure and economical cure for skin troubles.

CHRISTMAS CARD'S FATHER.

British Artist Originated This Form of Greeting in 1844.

Some day surely a grateful monument will be erected to the memory of W. A. Dobson, the parent of the Christmas card, for he was a true herald of peace and good will to the world and no small benefactor to commerce, says a writer in Tit-Bits.

In 1844 Mr. Dobson, who later became a famous member of the Royal academy, was a young man earning a modest income as master of the government School of Design at Birmingham. One evening in December instead of writing his usual letter of Christmas good wishes to a friend it occurred to him to substitute a pictorial greeting, and, taking a piece of card about twice as large as a modern postcard, he began to draw on it. In the center of the three panels into which he divided his design he sketched a family group raising glasses to the health of distant friends amid a seasonable environment of holly and mistletoe, while on each side of this festal scene he drew a picture of a deed of charity.

This card Mr. Dobson dispatched to his friend, giving it no further thought. The friend, however, was delighted with his novel and artistic Christmas greeting and showed it everywhere proudly, to the equal admiration of his acquaintances. Everybody begged for a similar card, and in the following December the amiable Mr. Dobson etched another design and this time had it lithographed and sent out copies by the score. In the following year he had several imitators, and the Christmas card was at last launched on the tide of popular favor, although even then if Mr. Dobson had been told that his modest card of 1844 would have 40,000,000 descendants sixty-five years later in Great Britain alone he would probably have thrown up his hands in amazement and incredulity.

The Simplon Pass.

The Simplon Pass was a famous highway of travel long before Napoleon constructed the highroad. Milton came home that way from his grand tour, and so did John Evelyn. The latter traveler went in fear of his life, not only expecting avalanches to fall on him, but being apprehensive lest bears and wolves should issue from the caves in the precipices and assail him. The only actual harm which happened, however, was that his companion's dog killed a goat belonging to one of the peasants and that heavy compensation had to be paid—"a pistole," says the diary, "for the goat and ten more for attempting to ride away."

The Christmas Story.

Oh, the bells, o'er hills and dells, ringing warm from heart to heart;
Every stroke the story tells, every chime proclaims its part,
Flooding low with those-in-doubt,
Sternly chiding those about
To-love-least.

Oh, the bells, like living wells, all welling with the life they bear,
Softly each the story retells, eager for the world to share,
Thrilling hearts that have grown cold,
Flooding with the young and old
Everywhere.

SANE CHRISTMAS NEXT.

Why Should Indiscriminate Gift Giving to Grownups Continue?

Is the movement for a safe and sane fourth of July to be followed by one for an economical Christmas? Do the majority of people feel that the Christmas present has been as much overdone as the firecracker, the toy cannon and the pinwheel?

It must be understood in the outset that the movement to curtail Christmas giving has no relation to the children. The joy of the little ones in their Santa Claus and his bounty is too beautiful a thing to disturb. It is only the presents to the grownups, to every Tom, Dick and Harry with whom one happens to be acquainted, the presents that are a burden and a bore both to giver and recipient, that it is proposed to abandon.

Frequently these are given through a sense of duty and cannot be afforded by the donor. Just as frequently they are not needed by the one on whom they are bestowed. Thus the outlay is not justified. It is a deprivation to one without any corresponding benefit to the other. The recipient in turn feels it a duty to make presents to the giver, presents that perhaps he can as little afford and that his friend as little needs. Thus both have had to make sacrifices for which they have received no equivalent good. It is this sort of giving when we expect a return, this giving through a sense of past or prospective obligation, against which there is widespread revolt. It is not in harmony with the Christmas spirit. It is commercial, onerous and lacking in spontaneity. It makes us dread the return of the holiday when we should welcome it with joy.

Fortunately the habit is dying out. Without any preconcerted movement to that end it is still being dropped by mutual consent. A has reached the point of insurgency where he doesn't give a hang whether B remembers him or not. He will not rack his brain and deplete his pocketbook buying unwelcome things for B, only to cause B in turn to hurt, perhaps grudgingly, equally unwelcome things at his own head. All unknown to A the same insurgency has been working in the heart of B, and the irrational custom falls of its own weight. In consequence the day on which we celebrate the birth of the Son of Man comes to be a bargain counter exchange.

With the children it is different. We give to them for the pure joy of it, without any hope of return. We enter into their joys and partake of the Christmas spirit by sharing it with them. Thus we unconsciously fulfill the command of him in whose honor the day is celebrated and veritably become as little children.

Seamstresses, watch-makers, artists, draughtsmen, and many others, cannot properly handle their tools with cold, stiff hands. Many a lost hour or two on cold winter mornings results from the delayed heat of furnace or stove.

The Perfection Oil Heater in a few minutes gives the temperature that assures the worker warm hands and pliable muscles. The quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. Has automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so the wick can be quickly cleaned.

It has a damper top and a cool handle. Indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap does not need to be screwed down; it is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain, and cannot get lost.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently, it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for rewicking. The Perfection is finished in japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

ENGLAND'S NAVAL ESTIMATES ❁ ONE VIEW OF AMERICAN SAILORS

NAVY OUTLAY FOR BRITAIN IS VAST

Our Naval Correspondent Outlines the Outlook for the New Estimates.

HOT DISPUTE CERTAIN

Some Idea of How the Sums To Be Voted Will Be Spent on Ships and Men.

(Special Dispatch.)

London, Saturday.

ONE of the first things to be dealt with by the Cabinet when it meets after the Christmas holidays will be the navy estimates for the financial year 1911-1912. Also by the Cabinet when it meets after the Christmas holidays will be the navy estimates for the financial year 1911-12.

It is not expected that the new naval programme, when it has been approved by the Cabinet and submitted to the House of Commons, will meet with very much opposition, despite the fact that the sum of money asked for is certain to exceed even the record sum of the present year. Fresh from the electoral struggle, the Commons will be more concerned with such issues as the House of Lords and home rule, and will assuredly be in no mood for a hot dispute over the navy.

It is well to remember that there are many other items of expenditure in the navy estimates than those devoted to shipbuilding and armaments, and that most of these items are automatic; that is to say, they are always affected in an indirect manner by increases or decreases in the number of ships or men.

Therefore, the addition last year of three thousand men to the active list of the fleet will have its influence on the votes for wages, victualling and clothing, medical services and education. It is probable, moreover, that the personnel will be increased in the new financial year by another three thousand men, as it is well known that one of the strong points of Sir Arthur Wilson is to have an adequate supply of men for all purposes.

SO WITH THE RESERVES.

As with the active personnel, so with the reserves. The short service system has been gradually building up the Royal Fleet Reserve, the increased numbers of which will require a larger appropriation. The Royal Naval Reserve can hardly require less money than last year, while the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve has been adding to its numbers continuously throughout the year.

Then there are the non-effective votes for the Admiralty Office, half and retired pay, naval and marine pensions, and the like, which have invariably shown increased estimates for the last five years. A very fair estimate puts at half a million the increased expenditure more than last year upon these less costly items in the navy votes.

Another half million increase will be required for the armaments vote, which provides not only for new guns, torpedoes and ammunition, but also for the maintenance of the ordnance stores, wages of the crews of ordnance vessels and all charges connected with the inspection and proof of material.

But the main interest must, as always, be with the vote for shipbuilding, and it should not be difficult to forecast the approximate expenditure under this head in the new estimates. First of all, a sum of £[illegible],000 is shown in the financial statement of 1910, as still outstanding in connection with the completion of the Neptune and the indefatigable, which will shortly go into commission.

Next there are the eight armored vessels in the programme of 1909, whose completion for sea will absorb something more than four and a half million pounds sterling. Another half million will be necessary to proceed with the construction of the projected cruisers in hand, and about £2,[illegible],000 more must be delegated to torpedo craft of past programmes. Floating docks and other sundries will take nearly half a million, also, so that the total amount which must be set apart for ships already very advanced cannot be less than £8,[illegible],000.

The 1910 programme, which has recently been or is now about to be put in hand, will make an exceptionally heavy demand upon the vote, owing to the very small sum allotted to each vessel last year. The Dreadnought and Devonport armored ships, so yet unnamed, will require about £[illegible],000 each, and the three cottrac ships at least £[illegible],000 each.

A VAST OUTLAY.

Add to this a million for protected cruisers and the whole programme, with its torpedo craft, will call for little short of [illegible].

There remains to be considered the programme of next year, for which the estimates now being framed will contain the first instalment. It is mentioned that the minimum of our requirements is five battle ships and battle cruisers, and if two of this number were begun in July next, two more in the autumn and the last early in 1912 the first instalment for them would be £[illegible],000. The sums set apart for cruisers and destroyers during their short term have varied somewhat, but each has taken a quarter of a million and half a million respectively with the set apart for these to be begun in 1911, while new submarines will take about £[illegible]. Altogether the beginning of new vessels will probably absorb £[illegible] more, which will bring the total of the shipbuilding vote would be £[illegible], as compared with £[illegible],000 last year.

From this calculation it seems likely that the new estimates will reach a total of £[illegible], or two and a half millions over and above those for the current year. There is the possibility, however, that Admiralty estimates may be introduced in January or February, as was done in 1909, when the Dreadnought was the special feature, but this is highly improbable, if not impossible, as the [illegible] with the navy estimates.

To the Eye of One Briton the American Sailor Is Sad Faced and Kid Gloved

"THE CONVENTIONAL CARICATURES OF UNCLE SAM." AMERICAN SAILORS MARCHING TO THE GUILDHALL, LONDON.

Mr. James Douglas, "Journalist and Critic," Causes a Smile in London by His Analysis of the Visiting Sailors—Like the "Conventional Caricature of Uncle Sam," He Says.

(Special Dispatch.)

London, Saturday.

IT remained for Mr. James Douglas, who is described in London's "Who's Who" as "journalist and critic" and whose diversions are given as "poetry and golf," to make American: forget London's fog and rain this week and indulge in hearty laughter.

In a critique headed "Thin, Sad Sailors," analysing the differences between American and English bluejackets, Mr. Douglas says:—"As a rule, the Englishman is fat and the American is thin: one race runs to beef and the other to bone."

He declares, too, that the American sailors whom he has "seen so often lately in the streets of London are all curiously like the conventional caricature of Uncle Sam."

If you have tears, shed them now, for Mr. Douglas charges that the American sailor is sad faced and lantern jawed, lacking the joviality and jollity of his English cousin. Your American seaman, he says, seldom smiles, and he has a full share of that strange American melancholy which puzzles and mystifies all observers.

Profoundly sympathetic, he continues, "America is a young nation, as nations reckon youth, and yet the Americans are as a rule a profoundly sorrowful race. The American sailors struck me as being peculiarly lugubrious; they assuredly walked about our streets with gloomy faces and weary eyes."

Now, hearken to his story of his quest for a plump bluejacket.

"I looked in vain for a fat American sailor; they were all meagre. Their clothes seemed to hang loosely on their bones. One expects a sailor to fill out his clothes, to bulge beefily," and these American sailors were such violent departures from this conventional preconception that Mr. Douglas says he could not help smiling inwardly, admitting that he was too polite to do this outwardly. Then our critic goes on to say that doubtless the American finds "the jolly, fat English sailor" as comic as he found "the silent, thin American sailor," coyly confessing that when he first came to London he laughed at the fat bobbies, but now takes them seriously. Would it be impolite to wonder why?

But now comes the cruelest cut in the indictment. Says Mr. Douglas:—

"The American sailor's hands are smaller and they don't swing so jovially, and I am almost afraid to disclose the dreadful fact that the American sailors wear kid gloves!

"There is no earthly reason why a British sailor should not wear kid gloves. I do not know whether the Admiralty would permit the wearing of kid gloves, but the fact is that, so far as I know, since the days of Nelson no British sailor has ever worn kid gloves. Probably if some rash and innovating sailor were to strut about in kid gloves the Admiralty would veto them. The only gloves I have ever seen on a British sailor's hands were boxing gloves."

In concluding the lugubrious contribution to the Morning Leader the critic, whose amusements are "poetry and golf," say no discourtesy is intended. That if fat British sailors were seen in Broadway "Americans, no doubt, would smile at them." But he neglects to add, "And with them."

Mr. Douglas admits in the end, however, that the "sad, thin ones" might give as good an account of themselves in battle as "the jolly fat 'uns." For, tell it not in Gath, "It is possible," he charges, "that the British sailor is overfed."

'SALOME' FAILS TO DISTURB LONDON

Dance of the Veils, with the Censor's Work Well Done, Is as "Proper as a Minuet."

(Special Dispatch.)

London, Saturday.

AFTER being barred from England for many years by the Lord Chamberlain, "Salome," has at last been given here. It was produced by Mr. Thomas Beecham at Covent Garden without shocking anybody. The general opinion here is that Richard Strauss' music in "Salome" is not as weird, wicked or weerlesome as it is in "Electra."

It is easy to see that the music cranks are all disappointed. They expected a cyclone and got a thunderstorm. The huge theatre was packed to the bursting point, notwithstanding the fact that the prices had been doubled. A long line waited patiently in the cold rain all day to get seats. Probably they all caught colds. Personally I doubt if "Salome" is worth having a sneezing fit, much less a cold.

It was beautifully sung, with Mme. Aino Ackté in the title rôle. She was sensuous, serpentine and seductive, but her dance of the veils was as proper as a minuet. Mr. Beecham's orchestra, under his own direction, was superb.

The censor has permitted the production of the opera on the condition that Oscar Wilde's decadent play, on which it is based, should contain no Biblical allusion or quotation, that the head of John the Baptist should not be brought on the stage and that the veil dance should be fit for publication. This was all complied with so effectively that the author would hardly have recognized his own work.

Just how to do this was not finally arranged until the dress rehearsal. Then there was nearly a row. As the head couldn't be brought on, Mme. Ackté came on holding aloft a sword covered with what looked like blood, but was really red grease paint. When she lowered the sword she found that her hands were stained with the red paint.

"Oh, look! I cannot have this. It will never do," she violently protested. The producer argued and there was heated talk, but the prima donna had her way, and so at the performance she came on holding an empty charger. To this pewter platter she raved and made love. Nothing revolting about that, but it savored more of comedy than tragedy.

Herr Ernst Kraus made a good Herod, but unfortunately his mustache came off and gave him the appearance of a Western Senator. The scenery and costumes were magnificent. The opera will be given several times, and Mr. Beecham deserves a great deal of credit for his enterprise. He it was who produced "Electra" here.

SPOOKS ARE EASIER SEEN IN AMERICA

Vice Admiral of England, Who Also Is a Spiritualist, Has Talked with Cleopatra.

(Special Dispatch.)

London, Saturday.

VICE ADMIRAL W. OSBORNE MOORE is a spiritualist who speaks with a quiet conviction of the reality of the strange things he has seen. That was how he impressed a London audience, fashionable and attentive, the other evening, when he told how he had gazed in turn upon the forms of Cleopatra and Sir Isaac Newton and spoken with them.

He has been a spiritualist for some years and has held séances in both America and England, but he said, "It is in America that the best results are obtained, because the atmosphere is more pronouncedly electric there than in England.

"It was in America that I saw the forms of Cleopatra and Hypathia and the voice of Sir Isaac Newton spoke. Of course, they may have been personations," he naively added, "but in absence of evidence to the contrary I believe in what I saw and heard."

The Admiral also had the remarkable experience of attending a séance where two separate voices spoke, one in each ear, and a third addressed him from the front, the medium also speaking at the same time. Occasionally the spirit voices would cease talking to him to argue with one another.

RISE TO THE LEVEL OF DOGS, SAYS SHE

London Woman Resents the Idea of an American Pastor on Affection for Pets.

(Special Dispatch.)

London, Saturday.

AN American pastor, the Rev. Dr. Christian F. Reisner, has caused a bit of a flutter in London society, particularly among those women who own pet dogs, by his denunciation of the affection which they lavished on them.

"A woman who lavishes her whole affection upon a dog sinks to the level of an animal," he said, when he visited the Pet Dog Show in the Horticultural Hall, and, startling though the statement was, it was agreed to by some of those to whom it was addressed, at the same time adding that the fascination of the dog was so great that they could not resist it.

Then the debate grew hot. Some women denied that they sank to the level of the dog. On the contrary, they argued, "they rise to."

"What human being could give the complete faith and trust that a dog can? They will never deceive you. No man could be as true and devoted as a dog. Such gifts as a dog possesses are on a higher level than those of mankind."

The pet dog which is conquering all hearts just now appears to be the Schipperke. As one owner said:—

"He has no tail with which to wag himself into popularity, and his victory is one of sheer personality."

Dr. F. C. Kelley Catholic Extension Society Head

Dr. A. E. Burke Is Appointed by the Pope to Similar Position in the Church Organization in Canada.

THE REV. E. D. KELLY IS DETROIT'S NEW BISHOP

(Special Dispatch.)

ROME, Saturday.—The Rev. J. T. Roche, LL. D., one of the best known writers among the clergy of America, has been in Rome for the last fortnight studying conditions in the Eternal City. He has been received in private audience by the Pope, who gave him his special blessing on his work, and by Cardinal Merry del Val, papal Secretary of State. Dr. Roche is making a tour of observation around the world.

Pope Pius this week appointed the Rev. F. C. Kelley, LL. D., and the Rev. A. E. Burke, LL. D., to be presidents respectively of the Catholic Church Extension Society in the United States and in Canada. They are the first papal nominees for this office, as it is only a few months since the society was taken under direct control by the Holy See, which appointed a cardinal protector in the person of Cardinal Martinelli.

There was a question as to the reappointment of two presidents as the new statute prescribes that a president of the society cannot be re-elected after serving five years, but the Holy Father, in view of the success and activity of Dr. Kelley during the last five years, decided that it would be a pity to deprive the society of his direction.

The next number of the Acta Apostolicae Sedis will contain the appointment of the Rev. Edward D. Kelly, pastor of Ann Arbor, Mich., to be Auxiliary Bishop of the diocese of Detroit.

The Pope this week received in private audience Mr. Benjamin J. Rosenthal and family, of Chicago.

Mgr. Bourne, archbishop of Westminster, is making a prolonged stay in Rome. He will not return to England until some time in January unless called thither by important business. After a long and very cordial audience with Pope Pius X. he says that the Pope is in as good health as at any time in the last five years.

China Moves Toward Parliament; Old Official System Swept Aside

New National Assembly Becomes Powerful Weapon in Fight for Reform.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

PEKIN, Nov. 25, 1910.

CHINA is keeping pace with the rest of the world in this aviation age, but here it is events, not men, that have been moving on wings and at bird speed. Not all events, not often the expected; but some, and these of highest importance in their bearing upon national affairs, particularly upon the greatest of national affairs—reform.

For this condition the Tzu-cheng Yuan, the new National Assembly, is responsible. Scarcely had this body gone through the formality of organization before it began to prove itself a mighty influence. The altogether unexpected control of this assembly by the men sent in from the provinces as representatives of the people, the fearlessness these men have shown in criticising the government, the virility of the body as a legislative entity—these things have brought the old official System face to face with the realization that for it a representative government is a Frankenstein.

If the constitutional movement is not altogether a creature of the System's creation, the System has passively permitted its growth; and now that what seemed to old officials a plaything to amuse the people has assumed the form of a real power the System would like to crush it out of existence.

ASSEMBLY GAINS STRENGTH.

But it is already too strong, its feet are too deeply implanted to permit its being thrown down or shoved aside. Representative government is here to stay. And unless all signs fail one reason for its present strength is that a power above the heads of the System sees in it not only value to the country but a special and, in a sense, a more personal value.

That power is the Throne.

However much the Throne may be concerned in the welfare of the country, its primary concern is the preservation of the Manchu dynasty. From its viewpoint the two things go hand in hand; but even if they did not, the preservation of the dynasty would come first.

When the late Dowager Empress, the shrewdest politician of her day in China, promulgated the constitutional programme this was the special end in view, and the Prince Regent's action in favoring the movement appeal to the hearts of the people would seem to indicate that he too grasps the higher political possibilities of the situation and the opportunity it presents to the reigning dynasty to strengthen itself with the people.

FIGHT AGAINST OFFICIALDOM.

The fight of the people for representative government is at its heart a fight upon the old official system. This system has been for centuries—not under the present dynasty alone, but for much longer than the period represented by Manchu occupation of the Dragon Throne—an effective barrier between the people and the Throne. Only of recent years have the people understood this, perhaps only a small proportion realise it now, but the Prince Regent knows this and understands that the representative movement, even if its culmination should curtail many of the present prerogatives of the Throne, can be utilised to strengthen the hold of the dynasty on the people, and thus save the dynasty.

It is good politics. The Regent has so far played his end of the game well. From the first meeting of the Tzu-cheng Yuan it has been his policy to take full advantage of this body, submitting to its consideration all questions growing out of clashes between the provincial assemblies and the provincial officials, and in each case acting in accordance with the expressed views of the representatives of the people.

This has not pleased the System. Heretofore the Throne has followed its advice alone, and it has usually stood by the provincial officials, who constitute the System's hold upon the provinces. One result of the Regent's tactics has been that the fight of the people has been cleverly diverted from the Throne to the System, which now finds itself somewhere between the devil and the deep sea.

The case with which the Tzu-cheng Yuan has gained its present supremacy is due to the fact that the System was who, by suppressed for the strength, the viper and the unity of purpose manifested by that body, particularly in forcing upon the Throne the issue of early opening of Parliament. The System did not expect to hear much of this question. It had, its opponents thought, been effectually "snuffed."

The young men who had conducted the agitation outside the Assembly had been taken through doors, and officialdom felt confident in its ability to keep the question from consideration by that body. [illegible] was based on the assumption that the Tzu-cheng Yuan would be [illegible] been so carefully packed with government representatives that it would do nothing more than supinely follow the government's lead.

The truth is, a very large proportion of these not only refused to oppose, but joined actively in the agitation, so that when the final vote was taken there was absolutely no semblance of a minority to give the system an excuse for opposition. The defeat was full and complete—and humiliating.

I have witnessed no more inspiring scene than the Tzu-cheng Yuan debate over early opening, and the magnificent display of enthusiasm which greeted the unanimous adoption of the resolution providing for a memorial to the Throne. The Chinese are excellent speakers; their language lends itself to flights of oratory. There was, however, no wasting of time over any nothing oratory that day.

The tension was high, but the proceedings were in perfect order. One leader after another set forth in a short but forceful speech his reasons for advocating early opening. The two or three hundred Chinese who around me in the galleries hung upon every word had great difficulty in restraining themselves. These were the young men who have been the leaders in the agitation, and the fate of the resolution meant much to them; they well understood, however, that any demonstration on their part might lead to trouble, not only for themselves, but perhaps for the whole movement.

But when on the rising vote it was seen that not a single member opposed the resolution the applause that burst forth from the floor found a ringing echo from the galleries. Again and again the members of the Assembly jumped to their feet in unison and gave cheer upon cheer. Ordinarily the Chinese are not a demonstrative people, but there was nothing perfunctory about this demonstration.

Cheer after cheer—and all for China!

The vote taken that day was epoch-marking, but the unity of action which brought it about and the enthusiasm ringing through these cheers were of even greater significance.

I have written of this as marking a new nationalism in China. I call it "new" because if it has existed heretofore nobody seemed to realize the fact. Not foreigners alone, but the Chinese themselves, have thought that differences in provincial interests would prevent any great unity of action in the Tzu-Cheng Yuan would be practically impossible. The system had counted much confidence upon this assumed incapacity for co-operation playing into its hands.

PEER'S BRAVE DEED INSPIRES A POEM

Lord George Wellesley's Rescue of a Girl from Death and Its Effect on Election.

(Special Dispatch.)

London, Saturday.

IN reply to the attacks of radical orators upon the courage and capacity of the peers of England Lord Rosebery, in Manchester a few days ago, dwelt upon Lord George Wellesley's brave rescue of a girl from the Thames, near Putney Bridge, a few weeks ago.

Inspired by the Earl's eloquent description of the young nobleman's deed, Mr. Alfred Percival Graves, author of "Father O'Flynn" and other popular songs, pens these affecting lines:—

Fleeting past, in the blast,
The folk as they go
Turn not to view her,
Turn not, nor know
That the river unto her
Calls from below.

Is it a prayer
That her deed of despair
May yet be forgiven
That is lifting her eyes
In such awful surmise
Unto heaven
Ere she springs with a cry
To the parapet high,
Wild eyed and wan,
Sways on the edge,
Then over the ledge
Is gone?

The people have heard,
The people are stirred
For their daughter at last.
Women shriek, "Save her!"
Men only waver
Aghast!
Till a stalwart youth shoulders
Aside the beholders
And off the bridge side,
At the height of a steeple,
For that child of the people
Plunges into the tide.

His strokes divide
The angry tide,
While hopes and fears
The watchers thrill,
Resolutely still
He perseveres,
Until at length,
With his manly strength
Winning the strife,
He lifts from a grave
In the ghastly wave
A sister's life.

Anti-unionist orators, while conceding that the young lord is entitled to the highest praise for gallantry, say that one swallow does not make a summer, and that a brave action by one who bears the name of Wellesley, which in England is synonymous with courage, is by no means convincing proof that other workers of wonders would venture their lives to save [illegible] child of the people."

Woman's Figure Safe, He Says, Despite Rage for Athletics

Mr. John Gray, of London, Sees No Reason for Any Alarm Because of the Belief Recently Expressed by Mr. John Alexander.

(Special Dispatch.)

London, Saturday.

Mr. John Gray, secretary of the Anthropometrical Committee of the British Association, does not see any reason for the scare caused by Mr. John Alexander, the American portrait painter, by his statement that unless the American woman radically changes her habits, in a few years she will be indistinguishable as regards her figure from a man.

Mr. Gray says the Englishwoman's fondness for athletics, despite the slight change it produces in her physique, is not bringing about any permanent deterioration in the beauty of the feminine form, and therefore there is just as little fear of any such change in the American woman.

"Although," he says, "the present fashion of women indulging in athletics has influenced the modern woman's figure, broadening the shoulders and waist perhaps and enlarging her hands and feet, such changes are almost as temporary as the fashions which cause them. An athletic woman may carry the physical signs of her muscular prowess to the end of her life, but the physique and form of her children will not be influenced in the least.

"The son of the brawny armed blacksmith, as is well known, does not inherit the huge muscles of his father. In the same way the daughter of a broad, flat shouldered and, heavy handed athletic woman of to-day will revert to the small hands and the narrow bottle shoulders of the young woman of the early Victorian period if she is brought up on early Victorian lines."

MR. WHITNEY BUYS THEATRE IN LONDON

(Special Dispatch.)

London, Saturday.

Mr. Fred C Whitney bought a theatre in London last night.

The theatre in now known as the Strand, but in future it will be called the Whitney. It is the newest theatre in London and one of the handsomest. It was originally called the Waldorf. It adjoins the Waldorf Hotel, facing the famous Gaiety Theatre.

Mr. Whitney will own the theatre absolutely and has a ground lease for ninety-two years, with the privilege of a renewal for ninety-nine years. He says he hopes to renew it. Mr. Whitney takes possession in the middle of March, and will produce musical plays exclusively. The opening production is likely to be "Baron Trenck," a new opera he has just bought in Vienna, "The Circus."

BAD, BAD WORD IN THE CHURCH BOOK

(Special Dispatch.)

London, Saturday.

WHO wrote the word "damn" in the preacher's book in the church vestry? This question is stirring the old Sussex village of Wisborough Green to its very centre, and as one result the village church is cheerless. Mr. J. A. P. Wyat, M. P., one of the church wardens, last Sunday opened the book opposite the latest signature of the vicar, the Rev. Mr. Malprice, when he was shocked to see the naughty word staring him in the face in printed letters an inch high.

He called the vicar in and that good man was aghast. They decided to submit the matter to the church wardens, and these jumped to the conclusion that one of the choir boys had written the naughty word.

The trembling children were questioned collectively and individually, but each of them denied that he had written a word.

The church wardens, wrought up to a high pitch by the refusal of the urchins to confess, dismissed the whole choir and forbade them the church until the writer of "damn" owned to his misdeed.

UNDER THE HOLLY BOUGH.

By WAYNE HENRY.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

YE who have loved each other.
Sister and friend and brother,
In this fast fading year,
Mother and sire and child,
Young man and maiden mild,
Come gather here
And let your hearts grow fonder
As memory shall ponder
Each past unbroken vow.

Old loves and younger wooing
Are sweet in the renewing
Under the holly bough.

YE who have nourished sadness,
Estranged from hope and gladness,
In this fast fading year—
Ye with o'erburdened mind,
Made aliens from your kind,
Come gather here,

Let not the useless sorrow
Pursue you night and morrow.
If e'er you hoped, hope now,
Take heart, uncloud your faces
And join in our embraces
Under the holly bough.

OUR CLIMATE.

It Is Recommended by Cooks For Tired Britons Who Want Sunshine.

Canada, our contemporary published in England, remarks very poignantly on the advantages of Canada as a winter resort for Englishmen needing a rest cure:

"Winter Sunshine" is the appropriate title of a pamphlet issued by Messrs. Thomas Cook and Sons, the world-famous tourist agents. It contains particulars of the facilities for fleeing from the rigors of a British winter offered by the firm in the shape of visits to "countries which provide sunshine in varying degrees." One section is devoted to winter sport in Switzerland, with its "dazzling splendor of sunshine and snow." But why is not Canada also given a place among the countries where "winter sunshine" is to be found? There is sunshine in Canada in winter, and winter sports can be indulged in in an inspiring and bracing atmosphere not to be rivalled even among the Alps themselves. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who regards the Canadian winter as "the glory of Canada," may be again cited for the benedit of Britons in search of "winter sunshine," and those catering for their wants:—

"I do not know anything so beautiful as a beautiful winter day such as we have in Ottawa, in Montreal, or in Quebec, where the rays of the sun glisten upon the white carpet which extends as far as the eye can go towards the horizon. There is nothing quite so beautiful, unless it be a winter night, when the bluest of all skies is studded with millions of gems never seen to such advantage in any other country."

In another column a Port Arthur correspondent once more takes up the cudgels in defence of Canada's climate, and enters a protest against the persistent appellation of "Our Lady of the Snows." It was not without good ground that the title preferred for the collected impressions of Canada of the representatives of the International Council of Women, edited by the Countess of Aberdeen was "Our Lady of the Sunshine."

"SLEEPLESSNESS."

Thousands of people all over this land toss night after night on a sleepless pillow. The eyes do not close in the refreshing slumber that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right.

Some are troubled with weak and smothering spells; others palpitation of the heart; others have their nerves unhinged; but whatever the cause—it comes entirely from a derangement of either the heart or nerves, or both. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills offer the blessing of sound, refreshing slumber. They do this by their invigorating effect on the heart and nerves and will tone up the whole system to perfect condition.

Mr. H. Jewel, Keswick, Ont., writes: "I am glad to have the pleasure of telling you what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did for me. I would have weak spells, seemed to lose my breath, and would have to get up in the night as I could not sleep. I tried many medicines but found nothing good until I used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I took three boxes and it is three years ago since I did so, and I haven't been troubled since."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Wily Politician.

It is to be feared that politicians are insincere and artful persons. Not long since, a newspaperman was talking with a political worker who had spent some years campaigning in pretty close relations with several public men in Canada, and remarked upon the singular gift possessed by Sir John Macdonald for remembering the names and faces of even humble persons whom he had not met for years. The politician smiled.

"And you will notice," the reporter continued, "that Sir Wilfrid Laurier possesses the same gift. I have heard several striking instances of it."

"Yes," said the politician. "And Sir Charles Tupper had it, and so has Mr. Borden."

"It would seem, then," said the reporter, "that the possession of this gift raises a man to leadership."

"No. The gift comes to the leader. In other words, it is largely a matter of good management. A successful man does not have to do his own remembering. He can get it done for him. A sharp secretary or campaign manager can find out a good many things and speak a few useful words to his chief at the right moment. For instance, the prompter who knows will tell his chief that some time during the afternoon he is likely to be introduced to Mr. Horatio Smith, who often tells the story of how he once drove the great man out to a meeting at a certain place. Sure enough Horatio meets the leader. The leader looks at him intently. 'It seems to me we have met before. Let me see. Yes—it was in the election of '90. You drove me out from the railway to a meeting at Bileville.' Does Horatio remember it? Well, rather. He is tickled to death—and the story will be told by his grandchildren."

Loves His Alma Mater.

Besides several professors of note, Queen's University has a negro named Alfie. Alfie's position in the calendar is mentioned as assistant janitor, or caretaker, or something of that nature, but his real business is to root for Queen's athletic teams. Win or lose, Alfie is always on the sidelines, shouting "Come on Queen's" in his peculiar hoarse and husky whisper so well known to all students of that university and to the players on all opposing teams.

It was rumored last fall that Alfie was to leave, and the student body was full of sorrow.

At the end of a Rugby match with McGill one of the players thought he would know the worst, and said: "I hear you are going away, Alfie."

"No," replied that individual in his usual harsh notes, "I wouldn't leave my Alma Mater."

Not a Royalty.

Mr. Melton Prior, the war correspondent and artist, who saw about twenty-four campaigns and revolutions, died in London, England, on Nov. 2. He accompanied King George V., then the Duke of York, on his tour of Canada in 1901. During the royal progress through the West, Mr. Prior was very much interested in the scenes in that vast country. At one of the Western towns a prolonged stop was made during the night, and a large crowd came to the station to catch a glimpse of the duke. It was dark and wet, and as Mr. Prior leaned from the window the crowd made a rush to see who the distinguished Britisher might be.

"No," said the artist, waving them genially away. "I'm not the duke, and I'm not the duchess, and I can't even make a speech."

A Bright Outlook.

The bright lights of the postoffice and Layman's grocery on the south of the track are being rivalled by the Boys' Club and Laughton's grocery on the north of the track. If Niagara power were only as "free as air," as Billy Maclean once told the farmers at the Guelph Winter Fair that it should be, we could have quite a bright little town.—Parkhill Gazette.

He Wanted Figs.

At a small stag dinner the only young and unnoteworthy person present sat throughout the meal communing with his own bashful soul, afraid lest by speaking he betray his sophistication. Dessert being served, he felt he must have some of the candied fruit at the other end of the table. Clearing his voice, he fixed the nearest waiter with a glittering eye and, amid a sudden total silence, peremptorily called out at the top of his voice, "Figs, damn it!"—Bluebook.

CHRISTMAS is indeed the holiday of humanity and by that token no less interesting than humanity itself. The rich current of its observance has to carry all the bequests of other ages—their ideals, their hopes, their recollections, the beliefs that had won the right to live, the gracious, joyous customs which had won the same right by helping or heartening men, as well as all that our age can contribute to it from the material, artistic and spiritual side. The modern feeling has made a place, as the feeling of each age is sure to do, for the mood of carnival as well as the mood of faith. It can weave into the fabric of the holiday time the little spectacles of fireside felicity, the affectionate pledges of friends, the cheer of the loaded family board or banquet table, the taper lights and organ music of cathedrals, the offerings of music and the drama and all the noble product of the artist and the artisan. In a sense Christendom takes inventory of itself at this time in each of its thousand activities.

One of the benefactions of the holiday is that it gives men the chance to do this and puts them in the mood to do it. It is the last and greatest "truce of God." The pause it imposes is not so much on war's alarm, although the din of conflict grows ever feebler the while the message of "good will unto men" deepens into deed and custom, as it is on the absorptions and distractions of an age so wrapped up in its pursuits that it hardly has time to look about it. At Christmastide men do look about them. That its atmosphere could make a bad man out of a good one or a generous man out of a selfish one is one of the paradoxes whereof perhaps we must look to the genial fiction of Dickens for complete verification. But it does make men kinder, more thoughtful, more serene, than their wont.

You'll Find These in the Shops.

Christmas shoppers are fortunate this year in the number of novelties offered in the shops. There are sets of hat stands that come incased in leather and make useful presents for a man or a woman. Of more doubtful practicality is a new shoehorn with a handle thirty inches in length. It must appeal to the stout woman and maybe to the lazy.

For the woman who travels in out of the way places there is a compact leather case inclosing an alcohol flat-iron. While it costs more than an electric iron, it will be found valuable for summer travel, especially when going to the wilds where electricity is not known.

What to do with hatpins is always a question. The small bottles with crocheted cover and ribbon hangers that some women have given their friends are pronounced worse than useless. Doubtless it was a woman who invented the substantial leather tumbler shaped holders which are heavy enough to keep from tipping over and high enough to hold the pins.

A useful thing is a matchbox with a phosphorescent top that can be seen in the dark. Some curious pencil holders may have their admirers. A heavy glass stand has set into it a post of spiral wire on the end of which is a short chain to which a lead pencil is attached.

Children at Christmas Time.

We watched the trooping children play
About the old house, once so gray
And still. Then darkness fell,
And one by one they said farewell.
The music and the laughter stopped,
The play was done, the curtain dropped.
The waning lamp of mirth burned low
With each last cry across the snow,
And we, old friend, were left alone.

What was it lost that we had known?
Old friend and true, most even we Find nevermore what used to be?
Man lives by change; through ebb and flow
The new lives come, the old lives go.
We lose and gain, yet year by year
The aging heart grows more austere.
It may be that the strain and stress
Of our mad times tempt joylessness;
It may be that our feverish days
Forget the old more genial ways;
It may be, too, the ashes of Dead hopes and dreams have smothered love!
But plain it stands, no more we hold
Earth's fond good fellowship of old.

Yet thanks to one small spark, old friend,
As down the dusk of things we trend,
Age shall not strip our very heart
Of all its old congenial art.
Aye, thanks to each small voice and light
That lent its youth to us tonight,
And thanks to that strange fugitive
Enduring love by which we live,
Through childlike eyes and childlike ear
We yet shall hold our youth intact!
And thanks to one still jovial day
We still, old friend, shall make our way
By thought and memory through the snow
To youth and that lost long ago
Where laughter, holding both his sides,
Made all our days seem Christmastides!
—Arthur Stringer.

"You are lucky at cards, aren't you?"

"Well, that depends on how you look at it. I met my wife at a bridge party."—Buffalo Express.

SETTLED OUT OF COURT.

Racing For the Honest Lawyer In a Town in Denmark.

In telling of his boyhood home in Denmark, "The Old Town," Jacob A. Riis says that he does not remember that there were at any time more than two lawyers in the place. One was good, the other bad—not a bad lawyer perhaps, but reputed to be tricky, whereas the other was known to be honor itself.

It is therefore perhaps the best character I can give my people when I record the fact, writes Mr. Riis, that when two farmers quarreled, each sure that he was right, they made haste to hitch up to get first to the honest lawyer, and usually that was the end of the quarrel, for the last in the race was willing to make peace.

They used to tell of two well to do neighbors who had fallen out over a line fence and started simultaneously for town. Both had good teams, and they were well matched in the race.

For half an hour they drove silently alongside, each on his own side of the road, grimly urging on their horses, but neither gaining a length. At last as the lights of the town came into sight, for it was evening, a trace broke on one of the rigs, and the horses stopped. The other team whirled away in a cloud of dust.

"Hans," the beaten one called after him, and he halted and looked back, "are you going after Lawyer ——?" naming the square one.

"I am that!" came back.

"Then let's go back. I'm beat." And back home they went and made it up.

A MERCENARY MARRIAGE.

Romance of Lady March and the Second Duke of Richmond.

One of the mercenary marriages which turned out happily was that of the second Duke of Richmond. He was married to Lady Sarah Cadogan as part of an agreement that her father's gambling debts should be canceled, Lord March (as he then was) being eighteen and the bride thirteen. Immediately after the wedding Lord March's tutor took him off to the continent for the grand tour, and Lady Sarah went back to her nursery. This is the sequel as told by Lady Russell in "The Rose Goddess:"

"Three years elapsed. Lord March returned from his travels, but, having such an uninteresting recollection of his bride, was in no hurry to claim her and went the first evening of his return to London to the opera. There he noticed that all eyes—and lorgnettes—were directed to one box, where, surrounded by several persons, sat a most beautiful young creature. Turning to a man beside him, he asked who she was. 'You must be a stranger in London,' was the answer, 'not to know the reigning toast of the town, the beautiful Lady March!' Lord March lost no time in going to the box and introducing himself to his bride, with whom he ever after lived so affectionately that their devotion to one another became proverbial."

You Can See How It Heals

No Question or Doubt as to the healing power of

Dr. Chase's Ointment

To people who have used internal treatment in an effort to cure eczema it is almost beyond belief what benefit can be obtained by a few applications of this soothing, healing ointment.

It is seldom that the cause of eczema can be determined, but one thing is certain, the itching must be stoped and the sores healed up.

These results are secured by the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment. The itching is relieved almost instantly, and you will be surprised at the healing which will take place overnight.

A little patience and persistent treatment with Dr. Chase's Ointment will give you more practical and definite results than a whole lot of dosing with internal medicines. You can see how the Ointment heals. The other is guesswork.

Mr. Geo. Peterson, South Bay, Ont., writes: "I wish to communicate to you the great benefit I received from using Dr. W. Chase's Ointment. For years I suffered with a great skin disease on my head, a sort of eczema. I tried four doctors, giving each a fair trial; but got no better. In fact, the disease spread to my left arm.

"I saw Dr. Chase's Ointment advertised and began using it. Persistent use of this treatment has entirely cured me, and I give you a statement of my case with pleasure, as I hope thereby to induce some other sufferer to try the same Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Because this ointment has made its world-wide reputation by curing the most severe and long-standing cases of eczema and piles is no reason why you should overlook its scores of uses in the relief of itching and irritation of the skin.

ASHTON KIRK, INVESTIGATOR

Ashton-Kirk, smoothly, "who provided me with some very clearly cut facts which were of considerable service."

The little General Passenger Agent looked pleased and smoothed his beautiful whiskers, softly.

"I was most happy," said he.

"Just now," said Ashton-Kirk, "I am engaged in a matter of some consequence, and once more you can be of assistance to me."

"Sit down," invited the other, readily. "Sit down, and command me."

Both Pendleton and the investigator sat down. The latter said to the passenger agent:

"I understand that every railroad has a system by which it can tell which conductor has punched a ticket."

"Oh, yes, very simple one. You see the hole left by each punch is different. One will cut a perfectly round hole, another will be square, still another will be triangle, and so on, indefinitely.

From his card case, Ashton-Kirk produced the small blue particle which he had found upon the desk of the murdered man.

"Here is a fragment cut from a ticket," he said. "It is shaped like a keystone. I should like to know, if you can tell me, what train is taken out by the conductor who uses the keystone punch."

The agent touched a signal and picked up the end of a tube.

"The head ticket counter," said he. "At once." Then he laid down the tube and continued to his visitors. "He is the man who can supply that sort of information instantly."

The ticket counter was a heavy-set young man, in spectacles and with his hair much rumpled. He peered curiously at the strangers.

"Does any conductor on our lines use a punch which cuts out a keystone?" inquired the General Passenger Agent.

"Yes, Purvis," replied the heavy young man. "Runs the Hammondsville local."

"I am obliged to you both," said Ashton-Kirk. "This little hint may be immensely valuable to me. And now," to the agent, "if I could have a moment with Conductor Purvis, I would be more grateful to you than ever."

"His train is out in the shed now" said the ticket counter, looking at his watch. "Leaves in eight minutes."

"I'm sorry that I can't have him up here for you," said the passenger agent. "Just now that is impossible. But," inquiringly, "couldn't you speak to him down on the platform?"

"Of course," replied Ashton-Kirk.

He and Pendleton arose; the little man with the large white whiskers was thanked once more as was the heavy young man with the rumpled hair.

"You'll find the Hammondville train at Gate E.' the latter informed them.

Then the two shot down to the platform level and made their way toward Gate E.

TEA IS DEAR

Market is Higher This Week Than it Has Been For Fifteen Years

The tea market is higher this week in London than it has been for fifteen years. The London "Grocers' Gazette" says of Ceylon tea:

"Tea was again dearer all along the line this week. Offerings continued to be on an almost absurdly small scale, and the 12,033 chests printed for this week was, of course, a mere drop in the ocean, compared with the requirements of the trade."

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

A RATHER suggestive story of one woman's Thanksgiving dinner came to me today.

The woman in question is a seamstress. She does plain sewing and that delightful conglomeration of renovating and fixing over known as "odd jobs."

She also has a wee income from some stocks and, therefore, makes quite a decent living. For some reason the quarterly check, which should have reached her some time before Thanksgiving, was delayed this year. Two days before Thanksgiving, after waiting as long as she dared for the check, she was writing a letter to a brother in a distant city, asking him to lend her a few dollars, when a customer came in with an "odd job" she wanted done. It was an old waist to be made over and it was to be done at half-past seven the night before the holiday.

When the customer had gone, the little seamstress reckoned thusly: "I have money enough to last me until Thanksgiving. My check will come directly after that. With the money I get for this job I will go out and treat myself to a Thanksgiving dinner at the hotel. That will be a nice change from my own cooking for me. And I don't believe I'll need to bother my brother for money. Goodness knows, he has none too much, anyway." And she tore up the letter.

The waist was done the night before Thanksgiving. There had been more work than she quite expected the little seamstress had to sit up until twelve the night before, but that, of course, was an unimportant detail. What mattered was that the waist was done to the very last hook and eye and even to afresh ruching (both of which the little seamstress had paid for herself, leaving her a sum total of cash on hand, eleven cents.)

The customer came for the waist, and only an hour and a half after the time appointed, and was delighted with the work. The bill, too, which came to two dollars and a quarter, she said, was most reasonable. "I WILL DROP IN SOME DAY NEXT WEEK AND PAY FOR IT," she assured the seamstress sweetly.

I've put that sentence in caps because that's the way it sounded to the little seamstress.

Nine o'clock, Thanksgiving Eve—eleven cents in her pocketbook—the family from whom she rented the two rooms, in which she did light housekeeping, had gone away for the holiday—too late to send five hundred miles to her brother for money—and not a person in town from whom she really felt she wanted to borrow money.

All this the little seamstress reviewed—the way they say a drowning man reviews his past life—while she was ushering the customer out the door. And she went the drowning man one better, in that, besides making this review, she smiled sweetly and remarked that it was a pleasant evening, and looked as if there would be a good old-fashioned cold Thanksgiving.

And then she went back into her two rooms, looked into the little closet that stood for a pantry, ice chest, china closet and so forth in her menage, and wisely decided that instead of trying to make herself forget that she was a very lonely little woman by going to the hotel and giving herself the unaccustomed treat of a thoroughly good dinner, she would stay at home and eat omelet and baked potatoes.

Which she did.

Incidentally, being a game little lady, she spent ten of the eleven cents cents for a dish of ice cream for dessert, made herself some molasses candy in the afternoon, and tried to remember how very many people there were who had less than she.

And "some day," not "next week," as she had promised, but three weeks later, the lady who had had to have the waist in such a hurry that the little seamstress who sat up until twelve o'clock working over it, dropped in and paid the bill.

Not a very thrilling tale, all this, I admit.

But—what was the word I applied to it?—oh, yes, suggestive.

And isn't it that?

"And they who do their souls no wrong
But keep at eve the faith of morn,
Shall daily hear the Angel-song;
'To-day the Prince of Peace is born'"

ARE you fit to hear that song to-day?

As fit as you were a year ago?

As fit as you were when you were twenty-one?

Do you still believe, as you did then, that you would do some good in the world, that there was some especial reason for your being, that there was some force within you that should some day accomplish something worth while?

Or has the ideal of your life become simply personal happiness?

Perhaps you are not financially successful. Say that you are not. Have you kept that failure clean or have you "tarnished clean failure by disgrace?"

Perhaps you are financially successful. Say that you are. Then people applaud you. You enjoy the material results of your success—luxury, beautiful things, the freedom from money worry. But still there is a question to ask. Are you doing your best work, the highest work of which you are capable?

Do you know Canon Ferrar's famous words about failure? I have them on my desk. That and the reminder that "if a man can write a better book preach a better sermon or make a better mousetrap than his neighbour the world will make a beaten trail to his door," are the two thoughts that face me daily.

This is what Canon Ferrar said:

"There is only one real failure possible; and that is not to be true to the best one knows."

It seems to me Christmas is a good anniversary on which to ask one's self if one has made that sort of failure.

And if one must answer "Yes" to decide that next Christmas the answer shall be "no."

For it is never too late to unmake failure. As long as there is life within you no failure of any kind is absolute.

I realize that this is but a string of questions. But that's what I meant it to be—just a few searching queries.

Some of you have read them through unthinkingly.

But some I hope have asked them of themselves, as I am as I write.

The little verse suggested them to me. I think its second line is the solemnest trumpet call to be true to our highest selves that I have ever heard.

Read it again. It's worth it—

And they who do their souls no wrong
"But keep at eve the faith of morn,
Shall daily hear the Angel-song:
"To-day the Prince of Peace is born."

Boys At Y. M. C. A. Busy Distributing Good Cheer

These are busy days for the boys at the Y. Holidays are usually looked forward to as the period devoted for having a good time. The many ways of having this good time are being demonstrated by the boys, who in their different groups, and with their different likes and dislikes, are making in all a very busy and holiday like appearance around town. Some are spending their holidays in skating and sleighing, some in the different amusements at the Y. and not a few in helping to make others able to enjoy Christmas. Thursday was a busy day for the boys, who were delivering presents to homes in the city of Christmas gifts, supplied by members of diffrent churches, etc. The boys started in on this errand Wednesday night at St. Paul's church and were kept busy again Thursday. The boys have also brought to the association many parcels, the contents of which will be delivered to the needy Saturday by them.

The one great helping hand extended by all the department was that of selling stamps in aid of the Muskoka flamerium, fifty dollars' worth being handed out to the boys to dispose of, most of which are now sold.

Sunday, Christmas day, junior Bible class at 10 a.m., as usual.

VAGRANTS REMANDED

Two Who Appeared Before Police Magistrate This Morning Will Have to Hang Up Their Stockings in Gaol.

TO-DAY'S POLICE COURT

"Still they come" was evidenced in the Police Court this morning, when two more vags. and a drunk appeared before Magistrate Dumble.

"Michael Larone, you are charged with having no visible means of support and no place to go," said the Magistrate. Larone would not plead guilty and said that he was a bricklayer by trade and boarded with his sister, on Water street. He was remanded until further evidence could be brought to light.

John Erwin was called next. He was charged with the same offence. P. C. Meagher took the box and gave evidence to the effect that Erwin had been drinking heavily, spending all his money in drink, and had been sleeping in the Band Hall. Erwin stated that he worked on a boat in the summer time and worked on the stage at the "Grand" in the winter. It was suggested that he be put on the black list, so a remand for a week was asked for in order that this may be carried out.

Another man named Geo. Purgan was charged with being drunk and disorderly in a public place. He pleaded guilty. He said that he had worked in the C. G. E. until yesterday, when he got off to go to Lynn, to spend Christmas. Unfortunately he did not go when he should and got "canned." He was let go on the promise that he would get out of town on the 1.40 train.

There Is Very Little Talk As To The Coming Nominations

Nomination Day on Monday is Likely to be Quiet if Present Indications count for Anything---Where Nominations may be Placed in Each Ward.

Although Nomination Day is on Monday next there is yet very little excitement in aldermanic circles, and at the present time prospective candidates in the aldermanic field are not at all numerous. However, there might be some surprises when the nominations close on Monday. There is bound to be some new blood in the Council this year, as three of the old Councillors have signified their intention of dropping out of municipal affairs. These are Aldermen Turner, Gillespie and Batten. There is not likely to be any contest for Mayor, as Mayor Morrow is likely to be returned by acclamation.

The nominations for Water Commissioners are also billed to take place at the city hall from ten to eleven o'clock, but there has been no talk of any opposition to Mr. T. F. Matthews, who has filled the office of Chairman of the Water Commission for a number of years.

Nominations for aldermen in the various wards will take place from twelve to one. The places where to register the nominations are as follows:

South Ward—At Louis Spry's, 210 Stewart street. J. Robertson, Returning Officer.

Centre Ward—At City Council Chamber, T. B. McGrath, Returning Officer.

West Ward—N. Routley, 292 Brock street. F. J. A. Hall, Returning Officer.

North Ward—Mrs Lees, Smith St. T. W. Robinson, Returning Officer.

East Ward—Village Hall, John Kerr, Returning Officer.

The Story of the First Christmas

And she brought forth her firstborn son and wrapped him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn. And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, goodwill toward men."

—St. Luke 2, 7-15

A MORE SANITARY SYSTEM OF SEWERAGE DISPOSAL IS STRONGLY ADVOCATED FOR THE CITY OF PETERBORO'

Editor of The Examiner:

People as a rule, are averse to having anything to do with drains, sewers and sewage disposal, etc., much on the same principle as the mother who would not allow her daughter to attend the class in Physiology at school, because she thought "it was not nice for Mary Ann to learn anything about her innards"; but the recent representations made to the City Council by the farmers of Otonabee and North Monaghan re the emptying of sewerage into the river Otonabee has been the means of drawing the attention of serious minded citizens to the question of the disposal of sewage. That the present system of emptying the sewage into the river is one that cannot be too strongly deprecated is obvious to everyone who possesses only an elementary knowledge of sanitary science and not only from a hygienic point of view, but for aesthetic reasons. To discharge sewage into a stream even after all solid or suspended matter has been removed is inadvisable —what then can be said at dicharging it in its crude condition. The bed of the river must of necessity be covered with a thick deposit of putrifying solid matter, which is constantly discharging noxious and poisonous gases by its own process of fermentation, augmented by the disturbance created by navigation. There can be no question that the water of the Otonabee is dangerously impure. It has been conclusively proved that it is injurious to health to drink water which contains matter in a putrifying condition. The real danger, however, lies in the fact that any contaminating source, for example human excreta and refuse, may contain the poison of a disease which may be communicated through the medium in question. A water known to be bad may be drank with immunity for some time, but sooner or later typhoid fever may attack the consumers. The risk is there and prevention is better than cure. How many hundreds of men, women and children who resort in the summer to the Otonabee for camping, boating, etc., drink this polluted water. It is appalling to think of the crowds of pleasure seekers who are in this way inadvertently courting suffering, disease and death. Danger from drowning is not the only peril that lurks in the depths of this beautiful river, and the truth of this will be borne home to us unless measures are taken to elminate the sources.

This is no alarmist view. It is just sane, common sense, sanitary science. It would be as well, perhaps, to consider the broad principles with which all perfect methods of sewage removal should comply, and it is necessary first of all to understand what sewage is. To quote from Reid's Practical Sanitation, "Broadly speaking, it may be said to consist of water, containing certain refuse substances in solution and suspension. These consist of the excreta of men and animals, house waste water, containing grease, soap and foul matters from the surface of the body and from clothes and general house washing. Ordinary sewage and refuse when fresh are comparatively harmless, but during decomposition are just the opposite. Putrefaction is in all cases the result of an attack upon dead organic matters by bacteria. The process is, in fact, fermentation, and while this is going on, there is a continual discharge of foetid organic matters and foul gases which contaminate the atmosphere. This, if not directly the cause of disease, yet greatly favours the extension of infectious diseases. The principle then, to keep in view, is the immediate and thorough removal of all fluid refuse and the retarding of decomposition in solid refuse until it can be removed. In deciding the efficiency of any system of sewage disposal the point is, it it immediate and complete?

It is now generally conceded by sanitary authorities that the best and safest way to dispose of sewage is by land treatment after precipitation of the suspended matter, and there is no reason why this system could not be successfully adopted by the city of Peterborough. Without going into details of how sewage is transformed by land treatment, from organic, unstable compounds liable to putrefactive changes into more fixed organic salts of an innocent nature, it has been found that the chief requirement essential to the success is land which is permeated throughout by microscopic life and of such a consistency as will allow of the free penetration of air. A rich loose loam is best for the purpose—gravel and sand are of little use. By a system of land treatment known as intermittent downward filtration properly attended to and where the soil is particularly suitable it is said that the sewage of from two to three thousand inhabitants (if previously thoroughly clarified by precipitation) may be dealt with on one acre of land, so that a sewage farm of ten acres would be amply sufficient for Peterborough.

This could be worked on a profitable basis by the cultivation of certain root

TROUBLE IN MEXICO NOT OVER YET

Examiner Special.

MEXICO CITY, DEC.24.—Despatches received here this morning from private sources in Southern Mexico indicate that things are far from quiet and it is expected that President Diaz will send a strong punitive expedition to wipe out the revolutionists or bring their surrender immediately. Only recently ten civilians who declined to join the revolutionists' cause were shot down in cold blood. The fighting is going on daily between parties of Government troops and revolutionists. All war correspondents have been ordered to return to Mexico City on pain of death.

RAILWAY COMMISSION'S JUDGMENT

Examiner Special.

OTTAWA, DEC. 24.—In one hundred and twenty-four typewritten pages the Dominion Railway Commission have delivered judgment in the Express Company's case, condemning in sweeping terms the present tariffs and ordering them to file new tariff schedules within three months. The Board also decides that the existing forms of contracts are unfair and must be remodelled, that the capitalization is too high and that the arrangement generally between the railway companies and the express companies is very unsatisfactory. Judgment was at the Dominion Express Co., which is a Canadian Pacific concern and the Canadian Express Co., which is controlled by the Grand Trunk.

CHRISTMAS.

"Christmas comes but once a year;
But when it comes it brings good cheer"

is a bit of homely doggerel which association makes divine. The keynote of Christmas is joy and gladness. And meetly, so. The Lord of Christmas brought with Him the joy of deliverance. He saves the people from their sins. More than that He saves the people from themselves. If the meaning of Christmas is anything, it means unselfishness, even as its founder was unselfishness incarnate. We only take on the spirit of Christmas when we emerge from the shell of self; when we take on the spirit of divine altruism that came to the world in great humility, and with great gladness — when the bleating of the herds, around the stable birth-place, was swallowed up in the rejoicing hymn of the heavenly host. The Christmas spirit teaches us to spread gladness by the giving of gifts, a type at once of the great Gift, and of the joy His advent brought. Christmas is as eternal as it founder. Through twenty centuries is has always brought, as it always brings, brightness to the world. Its influence is felt wherever His name is named. None escapes it influence; even the hardened of heart and the thoughtless, are touched, perhaps insensibly, with the magic of its spell. Christmas is in the very air at the Christmastide. It lays its hand upon every heart and enters every home. In happy homes, homes of comfort and competence, it brings a more buoyant gladness. Even in the dullest homes, the saddest and the coldest, it rekindles the hope that the pinch of poverty and want have well night put out. It strengthens the bonds of the universal kinship, that knits the children of the common father. Never till we keep Christmas in the true Christmas spirit, can we so fully realize the great truth that it is more blessed to give than to receive. And in proportion as we keep our Christmas in that spirit and project it into lives of unselfish interest in the lives of our fellows, shall we know the true joy of Christmas and all that Christmas means, in the way of duty done and reward won.

It is good to note that Christmas means something in Peterborough. We are a city of churches. We have a score of churches built on Christmas, and they have been doing Christmas work. In thousands of homes there is the note of preparation for feasting; there is Christma gift-giving and loving remembrance, and in many homes, where little of joy or plenty comes from day to day, there will be Christmas cheer. Church organizations and other Christian agencies are busy with the duty of seeing that no home in Peterborough is not brightened, no heart not lightened, no mouth unfilled, on this blessed Christmas day.

PILES Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and speedy cure for Itching, Blind, Bleeding and Protruding Piles. 60 cts. a box.

THE MUNICIPAL NOMINATIONS.

Here we are on the eve of nomination day, the beginning of the work of selecting our civic rulers for another year—the body to be intrusted with the expenditure of the taxes we pay, to the amount of $210,191.28, that if the tax roll of next year will be approximately the same as that of this year. Yet up to this moment the general body of electors seem to pay as little attention to so important a matter as would be devoted to the purchase of a Christmas toy for a two year old infant.

This year it has leaked out that all the old council will be candidates excepting Messrs. Gillespie, Batten and Turner. The nomination for aldermanic candidatures will be held at eleven o'clock in the several wards at places detailed in another column. The nomination for Mayor, school trustees and Water Commissioners, will be held at the Council chamber at 12 o'clock.

THE HOLIDAY SEASON.

Canadians are always proud of the Canadian climate and never has winter weather appealed to them in a clearer, brighter cheerier way than in this December of the 1910th year of grace. The holiday season, beginning at the beginning, and culminating in the closing week of the month, has been a steady, clear, clean, bright, sparkling, stimulating procession of wholesome cold, brightened with a season of sunshine, such as no other December has out-done. With a minimum of snow we have had a maximum of splendid sleighing. This has been good for business, as well as pleasure, and our merchants have thriven in the matter of the special trade the Christmas tide brings. With prosperity generally prevalent, the people have been able to make, and have made, generous purchases. Though the rush of Christmas shopping is still on, and will continue on till midnight closes the day, there has been more than usual heed paid to the oft-repeated injunction to do Christmas shopping early. While the merchants have been profitably busy they have contributed to putting others in the same condition. The staff of the post office have been worked to their boot soles almost literally off their feet, with the handling of the holiday mails. The postmen have become birds of the night. The delivery of their routes, normally concluded at noon, has been prolonged to midnight. The Customs employees have been also exceedingly busy in dealing with parcels arriving from "Home"—never so dear as at the Christmas tide—to our new Canadian citizens. The whole holiday season has been a period of good natured and happy bustle and brightness. It has been all ways and from all points of regard, one of the brightest in our history, bringing the suggestion that it is so, because the highest, holiest day of the year falls on the holiest day of the week.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES AT SALVATION ARMY

On Monday evening, 26th, will be the annual children's concert and 'Santa Claus,' when a splendid programme of drills, recitations and music will be given, including a very special item, entitled "The Christian Graces." "Santa" will supply a Christmas bag of candy, fruit, etc., to every ticket holder. Tickets 10c.

All are invited to attend these special services.

The Utility And Significance Of The Recent British Elections

(Ottawa Free Press)

Now that it is found the standing of the parties in the next British House of Commons will be almost identically the same as in the last, we are being told in cable despatches and in extracts from comments in the English Tory papers that the general election just held was useless and merely an unnecessary expense. That is simply a weak excuse of the defeated.

A mere glance at the facts proves that the election was anything but useless. The Asquith Government, finding itself in the unbearable position of having, like its Liberal predecessors, all its most important legislation thrown out by a Tory House of Lords introduced and passed last Spring a measure restricting the veto powers of the Upper House. Then King Edward died, and in order to try and find a way out of the impening deadlock between the two chambers it was suggested in the interests of peace during the period of royal mourning, that there be a conference between the combatants. The conferees were named, all parties being presented, and they held a number of meetings in the Summer and Autumn. Finally it was announced that the conference had been abortive.

Thereupon Premier Asquith declared that unless the House of Lords accepted the Veto Bill forthwith and without amendment, his Government would appeal to the people for a mandate to the King. The Lords turned down the ultimatum and Asquith promptly arranged for an immediate general election.

That election has been held—an election in which practically the sole issue was the House of Lords—and as a result, in the House of Commons Commons there will be a majority of 126 votes, two more than in the last House, in favour of the Veto Bill.

And viewing the election as a referendum on the Lords' question, which it really was, it is found that there is a total majority in favour of the Government's proposed remedy of 308,511, or without the Irish Nationalists of 260,772 votes in a total cast of 5,229,071.

In view of the fact that the election has given a clear mandate to the Asquith Government to proceed at once with the carrying out of its programme, how can it be said that the election was useless? And as for the expense, two million pounds is a small price to pay for freedom from a legislature influenced solely by the selfishness of class—a legislature which passes the bills of its Tory friends without question, but which just as automatically throws out all the important bills of the Liberal opponents of its Tory friends.

Badly beaten, the Unionists who were so cocksure of their position in the country as to obstruct any compromise at the last conference are now proposing another conference. A cheeky proposition surely.

When the Government took its life in its hands and appealed to the electors, neither side went into the fray with the idea that there would subsequently be a settlement by conference of the parties. If the result had been different and the Unionists had come back with a majority, would they have consented to any conference with the Liberals? Hardly.

The London Daily Chronicle makes a very clear pronouncement as to the attitude of the Government now when it says:

This election has been entered upon, with all the risks which it involved to the Government owing to fighting on a stale register and the disadvantages of a second appeal in the same year, in order finally to settle the deadlock between the Commons an dthe Lords. There will be no more formal conferences no conspiracies to defeat the wishes of the people or the supremacy of the Commons.

So far from being useless, the election was one of the most necessary and the most important that has been held in recent years.

Annual Christmas Tree Of Park St. Baptist Church

Enjoyable Evening Spent by the Children of the Sunday School Last Evening—Gifts Presented

DELIGHTFUL PROGRAMME

The Bible School of the Park St. Baptist church held their annual Christmas tree and concert last night in the parlours of the church. The programme was furnished by Miss Ethel Hill, elocutionist; Mr. Harry Goodwin, and the "Missing Link Quartette."

The children, however, were more interested in the tree, the good things it contained, and the arrival of Santa Claus man. The programme was as follows:

The chair was occupied by Mr. Moore, the capable Superintendent of the school.

The pastor, Rev. W. C. Riddiford, made a short address to the children, and officers of the school, congratulating them upon the efficiency of their work, and urging them to greater things in the future.

A very pleasant feature of the evening was the introduction of an innovation by Mr. Riddiford, when, in the course of his remarks, he asked the school if they would forego their Christmas Tree next year and entertain the children at the Shelter. His suggestion was put to a vote and carried most heartily by the children, so next year the Sunday School of Park Street will have a real Christmas, and give instead of receive presents. Santa Claus came in at the close of the programme, and assisted in the giving away of the presents, but told the children, that he was in a hurry, as he had to get his load ready for all the good boys and girls in Peterborough, who will go to bed early to-night. He wished them all a Merry Christmas.

Ordination Of Rev. Father John McCarthy At Hastings

The ordination of Rev. Father John McCarthy of Hastings, took place in the Catholic church at that place yesterday morning. The ceremony was performed by Bishop O'Connor. Rev. Fr. McColl acted as assistant priest at the Mass; Rev. Fr. Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore, was Deacon. Fr. Fergus O'Brien, of the Cathedral, was sub-Deacon, and Rev. Dr. O'Brien, of the Sacred Heart Church, was Master of Ceremonies.

The sermon was preached by Rev. Fr. McGuire, of Downeyville. Those who witnessed the ceremony were as follows: Pastor of the church, Rev. Fr. Bretherton, of Hastings; Fr. T. B. O'Connel, of Warkworth; Fr. M. J. McGuire, of Douro; Fr. Phelan, of Young's Point; Fr. J. O'Sullivan, of Victoria Road; Fr. Kelly, of Norwood, Fr. O'Leary, of Wooler, and Fr. Guiry of Lindsay.

There was also a large congregation, the church being filled to its utmost capacity.

FARMERS' BANK BILLS SOME VALUABLE INFORMATION

The following letter in the Lindsay Warder will be read with interest here:

(To the Editor of The Warder.)

Sir,—In order that holders of bills of the above named institution, may at this Christmas season divest themselves of any uneasiness regarding the ultimate redemption of same, I would draw attention to the following, viz:

By section 53 of the Bank Act, the payment of notes in circulation is made a first charge upon the assets of a bank in case of insolvency and in the event of the property and assets of the bank being insufficient to pay its debts, and liabilities, each shareholder is liable for the deficiency to an amount equal to the par value of the shares held by him in addition to any amount not paid up on such share.

This is usually termed the double liability.

By section 54 a fund called "The bank circulation redemption fund" is created, and every bank must keep to its credit in this fund, which is in charge of the government, five per cent. upon the average amount of its notes in circulation from year to year. In the event of suspension by the bank of payment in specie or legal tender of any of its liabilities, all they accrue, its outstanding notes bear interest at 5 per cent. from the day of suspension until day fixed for payment by the liquidator.

It is impossible to conceive that the holder of a Canadian bank bill can ever lose any part of its amount for he has the following securities for its payment:

2nd—The double liability.

1st—A first charge upon the entire assets.

3rd—The bank circulation redemption fund.

4th—The obligation upon all other banks to maintain this fund so that each will at all times have to its credit therein 5 per cent. of the average of its outstanding circulation for the year.

You will better appreciate the extent of the security afforded by the first charge on the entire assets, when I tell you that in a recent issue of the Financial Post, the total notes in circulation of all the banks in Canada was about $99,000,000, and the total of their assets, not including the double liability of shareholders, was $964,192,546, since increased, or nearly 10 times the circulation. This is the average but individual proportion of each bank of assets the circulation will vary.

You will also better appreciate the security afforded by the obligation of each bank to maintain its proper proportion of the redemption fu nd, when I tell you that the total paid up capital of all the banks was by the same issue about $100,000,000, and their total rest or reserve of surplus profits was about $75,000,000.

So that before all the banks could become unable to pay their calls for the redemption fund about $275,000,000 would have to be lost, this amount being made up as follows:

Capital, say	$100,000,000
Double liability	100,000,000
Reserves or rests	75,000,000
Total	$275,000,000

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space and trusting the information may be of service,

F. H. KIDD.

Gifts for a Girl.

The shopper who does not want to give a useless present, nor an ugly one, nor one that will last too long, nor cost too much, might look over the list here, which has been made up of things found both useful and inexpensive; shawl strap, 10 to 50 cents; shopping bag, car ticket purse, some are low as 5 cents, and will last as long as the 50 cent ones, and a selection of various kinds and colours of tickets will make it most acceptable; stationery, but don't spend all the money on a fancy box, and you can get excellent paper for 5 cents a quire; magazine or book cover, costing from $4 for stamped leather to almost nothing, if made out of denim or linen; manicure implement set, but not the plush sets with useless fittings; hand kerchiefs, from 15 cents up, perhaps plain, which you can initial, hast pins even 5 cent ones chosen to go with your friend's hat give pleasure; cup and saucer, it is always useful and will not last forever; bead necklace, which need not cost more than 25 cents, if you knew the colours to choose and the way to make it; bags of all kinds and for all purposes and of all materials.

The Girl in Business.

We are constantly hearing of the dangers that beset the path of the business girl. There are many good people who believe that when a girl enters office life she has taken the first step on the road to destruction. Their picture her as being pursued by the crafty wiles of a Mephisto, disguised in the more or less rotund figure of the average employer; being tempted by the impertinent attentions of young men with high moral standards; they shudder to think of the temptations that must daily confront her; they feel horrified ages at the idea that the business employer may have designs of various kinds and colours of tickets will make it most acceptable; stationery, but don't spend all the money on a fancy box, and you can get excellent paper for 5 cents a quire; magazine or book cover, costing from $4 for stamped leather to almost nothing, if made out of denim or linen; manicure implement set, but not the plush sets with useless fittings; hand kerchiefs, from 15 cents up, perhaps plain, which you can initial, hast pins even 5 cent ones chosen to go with your friend's hat give pleasure; cup and saucer, it is always useful and will not last forever; bead necklace, which need not cost more than 25 cents, if you knew the colours to choose and the way to make it; bags of all kinds and for all purposes and of all materials.

The unromantic environment of office life kills rather than fosters the sentimental attitude. Masculine attentions are smothered by the necessities of the morning mail and practical business routine.

Automobile Luncheo.

A man who detests what he calls picnic food—otherwise the cold food usually eaten at luncheon time when motoring — has hit upon a plan by which it is possible to have hot lunches when stranded far from home.

Glass jars are filled with hot soup, coffee, chocolate, or any desired beverage another contains hot chicken terrapin, lobster newburg, creamed crab, dried beef or any dish that can be prepared ahead of a meal.

The jars are then put in by the engine of the motor, and when wanted are found to be as hot and delicious as when packed.

Stewing Raw Oysters.

Do not make the mistake of serving large oysters raw at a woman's luncheon. Most women prefer blue points or cherry stones.

Ray oysters are more preferable on their own shell than on handsome oyster plates. They must be thoroughly chilled, and preferably should rest on a bed of shaved ice.

The lemon with raw oysters should be cut in quarters in the rind. Or in the centre of the shell circle have half a lemon with the centre partially filled with horseradish.

It is more fashionable now to serve oyster cocktails in the shells with a small slender glass of the sauce in the centre of each plate.

Roasted Oysters.

When one has been made a present of a barrel or keg of oysters do not omit the opportunity to give an oyster roast. Invite guests that you know well; also make sure they eat oysters.

Make almost the entire supper of the bivalve. Grapefruit or bouillion can be served first. Have oysters roasted in kitchen and brought in when the shells have opened.

Before each plate have melted butter, an oyster fork, salt and pepper, any an oyster knife for opening the shells.

As more oysters can be eaten roasted than any other way, allow a liberal proportion for each guest. Have on the table tabasco, horseradish, and lemon, though the majority like drawn butter better than any other dressing.

Serve with the oysters plenty of this buttered bread, pepperslaw, small Parker House rolls, and French fried or Saratoga potatoes. Coffee can be served with the supper or later.

Have a light salad, endive o rarisp lettuce with cheese breads. The dessert after so filling a meal should not be rich. Ginger or mint ice in sherbet glasses is refreshing.

Feeding the Scalp.

Olive oil is an excellent feeder of the hungry scalp. So is lanoline. And so, too, many believe, is vaseline. Be sure to keep the scalp clean. The hair turns gray in dandruff soil. Give the body a hand bath two or three times a week or every day, if convenient, in olive oil, rubbing the oil well into the muscles before retiring, if you are too thin.

If it is growing heavier, exercise persistently, though gently. Exercise more and eat less. Reduce the quantity of your food one-third and exercise a third longer each day.

One Kind of Man.

Courtesy to women, old and young, should be a part of everybody's home training. Without it he is likely to be boorish and selfish; and a rude, overbearing brother and son is in danger of developing into an exacting, discourteous husband. He is likely to behave to the class of boys who come in the front door and say to their sisters.

"Now, Mary, you've got the chair I always like to sit in, and Katie has the paper I want! Let me have them!"

He receives the chair and paper without a word of thanks, and then goes on before morning. Mary, run and get my slippers."

His hat, gloves and overcoat have been thrown down in different parts of the room for his mother or sisters to pick up and put away. His mother comes into the room and he says:

anyoves--I oonTpOte to,uuais uenakfu

"Mother isn't supper most ready? I am most starved!"

"It will be ready in a few minutes" his mother replies.

"Well, I wish you'd hurry up."

At the table he is served first and always has the best of everything, a course well calculated to foster his selfishness and autocratic tendencies.

In his own home he is a sort of despot. He feels that his personal comfort should be the chief end and aim of his wife's life. A delayed dinner is an unforgiveable offense, and a missing button brings on an acute attack o fthat disagreeable mental disorder called sulks.

He is likely to be one of the men who keep their seats while ladies stand in the horse-cars, arguing while he does so that "women have just as much right to stand as men."

Obtrusive discourtesy of this kind nearly always has its origin in the early home life of the man who manifests it.

When Women Should Marry.

Probably the best time for the average woman to marry would be any age between twenty-four and thirty-five. It is not said that no woman should marry earlier or later than either of these ages; but youth and health and vigour are ordinarily at their highest perfection between thees two periods. Early marriages are seldom desirable for girls and that for many reasons. The brain is immature the reason is feeble and the character is unformed. The consideration which would prompt a girl to marry at seventeen would in many cases have little weight with her at twenty-four. At seventeen she is a child, at twenty-four a woman.

Where a girl has intelligent parents, the seven years between seventeen and twenty-four are the period when mind and body are most amenable to wise discipline and best repay the thought and toil devoted to their development. Before seventeen few girls have learned to understand what life is, what duty is. They cannot value what is the best either in the father's wisdom or in the mother's tenderness. When married at the childish period they are like young recruits taken fresh from the farm and the workshop and hurried off to a long campaign without any period of preliminary drill and training or like a school boy removed from school to a curacy without being sent to the university or to a theological hall.

Who can help grieving over a child-wife especially if she have children and a husband who is an experienced and possibly exacting boy-man. The ardor of his love soon cools, the visionary bliss of her poetical imagination vanishes like the summer mist; there is nothing left but disappointment and wonder that what promised to be so beautiful and long a day should be clouded almost before sunrise.

Aphorisms.

Politeness is as natural to delicate natures as perfume is to flowers.

Shun idleness, it is the rust that attaches itself to the most brilliant metals.

The surest way to please is to forget one's self and to think only of others.

Nothing sharpens the arrow of sarcasm so keenly as the courtesy that polishes it. No reptoach is like that we clothe with a smile and present with a bow.

If we had no defects we should not take so much pleasure is discovering those of others.

Thinkers are as scarce as gold but he whose thought embraces all his subjects who pursues it uninterruptedly and fearless of consequences is a diamond of enormous size.

A weapon is anything that can serve to wound; and sentiments are perhaps the most cruel weapons man can employ to wound his fellow-man.

A homely man of merit is never repulsive. As soon as he is named his physique is forgotten; his mind passes through it to see the soul.

There is no better excess in the world than the excess of gratitude.

It is never the opinions of others that displeases us, but the pertinacity they display in obtruding them upon us.

He who thinks himself good for everything is often good for nothing.

Youth is sweet with its fiery enterprise and I suppose mature manhood will be just as much so, though in a calmer way, and age, quieter still will have its own merits—the thing is only to do with life what we ought, and what is suited to each of its stages; do all, enjoy them—and I suppose these two rules amount to the same thing.

To die is a serious thing; to live is far more serious. Living, we accumulate the evidence that shall be used against us when we pass through death, to the judgment. Learn to think seriously of life that you may think seriously of death.

PROOF THAT PROVES

If one person more than another should know the value of medicine, it is the retail druggist.

Therefore, when ten thousand retail druggists of the United States recommend Vinol, the delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, as the best strengthening tonic known, and are willing to return their customers' money in every case where it fails to give satisfaction,, there can be no room for doubt.

Among others, one of the most reliable druggists of Lynn, Mass., Mr. Warren Toppan, says, "From personal experience I know what Vinol will do. I had a chronic cold all winter, and was so weak I could hardly get about. Nothing seemed to help me until I tried Vinol—the change was magic—and what surprised me most, Vinol not only cured the cold, but built me up and cured me of a severe stomach trouble that had bothered me for twenty years. Vinol is certainly a wonderful medicine." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

We ask every run-down, nervous, debilitated, aged or weak person or any person suffering from chronic coughs and colds to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

Christmas Lesson. Luke 2; 6-20.

Golden Text—For unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. Luke 2, 2.

(1) Verses 6-7—What country and what city was Jesus born in?

(2) Why was Bethlehem called the city of David? See 1 Sam. xvi; 1.

(3) What circumstances had brought Mary and Joseph to Bethlehem?

(4) Why was it fitting that Jesus should be born in Bethlehem?

(5) In what direction and how far is Bethlehem from Nazareth? Also from Jerusalem?

(7) Joseph and Mary went to Bethlehem at the command of Caesar Augustus. Joseph, the son of Jacob was dragged into Egypt as a slave, but the results in each case were most blessed. Now, how can you show that these, and other similar cases, demonstrate that God uses bad men and calamities, as well as good men an dfortunate events, to help men an dleadt man to his glorious destiny?

(8) What has the birth of Christ meant to the world?

(9) What significance is there to the poor, and to the toiling masses, that Jesus was born in a stable and cradled in a manger?

(10) Verses 8-10—These shepherds received a great revelation while looking after their sheep. When do good men get most of their revelation or inspirations—while they are praying for them or when faithfully engaged in their usual occupations?

(11) Why were these shepherds so much afraid?

(12) Is it usual for people to be afraid when God visits them? Why?

(13) Are all God's messages to good people "good tidings of great joy"? Give your reasons.

(14) With what kind of voice did this angel speak? Would it be outward and audible, so any person could hear, or an inward voice only?

(15) Verses 11-15—In what sense, or how many senses, did the angel mean that Jesus was a savious?

(16) Why were the citizens of heaven so greatly pleased and exultant over the birth of Jesus?

(17) How far do you think heaven is from the earth, and do you think that those who are there know what is taking place here?

(18) To what extent, as an accomplished fact, has the birth of Christ brought about peace and goodwill on the earth? (This question must be answere din writing by members of the club.)

(19) Is it always safe for us to follow supernatural intimations, as these shepherds did? Give your reasons.

(20) Verses 16-20—When we start on a journey or commence a work, on the suggestion of the voice of God in our souls, we do invariably find the results as they were intimated, as these shepherds did?

(21) Is jubilant joy the constant experience of those who live near enough to God to hear his voice, and are faithful enough to always obey? Give your reasons.

Lesson for Sunday, January 1, 1911—The Kingdom Divided. 1st Kings xii.: 124.

They say, best men are moulded out of faults,
And, for the most, become much more the better,
For being a little bad.
Measures for Measure, Act. V., Sc. 1.

This is dangerous teaching. The qualifying "they say" saves it. Many hold the opinion that the sowing of wild oats is necessary in the life of every man who is to attain prominence. The difficulty is that the weeds sown will not stay in their own field. The wild oats and thistles of life spread. If a man's field is foul his neighbours' fields are in danger. The careless farmer has often been driven in despair from his farm so rank have the weeds become, so the careless liver not infrequently ends his existence to escape from the spiritual weeds he cannot pluck out of his life.

Much harm has been done by the belife that it is good for a man to learn the nature of evil from experience. The majority hold it, but the majority has ever been given to superstitions, and this is one. The passage does not necessarily give Shakespeare's opinion. It is the opinion of a woman who would try to excuse an errin ghusband, and even then she qualifies htr words with a timid "they say." There are, it is true, striking examples of men who have plunged into sin, turning from their evil ways, crushing down the flesh and living splendid spiritual lives. Henry V., the hero king of England, is an illustration of this; John Bunyan, a profane, drunken tinker, is another,—but there is a long line of kings and tinkers, who acquired vicious habits in their youth, who have come to absolute shipwreck themselves and helped others on the way to ruin.

Every man has evil tendencies; and the sins of one are not the sins of another. Here it is the lusts of the flesh; there, depravity of the spirit. There is no righteous man, no not one! But there are thousands of men who have never given way to gross sin. They have been tempted, but they have put temptation under foot, and these men are the real guides of humanity. However, there is never a thought epigrammatically stated in Shakespeare's plays but has in it "an element of truth. It is true that some very excellent men have had their early years crowded with faults. Some indeed like Bunyan have sunk to the lowest depths of degradation, and yet have risen to spiritual heights seldom attained by mortals. But it is not necessary that the child should be turned in order to make it understand the nature of fire, that poisonous fruit should be given it in small doses so that it may know what to avoid.

The weakness of the statement, "best men are moulded out of faults" is that it is too sweeping. It is a case of generalising on exceptional instances. Frequently good swimmers are drowned. It is surprising that they should be and is remarked on and not a few maintain that good swimmers, through tht risks they take, are more frequently drowned than those unable to swim. This is very faulty generalisation. The death of a good swimmer receives undue prominence, whereas the death by drowning of one unable to swim is taken as a matter of course. So is it with one who has led a vicious life; when he has got control of his evil tendencies, the world wonders. The very strength that enables a man to pluck the foul weeds out of his heart gives him prominence among the workers for good, and the unthinking say that he is "much more the better" for having been "a little bad."

In the passage under study there is a timid "they say," a doubtful "for the most," but there is no timidity or uncertainty about St. Paul's words "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." If a man live viciously, abusing his body, he may expect to reap physical suffering. If he harbor hate and avarice and cruelty cruelty his soul becomes depraved, his will diseased. Make no mistake, grapes do not grow on thistles! Even with these shining examples of unrighteous men who have become righteous, it will be found that the heart was never evil. King Hal had ever noble aspirations. It only required responsibility to make him find himself; but down the ages the wild oats he sowed have been spreading. A thousand youths have been mimics of his early life, and have made his boyish pranks an excuse for their faults.

Men who have sinned and suffered for their sins strongly realise the nature of evil; having found light they ar eimpelled to help others. Bunyan deplored the darkness in which he had lived. He knew that he had been the means of dragging others down. The tares he had sown had spread to other lives, it was his duty to undo the harm he had done. On his dead self he rose to higher things, but he was not content to stand there alone. He reached out a helping hand to every falterer. Standing on the rock of Christian endeavor he through his own part, felt the need of helping others out of the slough of Despond. It is with such rare exceptions as Bunyan in mind that the world says: "Best men are moulded out of faults."

An Old-Time Christmas In Merrie England

(By Miss Joyce Browett in the "Collegiate Echoes.")

Christmas in Canada and Christmas in England are much the same in general significance and practice. Naturally, however, the older country preserves more of the picturesque traditions and superstitions of former times, some of which can be traced back to the earliest Saxon days.

At Cumnor, in Herefordshire, every Christmas morning after church the villagers adjourn to the vicarage where they feast on beer and bread and cheese which has been provided for them. Nor is the giving of this feast considered a kindness on the part of the vicar. The custom is so old, as has been observed for so many years beyond the memory of man, that the parishioners now claim the meal as their right. These able-appetited parishioners are, moreover, supposed to absorb a Christmas dinner with plum pudding and all the fixings sometime between the morning and evening services.

In the country districts of Western England and some parts of Wales the people all turn out on Christmas morning to salute the apple trees. The villagers meet before daybreak, with the parson of the village church, the beadle, parish clerk and the schoolmaster at their head, and, forming in line, march to every farm, visiting each large orchard in turn. The owner of each orchard receives them and conducts them to one of the best trees on his place, which is considered as the representative of all the others. The entire procession gathers around this honoured tree while the beadle or some other well-known man of the village sprinkles it with a large bottle of cider, and thus invokes it in quaint and heathenish fashion:

"Otree! O tree! O tree! Bear fruit and flourish. Thy owner nourish. Give wealth and plenty!"

The superstition is that every orchard thus honoured will be profitable to its owner during the ensuing year.

The Yuletide feast is still generally observed in the North of England and in Scotland. This custom is believed to be a survival of the ancient sun worship at the winter solstice, and is supposed to have come to Britain from Scandinavia. The wealthier villagers invite ther poorer brethren to ther homes to cvelebrate the Yuletide. A great meat pie is prepared, generally in the form of a pig, presumably a survival of some old Teutonic custom. The pie is surrounded with candles, and when all are seated these are lighted by the master of the house. It is regarded as a bad sign to have one of the candles go out before the conclusion of the feast, and the person sitting opposite the extinguished candle is marked for particularly hard luck. It is from this custom of placing lighted candles around the Yuletide feast that the Germans, and from them the English, and we Canadians as well, have derived the similar custom of placing candles onChristmas trees.

The ceremony of bringing home the Yule log is still largely observed in the North of England. This custom also is a survival of Saxon England. But instead of being burned in the hearth of the lord's great hall, in accordance with the ancient custom, the log is now taken to the village and chopped into blocks fo rdistribution among the poor. The lord of the manor always gives permission to cut dow na tree, usually an elm, at any rate to lop off a bough. All the village boys and girls, bedecked with ribbons, fasten ropes to the wood, which has been sawed into portable lengths, and drag it home with songs, laughter and daucing.

But in no other part of the British Islands have so many old customs and superstitions lingered as in the Highlands of Scotland. The first person to open the door of a house on Christmas morning is regarded as particularly lucky, and his success in the coming year is supposed to be assured. Many people do not go to bed at all on Christmas Eve, so as to be able to be first to open the door as soon as midnight has passed, just as in this country many sit up all night to greet the New Year.

Curious Christmas customs are by no means confined to the remote rural districts or to the purely superstitious and ignorant. In London the "Waits" still go around the streets after midnight for a month preceding Christmas Day, playing Christmas songs. This is particularly the case in the East End. Often three or four parties of these itinerant musicians may be heard playing "The Mistletoe Bough" at two or three o'clock in themorning, when a keen east wind is blowing, or perhaps snow is falling.

The boar's head ceremony is observed by the great English public schools of Eton, Winchester, Rugby, and Harrow, and by the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge . It dates back to heathen days when a boar was killed at the winter solstice and its head offerel in sacrifice to Freyr, the god of peace and plenty, who was supposed to ride upon a bear with golden bristles. The bringing in of the boar's head is the great event of the Christmas feast. It is borne aloft steaming upon a silver dish, while all the diners, rising, sing the "Boar's Head Song," as it has been sung for centuries. The words, as sung at Queen's College, Oxford, are as follow:

"Caput apri defero,
Reddens laudes Domino.
The boar's head in hande bring I,
With garlands gay and rosemary.
I pray you all singe merrily,
Qui estis in convivio.

"The boar's head as I understand,
Is the rarest dish in all the land,
Which thus bedecked with gay garland,
Let us servire cantico.

"Our steward hath provided this,
In honour o fthe King of Bliss,
Which on this day to be served is In Reginensi Alvio."

PREACH THE WORD

CLEMENT C. CARY
(From the Christian Witness)

God has a ministry in the world, divinely called and heaven sent. "Woe is unto me if I preach not the Gospel," is no strange experience to these men. There is a special call to the ministry. "No man taketh this honor unto himself ,but he that is called of God, as was Aaron." It belongs alone to the Holy Spirit to select out from among believers those whom God wants to preach His Word.

God's ministers are a distinct and unique class, altogether unlike all other intellectual workers. Men in other things choose their avocations. Not so with the ministry. "Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you." God has not left it to men to choose this high and holy calling, nor has He given the right to churches to make preachers. Schools may qualify those already called to preach, but it belongs only to God to move men to enter the ministry.

God calls men to preach, with the emphasis upon the last word. God's chosen messengers are essentially and pre-eminently preachers. "As ye go, preach." "Go ye into all the world and preach." This is the one great work of the ministry. It is their primary work, the one thing they are called to do, no matter whatever else is omitted or neglected. "It pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save others that believe," not by lecturing, nor by paid choirs, nor by entertainments. The emphasis is put upon this one thing of preaching, not upon anything else. Here is the mission of preachers, the work of the ministry, the one purpose of their calling. Who has never learned this primary truth, is in need of instruction at the very beginning.

It has always been so. The old prophets were preachers. They made proclamation of God's messages. They weer the spokesmen of Jehovah to men. They were his mouthpieces. John the Baptist was a preacher, and so was our Lord Himself. It is true He was a miracle worker, and went about doing good, but as He went He preached the Gospel of the kingdom of God. The apostles were preachers, just as were the old Methodsit fathers who laid well the foundation of what is now a great church. They were not lecturers, nor speechmakers, nor deliverers of orations, but were first and last, preachers.

This brings me to say the need of ht etime sis preachers. Our young men need to be taught that their one business is to preach, and they need to know how to preach. Preaching needs to be magnified, exalted, made prominent. Nothing must take its place in the House of God, since nothing can fill the office nor do the work of preaching. No musical entertainment, no choir exhibition, no leagu epregramme, no song service, has any right to displace the sermon or set aside God's minister. It is preaching which God has enjoined. This is that which arrests the sinner, which awakens the unsaved, which calls them to repentance, which tells them how to be saved and which instructs, edifies, feeds and comforts believers. Nothing else can do what preaching accomplishes, and there is no substitute for it. First and foremost, the preacher.

And yet, despite this plain truth, everywhere we see the disposition to sidetrack preaching, and put other things in its place. Quite recently in the writer's vicinity, the Sunday night service was given up entirely to the rendition of "The Messiah," a noted piece of music, which took about two or three hours, and two other churches in the same neighborhood were specially invited to close up and join in the so-called service. Go to the average city church and the congregation is kept waiting fro anferty-five to fifty-five minutes before the sermon is reached, and then it is more a sermonette than a sermon.

Pick up the daily paper, and read the church notices, and there we have a long programme of many numbers hid away in which about the middle is the sermon, as if it wert a matter of little consequence, which might easily be dispensed with and no hurt result. When sinners are convicted for sin and believers are aroused to something higher and better than they possess by such performances, other than preaching, it will be time enough to displace preaching and rely upon other means to save men and edify the church. It seems as if every conceivable contrivance is being invented in church services to catch the eyes and attract the ears of folks, and to please the carnal tastes of people, while God's one way is set aside.

But another suggestion occurs. It is not merely preaching, since men might preach anything they please if we stop alone with the idea of preaching, but it is "preaching the word." Ingenious men, lovers of the curious and the sensational, ever hunting for novelties in the pulpit, find many things about which to preach. God's prophets are restricted to the one line—"Preach the Word." The emphasis is laid especially up "the Word." Here is the one text book, the one book which is to furnish subject matter for all the preaching that is done. Not science, not philosophy, neither literature, but preaching alone from the Holy Scriptures. The one thing the ministry is called to do is to declare the whole counsel of God, to announce a full Gospel, to make publication of salvation from all sin to all who have sinned, through the all-atoning blood of Jesus Christ.

There need be no fea rof one called to the ministry of running abort of something o nwhich to preach in being restricted to the Word of God for subject matter for sermons. Here is an inexhaustive mine, an unfailing store from which to draw. The fundamental doctrines revealed in the Scriptures, their many sides, from man's fall in Eden and its fearful consequences, his redemption in Christ ,u pto holiness and heaven—these give ample scope for all of man's intellectual powers in preaching.

While much of our public services are devoi dof preaching, at the same time much of the so-called preaching is far short of containing the Word of God. It is shallow, the subject matter no tthe Word of God, but things outside of that Word, till it would be a hard task for a sinner to find enough Gospel truth in the sermon to enable him to know what to do to be saved, or if saved, to discover how to reach up after higher and sweeter things in religious ex- to work out their slavation with fear and trembling. No wonder the church is losing its hold on the masses. There is very little in many of our churches to attract the masses, or to make it desirable to attend church.

If any decided improvement in religious conditions in the church is to be brought about, we must go back to the old tme way of magnifying preaching and of "preaching the Word." Ministers must be taught that the one thing God wants them to do, and that upon which the Holy Spirit puts His seal, is preaching. Let this be done, and Almighty God will take care of results. We can afford to leave the case with Him. Obedience at that vital point is bound to receive the divine blessing, just as it has always received it. Let others do as they please. We shall hold down to the apostolic injunction, "Preach the Word." The Holiness movement cannot go astray, nor will it ever be a failure, if it emphasizes and brings back to the church the old apostolic practice of preaching the Word of God.

As a member of the church you have been faithful in your attendance at its services, whether the preaching of the word, the Sabbath school or Epworth League.

As a member of the choir you have by your talents and faithfulness, rendered efficient service. When others have been absent, we have always felt we could depend on you.

Please accept these dishes, as a slight token of our esteem and affection. May you live long to eat off them the good things of life, and may they ever remind you of the Giver of all good and when life is o'er, may you partake of the good things of the heavenly kingdom. Poultry Show Will Be A Great Success

The Peterborough Poultry Association are certainly a real live aggregation, their latest idea to advertise ther show is a white feather worn by the boys on the street. They have a large banner strung across the street, advertising the dates of their Show—Jan. 10, 11, and 12. This show is certainly worth seeing. Their prospects for a bumper show this year are very bright and will eclipse other years' efforts. They will have many new features, among them an exhibit of dressed poultry from Guelph. The Association is giving prizes for dressed turkeys—$10.00—$6.00 for first prize, $3.00 for second and $1.00 for third. There should be a big entry. It is an education for the public to be able to see the best prize birds in all varieties in the province. There will be a lecture and demonstration on how to kill, pluck and dress a bird; also how to carve.

Every person suffering General Debility should take Millers Compound Iron Pills. Wm. Madill, druggist.

JUST AS YOU USED TO DO

I'm dreaming a dream in the twilight,
And the years roll away like a tide:
The silver creeps back to the golden,
And you are again at my side.
We wander through sunny, sweet meadows,
Where the snowiest daisies grew:
I am hearing you say, "I love you!"
Just as you used to do.

Just as you used to do, dear heart,
In the vanished days of yore;
I hear you softly whisper
The old sweet words once more.
Your loving arms are round me,
Your clasp so strong and true;
I hear you saying, "I love you!"
Just as you used to do.

And then I wake from my drtaming,
Awake to my lone unrest.
The daisies change to the lilies
I laid on your dear, dead breast.
But always and ever at twilight
I'll dream of the joy I knew;
I'll hear you say, "I love you!"—
Just as you used to do.

THE GREAT WORK BEING DONE ON THE PANAMA CANAL DESCRIBED

Interesting Interview With Mr. Milne Hamilton, of Peterborough—What is Being Accomplished to Join Pacific With Atlantic.

UNUSUAL INFORMATION

Mr. G. Milne Hamilton, who, for the past two years, has been a resident of Vancouver, B. C., is in town to spend Christmas with his father, Mr. Peter Hamilton. Mr. Hamilton has been two months on his way home, having taken a trip down the Pacific Coast to Panama, thence over the Panama Canal to Colon, and from Colon to New York. While on the way down to Panama, Mr. Hamilton visited all the various ports of call on the west coast of Mexico and Central America, spending some time in the interior of the various republics. He spent two weeks along the Panama Canal, watching with interest the progress of this gigantic work. Speaking of the Panama Canal to a reporter of the Examiner, Mr. Hamilton said:

The entire length of the Canal from deep water in the Atlantic to deep water in the Pacific is about [illegible]. Its length on land is [illegible].

In passing through it from the Atlantic to the Pacific, a vessel will enter a channel with a bottom width of 500 feet in Limon Bay, follow this for about seven miles to Gatun, where it will enter a series of three locks in flight and be lifted 85 feet to the level of Gatun Lake. It will sail at full ocean speed through this lake, in a channel varying from a thousand to 500 feet in width, for a distance of about 24 miles, to Bas Obispo, where it will enter the Culebra Cut. It will sail through the Cut, a distance of about nine miles, in a channel with a bottom width of 30 0feet, to Pedro Miguel. There it will enter a lock and be lowered 30½ feet to a small lake, at an elevation of 54½ feet above sea level, and will sail through this for about 1½ miles to Miraflores. There it twill enter two locks in series and be lowered to sea level, passing out into the Pacific through a channel about 8½ miles in length, with a bottom depth of 500 feet. The depth of the approach channel on the Atlantic side, where the tidal oscillation does not exceed 1½ feet, will be 41 feet at mean tide, and on the Pacific side, where the maximum oscillation is 23 feet, the depth will be 45 feet at mean tide.

GATUN DAM

The Gatun Dam, which will form Gatun Lake by impounding the waters of the Chagres and other streams, will be nearly 1¾ miles long, measured on its crest, nearly ½ mile wide at its base, about 400 feet wide at the water surface, about 100 feet wide at the top, and its crest, as planned, will be at an elevation of 115 feet above mean sea level, or 30 feet above the normal level of the Lake. The interior of the Dam will be formed of a natural mixture of sand and clay, dredged by hydraulic process from pits above and below the Dam, and placed between two large masses of rock and miscellaneous material, obtained from steam shovel excavation at various points along the Canal. The top and upstream slope will be thoroughly riprapped.

The Spillway is a concrete lined opening, 1,200 feet long and 300 feet wide, cut through a hill of rock nearly in the centre of the Dam, the bottom of the opening being 10 feet above sea level. During the construction of the Dam, all the water discharged from the Chagres and its tributaries will flow through this opening. When construction has sufficiently advanced to permit the Lake to be formed, the Spillway will be closed with a concrete dam, fitted with gates and machinery for regulating the water level of the Lake.

DAMS ON PACIFIC SIDE

The water level of Gatun Lake, extending through the Culebra Cut, will be maintained at the south end by an earth dam connecting the locks at Pedro Miguel with the high ground to the westward, about 1,200 feet long, with its crest at an elevation 108 feet above mean tide.

A small lake between the locks at Pedro Miguel and Miraflores will [illegible] of Miraflores locks with the high ground on neither side. The dam to the westward will be of earth, about 2,700 feet long, having its crest about 15 feet above the water in Miraflores Lake. The east dam will be of concrete, about 500 feet long, and will form a spillway fro Miraflores Lake, with crest gates similar to those at the spillway of the Gatun Dam.

GATUN LAKE

Gatun Lake will cover an area of 164 square miles, with a depth in the ship canal varying from 85 to 45 feet. Throughout the first 16 miles from Gatun, the width of the canal will be 1,000 feet; than for 4miles, it will be 800 feet, and for 4 miles more 500 feet, when the entrance to Culebra Cut, at Bas Obispo, will be reached. The water level in the Cut will be that of the Lake, and the bottom width of the channel will be 300 feet.

THE LOCKS

There will be 12 locks in the Canal, all in duplicate; three pairs in flight at Gatun, with a combined lift of 85 feet; one pair at Pedro Miguel, with a lift of 30½ feet, and two pairs at Miraflores, with a combined lift of 54¾ feet at mean tide. The dimensions of all are the same—a usable length of 1,000 feet, and a usable width of 110 feet. Each lock will b a chamber, with walls and floor of concrete, and water-tight gates at each end.

The side walls will be 45 to 60 feet wide at the surface of the floor; will be perpendicular on the face, and will narrow from a point 24½ feet above the floor until they are 8 feet wide at the top. The middle wall will be 60 feet wide, approximately 81 feet high, and each face will be vertical. At a point 42½ feet above the surface of the floor, and 15 feet above the top of the middle culvert, this wall will divide into two parts, leaving a space down the centre much like the letter "U," which will be 19 feet wide at the top, will be a tunnel divided into three storeys, or galleries. The lowest gallery will be for drainage; the middle, for the wires that wil carry the electric current to operate the gate and valve machinery, which will be installed in the centre wall; and the upper will be a passageway for the operators. The loc kchambers will be filled and emptied through lateral culverts in the floors, connecting with main culverts, 18 feet in diameter, in the walls, the water flowing in and out by gravity.

The loc kgates will be steel structures 7 feet thick, 65 feet long, and from 47 to 82 feet high. They will weig hfrom 300 to 660 tons each. Ninety-two leaves will be required for the entire canal, the total weight being 67,000 tons. Interchangeable gates will be used in the locks, so that [illegible] locking small vessels through, the gates being so fixed as to divide the locks into chambers 600 and 400 feet long, respectively. Ninety-five per cent. of the vessels navigating the high seas are less than 600 feet long. In the construction of the locks, it is estimated that there will be used approximately 4,500,000 cubic yards yards of concrete, requiring about the same number of barrels of cement.

No vessel will be permitted to enter or pass through the locks under its own power. Electricity will be used to tow all vessels into and through the locks, and to operate all gates and valves, power being generated by water turbines from the head created by Gatun Lake.

The time required to pass a vessel through all the locks is estimated at 3 hours, one hour and a half in the three locks on the Pacific side. The time of passage of a vessel through the entire Canal is estimated as ranging from 10 to 12 hours, according to the size of the ship, and the rat eof speed at which it can travel.

CANAL FORCE

On March 23, 1910, the total force of the Isthmian Canal Commission and Panama Railroad Company, actually at work, was 38,732, divided as follows:

Isthmain Canal Commission	4,499	26,217	30,716
Panama Railroad Co. (proper).	557	3,336	3,893
Panama Railroad Relocation....	158	3,000	3,158
Panama Railroad Commissary ...	215	750	965
Total	5,429	33,303	38,732

The gold force is made up of the officials, clerical force, construction men, and skilled artisans o fthe Isthmian Canal Commission and the th eCommission and the tsoin shride Panama Railroad. Practically all of them are Americans. The silver force represents the unskilled laborers of the Commission and the Panama Railroad. Of these, about 5,000 are Europeans, mainly Spaniards, with a few Italians and other races. The remainder, about 28,000, are West Indians, about 4,000 of whom are employed as artisans receiving 16, 20, and 25 cents, and a small number, 32 and 40 cents, an hour. The standard rate of the West Indian laborer is 10 cents an hour, but a few of these doing work of an exceptional character are paid 16 and 20 cents. The larger part of the Spaniards are paid 20 cents an hour, and the rest 16 cents an hour.

OLD FRENCH BUILDINGS

The Americans acquired from the French 2,150 buildings of various kinds. Of this number, 1,537 have been placed in use. Their estimated value at the time they were turned over to the Americans was about $2,000,000. The Commission has spent on these buildings about $890,000, making their value to-day about $2,890,000.

A MORE SANITARY SYSTEM OF SEWERAGE

crops which would also assist the process of purification. Italian rye grass is the most suitable crop for sewage farm cultivation, as it grows very rapidly and absorbs a large quantity of moisture. In England as many as three or four crops are cut during the year, and it yields a good return as a food for dairy cattle.

In a short article like this, much of importance and interest is necessarily left out, but it is hoped enough has been said to set serious minded citizens thinking of this problem, and to start them agitating for a more sanitary method of dealing with the sewage disposal than the one at present employed.

The disposal of house refuse is also of vital importance and with the increasing expansion of the city, both in buildings and population, must soon be considered by the authorities. The present system is much too primitive and unsanitary to be tolerated by a progressive and enlightened people. A competent sanitary inspector is indispensable to Peterborough.

Yours, etc.,
"SANITATION."

PRESENTED WITH PIPE

Yesterday at noon the employees of B. F. Ackerman collar department, presented their foreman, Mr. A. McColl with a handsome pipe, showing the esteem in which he is held by his men. The following address was read.

As the Christmas season is here, we, as fellow workmen, wish to express our gratitude to you, for the able manner in which you have been conducting us, as your employees, in the past. We would ask you to accept this pipe as a slight token of our estimation. Wishing that you may be long spared to fill the position that you now hold as foreman of this department. Wishing you and your family a merry Christmas and a happy New Year. Signed on behalf of the employees.

The address was read by Mr. R. Law, and the presentation was made by Mr. R. Jarvis.

Mr. McColl made a suitable reply, in which he thanked his friends for their kindness and wished them a merry Christmas.

POST CARD COLUMN

Sir.—Now that we are within one day of the Municipal nominations it may be taken for granted that all the present aldermen are ready to be candidates again (except Mr. Batten, and I am told Mr. Turner) if they are assured of a liberal support at the poll.

To every one receiving a nomination and accepting the same, an opportunity should be given to set forth his policy for the year. Let a time for a meeting be appointed on Monday that the ratepayers may have an opportunity to attend and an opportunity for discussion be given.

By some such a procedure the welfare of the city may be advanced. Let the city's interests be discussed in a free and manly way at the beginning of the year and not at the close.

George Teasdale, proprietor of the hotel in which Miss Brimacomb was murdered, was convicted at Cobourg for selling liquor without a license.

After a stormy all night session the Chamber of Deputies yesterday passed the Spanish Government's "padlock bill" by a vote of 108 to 20. This is a notable victory for Premier Canalejas.

There can be now little doubt that the St. Lawrence Bridge Co. has been as good as awarded the contract for building the superstructure of the great Quebec bridge, the cost of which will be about thirteen million dollars.

J. M. Gill, editor of El International, Tampa, Fla., the organ of the striking cigarmakers, was arrested Thursday on a charge of conspiracy to prevent cigarmakers from returning to work. He was sent to jail in default of $5,000 bond.

Baron David Guenzberg, a famous Jewish benefactor, died at St. Petersburg yesterday, aged 54 years. He was the son of Horace Ossipovitch Guenzberg, President of the Central Committee of the Jewish Colonization Co., who died in 1909.

Alex. D. Lannon, captain in the fire department, Chicago, injured at the stockyards fire Thursday, died late last night. This makes the official list of dead 24. Coroner Hoffman announced that the inquest will be opened next Wednesday morning.

The wage dispute between the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and sixty-one railroads west, north and south of Chicago became critical yesterday, and it was admitted in all quarters that a sudden break in negotiations might come. None of the parties to the controversy would talk.

A young homesteader, Edw. Staunton, living near Pine Lake, Alta., was found by two of his neighbors unconscious, with a bullet hole from a 22-calibre rifle in his forehead and another in his chest. He has not recovered consciousness to give any account of the affair. His rifle was found near him with the breach open.

Never Regained Consciousness.

Kingston, Dec. 24.—The condition of John Johnston, the Willetsholme man, accidentally shot, is very critical. On Thursday afternoon the doctors removed the bullet from his head. He has never regained consciousness since the accident happened.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—The Dominion Chelite Explosive Co. is the name of a new industry for Wallaceburg, Ont. The capital is $100,000.

Branches For T.C.R.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—Acquisition of branch lines from the Intercolonial Railway is under consideration of the board of management, which, it is understood, will endeavor to fix the price and conditions of lease before making any report to the Government.

There is a reason to believe that the new international railway across New Brunswick from Leonards to Campbellton, the Cape Breton Railway, Point Tupper to St. Peters and the coal roads in Cumberland County, N.S., are viewed favorably.

The lines are not to be bought outright, but acquired by long lease with annual payments.

Candy Kid Gets Life Sentence.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—Leigh Rhodus, known to the police as the "Candy Kid," robber, and who, when arrested in East St. Louis for burglary a month ago, confessed to two murders in Chicago, because he said he preferred a murder trial in Chicago to a burglary trial in East St. Louis, was sentenced yesterday to life imprisonment.

Rhodus gained his sobriquet of "Candy Kid" from his confession that he "robbed over one hundred parcels in Chicago that his young bride might have all the candy she wanted.

After Fire Comes Pestilence.

Minneapolis, Dec. 24.—Pestilence threatens to add its horrors to those of the forest fires that swept Beaudette and Spooner, and snuffed out thirty-two lives last October. Two thousand fire refugees, huddled together in barracks in those towns, and fed by the Red Cross Society, are in danger of smallpox contagion, introduced into the country by lumberjacks from Michigan, where the disease has been raging. Upwards of twenty cases are reported at International Falls. There is scarcely a town in Northern Minnesota without at least one case.

Gambling Raid.

Montreal, Dec. 24.—In pursuance of their sudden activity in dealing with gambling, the police yesterday made a couple of notable arrests, when Martin Finn and Eddie Sullivan were arrested on a charge of conducting a gambling place at 47 St. John street. Both men pleaded not guilty. Forty-seven St. John street at one time was one of the most extensive pool rooms in the city. It is situated in the heart of the banking and financial community.

Educationists Postpone Meeting.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—The meeting of the Dominion Educational Association, which was to have been held in Montreal in 1911, has been postponed a year, owing to the quadrennial conference of education departments of the empire being held in London in the spring of 1911.

THREATENED HIS UNCLE

Harrow Man Who Held Town at Bay With a Revolver Has Departed for the North-West

WANTED $5,000

Harrow, Ont., Dec. 24.—The siege of Harrow has been lifted. Hanlon Wright, the young desperado, who has been going about terrorizing the place with the guns he carried, in an effort to extort $5,000 from his uncle, W. G. Wright, a prosperous insurance man, has left town. He hired a livery rig and drove out of Harrow about six o'clock last evening.

Current report is that he is going to Western Canada, where gun play may be a shade more popular.

Wright was given $75 by his uncle, it is stated, and it was by this means that he was able to hire a rig. His escape is in the face of the calling in of the police from outside places. Constable Laporte came here from Amherstburg, but returned to his own place without doing anything, and no attempt was made to prevent Wright from leaving the place. A bench warrant was secured yesterday in Windsor, it is understood, but it is not known whether or not any attempt will be made to serve it, now that Wright has gone away. Harrow is rather relieved than otherwise at his departure, and his uncle, who has kept closely to his house since Monday, except when he was in Windsor, will probably share in the feeling of relief.

This exciting chapter in Harrow history is something unique in the annals of Western Ontario. Wright, who is a man of about 33, was discovered early on Monday morning patrolling the main street with a rifle and a revolver, watching for his uncle to come out of his house. He had been in the place and demanded $5,000, but, by the presence of mind of William Wright's daughter, Ella, he was enabled to evade his nephew. Young Wright then went to his father's place, outside the village, and demanded $50, which he was refused. Since that time he has kept to his house, except on a couple of occasions, when he took to the street, with his gun still on him, and during which time people kept pretty well out of his way.

The impression is that Wright is insane. William Wright received several Black Hand letters lately, and the nephew is believed to be the author of them.

Killed the Repair Man.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—Attempts of burglars two weeks ago to rob a building in Kimmell, Ind., resulted in a man's death in Chicago yesterday. The victim was trying to repair the damage done to a safe a fortnight ago.

The safe had been brought to a repair company here, and Stephen Pavletik, a safe repairer, endeavored to open the door, which had been wedged shut and the combination dial destroyed. A sledge hammer blow on the door to straighten a corner touched off a charge of nitro-glycerine, which had been behind the door ever since the attempted robbery. The safe door was blown across the room, crushing the repair man's head like an eggshell.

Struck By a Train.

North Bay, Dec. 24.—Peter Beaucage, a young Italian, was struck by a C.P.R. train, near Yellick, six miles west of North Bay, Thursday night, and seriously injured. After being struck, Beaucage laid out in the snow most of the night, in the intense cold, until discovered in a frozen condition by the crew of a freight train, who placed him on the eastbound morning express, and he was taken to North Bay Hospital. One leg and one wrist are broken, besides other injuries, and he is suffering severely from exposure.

May Lose His Feet.

Cornwall, Dec. 24.—John Jesmer, a section hand of the New York Central Railroad, son of Captain John Jesmer of Cornwall, met with a serious accident Tuesday morning, by which he may lose one of his feet. Jesmer was at work in the yards, cleaning out switches, when one of the cars which was being switched caught one of his feet, crushing it badly. He was taken to the Ogdensburg Hospital. Jesmer is about 32 years old, and lives with his wife and one child at Massena Springs.

Sold Liquor to Drunken Man.

Chatham, Dec. 24.—Georgina Yott, proprietress of the Park Hotel, was fined $10 and costs for selling liquor to a drunken man. This is the first case of its kind ever brought against a hotel in Chatham. Magistrate Houston decreed that in all future cases the maximum fine of $50 and costs will be inflicted.

Becomes C. N. R. Counsel.

Vancouver, Dec. 24.—E. P. Davis, K.C., for nineteen years chief counsel for the C.P.R. in British Columbia, has left that company to accept similar service with the Canadian Northern. J. E. McMullen, who was sent from Montreal here a couple of years ago, will assume most of the Canadian Pacific work.

Ship Arrives in New York With a Complete Menagerie on Board

New York, Dec. 24.—A python of thirty-five feet and an elephant of thirty-six inches were among the passengers on that modern Noah's Ark, the Muncaster Castle, which arrived from the Oreint yesterday. Not content with becoming a miniature zoo, the Muncaster Castle, on this trip also claims the record of saving twenty-one persons from suicide.

Just after leaving Cahina, according to her officers, the vessel picked up a dismasted ship, which had drifted 1,320 miles at the mercy of the sea. The twenty-one survivors who had had nothing to eat or drink for six days, were suffering such agonies they had determined on suicide by drowning and were about to cast themselves into the sea when they sighted the Muncaster Castle. They were rescued immediately, and landed at the first port on the Indian coast.

In addition to the gigantic python and the tiny elephant, the steamer's menagerie included dozens of snakes, none less than twenty feet long; a pig-tailed monkey, five Siamese red-faced apes, apes, a number of rare and beautiful birds, an Albion fish, and several remarkable specimens of Chinese and Japanese gold fish.

While in the Straits of Malacca one of the Chinese stokers went into the animal section and saw the snakes. Then he rushed on deck, peered over the sides, shouted that sharks had no terror for him, and dived into the sea. Second Officer C. G. Bonner ordered a boat to be lowered and a volunteer crew rescued the Chinaman, much against his will, and brought him safely back to the stoke-room. The luckless stoker was over-awed by his thirty-six other fellows in the stokehold, who considered he had a "bad joss," and regarded him with evil eyes.

Too Drunk to Testify.

Berlin, Ont., Dec. 24.—"It is gross contempt of court," is what Justice Clute in the non-jury sitting of the high court termed the non-appearance of David Adair, chief witness for the defence in the Suddaby-Lonsbury agreement of sale case, when Lawyer Hanning, K.C., informed the court that Adair could not be present on account of his intoxicated condition, and asked for an adjournment.

"If you bring him here in that condition I will send him down," observed his lordship.

Broke Into Postoffice.

St. Thomas, Dec. 24.—Returning to his store at 10.15 Thursday night, George Fife, keeper of a general store and postoffice at Orwell, disturbed three burglars, who made a hasty exit through the window by which they had entered, taking $20 in cash with them.

Had they not been disturbed they would probably have got $100 in cash in the till of the postoffice. The men went eastward. No clue to their identity. The Aylmer police are investigating.

MOB BURNS STREET CAR

Frenzied Rioters in Winnipeg Attack Trolley and Destroy it by Igniting Stuffing in Cushions

MOTORMAN HURT

Winnipeg, Dec. 24.—The most serious disturbance since the inauguration of the street railway strike took place last night in the same locality as the previous big disturbance, but the damage done was considerably more, a car being burned so that only the shell remains.

A belt line car had been stalled at the corner of Logan avenue west and Gallagher street, owing to the fact that the power had failed. At this point there are no street lamps, and whoever was on the track in the darkness, with only the motorman and the conductor inside, waiting until the power had been restored. Strike sympathizers passing by noticed the car, halted first, suspecting it was a police trap, paid no attention. One man, bolder than the rest climbed to the rear and adjusted the pole to the wire. As no lights came on, the real condition of affairs became known, and a crowd of about a thousand rapidly assembled.

In a few moments bottles, stones and pieces of ice were rained at the car. The windows went like paper, and the motorman received a very bad cut over the eye. The conductor escaped uninjured.

The cry then went up, "Burn the car," and this the crowd quickly set about to do. The stuffing was torn from the cushions, and a bale of cotton batting was secured nearby. These were piled on the floor and ignited. In a few minutes it was a burning mass.

The fire crew from the Weston Hall turned out as soon as it was known, and managed to put out the blaze, but all that was left was the shell and iron works. The police were also telephoned for as soon as the crowd assumed a serious aspect, but so quickly was the work done that when they arrived there was no one around the burning car. The car was valued at $8,000, but the loss will not be a total one.

A belt line car at the corner of Frances and Notre Dame had stopped to allow some passengers to alight, when a revolver shot came crashing through the skylight. From the direction it came it appears to have been fired from an elevation, but the culprit escaped. Bottles were fired through a window of a Broadway car, but no one was hurt. There were several ladies and children on the car.

Wm. Mullin and Albert Bradley were arrested, charged with throwing bottles through a car window. Bail was refused, as they are said to formerly have been in the employ of the street railway.

So far as the daily handling of traffic is concerned the city is quiet.

Cars, while not running on time, are plentiful enough, and so far all accidents have been minor ones.

A few missiles are still flying, but nobody has received injury of any magnitude in this strike, which is now in its eighth day. Guards at the car barns are very vigilant, but policemen no longer ride on every car.

The Garment Makers' Union on Thursday night resolved to permit none of its members to assist in making uniforms for the new employes of the company, and also to withdraw the union label from any shop making uniforms for them. However, the firm that has the contract, a Manitoba clothing company, in response to a query, offered to bet $10,000 that their employes were making the uniforms. This was in response to a statement by the secretary of the Garment Workers' Union, that no member of the union is working on any garments. A committee of this union will visit every tailor in the city to interest them in the car strikers' cause.

Fears Re-Arrest.

Winnipeg, Dec. 24.—Savyo Fedorenko, the Russian refugee, whose extradition warrant was recently annulled in the King's Bench, is in hiding, as his friends expect that an attempt will be made to re-arrest him before long. He intends, however, to appear publicly on the stage of the Queen's Theatre on Sunday afternoon, in order to thank, through an interpreter, a mass meeting for help and sympathy of the public during his captivity.

Land Stranger of United States.

Berlin, Dec. 24.—The political situation in Cuba is discussed in this evening's Post, which says: "The object behind the, biased and highly-colored despatches regarding Cuba is quite clear. The Americans' land hunger is not satisfied with the present dependent position of Cuba, and they are striving for its complete annexation by the United States as soon as possible.

"Consumption"

Three Doctors Attended Her. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup Cured Her.

It has long been known that the balsamic odor of the newly cut pine tree heals and invigorates the lungs and consumptives improve and revive amid the perfume of the pines. Since but few can command the luxury of a visit to the pineries, it will be good news to many to know that the essential healing principle of the pine has been separated, and refined, and combined with other absorbent, expectorant and soothing medicines of recognized worth in the manufacture of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Mrs. Charles McDermott, Bathurst, N.B., writes: "I thought I would write and let you know the benefit I have received through the use of your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Three years ago I had Consumption and had three doctors attending me, and they were very much alarmed about my condition. I was so weak and miserable I could not do my housework. While looking through your A.B.C. almanac I saw that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup was good for weak lungs so I got a bottle and after taking ten bottles I was completely cured. At that time I weighed 120 pounds and now weigh 172, a gain of 52 pounds in three years. I now keep it in the house all the time and would not be without it for anything as I owe my life to it."

JUNIORS AND INTERMEDIATES HAVE A LIVELY GAME

The Peterborough intermediate and junior O. H. A. teams had a lively praticise game at Brock street rink last night, with Mr. W. J. O'Brien handling the bell. The two teams cut out a rattling pace from the start and went the hour at top speed, both showing good form. The intermediates who were shy the services of Kelley and Sorel, their two wings, outscored the Colts 4 to 1, but they had their work cut out for them, as the youngsters uncovered any amount of ginger and speed and worked from the drop of the hat. It was a great workout for both teams and the players will soon be in mid-winter form. The teams were:

Juniors — Goal, Patterson; point, Reynolds; cover pratt (Anderson); rover, Coughlin; centre, Hall; right wing, Anderson (McMartin); left wing, Giroux.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

A FINE LOT.

BELLEVILLE, DEC. 23.—The lineup of Belleville and Trenton professional teams, which play here on Monday next, is given out by 'Buck' Irving as follows:

Tooze formerly played with Toronto professionals, while Doran worked with Toronto and Pittsburg. Mallen is one of Galt's last year men, and Moffatt played in Ottawa with Cliffsides. The Godwin brothers have been with the Capitals in Ottawa. Smith battled for Shamrocks in Montreal. McMillan will arrive in time for Monday's game. He is practising daily in Cornwall.

The Centenial hockey team of Toronto, winners of the Toronto Senior Hockey League, have written the secretary of the Peterborough Hockey Club, asking for a game here with the intermediates on New Year's night.

There will be a general practice of both intermediate and junior O. H. A. teams on Christmas morning between 10.30 and 11.30 o'clock. A full attendance is expected.

A LAD FROM OLD IRELAND

An Interesting Picture Being Shown at the Princess

An interesting picture is being shown at the Princess theatre to-day that should be seen by every one. It is entitled "A Lad From Old Ireland" and is the first film on record which shows pictures taken on both sides of the Atlantic as well as mid-ocean scenes. The film is wonderfully realistic, one of the clearest and lifelike ever seen here. Mr. Loftus has a Christmas song that is particularly suited to the holiday season.

POPULAR FOREMAN

Mr. E. J. Sharrard Presented With Handsome Shaving Set

Mr. Ed. Sharrard, the forman of the Examiner news room, was agreeably surprised by the employees of that department yesterday afternoon when they waited upon him and presented him with a handsome shaving set. He is most popular with the men of his department, and they felt that they could not allow the Christmas season to go by without attesting to their esteem. The presentation was made by Mr. Jas. Anglesey, while an address was read by Mr. Jas. Browne.

SERVICE AT CRYSTAL

A good way to spend next Sunday evening would be to drop into the Crystal Theatre and have a sing. You remember how you used to gather around the piano at home on Sunday nights and sing the good old hymns. How could you spend Christmas better than in fond recollection of those happy days. There is a fellowship about the singing in the Crystal that makes a fellow feel right at home. You can't get away from it. It has a warm feel. Mr. J. J. Thompson will say a few words, basing his remarks on the grand old Christmas story. There will be some special singing, but the special feature of the gathering will be found in the hearts of the men who compose the audience, who are far away from home and whose thoughts will be of home and of the dear ones there.

The Sunday Morning Bible Study Club will meet in the parlour tomorrow morning and the Boys' Class will meet up in their own room. Mr. Hodges will teach the boys in the absence of Mr. Tait.

The building will be open on Sunday afternoon from 4 o'clock to 5.30. During this time there will be a Bible Class, which will meet in front of the Fireplace. This class will study "Life Questions and Their Answers". The question for to-morrow will be "Wherewithal shall a Young Man Cleanse His Ways?"

COULD YOU USE THIS MONEY

Believing that we can save the student from $100 to $250 on the cost of a course in stenography (even though it necessitates going from his own town or city) and still give him an education, which is fully the equal of any, we offer to pay fare up to $10 to the first person enrolling from any municipality. This is done to convince out-of-town persons that 30-day stenography is really and truly genuine. We can afford to do this. We have enrolled 17 students from Orillia this year, although they have their own Pitman College. We have enrolled five from Lindsay, four from Galt, etc., etc., because one satisfied graduate carried home the truth. Write for full particulars. Moon College, 282-286 Yonge Street, Toronto.

ANNUAL OFFERING TO THE CLERGY WILL BE TAKEN

The Bishop of Toronto has sent the following pastoral to each church in his diocese:

Bishop's Room, Toronto, Dec. 10.

To the Churchwardens and Lay Members of the Church of England in the Diocese of Toronto:—

Dear Brethren,—The joyous season of Christmas will soon be with us, the one occasion in the year when you have the opportunity of expressing in a practical way your appreciation of the faithful and devoted services of him who ministers to you as your "Man of God." This occasion you will, I am sure, avail yourself of, and once more, as in the past, so again this Christmas Day you will afford substantial evidence to him of your loving thought for him and his.

It is a happy custom this, of remembering in the midst of so many other calls upon your affection and consideration, the one who holds the closest spiritual relation to you, and its practical expression year after year, I can assure you has given more pleasure and satisfaction than you can ever know.

It is not for me to tell you of the difficulties the Clergy have to contend with in the matter of small stipends, and stipends irregularly paid, you must be aware of them and the clergy have no desire to have them paraded. But this much I may say, there will be a use found for every dollar which you in your generosity may see fit to give to this offering, and while it may have to be applied to purposes and objects for which you may see no visible result, yet its being so applied will have lifted a load of concern from the heart of your Clergyman.

Brethren the times are good, never better, there is no way in which your man of God can share in the general prosperity which surrounds him, save by the generous gifts of those who feel that as he is debarred from lucrative callings by his sacred Ministry, he ought to participate in the general prosperity of the community, and this he can only do through your liberality. In all your giving then this Christmas-tide, remember him 'who watches for your soul as one who must give an account,' and let him be a sharer with you of the good things wherewith God has blessed you.

With every Christmas wish and blessing,

Your faithful Friend and Bishop,
JAMES TORONTO,

N.B.—Christmas Day falling this year upon a Sunday, I request the Church wardens to see to it that the annual offering to the clergy be not affected by the regular collections of the day. J. T.

INFLUENCE OF CHILD PLAYS LARGE PART IN FREDERIC CLARKE'S PRODUCTION OF "THE MANXMAN"

That a child can be the medium of reconciliation between parents is a well recognized fact; that love for a child may change the entire aspect of a person's career; that reformation is brought about in more ways than one, through the influence of a child's affection; that love of children denotes an affectionate and kindly spirit; that no human being can be thoroughly bad and beyond redemption, who shows a spark of sympathy and generosity where children are concerned.

These are but a few of the outward indications of the pulsations of the human heart in man and woman. As it is in life, so it is on the stage. However bad the hero or heroine may seem to be, a spark of affectionate leaning toward a child makes the auditor have a kindly feeling for the character under interpretation. It is in Frederic Clarke's new play, "The Manxman," adapted by Adeline M. Leitzbach, from Hall Caine's famous novel, that a child plays a very important part. It is through the medium of a child that Kate awakens to the realization of her false position in life.

In the story, as it is acted, the child is little in evidence, but it is the influence of the child that is illustrated in the development of the story which reaches emotional, even sounding tragic depths, in the life history of Pete and Kate.

It is in the role of Pete that Mr. Clarke will be seen at the Grand on Wednesday next, Dec. 28.

TWO MILES IN THE AIR

World's Record for Altitude Beaten by Moxey at Los Angeles Yesterday

IN A TERRIFIC GALE

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 27.—Seventy thousand people saw Arch Hoxsey of the Wright team of aviators break the world's record for altitude here yesterday. He soared more than two miles up into the sky, or almost a thousand feet more than the 10,499 fee, recently attained by Le Gagneux at Pau, France. Hoxsey accomplished his feat in a 40-mile gale, which wrecked Hubert Latham's Antoinette monoplane, and kept more cautious aviators on the ground.

Hoxsey sailed into the syk at one o'clock. At 2.45 his barograph showed the greatest height. He was then flying over Venice, a seashore resort, more than twenty miles from the aviation field.

Coming down, he made a series of thrilling spirals while thousands of feet in the air. Before he came lightly to earth, the crowd was on its feet cheering. He was lifted from his biplane by fellow aviators, who paraded up and down before the grand stand, bearing him upon their shoulders.

"Was it windy up there?" he was asked.

"It blew so hard," replied Hoxsey, "that my machine hardly moved, and barely held its own. It was so cold that more than once I thought my carburetter was about to freeze.

"I made the record because I determined to keep on going up until I passed Le Gagneux's record, or until the carburetter froze."

The gale which Hoxsey and his brethren of the Wright camp, Parmalee and Brookins, braved successfully, wrecked Latham's beautiful Antoinette machine completely. The Frenchman was among the aviators who answered the starting gun at one o'clock. For two hours and fifteen minutes he fought the wind, which blew directly off the ocean, six miles from the aviation field. Then an adverse current sent his aeroplane downward into a fence under the brow of a hill, and threw the aviator into a gully.

The Frenchman was unhurt, but his machine was a tangled mass of wires and silken fabric. The motor was the only part left intact, and Latham said that, having enough parts for three extra machines, he would build a new monoplane, and be in the air again before the end of the meet.

Notwithstanding the high wind Parmalee, driver of the "Baby" Wright, attained an altitude of 6,825 feet, and went through spectacular performances, apparently with ease.

Telegraph certificates of the barograph reading of Hoxsey's record flight were sent to Clifford B. Harmon and J. K. Duffy, the president and secretary of the National Federation of Aero Clubs of America.

Burns on Fatal Car.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Funeral services of public character were held yesterday for Fireman James Haron, who met his death in the stock yards fire Thursday with twenty-two others. Mayor Fred A. Busse rode in the mourners' section, and Chief of Police Leroy Steward led several platoons of police on foot. Acting Fire Marshal Charles Zieferlich, who arrived at the blaze Thursday a moment after his chief had been buried beneath the falling walls, marched at the head of the section of the firemen. The corpse, borne on a horse cart, was accompanied by a guard of honor of the fire department division heads, and was followed by a line of equipages extending back for a mile and a half.

FOUR GIRLS PERISHED

Acetylene Gas Explodes in Quebec Family's Home and Children Lose Their Lives in Fire

A TERRIBLE FATALITY

Montreal, Dec. 27.—A special from Warwick, Que., reports a sad fatality at that place. Rachel, 7 years; Lucinne, 5 years; Marcel, 4 years, and Marie Anne, 3 years, daughters of Ovide Baris, a well-known citizen, having been burned to death on Christmas Eve. This is a particularly sad case, as four of five children, all girls, have been taken from them.

The terrible disaster was caused by the explosion of an acetyline gas apparatus blowing the side out of the house and severely injuring Mr. and Mrs. Baris, who, with their youngest child, were sleeping below.

Flames cut off the four children at once, and the father was bodily burned attempting a rescue. When the local fire brigade had extinguished the fire, the little bodies, almost burned to a crisp, were removed.

Twins Burned to Death.

Weston, Va., Dec. 27.—During breakfast yesterday morning a lamp exploded in the bedroom at the home of Eldo Eech, at Byron, and burned to death twin boy babies, six months old. The home with all its contents were burned.

Tries to Hang Himself.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 27.—Ralph Shannon, 20 years of age, died at his home here yesterday in convulsions, resulting from an attempt to hang himself because his mother would not let him go to a moving picture show. The child wished to go to the show Saturday afternoon and when his mother told him to stay at home, he went to a woodshed in the rear of the house and tried to hang himself with a skate-strap. After he had fastened the strap so that his feet barely touched the ground he became frightened and screamed for help. His mother rescued him, but the boy went from one convulsion into another and died.

Two Dead; Four Injured.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 27.—Decorations for Christmas at the home of Daniel O'Connor, a mail carrier, ended in a fire which cost the lives of his two babies, seriously injured four other persons and destroyed the O'Connor home. The injured are: Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor, Owen Peterson and Patrolman Schott, all burned while trying to save the children. A lamp used to light the fireplace exploded, setting fire to the house.

Heroic Husband Loses Life.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 27.—In attempting to rescue his wife from their burning home, H. Kellemeyer was burned to death, while his wife, trapped in a second storey room by the flames, escaped by jumping from a window.

Kellemeyer made two trips into the burning building and rescued his five children. He was on his third trip after his wife when he met death.

Suicides Amid Christmas Gifts.

Charlton Depot, Mass., Dec. 27.—The Christmas spirit did not lessen the melancholia which had possessed Henry Ryan for some time, and, surrounded by Christmas evergreens and the gifts of the day at his home, he stretched himself on a sofa, and, placing a shotgun muzzle in his mouth, discharged the weapon.

His wife and three children, who were at church, found his body with the head horribly disfigured when they returned.

Couple Asphyxiated.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 27.—James Tierry, 29 years old, and his wife, Margaret, 19 years old, to whom he had been married but a year, were found dead in bed from gas asphyxiation yesterday at the home of a friend, with whom they had spent the night. It is supposed that after the gas was turned out it was accidentally turned on again.

Musician Is Maimed.

Rome, Ga., Dec. 27.—As a result of his first experience with fireworks, Alex. Skibinski, a Russian violinist and professor in Shorter College here, never will be able to play his violin again. Skibinski, who has been in America only since last September, went to a store Saturday night and called for Roman candles. Instead he was given a giant firecracker. The cracker exploded in his hand, tearing away three fingers. Mrs. Skibinski, also a teacher in the college, was standing nearby and was rendered permanently deaf in one ear by the explosion.

Three Asphyxiated.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 27.—Three men are dead, two are dying and four others are seriously ill from gas poisoning caused by a leaky main under a rooming house. The three men who died have not been identified.

Two Men Drown.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 27.—While attempting to reach the bark Kingdom of the Holy Ghost and Us Society in a dory, two men were drowned in Chesapeake Bay off Ocean View Sunday night. The men came ashore to mail Christmas letter to friends and on their return trip ventured out in a 30-mile northwest gale. In attempting to cross a sandbar the dory was swamped. Five others in the boat were rescued.

Powder Explosion Kills Man.

Beaumont, Texas, Dec. 27.—As a part of the Christmas celebration Robert Herrington and a companion planned to explode a quantity of dynamite near Orange, Texas. It was their plan to convey the explosive in a buggy to a point several miles from Orange. The jostling of the vehicle caused a premature explosion and Herrington is dead and his companion slightly injured.

Lynched Sheriff's Slayer.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 27.—Oscar Chittwood, charged with having killed Sheriff Jake Houpt in Hot Springs, Ark., last August, was taken from the county jail at Hot Springs yesterday and shot to death. His body was riddled with bullets.

Threatened Several Persons.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Dec. 27.—Emanuel Provost, hailing from Quebec, was taken by the police Sunday night while in a demented condition. He is said to have threatened several persons, and is considered dangerous to be at large.

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

Good Tidings of Joy Which Shall Be to All

When Will Come the Long-Promised Peace.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Dec. 25.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle preached here yesterday in the afternoon on "The Great Hereafter" and in the forenoon from the text below quoted. On both occasions his audiences sat spellbound for a much longer time than the majority have been in the habit of listening to a discourse. Deep eagerness was also manifested to receive from the ushers at the close free copies of Pastor Russell's Booklet on "What Say the Scriptures About Hell." The speaker said:—

Eighteen centuries and more have passed since Israel's greatest Prophet, Jesus, sent forth his message of reconciliation to God. At the time of his birth angel visitors, announcing him, declared that his birth signified "good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people" and that this would mean "peace on earth and good will amongst men" (Luke ii, 10, 11). Yet after eighteen centuries these prophecies are still unfulfilled. We find the world in more warlike condition at present than ever before. Europe has a standing army of over a million of the picked men of its several nations. And even our own country has deemed it necessary to considerably increase its standing army. On every sea are great battleships requiring thousands of men and millions of dollars for their up-keep, not to mention the millions of dollars which they originally cost.

And still more war vessels are planned with greater guns, some of which expend thousands of dollars for powder and shells for even one day's target practice. It is safe to say, too, that the chief interest in and chief backing of recent experiments in aerial navigation came from the War Departments of Christendom, which see in such devices a new method of warfare. And the latest information is that a new torpedo has recently been invented more powerful, more destructive, more terrible, than any previous device.

What means this great battle array, this preparation for a great struggle between the nations? Why do not the nations disband their armies and dismantle their navies and turn these wasted energies to human profit, to making the earth to blossom as the rose? The answer is Sin. Sin marred the original God-likeness of love in the human heart and, instead, implanted the opposite disposition of selfishness. By heredity sin and selfishness have permeated our race. As we read, "Behold, I was shapen in iniquity; in sin did my mother conceive me" (Psalm li, 5). This is true of the entire human family. We gloss the surface. We make a show of giving a little money for the education of the heathen. We make a little show of religious activity in Christendom, but the great surplus of wealth is spent in self-gratification — alcoholic beverages alone consuming manyfold the amount doled out to benevolent enterprises of all kinds.

For centuries the world has been crying out, "Peace, Peace; yet there is no peace," but still greater preparation for war. Why? Because, despite our gloss of civilization, the world well knows its own selfishness, its own greed, its own thirst for power and its wisely reasons that in others selfishness and greed similarly rule. Hence, with all their protestations of friendship all the Governments of the world distrust, disbelieve one another. And now we have reached a place where the disbanding of the armies of the world would be a dangerous matter.

Your Time Is Not Yours

It Belongs to Those Depending on You. For Their Sakes Preserve Health and Strength.

You never thought of it just this way before. While not feeling well you have neglected to take active means of restoring health, thinking all the time that you were the only one to suffer by delay.

Not so. For who among us has not someone depending on him for comfort, happiness or the means of livelihood?

When you lie awake nights, worrying over little things, get nervous and irritable, have indigestion and headaches, you may be sure the nervous system is becoming exhausted.

Time is not yours to delay. You must call a halt to the wasting process. Otherwise you will have a rude awakening some day, when prostrations, paralysis or locomotor ataxia lays you low. For such is the natural and inevitable result of neglected nervous diseases.

You can restore the nervous system by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. Being composed of Nature's most potent nerve restoratives, it cannot fail to benefit you. Each dose must of necessity bring you nearer to health, strength and vigour.

Mr. William Brandon, Victoria street, Strathroy, Ont., writes: "Before using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food my nervous system seemed all unstrung. I could not sleep, had no appetite, hands and feet were cold, my digestion was poor and I had jerking of the limbs. The first box of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food helped me, and I continued until I had taken twenty-four boxes. This treatment has made a radical change in my condition, building up the system and strengthening the nerves."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Another million of men thrown on the labor market, already glutted, would be dangerous. And to leave our cities unprotected would invite anarchy in every land. We are not endeavoring to discourage peace conferences and federations. We are merely calling attention to facts—indisputable facts.

The Scriptures graphically describe our present condition. They give us a word-painting of what is now going on, saying, "Beat your plow-shares into swords and your pruning-hooks into spears. Let the weak beast that they are strong" and endeavor to keep pace with the strong. "Come, get ye down to the Valley of Jehoshophat"—the valley of death—the place of the great struggle with which the reign of the Prince of Darkness shall terminate and which will prepare the way for Messiah's Kingdom (Joel iii, 9-13).

Thank God for the assurances of his Word that the great "time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation," which is about to burst upon the world, whose masses are better educated than ever before and trained to the use of all military equipments, will be but a short struggle! The intimation of the Scriptures is that if those days should not be shortened, no flesh would survive. But for the elect's sake—by virtue of the Kingdom of God's elect being established—those days shall be shortened. Then will come the reign of the Prince of Peace and, as the prophets declare, he shall be like unto Solomon who had no wars, but to whom every knee bowed and every tongue confessed. His Kingdom of righteousness will be a Kingdom of peace, notwithstanding the fact that it will be ushered in by such a time of trouble.

But do the Scriptures contradict themselves? What did the Great Teacher mean when he declared, "I come not to send peace on the earth, but a sword?" (Matthew x. 34.) Ah! he referred prophetically to the effect which his gracious message of love and favor would produce in the world during the reign of sin. He well knew that the Prince of Darkness would oppose all of his followers, as well as himself. He foretold that whosoever would live godly would suffer persecution—and so it has been. Eighteen centuries have proven it! He sent forth his followers, like himself, unarmed, to be peacemakers, to be helpers, to "follow peace with all men and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." He counselled his followers, "He that taketh the sword shall perish by the sword." But their message of peace and love and the coming Kingdom which shall bless the whole world and fulfill the angelic prophecy of our text—these things seem to anger the world—not merely the vicious, the ungodly, but the worldly professors of godliness, who have schemes and plans and theories of their own to work out which are contrary to the Gospel Message. The darkness, more or less mixed with selfishness, hateth the light, the Truth, the love of God, neither cometh to the light, lest its deeds of darkness, selfishness, selfish ambition and hypocrisy should be made manifest.

The Master knew what the effects of his Gospel Message would be in the world and that only those who would compromise his Message could possibly live at peace—that all who would be loyal and faithful to him would be traduced, slandered, persecuted—"beheaded," either literally or figuratively. His words, therefore, were a prophecy respecting the tribulations which all his footstep followers would surely have.

But more than this, his words were a prophecy respecting the nations. What is it that has brought us to our present degree of civilized savagery? What is it that makes of every business corporation a buccaneer seeking the destruction of every competing financial craft? What is it that has thus sharpened the wits of humanity to such an extent that the majority find it difficult to be honest, because they see so many opportunities for dishonesty, while it is impossible for lawmakers to make new laws with sufficient rapidity to keep pace with the intelligent methods of circumvention.

The laws, doctrines, of Christ are, in a certain sense, responsible for all this. The liberty wherewith Christ makes free his followers and the light which he and they let shine upon a darkened world, received in part into unsanctified hearts and minds, have given wisdom that, misapplied, we call cunning and craft. The proof of what we say is found in the fact that other nations than those which have received this reflected light of Christianity are still quite in the background. Only now, as Christian civilization in a perverted form is reaching these peoples are they awakening and becoming competitors with so-called Christendom.

In our advanced conceptions of finance, warfare, etc., a pertinent question worthy of deep thought, is, Will it be possible to live in the world at all after the greatest financial minds shall have "trust-ified" all of the world's business, and after the labor organizations shall have had their say as to who shall and who shall not earn a living, and after the teeming millions of China and Japan shall have become thoroughly civilized and Christianized after the nominal sort? Would not the hordes of the Far East overwhelm the comparatively little handful of Europe and America? What is the prospect of the fulfillment of the prophecy of our text—"Peace on earth, good will toward men?" There is no prospect from the earthly sources toward which we have been looking. If that prophecy is ever to be fulfilled it must be by some Divine intervention in human affairs.

Notwithstanding the eighteen centuries of delay our text as a prophecy will supply be fulfilled, and be fulfilled, too, by and through the [illegible] birth in most exemplary [illegible]

ed to-day. The Great Teacher, questioned by Pilate, answered that he was born to be a King—the King of the Jews; but he also added, "My Kingdom is not of this Age." How true! Many of us have gotten the wrong impression—that our Redeemer has been waging, as the Great King of Glory, an unsuccessful warfare for eighteen centuries against Satan, sin and death. But here we learn from the Great Teacher's own lips that his Kingdom is not of this Age. It belongs to the "world to come"—the Age to come.

Do we inquire, then, who has been the ruler of this world, this Age? The answer of the Master is that Satan is the Prince of this world. He is a usurper. The dominion of earth was given to man. But Satan, deceiving our race, putting darkness for light, has become thereby the real ruler, using humanity merely as his tools. He is styled "the god of this world," and the "Prince of this world," or age. And we are told again that "He now worketh in the hearts of the children of disobedience." When we reflect how many of humanity are disobedient, we see the vastness of the Empire controlled by the Prince of Darkness. And when we see the few, comparatively, who are soldiers of the cross and followers of the Lamb we perceive that, as the Master said, his following during this age is to be a "little flock."

Perplexed and confused many may ask, What, then, is the hope of the fulfillment of our text, "Peace on earth, good will toward men?" We answer that our Master, who declared that he was not the Prince of this age, declared also that his Kingdom of the next age will be introduced with power and great glory and that, although its initial manifestation will be with clouds and darkness and a time of trouble such as never before has been, nevertheless his reign will be glorious, triumphant and eternal. "He shall take unto himself his great power and reign" until "he shall have put all enemies under his feet"; "the last enemy that shall be destroyed is death." "Unto him every knee shall bow and every tongue confess."

The victory of Emanuel means the overthrow of sin—the crushing of the serpent's head. At the very beginning of his glorious reign Satan shall be bound and following its close he shall be destroyed in the Second Death, together with all those who love unrighteousness, after they shall have had full knowledge and full opportunity for recovery from the snares of sin and death. Then, indeed, the whole world will proclaim the glory of God. There will no longer be discordant sounds. As the Scriptures declare, There shall be no more crying, no more sighing, no more dying—all the former things of sin and death shall have passed away (Rev. xxi. 4).

The great King who, eighteen centuries ago, died, the Just for the unjust, that he might, judicially, bring mankind back into harmony with God, is to be the Great King of earth, the great Restorer of all that was lost in Adam, and he will make all things new" (Revelation xxi. 5).

Everything appertaining to the great Plan of Salvation outlined in the Word of God is reasonable. The crucial testing of the elect Church is necessary in order that, as faithful and merciful priests of God and of Christ, associated with him in his kingly glory, they may be God's instrumentality in succoring mankind from the fallen conditions which have resulted from six thousand years of sin, and from the malignant influence of the Prince of Darkness, during the thousand years which the Bible stipulates as the period of Messiah's reign (Revelation xx. 6) a period neither too long nor too short in which to accomplish the great work of the world's salvation.

True, some one might say, If it has required eighteen centuries for the development of the Church, how much more time will be necessary for the uplifting of the world? But we answer that it is not the Divine Purpose to uplift the world to the station of spirit nature and glory, but rather to restitution blessings and conditions. It is because of the high exaltation offered to the Church that such crucial testings of sacrificial obedience even unto death is required. With the Prince of darkness bound and the Sun of Righteousness arising with healing in its beams the darkness of sin and crime and sorrow will soon flee away.

One century of such blessed influence upon the world will surely work wonders, bringing in also inventions and comforts and blessings, as yet undreamed of. Next will come the gradual awakening of all who have fallen asleep in death. They will come forth from the prison-house of death, as the Scriptures declare; will come forth that they may be made acquainted with the true God and with his glorious Son, the Redeemer, and with the principles of righteousness in contrast with the principles of sin.

We cannot suppose that it will require the majority of men, under those conditions, to sit long counting the value of the blessings of eternal life and restitution proffered them. The upward move, resurrection, uplifting, regeneration, will go rapidly on, while meantime, generation after generation shall come forth from the tomb and enjoy similar experiences. Finally all shall have come forth, because the love of God made this provision through the death of our Redeemer, who delighted to do the Father's will and who has already been rewarded gloriously with high exaltation to the divine plane of glory, honor immortality.

The attainment of the condition of good will amongst men will mean the attainment of human perfection. God is Love. And when our first parents were created an earthly image of God, love must have been the predominant quality of their characters. What we see of selfishness is largely a matter of heredity, and all of life's customs are in line with it and continually increasing its weight and its hold upon us. But with the new King and the new reign of righteousness will come the glorious uplifting and transformation. Gradually, during the thousand years of Messiah's domination of the world, the evils of selfishness will be made apparent and the injustice of holiness and love will be shown in contrast.

Finally, dear friends, how glad we are that this is true; how glad we are that the terrible falsehoods palmed off on us during the Dark Ages respecting a God of hatred and a hell of torture everlasting are not true!

Galton's Career.

Sir Francis Galton, to whom the Copley Medal has been awarded for his researches on heredity, has been a Fellow of the Royal Society for many years, and holds both its Gold Medal and Darwin Medal. He is now nearing the end of his 88th year, having had a wonderfully varied and distinguished career. Sir Francis has been a traveler; he was among the pioneer explorers of Southwest Africa in the days before Ladysmith received its name. The personal friend of many Victorian scientists and men of letters, he has given a fascinating account of them in "Memories of My Life." It is to Sir Francis that the Criminal Investigation Department owes its finger-print system.

What He Did.

"What did young Mr. Popinjay do when your father had kicked him down the front steps because he tried to kiss you?"

"Oh, he stood out on the sidewalk and made a few cursory remarks."

Cruelty to Women.

We wonder what death the man will die or what tortured life he will be caused to lead who discovered the little "trick" by which a woman's age can be ascertained beyond a doubt—that is to say, while her health is normal. The only instrument required is an ordinary watch. The wrist of the lady whose age is in question is the telltale, for when you count her pulse and it registers sixty-nine beats per minute you know that she is between twenty and twenty-five years old. During the next five years seventy-one beats go to the minute, and the "femme de trente ans" and over is entitled to seventy throbs. It is a pity the man of science who established these facts is not more exact when dealing with the women of riper age, for, according to rumor and tradition, it is only after she is thirty that a woman begins to leave off having birthdays.—Westminster Gazette.

Dropping Coaches on the Run.

The ingenious means by which one of the great railroad systems of England drops passenger coaches off at intermediate stations without slowing up the locomotive, even for a fraction of a second, in its speed of sixty or more miles an hour is called the "slip coach" system and is described in Popular Mechanics. It is a system never tried in America and consists in dropping, or "slipping," one or more of the rear coaches just before the station is reached. Undoubtedly many American tourists in England after alighting at their destination have been amazed to discover that the coach which they occupied was still beside them, while the locomotive and the remainder of the train were nowhere to be seen.

As George Sees the Peers.

"David Lloyd George," said the miner from Wales, "is a very witty speaker. I've heard him many a time in Carnarvon. Speaking in Welsh, he once ridiculed in Carnarvon the house of lords. He said the average peer thought so much of himself at family prayers he always made one well known passage run: /

"'Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of lords forever.'"—London Globe.

His Wish.

"Life is something of a game after all," said the cynical person.

"Perhaps," replied Mr. Meekton, "but I wish Henrietta wouldn't regard it as bridge, with me forever playing opposite as dummy." — Washington Star.

Fresh Air in Winter

In winter, it is hard to get fresh air in certain rooms. Some rooms in a house are usually colder than others, and if you open the windows it is hard again to heat the room properly.

If you keep the windows closed you don't get fresh air; if you keep them open you cannot quickly reheat the room. The solves the difficulty. You can leave the windows in a room open all day in winter, and when you close them apply a match to a Perfection Oil Heater and heat the room to any temperature you desire in a few minutes.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel. It burns for nine hours. It has a cool handle and a damper top. It has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be quickly cleaned. An indicator always shows amount of oil in the font.

The filler-cap does not need to be screwed down. It is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently, it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for rewicking. The Perfection Oil Heater is strong, durable, well made, built for service, yet light and ornamental.

A MENTAL PHOTOGRAPH.

Or Might It Have Been a Dream of a Somnambulist?

By EDWIN B. KERNOCHEN.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

In New Hampshire is a lake half a dozen miles long by from half to three quarters of a mile wide where I once spent my summer vacation. The house in which I stopped was on a point jutting out into the lake, and, sitting on a porch, I could look across a little bay to a wooded margin, with high hills beyond. Nestling under trees on the water's edge was a white house with a balcony overhanging the lake.

I would sit by the hour looking at this bit of water view and especially the house with the overhanging balcony. There was nothing remarkable about it. It was simply as I have described it. Nevertheless there grew up in my mind something strange, something vague, as though I was cognizant of a happening there. But what that happening was, whether it was then occurring or had occurred in the past, was not revealed to me. Nevertheless it seemed to me, sitting there looking at the place, that my mind was acting like a camera in which a plate after long exposure will receive and retain an impression too delicate to be detected by the eye; that something occurring or which had occurred was being revealed to me through some mysterious process. But why I was so impressed or what was the nature of the impression I did not know.

AN ASHEN HUE CAME UPON THE PATIENT'S FACE

Being a physician and a student of the functions of the brain, it occurred to me that very hard study upon my specialty had affected my own brain and that I was myself unconsciously producing the phenomenon. Then, again, remembering what has been achieved in mind reading, transference of thought and kindred mental operations, I wondered if I might not be going a step further and receiving a "wireless" impression of something beyond my ordinary perceptive faculties.

One night—it was between 11 and 12 o'clock—I heard a voice under my window call:

"Doctor!"

I was used to such calls and awakened at once. Getting out of bed, I put my head out of the window and saw standing in the road a horse and buggy and the dim figure of a man.

"Doctor, you're wanted. Hurry!"

"What's the matter—somebody sick?"

"Somebody injured."

"Surgery case?"

"Yes."

"I'm not a surgeon, and I have no instruments."

"It can't be helped. You're the only medical man near by. Come at once. You may save a life."

There is a road running around the lake close to the margin. On this road we skirted the little bay and stopped at a house. It was white. The front door opened on to the road, the other side fronting on the lake. I looked up and saw on the lake side of the building an overhanging balcony. Lights were moving to and fro past the windows, and there was every indication of a stirring scene within. I knew I was at the house that had affected me, for we had come just far enough to reach it and there was no other house within a quarter or half a mile.

The door opened, and I passed from the man who had brought me to be received by an old woman. She was a singular looking creature dressed in a very old fashioned style. She led me upstairs to a bedroom, where on a four post bedstead with a valance about it lay a young man from whom the life was fast ebbing. A girl hung over him, while on a settle with his face buried in the cushions was another man, trembling convulsively. Others were about, but these three seemed to me to be the central figures of a tragedy.

I drew down the bedclothes and saw at once by the blood that the young man had received a wound. It was a sword thrust and in a part of the body where it was likely to prove fatal. The man on the sofa arose and, coming to the other side of the bed, watched me with a look hungry for an expression of hope. The girl stood beside me, also eager to catch a word of comfort. The wound had been staunched, but the flow of blood had not been stopped. There were no means at hand of determining what internal part the weapon had pierced or how deep was the stab. Besides, not being a surgeon, had I possessed instruments I should scarcely have dared to use them.

My mind was—so far as the mind can be—on two subjects—first, the scenes before me; second, the fact that I was in the house over which I had been dreaming. Indeed, I was in a state of mental confusion. An old man came to the door, wring his hands, turned and went away. The view I got of him was only for a second or two, and the light where he stood was dim, for only candles were used in the house, but it seemed to me that he was dressed very strangely, and as he turned his back I saw that either his hair was long or something like a cue hung down behind. The young man standing opposite me was also dressed oddly, and the girl appeared to have put on a costume of her grandmother's.

"I have it," I said to myself. "These people have been to a fancy dress entertainment of some kind, and a tragedy has occurred there. The wounded man has been brought home, and the costumes have not been changed."

There stood those two young people, each hanging on me for a word of encouragement, while I, knowing but little more about the outcome than they, staggered by my strange surroundings, confused at being thus brought to a house that some unexplained means of communication had caused me to feel contained a story, knew not what to say to them.

Relief came when suddenly an ashen hue came upon the patient's face as though a white powder had been thrown upon it. Both those standing with me knew that it meant death. The girl sank down on her knees, with a sob, while the man opposite bent over the dying man and in a voice of agony cried:

"Come back! My God—I have killed my brother!"

I have a vague remembrance of people rushing into the room, among them the old man who had come to the door, who wrung his hands and turned away. Then there was an elderly lady in a cap and a broad lace collar. The last scene I can recall is one of all these people, some looking at the corpse on the bed, others at the man who had stood out in his remorse and pointing to his victim. The last sound was a wail from the girl.

I awoke from sleep with a start.

I was sitting in a wicker chair on the porch of the house in which I was living, looking out over the little bay at the house of the overhanging balcony. Dawn was breaking, and, facing east as the house did, what light there was shone upon it and enabled me to see it. The morning was serene—not a leaf stirring on the trees, not a ripple on the water. I felt just as if I had passed through such a scene as I have described. I was not inordinately disturbed. I had no feeling of having experienced anything supernatural.

True to the instincts of an investigator, I began at once to think of what had really happened. I might have dreamed it all, walking in my sleep and finally sitting on the porch. Or had I really been called up and visited a patient without having entirely thrown off slumber? My opinion was that I had passed through the scene I have described. If I had there must have been some foundation for that scene.

Creeping upstairs, I went to bed and to sleep. In the morning my first impression on awaking was what I had passed through, and it was as vivid as if I had but just awakened from it. I said nothing about my experience, but after breakfast set out to walk around the water's edge to the house with the overhanging balcony.

When I reached it I found it locked. Not a person was on the premises. It was, at least on the outside, in good repair and bore evidence of having been lately occupied. I walked on to the next house. An old man was in the yard splitting firewood. I asked him about the deserted house, beginning by inquiring how old it was.

"Dunno," he replied. "I been livin' here fifty years, and it was there when I came. They say it was built about 120 years ago. It's full o' old furniture that's been there ever since the place was new."

"Has it since been occupied?"

"It's sometimes rented to city folks for the summer season."

"Are there any stories connected with it?"

"None as I ever heered."

"Has anybody ever complained of ghosts?"

"Not that I know."

I spent some time endeavoring to elicit information that would indicate the house to be haunted, not that I believed it was, but I desired to eliminate this common superstition. I was looking rather for some interpretation based on natural cause and effect. I walked back meditating, but made no headway whatever, even in forming a theory.

I remained long enough by the lake to learn all that could be learned of the deserted house, but got nothing to bear on the case. I have no explanation to give, but my belief is that the scene I passed through really occurred many years ago, the secret having been perfectly kept. I have a fancy that my looking so long and steadily at the house, by some process yet unknown, imprinted the thrilling scene on my brain. There is no need for me to frame a story of a rivalry between two brothers; any one can do that.

"Bronchitis"

This is an acute inflammation of the mucous membrane lining the air tubes in the lungs.

The disease begins with a tightness across the chest, difficulty of breathing, hoarseness, and there is a dry, harsh, croupy cough.

After a few days mucous begins to be raised. This is at first white, but later of a greenish or yellowish color and is occasionally streaked with blood.

Cure the first symptoms of Bronchitis by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and thus prevent it becoming chronic and perhaps turning to Consumption.

Mrs. D. J. McCormack, Cleveland, N.S., writes: "My little boy, two years old, caught a bad cold which developed into Bronchitis. He was so choked up he could hardly breathe. Reading about your wonderful medicine, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, I decided to try a bottle, and with such good result I got another which completely cured him, without having a doctor. I cannot say too much in its praise and would not be without it in the house as I consider it a sure cure for Colds and Bronchitis.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents.

The Heroes of Sedan.

A monument in commemoration of the heroic charge of the French cavalry on Sept. 1, 1870, at Sedan has been unveiled at Floing. Floing is two kilometers from Sedan. The monument, the work of the sculptor Guillaume, consists of a colossal statue, symbolizing France giving the military salute, while she lowers toward recumbent figures at her feet the flag for which they shed their blood. A haut-relief of Poitou stone represents the famous cavalry charge, which provoked the historic eulogy of King William as he witnessed the heroism of the French soldiers, "Ah, les braves gens!" The structure, more than thirty [illegible] in height, is described as being singularly impressive. Many survivors of the war crossed the frontier from Alsace and from Lorraine to attend the ceremony.

Under the headline "The Doomed Agia Sophia" the Ikdam of Constantinople says that the great mosque, with its mighty dome, is in peril and may collapse. "Earthquakes have shaken its walls, and repairs have been made which now appear to have been imperfect, hence the lamentable condition," adds the Ikdam. Its pessimistic statement is made on the authority of Marangani, an architect appointed by the Turkish government to "make exhaustive examinations and give a detailed report."

An ingenious idea has been put forward for the solution of the revolver difficulty in Paris. The recent deeds and misdeeds of the Apaches have caused such an outcry there that citizens have been clamoring for the general right to carry firearms in self defense. "Hangar," the Airship Word.

"Hangar," denoting a shed for airships, is taken from the French, who use it also to denote a shed for cars and wagons, especially among farmers. The word is not Celtic. It was much used in the middle ages to denote the service exacted from country people in forwarding government couriers. We first hear the word in the fifth century before Christ, in Aeschylus, Herodotus and Xenophon. They got the word from Persia, where it denoted the king's courier. This word "angaros," whether originally really meaning a messenger or a burden, should not be confounded with the term "angel," which is Greek, while "angaros" is Persian. English dictionaries will throw light upon the subject in the article "angariation." Few words have shown greater persistence than this Persian postal term.—Letter in Boston Transcript.

ART ETERNAL AND THE FLEETING MODEL

A Brief Idea Concerning the Club for Workers in the Divine Cause and Some Stories About the Women Who Pose for a Livelihood.

A Birthday Party in the Tea Room

(Copyright, 1910, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved.)

ART is eternal, but the day of the artist is brief and that of the model still more fleeting. To adjust conditions to their common advantage is the purpose of the Art Workers' Club, the only organization in the world where artist and model meet on common ground.

In a little more than a decade the club has acquired seven hundred members, has settled itself comfortably in a commodious house and has established various activities that tend to promote the financial and social interests of the members.

The club grew out of an incident in the life class at the Art League, in New York city. To the students the model was a model—nothing more. Suddenly she fainted, and then was disclosed the fact that she was human, even as they were, and that she suffered. She was alone in the city and she was struggling against difficult circumstances. The case appealed to the sympathy of the students. They learned, too, that it was not unique. Other models were having a hard time. Some were poorly nourished; many were badly lodged. Lack of appropriate costumes was a handicap. In many ways there was great need of a helping hand.

Miss Helen Sargent, one of the art students, took up the matter very seriously. She appealed to her friends, to artists and to other persons interested in art. "There can be no art without models," she insisted; "therefore it is incumbent upon all who are working for art to do something for the welfare of the models."

The outcome of the discussion was that art students and models one day met in the room of the women's life class. The models did not know one another and the artists had to learn to substitute personal for professional acquaintance. Rough edges were worn off, however, by the evident desire to fraternize and not to patronize, and this meeting formed the nucleus of the Art Workers' Club for Women, organized a few weeks later, with the approval and help of eminent painters and sculptors who had been consulted.

There was much enthusiasm, but no money, which seems an appropriate condition for an art venture, especially in its infancy. Meetings were held in various studio buildings and the rolling ball began to increase in size.

Many Pleasant Features.

There were lectures and musicales for pleasure and instruction and practical help extended in a small way where it was most needed.

That was all very pleasant, but a little vague. The day came when enough money was guaranteed to warrant the club's moving into its own room. There an employment bureau for models was established, the first definite practical work to be undertaken. It was easy to enlist the interest of the models in a place which helped them to get work, and the artists were no less willing to come into an enterprise that saved them trouble and time.

To-day the club occupies a four story house, No. 234 West Fifty-eighth street, and has become an important element in the art life of New York. If you are a member you are admitted to any or all of its privileges, from nine o'clock in the morning until ten o'clock at night. That means that any one who lives in a hall bedroom can have the use of spacious rooms with comfortable chairs, good light and all the art magazines, as well as others, to read. Meals are furnished in a pleasant dining room at reasonable prices, and at four o'clock in the afternoon there is a cosey tea free of charge. Here may be found the atmosphere of the studio, the pleasant part of it, and the social interchange based on good will and friendliness.

"But who are the artists, and who the models?" asked a woman who had been invited to tea. "It is difficult for a stranger to discriminate; they all look so refined."

"This group of pretty girls at the tea table are models," she was informed, "and that group at the far end of the room is composed of artists, models and art students."

"But I thought there was a question of caste between artists and models," insisted the visitor. "I supposed that models were a class by themselves, and I certainly never expected to see them chatting in such a familiar way with the women artists."

A Word About Models.

"Why not? They are the only classes of workers who constitute the art world. They both make their living out of art; hence they have one great interest in common and they find friendly co-operation a great advantage. The model is much more likely to take an interest in the work of an artist who will treat her as a friend and helper than in that of the person who tries to do business on the basis of 'minutes and maid.'

"Time was when women artists regarded models almost as an evil necessity; when they were as much afraid of them as many lay people are to-day. But that was long ago, before the work had interested the nice class of girls it does now."

Of course, models in America occupy a different position from those in countries where both art and society are older and more conventionalized. Whether it is better for art is a mooted point. American models are not a fixed class. They do not intend to stay in the business as long as their sisters in Europe. Indeed many of them are only posing for the money to enable them to do something else. Scores of them are doing something else meanwhile. The secretary of the Art Workers' Club will inform you that such a model is also an art student. One has already been graduated as a model and is making her living as an illustrator. Another has gone in for modelling. Here is a girl who is studying music. That one is going to be a kindergarten teacher. A fellow member is writing stories.

Some have gone on the stage. Others are hoping to. Marriage takes many from the work. With all of them it is only by the way that they are serving art as models. In part this is their desire. Also it is a matter of necessity. After a certain age, none too remote, and also when a model has been drawn and painted by everybody, her usefulness is at an end. Her day is over.

Of course, there are old ladies who find favor for certain kinds of work. One who died not long ago at the age of eighty-three posed for a class the day before she died. In Europe one sees often the old models who have never thought of having any other business in life. Here anything of that sort is an anomaly.

"What pay do models get?" the secretary of the club was asked. "Of course, I know that it must vary with the artist and with the model, but what is the range of prices?"

"It does not vary at all. Every one gets fifty cents an hour."

"Whether one is beautiful or otherwise, young or old?"

"Exactly. No matter whether she is the best or worst of models or what kind of clothes she wears or whether she wears none, she gets fifty cents an hour. The good models, the attractive models, however, have this advantage. They are in greater demand. Therefore they make more money, because they have more engagements."

"What type of model is most popular?"

The Field Is Wide.

"That is a hard question to answer. Artists who do fancy heads—the sort of thing you see on maga-

"But Who Are the Artists, and Who Are the Models?"

zine covers and in similar places, like a blonde model. Indeed the light girl is most eagerly sought in general. The straight regular features are looked for, too. With illustrators the kind of model they want depends upon the story they are illustrating. Painters want color. That above everything else."

There is a profitable field for the model nowadays in commercial work. In the advertising pages of the magazines, on the billboards, in special circulars, wherever wares are attractively set forth in printed and pictured pages the faces of popular models will be found. Many of these are reproduced from photographs. Some are drawn by illustrators, many of the best of the day not disdaining this form of profitable "art."

Only women artists are members of the club, but many men pay their dues and become associates, thereby having the privilege of obtaining models through the club. They have no vote, however, the disfranchised men. They have only to tell the secretary the kind of model they want, her age, complexion, style of features and the purpose for which she is to pose, and she, scanning the names of one hundred models on the club list, selects the one who best answers his description.

The club supplies only girl models, none under sixteen years of age. After a girl passes twenty-five the artist is likely to cast a disapproving eye on her. The muscles are beginning to sag. If she holds on until she is thirty her figure is likely to show some loss of grace and shapeliness. At thirty-five she is ready to despair unless she is an exception. Usually, however, she has turned from posing as a profession before she reaches that sad point.

One of the most helpful features of the Art Workers' Club is the wardrobe room. Here in closets and behind protective curtains hang gowns, petticoats, coats and cloaks of all sizes, colors and styles. Others are folded in boxes. There are bonnets from the "poke" age to modern days. There are Juliet and also Marguerite costumes. There are brocades and chiffons, everything that will help out the model and the artist.

The Temperament.

For the moderate charge of twenty cents a day a model can have her pick of costumes from crown to satin slippers. A corps of seamstresses help to alter, make over and adjust attire to suit various persons and occasions. When garments have done long duty and are no more presentable for artistic purposes they are disposed of at a rummage sale.

Some of the costumes are given by women in society, others come from the stage and others from costumers. A few are made to order for the club.

"Sympathy," said an officer of the club, "is no insignificant factor in connection with this work. That inherent quality that tends to make a girl a success as a model is the quality that also denotes her sensitiveness. It is the artistic temperament. I think it demands harmony. The girl with temperament cannot pose under inharmonious conditions. I have seen them come in after a pose limp and worn out and nervous, because the artist they had been sitting for happened to be out of sorts, or worried over his work. I do not mean that all models possess temperament to this extent, but I know that all of the successful ones do. The girls who can earn from twenty to thirty dollars a week must necessarily have it. Sympathy and earnestness are the most important attributes of the successful model. Without them beauty fails to hold the artists for any length of time.

"We had a model who posed until she was past forty. She was popular for more than twenty years, because she made her work a life study. She kept her figure by systematic exercises. She could hold a difficult pose for an hour without getting tired, and she was well up on all art matters. I think she would have posed for ten years more had she not married. She is now the wife of a man high in the diplomatic service of this country, and she fills the position with the grace of an educated and cultured woman.

"Oh, yes, we have some odd experiences. It is surprising how many women think they are beautiful enough to pose. Of course, we don't encourage girls to become models when we know they are in no way equipped for the work. It takes all kinds of tact to discourage their ambitions without hurting their feelings, and perhaps getting into an unpleasant argument. Not long ago a woman came to ask us to get posing for her. She was about forty-five and made up until she was really grotesque. She said that her complexion was her chief charm; that all her men friends raved over it. I thought of the way the artists would rave at me if I ever tried to afflict them with her, and I advised her as gently as could to try something else, telling her that only young girls were in demand as models. She flew into a towering rage at once. 'How old do you think I am?' she demanded. 'Twenty-six my next birthday, I'll have you know,' and saying that she wouldn't lower herself by being associated with an organization which knew so little about its business she flounced out banging the door.

"A woman of about sixty came in to register as a model. Her hair was white and her face rather sweet. 'I wouldn't dream of posing for the figure,' she began, 'although I have a beautiful one, but I would sit for my neck and shoulders, and I'd like to show them to you.' I wanted to say, 'Spare me, please,' but I only told her it would not be necessary and advised her to sit only for the head. She insisted upon showing me her neck and shoulders, however, taking off her long cloak, and stood before me in a light green evening gown at ten A. M.! It required some persuasion to get her to give up the idea of posing in evening dress.

"Another woman who weighed about two hundred wanted to pose for her arms. She said they were the talk of the neighbors in her home town in Kansas, and she showed me through a thin lace sleeve what had been an arm in the long ago, but which had now lost all semblance of shape or contour. She was irate when I did not sympathize with her admiration of it and went off disgruntled.

"We are always glad to encourage girls who we know will be of value to the artists, but the club has grown to such an extent that we are obliged to have a waiting list. Nor is it as easy to become a member as it was a few years ago, as to keep up our standard we require several references and these are carefully investigated before a member is accepted."

KISSED THE MINISTER

The Bridegroom Was Excited—Some Odd Marriage Stories

A young man, a plain, good-hearted fellow, was about to get married, and he called on a clergyman to arrange all the difficulties he thought were connected with the ceremony. The clergyman assured him there would be no difficulty; that he would see him through all right.

"But," said he, "what about the ring?"

The clergyman explained; and then the young fellow asked, with a blush:

"When must I kiss the bride?"

The clergyman answered that at the close of the ceremony he would offer a prayer, and just as soon as he had said "Amen" the bridegroom was to kiss the bride.

The ceremony went through all right, the clergyman said "Amen," and looked at the bridegroom in a knowing way. He suddenly remembered his duty, made a little jump like a timid trout at a fly, and kissed—not the bride, but the minister!

This amusing story indicates that frequently the very seriousness of the contracting parties contributes to the gaiety, the humor, and the absurd situations occasionally witnessed at the marriage altar. It is little wonder, therefore, that funny things happen when, as is frequently the case, the wedding party regard the proceedings with boisterous light-heartedness.

Sir Thomas Whittaker, the well-known temperance pioneer, tells an amusing story about his own wedding: He was then a Lancashire mill hand, was under age, and he had neither a home prepared, any money saved, nor even a decent suit of clothes. Moreover, the bride's parents were resolved to prevent the marriage. Nothing daunted, the bridegroom borrowed three pounds, rose very early one Sunday morning, before the inmates of the house were awake, surreptitiously donned his brother's best clothes, walked twelve miles to Stockport with some of his friends, bought a license from the vicar, and was married before half the people of the town had finished breakfast! When the brother awoke and found his clothes gone he was in a sad plight; and the father of the bride was in desperation on missing his daughter, and messages flew in all directions, but too late to prevent the consummation the reckless lovers were bent upon.

Between the prohibition of parents and the appeals of the bride and bridegroom the clergyman sometimes finds himself in an awkward dilemma. On one occasion the friends of the lady came to a clergyman in the East End of London, saying that the marriage would be forbidden at the last moment, and warning him against the bridegroom as a notorious pugilist, who would be likely to resent—professionally—any hesitation on the clergyman's part.

The bridegroom proved to be of middle age, while his projected wife—a simple girl—had numbered only fifteen years. So when the agitated wedding party had entered the church the clergyman sent word for the bridegroom to come and see him in the vestry. Keeping a broad table between himself and the suspicious pugilist, the clergyman gave him a "piece of his mind," with considerable warmth, having arranged meanwhile to send the bride away. The man was so surprised at the unexpected collapse of his project that he adopted only a verbal remonstrance, and departed—happily for the clergyman—with his fists in his pockets.

There is perhaps more tragedy than humor in the experience related by another clergyman. The license had been presented, and the day was fixed, and at half-past two the bridegroom appeared quite alone, young, and evidently a gentleman. He was evidently anxious as three o'clock drew near and no bride appeared.

Suddenly a young woman appeared hurrying up the aisle. Ere she reached the rails, the clock had struck three, and the book was shut.

"'You are too late,' I said. 'I cannot marry you to-day.'

"'Oh, pray do!' she pleaded.

"'But I cannot,' I replied. 'I shall be liable to punishment. It is your own fault. You must come again earlier to-morrow.'

"But they never came again; and I found afterwards that the woman was a maidservant, and had been detained by her mistress against her will, because the mistress rightly felt that the marriage was a very unfitting one."

TYPE-WRITTEN WILLS

May Be Established in Court, But Handwriting is Preferred

While typewritten wills may be established in court, yet should they be attacked, greater difficulty might arise in establishing their genuineness than if written with pen and ink. For this reason careful lawyers prefer that wills be drafted by the latter means. If, however, a will be typewritten, and of sufficient length, both sides of the paper should be used. It is thought that this lessens the danger of forgery, as should one or more blank pages intervene, fraudulent additions might be surreptitiously be-

WHEN MONARCHS ARE MISTAKEN

Some Instances When Monarchs Figured in Cases of Wrong Identity — Amusing Incidents

It is not given to every man to be on familiar terms with his sovereign, and although most of us, through the medium of profusely illustrated periodicals, are conversant with the features of our monarchs, yet there are still many unobservant folks who would not know their kings and queens if they saw them. To the last category belongs the man who on one occasion came in actual contact with the German Emperor.

His Majesty was returning to Potsdam, dusty and weary, after a long tramp, when he asked a peasant, who was driving a farm cart, to give him a lift. He eyed the travel-stained stranger suspiciously, and not liking his looks, whipped up his horse and drove away as furiously as he could. Two hundred yards farther on he met a soldier.

"What did the Emperor want of you?" asked the latter.

"I don't understand," the peasant answered. And when the other explained who the wayfarer was to whom he had refused a seat in his wagon, he was so alarmed that he again lashed up his horse, and in the twinkling of an eye disappeared out of sight.

When, a year or two ago, the King of Spain visited a small town outside Madrid, he joined in the crowd that thronged the streets to catch a glimpse of himself. When the news passed through that the King was coming, a shrill female voice just behind him irritably exclaimed:

"Let me get in front! Do you think I've walked all this way and spoilt my best black dress for nothing? I want to see what the boy is like!"

Turning round with a smile, King Alfonso remarked to the pushing, perspiring old lady: "Here is the King."

After looking him up and down the woman said:

"Well, of all the cheek and impudence! Why, the King is a good-looking young man, and even your own mother couldn't say that of you."

German Princess

As all the world knows, the Crown Princess of Germany takes no little interest in women and their work. Once she applied in person at a leading firm of Court dressmakers for the post of model, which she thought would be just the thing for a protege of hers.

"I came," she said to the manager, "because I saw your advertisement, and I thought—"

The manager laid his hand on her shoulder.

"My dear girl," he said kindly, "I'm sorry, but it is no good, you are not quite good-looking enough. But you have a pleasant face, and I'll tell you what I'll do. Come again in a month's time, and then I'll see if I can find you a place as junior saleswoman."

The consternation of the good man in discovering the applicant's identity was only equalled by the tact of the Crown Princess, who soon made him forget his discomfiture in admiration of her charming manner.

Queen of Italy

It is singular that a Customs official, of all people in the world, should fail to recognize the features of his king; yet this actually happened quite recently when the King and Queen of Italy were crossing in a motor-car one of their own frontiers.

"Where do you come from?" shouted the official, in the sternest of tones.

"From Modane," faltered his Majesty.

"And where is the number of your car?"

"There is none, I believe."

"Aha! And so you would enter Italy? Now, what's your name, sir?"

"Victor."

"Come, come, no trifling; what is your other name?"

"Emmanuel."

"Your profession?"

It was no good; the King must out. "I have hitherto enjoyed the reputation of being the only Victor Emmanuel in my own kingdom."

The official withered away, but no doubt was taught a much-wanted lesson in dealing with travellers.

King of Wurtemburg

Another motor-car story has to do with the King of Wurtemburg. Driving round his small kingdom one day, his Majesty stopped at a wayside restaurant. He paid for his refreshments, and added a coin for a "tip."

"Well," exclaimed the young woman, agreeably surprised, as she looked at the money and then at the generous donor, "one can see that you are not a Wurtemburg, anyhow."

AMERICA WANTS ERIN.

Strange Ambitions—Another is Reported to be Anxious to Contract a Disease

The secret ambition of the queer sort is usually the thing that is farthest removed from what the ambitioner is accustomed to. Thus some men who toil from morning to night think and plan a great time of rest. One man who is of this mind confesses that for years he has had an ambition to be ill enough to go into a hospital and remain in bed for three or four months. He has even planned out a suitable illness and taken steps to catch it, for he knows that unless he were really ill he would get up and go out after the first hour. He rather relies on scarlet fever, but he can't seem to get hold of it—or, rather, it won't get hold of him. He is a great contractor by trade, but he can't contract a disease to save his life. Even if he was successful he is not sure that scarlet fever would be the thing, but he thinks a broken leg might hold him.

Of all the wild ambitions that ever came into the head of men, that of an American politician is probably the wildest. He has it in his mind to buy Ireland. This is the subject of his dreams. Having made it his, he would proceed to lay out, peg, plan, and otherwise specify the Emerald Isle according to the way in which he thinks it should go. It is extremely doubtful if this dream will ever be

This Home-Made Cough Syrup will Surprise You

Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply at Small Cost.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough instantly and will usually cure the most stubborn case in 24 hours. This recipe makes sixteen ounces—a family supply. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $2.50.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating asthma, bronchitis, and other throat troubles, sore lungs, etc. There is nothing better. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guiaicol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

BRITAIN'S AIR FLEET.

New Ideas to be Incorporated in the Construction of Dirigibles

A very busy time awaits the officers and men of the Army Balloon School at Farnborough, England, this winter. In addition to the work of testing and completely overhauling the "Clement Bayard II.," the air corps will have ready the large gas bag begun a few weeks ago for the "Gamma," and at the same time start on the construction of the "Delta," another air-ship which the War Office has just decided to add to the present aerial fleet.

The "Delta" will be much larger than the two sister ships, "Beta" and "Gamma." Its envelope is to be made from a new fabric which, it is said, is far superior to any other on the market. By subjecting the material to a special treatment, of which the Army experts alone know the secret, the percentage of leakage will be reduced to an infinitesimal quantity. Reversible propellers and heavy six-cylinder engines are among the other new constructional details of the air-ship. The "Delta" is to be completed by the beginning of next spring, when the large admiralty dirigible now being built at Barrow-in-Furness will also be ready for active service.

The winter months at the Balloon School will further be occupied in training some 300 additional men to handle air-ships, so as to bring up the number of the corps to a total of 400.

GIRLS SELL LUNCHES

Parisians Now Talk of "Five O'Clock Tea," and Nibble Sandwiches

It is only within the last year or so that the words "five" (pronounced feeve), "o'clock" and "tea" have been incorporated into the modern Anglicised French language. "Gouter" (to taste), was, and is yet, the term employed by the conservative class for the five o'clock afternoon light meal, which all classes, high and low, in France, indulge in.

One enterprising young man who is the head of one of the most popular of the smaller hotels in the Tuileries quarter, has cleverly and successfully introduced the custom of having girls wait on customers during the 'rush' hours each afternoon. These young women wear black frocks and white aprons and black bows in place of a head covering when they go out to serve ham, cheese chocolate, sandwiches, and other light food, at banks and similar large establishments during luncheon time. Carrying large baskets they visit the places named in the neighborhood. Many of these girls sell 500 sandwiches in half an hour, while the sale of eatables at the luncheon rooms runs into hundreds of francs during the busiest hours.

KEEPS TAB ON THE AUTOS

France Knows Just Where to Get Cars for War Purposes if Needed

"In time of peace prepare for war," is a saying which France intends placing in active and immediate execution.

Beginning with the first of the year a general census of automobiles in France is to be made. The description of every machine is to be recorded, with the name, etc., of the chauffeurs. This will be done with the double view of enabling the Government to use the machines in time of war and also to call on the chauffeurs for military service. Strange to say, dozens of wealthy women, patriotically inclined, who own autos, have not waited until the Government calls on them for the information, but have supplied it to the proper officials. Their willingness to aid the Government in the manner indicated before having been approached on the subject is a matter of much satisfaction to officials high in authority.

PASSES AS A MONK

After passing eighteen years as a man in a monastery, where she was known as Brother Arsene, a woman of great beauty, the Countess Kinsinska, has been arrested, and an extraordinary story revealed. Years ago a duel was fought between her lover and her husband, ending fatally for the latter. The lover, conscience-stricken, retired to a monastery, and the countess, unable to bear the separation, disguised herself, and to be near her lover gained access to the same convent, where she lived undetected for eighteen years.

THE QUEUES HAVE TO GO

Chinese Imperial Edict is Being Carried Out—How Queue Was Introduced by the Manchus

The most distinguished queue in San Francisco's world-renowned Chinatown was cut off recently by a pair of American shears when Li Yung Yew, Chinese Consul-General, entered a barber shop and had his hair trimmed a la pompadour.

"Next!" the barber called out, and Li Yung Yew stepped into the chair, ready for the hirsute rite, which he underwent with the blandness of any Western dandy having a haircut.

Fu Chien Yu, secretary of the Chinese legation in Mexico, accompanied the Consul-General and also sacrificed his queue asking the barber to go over his head with a pair of clippers to get the extreme effect in contrast to the manner in which he formerly dressed his locks.

Both hair cuts were the result of the imperial edict issued recently at the suggestion of Tao, Prince Regent, ordering all Chinese consular and embassadorial representatives to sacrifice their queues and adopt Western dress and manners.

Prince Tao visited the United States about a year ago, and upon his return to China he interested himself in many reforms founded on Western ideals.

Young China had already begun to wear its hair short, but it took a royal proclamation to make the more conservative government officials consent to the shearing of the queue.

"The passing of the queue means that China is officially committed to a broad and general scheme of emancipation," said Consul-General Yew.

"The kingdom is not prepared for any radical reforms as yet, but Western ideas and institutions are being assimilated by the reigning dynasty as rapidly as is commensurate with circumstances. Many Chinese have been waiting for years for just such an edict relating to the queue.

"They considered the queue a nuisance, making them different from other people when they went abroad and subjecting them to unnecessary ridicule. Personally, I believe that in a comparatively short time a Chinese with a queue will be a curiosity, even among our own people. In the Chinese colony here many merchants and others will be led to dress their hair in the Western fashion as the result of the edict, as the Chinese as a class generally model their dress and customs after the imperial officials."

Vice-Consul Owang dispensed with his queue two years ago, as did all the other attaches of the consulate.

Dr. John Gardner of the immigration service, who speaks Chinese and is an authority on their manners and customs, said the agitation for dispensing with the queue came with the awakening of China.

"The queue is about 270 years old in China and dates from the time of the invasion by the Manchus," explained Dr. Gardner. "The Manchus wore queues, and they compelled the conquered people to adopt them as a badge of submission and servitude. Many Chinese sacrificed their heads rather than have the queue forced upon them. The Chinese are a people who make a virtue of a necessity, however, and before long they began to ornament their queues and to be as proud of them as the Manchus.

"By a paradox of time the people who had first objected to the queue became so accustomed to it that they resisted the attempt to do away with it just as strenuously as they had originally objected to its adoption.

"The more wealthy a Chinese the more elaborate is his queue. The common people generally braid it with black silk, and the more prosperous with scarlet. When in mourning they braid it with blue and white.

"It is believed that the queue was introduced into Japan by the Chinese, and since the Japanese have made such national advancement since they abolished it, the awakened Chinese believe they will be able to profit by their example and do likewise."

ROYALTY WILL ATTEND

The King and Queen Will Appear in Costume at a Fancy Dress Ball

One of the most brilliant social events of the coming coronation season next year in London will be the fancy dress ball to be given by the Duchess of Roxburgh. It is said that the ball will be on a scale of magnificence seldom seen here before, and it will be attended by the King and Queen and practically all the younger members of the Royal Family, and all of them will appear in fancy costume. This will be the first time in nearly a century that a King of Great Britain has appeared in costume at a fancy dress ball, though King Edward, when Prince of Wales, once appeared at one given by the Duchess of Devonshire, dressed as Henry VIII., as depicted in the famous painting by Holbein.

MAMMOTH NEW HOTEL

What will be the largest hotel in England, and one of the largest in Europe, is to be built near Piccadilly Circus, London, Eng., by the Strand Hotel Company. The hotel will have twelve or thirteen hundred bedrooms and will occupy a piece of ground with an area of 44,000 square feet, bounded by Air Street, Glasshouse Street, Sherwood Street, and Brewer Street. The principal entrance will be a few yards from Piccadilly Circus, near the Monico.

The land is now chiefly taken up by shops, all the leases for which expire in 1912.

READY

The wolf has been extinct in Scotland for about 160 years; the last one (according to tradition) was killed by one Macqueen, a deerstalker, who lived near the source of the Findhorn. The wolf had killed two children who were crossing the hills, and so the laird of Mackintosh summoned his retainers to hunt it. All appeared at the appointed time except this Macqueen. At length he leisurely put in an appearance. He was soundly rated by his chief for his lateness, but at length he asked, "What was the hurry?" The angry lair impatiently replied, whereupon Macqueen lifted his plaid and drew forth the gory head of the wolf. "There it is for you," he replied, casting the head into the

ONE USE OF CHALK

Illustrated by a Billiard Story from Columbus

Harry Laughlin the billiard expert, told at an exhibition game in Toledo, a billiard story.

"Once, when I had my own parlor, in Columbus," he said, "I was a good deal disturbed by the loss of chalk. Chalk disappeared at a tremendous rate, and I said to my helper, 'Keep a better eye on the chalk, Jim. I'm no millionaire.'

"'I know the gents wot pockets the chalk, Mr. Laughlin,' Jim said; 'but they're regular customers. I guess you wouldn't want to offend 'em, would you?'

"'Well, no,' said I, 'I wouldn't. You might give them a gentle hint though. Use your diplomacy.'

"Jim, I found out later, used his diplomacy that night. He walked up to one of my best patrons who had just pocketed a piece of chalk, and he said:

"'You're in the milk business, ain't you, sir?'

"'Yes, why?' the patron asked.

"'I thought so,' said Jim, 'from the amount of chalk you carry away. The boss likes enterprise, and he told me to tell you if you wanted a bucket of water now and then you could have one and welcome.'"

ENGINE DRAWS HEARSE

A Strange Scene at a Showman's Funeral—Happened in Wales

It is quite a common thing for deceased persons to be followed to the last resting-place by some emblem of their occupation during life, but the scene witnessed at the recent funeral of a showman at Cardiff was indeed out of the ordinary. On his deathbed, the man expressed the wish that the huge traction-engine used by the showman in his business should draw the hearse containing his coffin to the cemetery, and this request was fulfilled.

On the day of the funeral, the streets of Cardiff were crowded with people assembled to see the unusual sight. The hearse was attached to the traction-engine, and thus taken to the cemetery gates, where the cortege halted. The coffin was then carried from the hearse to the graveside by mourners.

The showman's engine was beautifully decorated with flowers. A large floral heart, with a centre design of the Prince of Wales's feathers in white flowers, adorned the front, and the wheels were draped with crape.

NOT ON HIM

Several years ago Patrolman Grampke was detailed at a circus that was performing in Camp Washington One of the features of the show was the falling into the ring of one of the actors, who pretended to be drunk. He would then pick himself up and finally would mount one of the most spirited horses in the ring. One by one he would then throw off his garments until he stood forth resplendent in pink tights.

The first night that Grampke was on duty the stunt was to be pulled off as usual, but no sooner had the apparently drunken one gotten into the ring than Grampke was in after him. He jerked the performer to his feet and hustled him outside, where he proceeded to administer a good beating. The other employes of the show rushed out and finally separated Grampke from his victim and explained that it was all a joke.

"A joke, is it?" said Grampke, as he looked at the dishevelled man. "Well, it isn't on me."

WHAT HE OUGHT TO HAVE DONE

Lord Alverstone is the possessor of an excellent voice, and on one occasion (when he was Sir Richard Webster) concluded a political meeting by singing a sacred solo. At the close a gaunt spinster arose at the back of the audience and said: "With your face and your voice, Sir Richard, you ought to be teaching the Gospel truth to the poor heathen, instead of telling honest folk to be political."

Suffered Greatly From Heart Trouble.

NERVES WERE VERY WEAK.

Mrs. John Farrell, Ross Hill, P.E.I., writes:—"It is with the greatest of pleasure I write you sending the benefit I have received by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

"About five years ago I suffered greatly from heart trouble, and my nerves were very weak. After seeing several doctors and using their medicine, I got no relief until a friend told me of your Heart and Nerve Pills. I took two boxes and they effected a complete cure. I can recommend them highly to all nervous and run down women.

"I have advised many others to try them and they have all been cured of the same trouble."

The proper action of the nerves, so important to the well-being of the heart, depends entirely upon the general condition of the nervous system. If there be nerve derangement of any kind, it is bound to produce heart derangement.

In Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills is combined a combination that will cure all forms of nervous disorders, as well as act on the heart itself, and in this is the secret of their success in curing so many cases of heart and nerve trouble.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c per box, or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

VALUABLE MSS. FOUND.

Jewish Scholar Discovers Old Writings Referring to Christ.

New York, Dec. 27.—The Times says: "The discovery of what is probably a Hebrew gospel writer earlier than the gospel of the New Testament, has just been made public by President Solomon Schechter of the Swiss Theological Seminary of America.

The document contains practically the only contemporary Hebrew record of persons and events described in the New Testament, and pictures what are probably one of the first Judaeo-Christian sects in which primitive Christianity found a hold and was nourished.

The document consists of eight pages of manuscript, evidently forming part of a larger writing, which President Schechter obtained along with some 20,000 other old Hebrew manuscripts, from the Jewish congregation at Cairo, Egypt, fifteen years ago. This collection, which has been guarded jealously by the Cairo congregation for 1,000 years, was taken by President Schechter to the University of Cambridge, where he was then professor of semitics. In the collection, Dr. Schechter found one other treasure, a Hebrew text of Ecclesiastics; but his newest find will probably far outrank the other in general importance and interest.

Hitherto scholars have been able to find no contemporary Jewish references to the events or characters of the New Testament, barring a few generally suspected passages in Josephus, the genuineness of which has been rejected by both Jewish and Christian critics, and a few contemptuous references in the Talmud.

The manuscript discovered and translated by Dr. Schechter seems to have been composed in the second part of the first century of the Christian era. It represents a personal address of a religious leader to his followers, laying down in form of a manifesto the principles of belief of his religious views. The personal note, expressed in frequent use of the well-known Hebrew form of 'Hearken ye unto me," seems to prove the document was composed at the time of the religious events it treats of.

The manifesto voices belief in two great personages who have been sent to strengthen and enlighten the Hebrew nation. The first is referred to as a Messiah, "from the family of Aaron and from Israel." The second is called a "Teacher of Righteousness," and also designed as a Messiah. Both Messiahs had died when the document was written, but both were expected to reappear in the latter days. A third person, called in one place "a man of scoffing" and in another "Belial," is put toward for special denunciation, on a charge of detaching the people from ordinances of the law and from sound moral principles.

These are believed to be Christ, John the Baptist and the Apostle Paul. In Dr. Schechter's manuscript, the new sect is spoken of several times as the "new covenant," which is in all likelihood identical with that of the first believers in the New Testament.

Phones Girl; Shoots Himself.

New York, Dec. 27.—After firing a revolver bullet into his head, John Rice propped himself on his elbow on the floor and, and calling for the telephone receiver, calmly resumed a conversation he had been holding with a young woman at the other end of the line.

"You should see me now, Ray," he said. "I'm an awful mess."

This episode took place in the Chatham Club early Saturday.

Rice was sitting with several friends when suddenly he jumped up and went to the telephone.

"Is that you Ray?" he enquired when the ring was answered, and then after he had the reply said:

"I'm going to do it."

With that he pulled the revolver from his pocket and placing the muzzle at his right ear, fired. It is said at the hospital that Rice has an even chance for his life. He would not say why he tried to kill himself.

Not Friendly to de Celles.

Paris, Dec. 27.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A rumor that M. de Celles, librarian of the Federal Parliament, is to be appointed high commissioner for Canada in Paris has aroused the protest of the French press. Celles, who received the legion of honor in 1904, has, it seems, given great offence to France and French-Canadians by an article he wrote The Montreal Presse a year ago. The Echo De Paris says Celles would be out of place in Paris, and The Journal says. "It is impossible that Sir Wilfrid Laurier contemplates confiding in him the precious trust of Franco-Canadian friendship."

CROSSING VICTIMS.

Accidents Reported From Michigan, Philadelphia and Dunnville.

Nashville, Mich., Dec. 27.—Reuben Lawrence, 14 years old, was killed, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Llewelyn Lawrence, were probably fatally injured, and two sisters and a brother were less seriously hurt, when their carriage was struck by a Michigan Central passenger train, as the Lawrence family was driving home from a Christmas celebration, near Vermontville, Saturday.

Train Hits Auto Car.

Philadelphia, Dec. 27.—While delivering Christmas packages in a big auto truck for a Philadelphia department store, two men and a boy who were in the vehicle, were killed Friday night when a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train struck the truck at Moore, ten miles from this city.

Two at Dunnville.

Dunnville, Dec. 27.—Friday morning about 11 o'clock, at the Dilts road crossing of the Wabash Railroad, about five miles from here, a terrible accident took place, in which the lives of two men were lost. The unfortunate victims were Rev. Mr. Mills, the United Brethern minister at Elcho, and Eugene Pyle of Stromness.

Mr. Hills was driving to Dunnville in a covered buggy, and had picked up Mr. Pyle, who was walking only a short distance from the track. They evidently did not notice the approaching Wabash flier, and the train struck the buggy in the centre, throwing both the occupants into the ditch, and evidently killing both instantly, and also the horse. The engineer immediately stopped the train and backed to the crossing.

The heavy rainfall in New England has brought relief from the long-continued drought.

The Electrical Trust Co., "the greatest trust in the world," will be indicted by the U. S. Government for alleged conspiracy to restrain trade.

Skating out the close of the Christmas holiday at Boston, Earl P. Peterson, aged 21, and Miss Lilla Paul, aged 20, broke through the thin ice last night and were drowned.

Five women were found dead in bed Christmas Day in Philadelphia by other occupants of the houses where they lived. In each instance death was due to heart disease.

Fred. Brown, a circus performer of Buffalo, N.Y., while attempting to make a balloon ascension in Havana yesterday, struck a projection of a building He fell 100 feet to the ground, and was killed.

A landing force from the British cruiser Hyacinth had a furious brush with Arabian gun runners on the south coast of Persia yesterday. Fourteen of the British were killed or wounded. The Arabs lost forty.

Stabbing in London.

London, Ont., Dec. 27.—Jas. Fowler, a West London butcher, is in Victoria Hospital in a serious condition, and Wm. Hyslop is under arrest on a charge of assault and wounding, as the result of a sensational stabbing affray in West London on Saturday night, shortly before midnight.

There was a party at Hyslop's on Saturday night, at which it is said there was liquor served. During the course of this it is said that Hyslop's wife was found by her husband in Fowler's butcher shop. The husband went to the shop and attacked Fowler with a butcher knife.

Fowler jumped through the store window, with blood streaming from his wounds, and was chased down the street by Hyslop, armed with two butcher knives. Hyslop's brother interposed and Fowler made his escape. He later collapsed and was taken to the hospital. Hyslop was arrested.

Three Murders in a Day.

Greensburg, Pa., Dec. 27.—The third murder in 24 hours was reported to the coroner yesterday in the death of Tony Sarcino, a striker, formerly employed by the Youghiogheny & Ohio Coal Co. Mike Calcovski and John Nathan are being sought by the state police.

Sarcino was living in a strikers' camp and was shot to death Sunday night when there was an assault upon the camp. About 75 shots were fired.

Didn't Obey Orders.

Quebec, Dec. 27.—Notwithstanding Archbishop Bagin having requested the faithful not to attend the grand opera, there was a crowded house last evening, and all the seats are sold for several days ahead.

EXPLOSION KILLS TWO.

Methodist Minister and Ex-Mayor Are Dead In Dresden.

Chatham, Dec. 27.—A large portion of the business section of Dresden was wiped out early Sunday morning by fire, which started in C. A. Jeffery's millinery store, completely destroyed Edward Watson's grocery, Masonic Hall, Robinson's millinery store, John Adkin's billiard hall, Robert Aikens' drygoods store, together with their entire contents. The Bank of Commerce caught fire several times, but was saved.

The total loss is placed at $100,000, detailed figures being lacking. C. B. Watson, owner of the building, and Robert Aiken are the heaviest losers. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

While the fire was in progress an explosion took place in Aiken's store, the entire front being blown out. C. V. Hicks, ex-mayor, aged 65, was instantly killed, and Rev. G. H. Long, Methodist minister, so seriously injured that he died about 9.30 in the evening. He was the father of George Long, who was a former member of The Buffalo Courier and The London Free Press. Walter Dynes, Robert Aikens, Charles Aiken, Dr. McDonald and others suffered lesser injuries, and will recover.

The entire town is in mourning as a result of the tragedy. All festivities are suspended. Coroner Willey will hold an inquest to ascertain the cause of the explosion.

Four Storey Building Burns.

Winnipeg, Dec. 27.—Fire broke out a second time in Donald Fraser & Co. of Montreal, on Rorie street, last night and completely gutted the four-storey building. The first fire was got under control in about half an hour, but about 10.45 it was discovered that the fire had worked its way to the third floor, and a general alarm concentrated the brigade on the spot.

When the leading companies arrived, flames were bursting from all windows on the third floor, and they evidently had a good hold on the second and fourth floors.

The flames spread to the adjoining building, occupied by McAllister & Watts, wholesale stationers, but is likely to be confined to water and smoke.

At midnight, while the fire is not out, all danger of its spreading further seems at an end.

The building is valued at about $65,000.

Slew His Wife.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 27.—The body of Mrs. Paul Faber, 30 years old, terribly bruised about the head and bust, was found under a mattress in her home. Her husband was arrested immediately, after the police had heard the story of his three-year-old daughter, May. The little girl said she had been awakened by hearing her father and mother quarreling and that she had seen her father strike her mother with a bludgeon, which he afterwards burned in the stove.

Sydney Express Wrecked.

Truro, N.S., Dec. 27.—As the Sydney express, crowded with Christmas visitors, was running through the yard yesterday, the engine and three cars jumped the track at a point below Young street crossing. No lives were lost. The engine and tender are canted over almost across the track and two cars following plowed up ground for about 50 yards, and both are lying almost on their sides.

An open switch is said to be the cause of the accident.

Accidentally Shot.

Barrie, Dec. 27.—Harry Oliver, a lad of 16, is at present lying in a critical condition, resulting from a bullet wound, received from the accidental discharge of a gun while shooting sparrows on the premises of H. Dyment, his employer, Saturday. He displayed considerable courage, running three blocks to the nearest doctor after receiving the wound. At present he is holding his own. His only relative is a brother in Toronto.

Killed by Train.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Dec. 27.—Daniel Patterson, an employe of the ship canal, was killed Sunday evening by being struck by a C.P.R. train near the Wellington street crossing. Patterson, who was aged 72, was said to be deaf, and was making his way home.

Trivial Quarrel Ends in Murder.

Cypress, Fla., Dec. 27.—Jim Whitt of Altha, Fla., shot and fatally wounded Stephen Johnson, a neighbor, in a quarrel yesterday over a trivial matter. Whitt was in turn shot and instantly killed by the mother of Johnson. Several bystanders were injured.

Little Interest at Capital.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—There is not a great deal of interest in the civic nominations here. The mayor, Charles Hopewell, will have two papers put in as opposition, Ald. Black's and Ald. Ogron's, but neither are likely to go to the polls, or, if they do, to be elected. The same candidates as last year will be renominated for the Board of Control, and the old board is likely to go in, with or without opposition. There will be contests for aldermanic seats in all wards but one.

The aldermen are trying to abolish the Board of Control on the question of "patronage." It will be put to the vote, but is hardly likely to carry.

Killed by Eating Mistletoe.

Blytheville, Ark., Dec. 27.—Three small children of Mr. and Mrs. Hem Griffin died yesterday from eating berries from the mistletoe. The children were sent to the woods for decorations to make the Griffin home cheerful during the holiday season, and on the way back they swallowed quantities of the little transparent berries. They became violently ill after they reached their mother, and all died within twenty-four hours.

Mr. Wm. Langford will oppose Mr. W. H. Hill as water commissioner, but it is not known whether Mr. Kendry intends to remain in the field or not. Eight candidates have been nominated for the Board of Education, there being four of the former members, namely: Dr. Morrison, Robt Fair, B. F. Ackerman and D. W. Dumble. Mr. W. S. Robinson, who has also been nominated, stated that he had not definitely decided whether he would be a candidate or not.

Mayor Morrow's Address.

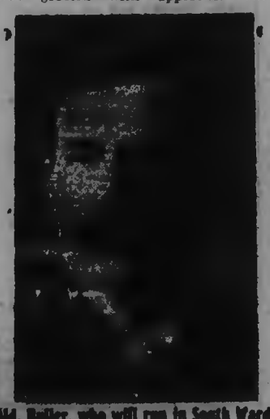
After the nominations were closed, on motion of Mayor Morrow and Mr. Wm. Langford, City Clerk Armstrong was voted to the chair.

Mayor Morrow was first called upon to speak and in rising to speak was greeted with applause. He thanked the ratepayers for the honour done him, in again electing him the Chief Magistrate of the most progressive of the smaller cities of the Dominion. He then spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen,—During the past year the Council has had to deal with many matters of considerable importance to the city, and I can say without flattery that they have been dealt with in a businesslike manner, and while sufficient time has been given to careful consideration of every question there has been no unnecessary delay and the business has been dealt with promptly.

The Public Library building has been completed, and is exceedingly well adapted for the purpose for which it is intended. It occupies a good site and the building is one of the best library buildings in the smaller cities of the Dominion. It is commodious, and presents a good appearance, and the contractors have done good work on the interior finish. It has a handsome and well-lighted interior. The City is to be congratulated upon having this building erected and the library established without cost to the citizens through the generosity of Mr. Andrew Carnegie and Messrs. R. Hall and C. McGill, the Executors of the Nicholls Estate.

For some years the necessity for a hospital for the treatment of contagious diseases has been recognized, and we have this year had a building erected on the City's farm at the southern boundary for this purpose. This building is now practically completed and will be ready for receiving patients early in the year. We hope that this provision will enable the health authorities to check promptly any outbreak of diphtheria or scarlet fever, and will also be of advantage to families in which either of these diseases may appear.



Ald. Buller, who will run in South Ward

During the past year the Council has had negotiations with five different manufacturing companies looking to the enlargement of their industries, and in each case the factory has been enlarged, resulting in the employment of an increased number of employees and an addition to the business carried on in the city. Acting with the Water Commissioners, an arrangement was made with the Canadian General Electric Co., by which they utilize the surplus power at the water-works dam. The Company will erect the building and instal the machinery for this purpose and pay the city $2,000 a year rental. The building and machinery will belong to the city at the end of the 20-year term. This is a fair arrangement, and at the same time it secured the enlargement of the Company's works here. This Company now employs 1,488 hands, as compared with 1,046 a year ago. By the adjustment of Hunter street at the west end of the bridge, without narrowing the street, and by closing a short piece of street through the yard of the Quaker Oats Company, the expenditure of $260,000 was secured on additional buildings for this industry. The Council also gave to the Peterborough Canoe Company a piece of street that was not used, in exchange for a strip on the water front, and at the same time provided facilities for a considerable increase to its plant at this factory, and to the number

CHICAGO, ILL., DEC. 27.—The strike rumblings on the big railroads running out of here are growing fainter. Those who support this view call attention to get the Government reports as proof of their contenion. The value of the Keeley mine as an asset is somewhat problematical. Admittedly, things look blue.

CHRISTMAS MAIL WELL HANDLED BY POST OFFICE

Work Was Thoroughly Systematized Under the Direction of Postmaster A. H. Stratton and Was Excellently Looked After---No Complaints About the Service.

The postmaster of Peterborough, Mr. A. H. Stratton, is to be congratulated upon the way in which the Christmas mail was handled by the Peterborough post office staff under his direction and guidance. The public, from lack of knowledge, hardly appreciate the sleighloads of Christmas mail that arrive at the local office and have to be distributed in a short period of time and with accuracy. Within the last few days tons and tons of extra mail arrived here which had to be placed in the homes of the citizens as soon as possible. To accomplish this the work in the office was thoroughly systematized and almost a complete staff worked night and day. No one in Peterborough can complain of a Christmas box which arrived in the city in time not having been delivered. The whole staff of the post office seemed to take a personal interest in seeing that everything required to be done was done in ensuring a quick and safe delivery.

Will Conduct A Mammoth Sale In Furs--Sensationally Low Prices

Commencing to-morrow Messrs. Wm. Lech and Sons, furriers, next to the Princess Theatre, will inaugurate a mammoth sale, and the handsome furs that are handled by this firm will be reduced to unreasonably low prices. Now is the time to buy furs. There is yet lots of time to wear them this season, and a purchaser would have the advantage of buying cheaper than earlier in the season. The firm of Wm. Lech and Sons is an old established one, having been organized in 1861, and it is needless to speak of the reputation of the goods sold by them. Their furs are of the best and thoroughly reliable. This season has been one of the most successful that this enterprising firm has experienced. They have disposed of a gigantic stock, but there is yet a choice array of beautiful furs to choose from and these are to be placed at sensationally low figures. No better opportunity will be given this year to get the right kind of furs at the right prices. The furs are the best that can be secured anywhere and the prices are bound to appeal to the most economic and careful buyer. The sale starts to-morrow and will continue until the entire stock is disposed of.

HANDSOME PRESENT

Received by Miss Godfrey on the Eve of Her Wedding

Miss Chloe Godfrey was, on Christmas eve, made the recipient of a handsome present, in the shape of a lady's chatelaine and $80 in gold. The present was given by Mr. Munro and his employees and boarders as a token of the appreciation of her splendid service as head waitress at the Munro House. She held that position there for twelve and a half years and formerly spent two years as a waitress in Lakefield. The address was read by Mr. J. Green and the presentation was made by Mr. Fred Lund. The presentation was made on the eve of her marriage and was meant as a combined wedding and Christmas present. Miss Godfrey made a suitable reply, in which she thanked them for their kindness and a few other appropriate remarks.

TUESDAY, DECEMER 27, 1910

THE BY-LAWS.

Two by-laws will be submitted to public vote on Jan. 2nd, 1911. The importance of securing new manufacturing industries need not be argued; it is admitted. The Bonner-Worth by-law calls for the issue by the city of a loan to the company, which propose establishing a new industry in Peterborough.

The City Council and the Board of Trade, which have not interest except the welfare of the city, have thoroughly investigated the proposal and heartily recommend it. The principals at the head of the company are men of capability and experience in the line they propose to manufacture.

The product of the proposed industry is woolen yarns, the raw material of woolen mills, and it is stated that this will be the only factory in Canada exclusively making such yarns for commercial purposes. At once there is a large market for their products, and one sure to grow; so that the minimum of 30 hands the company guarantees as a condition of the loan, is sure to be increased. This has been the case with every industry established in Peterborough.

The proposed loan involves little or no risk. The buildings and machinery will have to be erected and installed to the value of at least $30,000 before the loan of $12,000 is advanced—$6,000 on the completion of buildings and installation of machinery, and the other $6,000 after the company has been in operation a year. One year from the second payment of the loan the company will begin repayment of the loan at the rate of $1,000 per year, till repaid.

The loan is secured by a first mortgage on site, buildings and fixed machinery. There does not seem to be any risk in the city assisting the enterprise. It will represent an important addition to our manufacturing industries, and will be all the more welcome because of late few new industries have been located here.

As remarked, the city council has investigated the matter and recommends it heartily to public approval. Attention is called to the latter, signed by the whole council and printed in another column.

The other by-law it to grant a franchise to Charles E. Dettman for the distribution of natural gas to the citizens. The gas is not yet available and the beginning of boring operations for gas depends upon the franchise being granted.

In this there is no risk to the citizens if no gas is found. The franchise will be of none effect. Mr. Dettman is an experienced man and believes that gas is obtainable in the vicinity of Peterborough, but he naturally wishes to be sure of a market for gas in case he discovers it and of permission to distribute it throughout the city.

Some idea of what natural gas would mean to Peterborough, may be gained from the fact that the town of Welland counts natural gas as one of its best levers in attracting industries. And the citizens appreciate it, for the price for household (lighting and heating) purposes, is only 30 cents per thousand as against $1.00 and $1.25 per thousand in other towns and cities.

If Peterborough wishes to have natural gas available, in case it is discovered, it will be necessary to pass the by-law on Jan. 2nd, 1911.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

The municipal nominations yesterday, so far as arousing any excitement or even interest, were a tame prologue to what promises to be a tame campaign. Mayor Morrow, as was to be expected from the satisfactory character of his services in his first year in office, and the understood idea of a second term, was elected by acclamation.

The nomination of aldermanic candidates took place in the different wards and what little interest there is taken is localized and general interest is absolutely precluded.

This is not to be wondered at under the ward system, to which the city has reverted, if not, retrograded. Four-fifths of the electors are practically disfranchised — have no vote. There are ten aldermen to be elected to do the business—involving a levy and expenditure of $200,000 in taxes—and in the election of eight of them, no elector has any voice; he can only vote for two aldermen in the ward in which he lives. That is, if he is just "poor and honest." But the man of means can vote in as many wards as he has property. Thus the ward system introduces the plural voting principle, which in the old country permits the wealthy classes to outvote and so stifle the vote of the average elector. We have introduced or brought back, or gone back to, a system, to abolish which, Great Britain has spent five million dollars in holding an election.

Next year's council will be composed of eleven members—mayor and ten aldermen—and each elector, excepting for mayor, will have only voted for two of them; the other eight have been elected without his vote and consent. To make this anomoly more marked, half of these eight will hold office for two years, so that for two years the elector will have his business conducted by men he had no voice in electing, and who have no responsibility, in respect of four-fifths of the electors, and can by them be held to no account nor punished for any wrong doing. If he pulls enough to his ward he is all right, no matter how in the process, other wards may suffer, by neglect or otherwise.

Reference has been made of the lack of interest of the ratepayers. The ward system accounts for this to a large extent. What little attention each ratepayer may give to municipal matters, it is confined to his own ward; for there only does his concrete interest—his vote—have any effect.

To show the lack of interest that prevails in Peterborough, its condition can be contrasted with other places. Yesterday at the city hall, there were present only a handful of electors, to show an interest in a council that collects and spends $200,000 a year. A citizen was in Otonabee yesterday and was present at the nominations to elect the council of Emily township, to handle $12,000 a year. The hall of meeting was packed to the doors, showing that the people took an interest in the proceedings.

The contrast is to be noted, and indicates that some means must be devised to arouse the public interest in Peterborough. Every elector acknowledges that things are not managed satisfactorily, and feels that there is little hope under the present system of municipal government. There seems to be no other means than the adoption of municipal government by commission. If the city were to be governed by a mayor and three commissioners, public interest would be concentrated upon their election and work; and they would be kept to the mark. Every elector would have a vote for them and would naturally take a keener interest.

FOREST CONSERVATION.

Since 1906, the date of the great Dominion Forestry convention at Ottawa, the interest in the preservation of our forest wealth has been on the increase. One evidence is the establishment of the Conservation Commission, and another the action of the Department of the Interior in the establishment of reserves in the prairie provinces. The most notable of these is the reserve covering the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains and designed to protect the rivers and agricultural lands of Alberta and Saskatchewan. In the various provinces reserves have been set apart, improved fire-ranging and timber-cutting regulations have been adopted and schools for the training of forest engineers have been established.

Notwithstanding the increased interest aroused, there is much yet to be done. The increased value of water powers, the dangers confronting inland navigation, in respect of adequate water supply, and the value of our forests as hunting grounds and health resorts indicate the necessity of further knowledge and increased vigilance.

To promote these desiderata and to bring to bear modern influence, and to consider improved methods, Sir Wilfrid Laurier has called a public convention to meet in the City of Quebec on January 18-20, 1911, under the auspices of the Canadian Forestry Association. To this convention are invited especially Lieutenant Governors of the Provinces, members of the Senate and the House of Commons; members of the Legislative Councils and Legislative Assemblies of the provinces, Dominion and Provincial forest officials, officers and members of the Commission of Conservation, members of the Canadian Forestry Association members of the Lumberman's Associations, members of the Canadian Society of Forest Engineers, members of the Canadian Bankers' Association, members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, representatives of Boards of Trade, representatives of railway companies, of universities, of agricultural colleges, of Farmers' Institutes, of the Canadian Press Association, of Canadian Clubs, of Horticultural Societies, of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers, of the Canadian Mining Institute, of Associations of Land Surveyors, of Fish and Game Associations, of the United States Forest Service, of the American Forestry Association, of the American Conservation Association, of State Forestry Bureaus and Associations, and all others who are interested in Forestry.

If all these varied and comprehensive interests, are adequately represented at the coming convention, there can be no doubt that a very important impulse will be given to the movement for forest conservation, a large amount of valuable information elicited, and a greatly increased and more intelligent interest in the important subject aroused.

FALSE AND MISLEADING.

Our evening contemporary, the Review, in a recent issue, published the following paragraphs, under the heading, "Imported Chinaman for Canadian Railway Labour":

"Mr. George Manning, of Vanconver, is in the city for a few day on a visit to his brother, Mr. Ed. Manning, 658 George street, of Crossman's and came east on a very novel and unusual errand. Mr. Manning, who among others was appointed to take charge of two hundred Chinamen who came directly from China and were landed at Vancouver. The celestials were there entrained and taken right across the continent to Montreal, and thence to Halifax, N.S.

The Chinamen, on their arrival at Halifax, were distributed to various centres, where they will be employed on the railroads and in Government work. Mr. Manning reports a very uneventful trip, having no trouble on the way with his large charge. He has only been in Vancouver about one year, and will return in about a week, after renewing old acquaintances in this city, where he is extremely well known."

The above paragraphs are of the most dangerous form of deception — a mixture of possible truth and certain falsehood. It may be true that the gentleman mentioned performed the services attributed to him, but it is not true, in the sense stated, especially in the heading of the article, that these Chinamen were imported "for Canadian railway work." The object of our contemporary was without doubt to create a feeling hostile to the Government, which is assumed by it to have been guilty of importing or perimtting the importation of Chinamen contrary to the spirit of the act directed against the "yellow peril" and to thus discredit the Government in the eyes of those in whose interests Chinese and other Oriental labour is excluded.

To correct this misleading statement, it is only necessary to give the facts. Very frequently numbers of Chinese go through Canada in transit for other countries, and it may be easily true that, as the item states, the gentleman conveyed a party of Chinese from coast to coast. But there is this to be borne in mind—and it will correct the misleading statements of the paragraph—that the railway company taking them through are held responsible, for seeing that no Chinaman escapes into Canadian territory, and as the railway company has to pay $500 for each Chinaman who may be missing, it usually employs trustworthy men to look after and closely watch the Chinamen in charge of the railway company. When the Chinamen arrive at Halifax they are transhipped to their destination, usually the United States, the West Indies and Mexico. The statement that the "Chinamen on their arrival at Halifax were distributed to various centres, where they will be employed in railway and government work" is another half truth. "The various centres" are not in Canada but in countries outiside of Canada, where the Chinese may be destined for railway and government work.

It may thus be seen, that the item printed at the head of this article is misleading—especially the heading—so far as the Canadian government is concerned. Our contemporary has been guilty of creating a false impreston against the Government, and now that it is given the facts it might make amends without injury to its reputation for fairness even to political opponents.

PROPORTIONATE REPRESENTATION OF GREAT BRITAIN IN PARLIAMENT

(Toronto Globe)

The News is redistributing the representation in the British House of Commons. Those stubborn Irishmen seem to have got in wrong, and their representation must be reduced. With the view of buttressing its argument as to the over-representation of Ireland in the Commons, The News (Toronto), says:

"Colonel N. F. Paterson, K. C., Registrar of the Court of Appeal, has compiled for The News a table of interesting statistics on the British election returns. It shows that the elected Labour candidates polled the highest average number of votes, and the Independent Nationalists the smallest average.

"The average vote for the successful candidates follows:

For Labour candidates elected	9,122
For Unionists	8,880
For Liberals	8,433
For Nationalists	1,289
For Independent Nationalists	3,947

"The Nationalists and Independent Nationalists elected number 84 and represent a total vote of 134,896.

"Thus 134,896 Irish Home Rulers have the same voice in Parliament as have 745,920 Unionists; whereas on the basis of English representation they should have but 11 representatives in the House of Commons. The News yesterday referred editorially to this defect in the political organization of Great Britain, pointing out that the Unionist party should have abolished plural voting, made a redistribution of the constituencies, and corrected the over-representation of Ireland, or made the representation of England, Scotland, and Wales conform to that of Ireland."

It is scarcely credible that the Registrar of the Court of Appeal supplied the figures The News prints. At all events neither he nor any other well-informed man could have supplied the inferences drawn from them. The statement that 134,896 Nationalists have the same voice in Parliament as 745,920 Unionists might be all right if it appeared as part of some political Alice in Wonderland story; but it is flagrantly untrue. There are very many Irish seat- uncontested at every election because it would be wasting money to put up a Unionist. The News has taken the votes cast for the Home Rulers in the contested elections, and has divided them among the 84 Nationalists and Independent Nationalists elected. Now suppose a condition in Ireland under which all these Nationalists, save half a dozen, were elected by acclamation and 30,000 votes were cast for the half dozen elected after a contest. According to the preposterous system of calculation The News shoulders upon Colonel Paterson, the 84 Nationalists would represent only 357 votes apiece. When a serious paper founds a serious argument upon such an absurdity and seeks to sway men's minds by it there is need of protest.

The total number of votes on the register in the unopposed elections might all be properly counted as Nationalist votes, but there is no need to go so far afield to discover the truth. Take two typical centres, Dublin and Cork. In Dublin City and County there were 58,856 voters on the register at the election of January last. They were represented in Parliament by five Home Rulers and a Unionist. In the new Parliament the Unionist disappears. In Cork City and County there were 52,934 electors on the registrar, and the eight members returned in January and again this month were all Home Rulers of either the Redmond or O'Brien brand. Here are fourteen members in two localities representing 110,000 electors, very many of whom never had a chance to vote. It is ridiculous to say that 84 Irish members represent only 134,896 electors, because it happened that a very large number of these members were returned unopposed.

Ireland unbloubtedly is over-represented in the British Commons, but the over-representation is not on such a ridiculous scale as The News suggests. Hazell's Almanac shows that in 1908 England and Wales had 35,748,780 inhabitants, which, divided by 495, their membership in the Commons gives in round figures 72,000 persons per member. Scotland had 4,826,587 inhabitants, which, divided by 72, gives 67,000 persons per member, and Ireland had 4,371,455 inhabitants, which, divided by 103 members, gives 42,000 persons per member. On a redistribution, according to population Ireland's membership would sink from 103 to about 65. To suggest that the Home Rule representation should be as 84 is to 11 to approximate to the basis of English representation is to prove—if Colonel Paterson really is the author of The News medley of figures—that to err is human, and that even Appeal Court Registrars are not infallible.

A SEVERE GASH

Former Peterborough Man is Injured in Brockville

An employee of A. G. Dobbie & Co., named J. Gamble received a severe gash on the right forearm this morning. While measuring a door in the office of the Crown Bank for the purpose of replacing a plate glass a broken piece fell from its position striking Gamble on the arm with the above result. Dr. Williams addressed the injury.—Brockville Times.

Mr. Gamble is well known in Peterborough, havin gbeen an employee of Mr. W. R. G. Higgins, for some time.

DOCTORS ENDORSE

Newbro's Herpicide

When a doctor endorses a preparation it means more than an ordinary testimonial. His opinion is always that of the professional man devoted to the welfare of the people.

Dr. J. J. Boyd, Covington, Tenn. says: "I feel it my duty to write this for the benefit of those suffering from dandruff. In the average case a few applicatasions of Newbro's Herpicide will remove all dandruff. It is advisable to continue its use for several weeks."

The words of J. B. Thompson, M. D., No. 2 Burrough Place, Cor. Hollis St., Boston, Mass., are not less enthusiastic: "I can only speak in praise of Newbro's Herpicide. It is all that is claimed and perhaps more. Herpicide not only cleanses the scalp but brightens the hair, gives it life and makes it soft."

Dr. T. A. Moore, Duncan, Ariz., writes of his experience: "My scalp was in places covered by patches of dry, scalp material and the itching was incessant. Since using Herpicide all these evils have disappeared and my hair is soft, smooth and growing. Hair has grown on spots before thinly covered."

Newbro's Herpicide is the original remedy to kill the dandruff germ and stop falling hair. The terrible itching which goes with dandruff is allayed almost at once.

Herpicide is for sale at Drug Stores and one dollar size bottles are guaranteed. Applications may be obtained at the leading barber shops. Be sure you get genuine Herpicide. Send 10c in postage for sample and book to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

CHAPTER XI.

PENDLETON IS VASTLY ENLIGHTENED.

The Hammondsville local was taking on its passengers. It was a short train, made up of three coaches and a combination baggage and smoking car. The gateman pointed out its conductor, inside, and the two approached him.

He was a spare, elderly man with a wrinkled, shrewd face, and a short, pointed manner of speech.

"Oh, the General Passenger Agent sent you?" said he, examining them. "All right. What's wanted?"

"Your train stops at a station called Cordova, does it not?"

"It stops at every station on the run. Cordova's one of them."

"There is an institution at Cordova, I believe?"

"For deaf and dumb kids—yes."

"Of course some of the people from there ride in and out with you at times."

"I don't get many of the youngsters. But the folks that run the place often come into the city."

"You are acquainted with them, of course. I mean in the way that local conductors come to be acquainted with their regular riders.

Purvis grinned.

"Say," said he, "it's hard to get acquainted with some of them asylum people. There's only a couple of them that can talk."

"I see." Pendleton noted Ashton-Kirk's dark eyes fixed steadfastly upon the man's face as though he desired to read the remainder from his expression. "There is one of them," continued the investigator, "whom perhaps you have noticed. He's rather a small man, and wears thick glasses. He also dresses very carefully, and wears a silk hat."

"Oh, yes," said the conductor, "I know him. He goes in and out quite often. Very polite, too. Always says good day with his fingers; if the train is crowded, he's a great little fellow for getting up and giving his seat to the ladies."

"Have you ever heard his name?"

"Yes—it's Locke. He's some kind of a teacher."

Ashton-Kirk thanked the man, and with Pendleton, walked through the gate, as they were descending the stairs to the street, Pendleton said:

"And now he wears a silk hat, does he? But you have not made sure of the man. You forgot to inquire if Mr. Locke favoured the German dramas."

For a moment Ashton-Kirk looked puzzled, then he burst into a laugh.

"Ah," said he, "you remember that."

"Of course I remember it. How can I forget it? You were going about so like a computer that I don't expect a moment that I don't expect something. If you finish by dragging the murderer from your sleeve, I'll not be at all astonished. Your methods lead me to expect some such a finale."

"To explain each step as I take it," said the investigator "would be much more difficult than the work itself. However, the time has now arrived for me to enlighten you somewhat upon this point, at least. I am quite convinced that this man Locke played a leading part in the murder of Hume. He is in a manner definitely placed, and I can speak of him without fracturing any of my prejudices."

They got into the car, and Ashton-Kirk continued to the chauffeur:

"Christie Place." Then to Pendleton, he added as the machine started, "I meant to make some inquiries at the house where Spatola lived; and in order to make the matter clearer, we'll just drop in at 478."

As they proceeded along at a bounding pace, the investigator related to Pendleton what had passed between Edyth Vale and himself a few hours before. Pendleton drew a great breath of relief.

"Of course I knew that her part in the matter was something like that," he said, "but I'm glad to hear it, just the same." He looked at his friend for a moment and then continued: "But how did you know that Edyth heard a door close immediately after the pistol shot?"

They had just drawn up in front of Hume's, and as Ashton-Kirk got out, he said:

"If you had only used your eyes as we were going over the place," said he, "you'd have no occasion to ask that question."

There was a different policeman at the door; but fortunately he knew the investigator and they were allowed to enter at once. When about half way up the stairs, Ashton-Kirk said:

"This, I think, is about the place where Miss Vale stopped when she saw the light-rays moving across the ceiling and wall of the hall. You get the first glimpse of those from this point. Remain here a moment and I'll try and reproduce what she heard—with the exception of the cry."

Pendleton obediently paused upon the stairs; Ashton-Kirk went on up and disappeared. In a few moments there came a sharp, ringing report, and Pendleton, dashing up the stairs, saw his friend standing holding open the showroom door the one with Hume's name painted upon it.

"It's the bell," said Ashton-Kirk, pointing to the cone at the top of the door frame. "When I examined it this morning I saw that it was screwed up too tight, and I knew that it would make a sound much like a pistol shot to ears not accustomed to it."

Pendleton stared in amazement at the simplicity of the thing.

"I see," said he. "While Edyth stood listening on the stairs someone opened this door."

"Yes, someone unacquainted with the place. Otherwise he would have known of the bell."

"But how did you know that Edyth heard a door close?"

"Whoever rang the bell closed the door after him. It has a spring lock like the street door; and was locked when Miss Vale tried it a few moments later."

"You say that the ringing of the bell shows the person who rang the bell to have been unacquainted with the place. I think you must be wrong here. Spatola is acquainted with the place; he was here at the time. This is proven by the scream of the frightened cockatoo, which followed the ringing of the bell."

"It was not a cockatoo that made the sound," said Ashton-Kirk. "Give me a moment and I think I can convince you of that."

The gas in the hall was lighted; the investigator stopped at the foot of the stairs leading to the fourth floor.

"Persons," he continued, "who secretly enter buildings, as a rule, never trust to the lighting apparatus of the buildings. One reason for this is that it is not under their control—another that they cannot carry their light about with them."

He pointed to the lowermost step of the flight; there, as before, were the stump of candle the burnt matches, the traces of tallow upon the wood.

"There were two or more men concerned in this crime," proceeded Ashton-Kirk, "and that is the method of lighting that they chose—a candle."

"Two men! How do you know that?" asked Pendleton.

"You shall see in a moment," replied the investigator. Then he continued: "And the candle was not only used for illumination—it served another purpose, and so supplied me with the first definite information that my searching had given me up to that time."

Pendleton looked at the discouraged little candle end, with its long black wick, the two charred splinters of pine wood and the eccentric trail of tallow droppings. Then he shook his head.

"How you could get enlightenment from those things is beyond me," he said. "But tell me what they indicated."

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

So it happens every year—
Always has as yet—
Such a lot of things we want,
And so few we get.
Always happens, always will;
Don't know who's to blame.
Wish you all a very merry
Chistmas, just the same."

I'll change that to "Hope you all have had a very merry Christmas just the same" and make it my day-after-Christmas wish for you people.

I also have a few day-after-Christmas thoughts for you. Trust you didn't work so hard and get so tired and fussed over the holiday and that all you want to do is to forget the whole thing. If you did you'd better stop here. I've given you fair warning.

In the first place, why isn't it a crackerjack idea to notice what people say they wished they'd had given them and pot it down for next year's use. Just now it doesn't seem possible that there is another Christmas coming, but truly there is, and one when you will be quite as glad to know just the right thing to give folks as you would have been this year.

* * *

Another thing—it doesn't seem to you now as if you would ever forget what you gave each friend, but unless you jot down a list, just as sure as next Christmas comes round, you will be wondering whether it was to Louise or Mary you gave the hatpin, and whether it was Eleanor or Katherine you presented with a lace jabot.

It would take you ten minutes to jot down a memorandum of your Christmas giving. Do it on the train or trolley car—do it in the time you wait for the potatoes to boil, but anyhow you do it—do it now.

Wonder if there are many people who dislike as vigorously as I do the expression "I think I fared well. "I think you did finely," as applied to Christmas giving. I know there must be a good many people who don't, by the frequency with which I hear these or similar expressions used. Seems to me it is a terrible testimony to the commercial spirit we are allowing to infest our Christmas. Try not to think things like these. Try not to say them, and above all be sure not to say them before children.

Speaking of this matter, what do you suppose I heard yesterday afternoon? Two children boasting to each other about the sum total of the value of the gift they had received. One reckoned the love of her friends and relatives at $25. The other boasted of $32 worth of affection.

Wasn't that unpleasant?

What WERE their mothers thinking of?

* * *

Just one thing more—I have been asked if it is necessary to acknowledge Christmas cards. That like so many similar etiquette questions can be answered in just four words—

Not necessary but courteous.

Ruth Cameron

GOOD FELLOWSHIP LEAGUE'S CHRISTMAS MEETING

A very pleasant hour was spent at the men's meeting in the Princess Theatre on Christmas day by the League of Good Fellowship.

The Rev. C. Carpenter gave most hearty seasonable greetings to the men present and specially mentioned his obligations to the Y. M. C. A. orchestra and to several strangers who gave their services and did much towards the success of the afternoon.

Canon Davidson also attended, and in a few well-chosen sentences offered his warmest greetings, and wishes for the welfare of all present and expressed his pleasure that the league was doing its best to increase the brightness of this glad season.

Music and a recitation filled up the remaining time. The following programme gave great satisfaction:

Hymn—"Hark the herald angels sing."
Selection — "Christians awake!" by Y.M.C.A. orchestra.
Hymn—"Oh come all ye faithful."
Duet—"Into Thy Hands,' Messrs. Sherman and Pitchford.
Violin solo, "Melodie" (J. Harold Henry) Mr. A. G. Cowie.
Hymn—'While Shepherds Watched.'
Recitation—"The Road to Heaven" Sims, Mr. A. Pitchford.
Song—"Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," Mr. Sandiford. aCrol. "Good King Winceslaus," Messrs Bogstrom and Woodworth.
Hymn—"Stand Up for Jesus."
Carol—"Stars all Bright," Rev. C. Carpenter.
Violin Solo—"The Broken Melody" (Van Bienne), Mr. A. G. Cowie.

The director, Rev C. Carpenter, announced that in acknowledgment for a small degree of the kindness of Mr. Pappas in granting the free use of the theatre, every Sunday, the League had presented him with a small Christmas gift.

PALE, ANAEMIC GIRLS

The languid, semi-invalid girl is no longer popular. Firm flesh, rounded form and a healthy glow to the complexion are the results of using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. Mrs. Goodson, 104 Sebastopol St., Montreal, Que., writes: "My daughter's appetite was bad and she was pale and bloodless. Since using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food there is a marked change in her condition. She is stronger and healthier in every way."

W. O. W.

The members of Sherwood Forest Camp No. 50 are notified that their regular meeting is postponed from Monday Dec. 26th to Wednesday Dec. 28th at 8 p. m. All members are requested to attend; very important business to transact.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE THIEF.

A strong play, admirably acted, was the verdict of the two very large audiences that saw Henri Bernstein's drama "The Thief," at the Grand yesterday. The attendance, in the evening, was a record-breaker, for the season, and the presentation was thoroughly appreciated.

The story of "The Thief" is that of Raymond Legardes, a millionaire of France, and his friend and business adviser, Richard Voysin, who visits him. A large sum of money is missing from the desk of the wife of Legardes. The detective who visits the home in the guise of a guest draws the crime home to Fernard Legardes, a son of the host by a former marriage. To save the culprit, the wife of Richard Voysin, with whom the boy is desperately in love, he confesses to the theft of 21,000 francs. The same night, Voysin finds in possession of his wife 6,000 francs, for which she cannot explain. "Where did you get the money," he said in a tone that brought forth her "great confession."

"Fernard is innocent, he accused himse lfto save me," she confesses. She stole the money for no other reason than she should have the same gowns that other women appeared in. She feared to lose one particle of her husband's affection It was all for his love. Flattered at first he believes her, but then a new suspicion takes hold of him. "Why did Fernard so willingly confess". The wife says "A foolish schoolboy love and nothing more." She confesses to the theft and is forgiven, and Fernard acclaimed. Her husband forgives and life is taken up anew in Brazil. The role of Marise Voysin, "The Thief," by Miss Edna Archer Crawford, was magnificently handled, the strong emotional scene in the second act, in which she confesses to her husband, being a masterpiece of dramatic ability. It was at no time overdone and was always true and impressive. The rest of the company was most capable. The part of Richard Voysin created on this side of the Atlantic, by Kryle Bellew, was an admirable impersonation, and the other delineations were particularly pleasing.

"THE MANXMAN"

"She met him on the hill slope with a cry of joy, and kissed him. It came into his mind to draw away, but he could not and he kissed her. Then she linked her arm in his and they turned down the beach."

So begins the romance of "The Manxman" into which, as a play, as well as the book, Hall Caine has instilled such a vast amount of heart interest and power, for we must acknowledge the power of every one of the writings of this gifted author.

The Manxman, like the rest, is a page from real, throbbing everyday life. It is the tale of a mighty love which finds victory even in defeat, and rises far above the commonplace into realms which would seem ever even superhuman. Caine, prolific always, has a particular propensity in the matter of working up to magnificent climax and centre the power of his art upon a certain scene and then receding without losing a singe iota of interest. He chooses lessons from actual happenings and vividly depicts the side of life which will better suit his purpose and then in a masterful manner dresses a worthy lesson in a garment of intense interest, which holds and grips the beholder of his drama more tightly than the mere reading of the book could possibly do. He writes of humans in a human way. He does not over do. He puts words of real men and women into the mouths of his characters and makes his players live and breathe. Human emotions are playthings in this wizard's hands and he, with all his power, never sinks for a single instant into the unnatural or impossible. The coming of "Manxman" to The Grand to-morrow (Wednesday) for an engagement of one night, with Mr. Fred erick Clarke and a notable cast, will be one of those rare treats of a brilliant theatrical season which will live in the memory of the beholder long after the glitter of the stage lights has faded and gone out. The appearance will be notable in many ways, not the least of which being the completeness of the production and the brilliancy of the play. The tour of The Manxman is under the direction of Mr. J. Cosgrove, and even were Mr. Clarke unknown in this section, this alone would be a sufficient guarantee of the completeness of this attraction.

MAYOR MORROW IS ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION

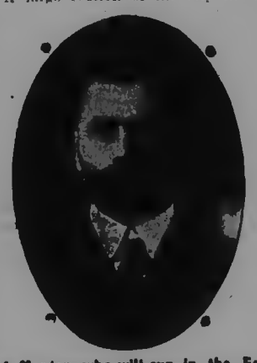
or hands employed. The assessment of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Co., and of the B. F. Ackerman Son and Co's. factories were fixed, except for school purposes, at practically their present assessment for ten years, and both these companies have made considerable additions ,thus providing for the employment of more labour, and increased output. The Council also this year completed the negotiations under which the Wm. Hamilton Co. works were revived.

At the present time two by-laws have been submitted to the electors, and if they are approved a new industry will be added, which has good prospects for being a prosperous and growing concern, and a considerable sum will be expended by men of experience in that line in ascertaining whether natural gas, in paying quantities, can be found in this neighbourhood. The new industry will help the growth of the city, and if natural gas is discovered it will be of benefit to the community.

The opening of the new Smith St. bridge has removed the inconvenience of having this bridge closed at times for repairs, and a permanent structure has been provided that will be a handsome one as well.

A large section of the city in the



Ald. Morgan, who will run in the East Ward southwestern district and a section that is being built up rapidly, was without sewer accommodation and owing to the level at which the output was necessarily constructed this district could not be drained into it. The difficulty is being overcome and the necessary accommodation provided, by the construction of a sewerage pumping station at the junction of George and Romaine streets, and this work will benefit the health of the city as well as provide conveniences for the residents of the district.

These works, as well as the ordinary sewers, and the granolithic sidewalks that have been built, and the improvements to the waterworks system, made by the Commissioners, have called for the issuing of debentures, and during the year debentures to the amount of $86,671.46 have been disposed of and the good standing of the city is shown by the fact that a premium of $627.09 was received.

The Council this year gave considerable attention to street paving, and, although owing to opposition encountered, a beginning has not been made in constructing permanent pavements, the information obtained will be useful, and with further information and consideration there is no doubt that pavements of a permanent character will soon be constructed, at least on the leading streets.

The Council had negotiations beginning early in the year with the Canadian Pacific Railway regarding the construction of their Georgian Bay grain route through Peterborough. We fully expected that these negotiations would be concluded some time ago, but the railway company has not given a formal reply to the proposition in its final shape. This proposition, we understood, was acceptable to the Company and have from day to day expected that the matter would be closed up, but any delay there has been, has not been caused by the Council.

We have had negotiations with the representatives of the Peterborough Protestant Home, in reference to the erection of a new Home for the Protestant poor of the city, and legislation will be applied for at the coming session of the Legislature to enable the city to assist in defraying the cost of the building and empowering the city to levy a rate on the Protestant ratepayers for the maintenance of such inmates in the House of Providence as may be sent from the city.

The different committees of the Council have, as far as I can ascertain to date kept well within their appropriations, so that we will have a balance on hand at the end of the year, of about $3,000.

The amount at the credit of the city to-day is $13,155.00.

I again thank you for this evidence of the confidence you place in me, and hope that the City will have another year of progress and prosperity.

I wish all the people of Peterborough a Happy New Year."

Mayor Morrow, in speaking of the new public office created during the past year, namely that of Industrial Commissioner, stated that it was one jointly made by the Council and the Board of Trade, the city paying two thousand dollars and the Board of Trade raising the balance to the extent of three thousand dollars. He would like to say that Mr. Duggan was giving this department a great deal of attention. He is conducting it along very systematic lines, and by making a study of the imports of the country, he is in correspondence with industries in the Old Land, and by the middle of next month a president of a large concern in Scotland would visit Peterborough. The Mayor also stated that on Saturday night last the representative of a furniture and camp bed industry was here with a view to securing a site on which to establish a factory that would, at the start, employ 30 to 40 hands.

Other Speakers.

Mr. Langford was next called upon to speak. He was brief. In view of the fact, he said, that a number of friends had seen fit to nominate him, it was his intention to remain in the field.

Dr. M. A. Morrison, in addressing the electors, stated that the people of Peterborough were pretty well posted as to the work of the Board of Education. The children of Peterborough had one of the best school systems in the Province. An evidence of the high standard of the schools was found in the fact that two local teachers had been taken to fill important positions on the staff of the School of Pedagogy in Toronto. That was an indication of the kind of teachers that were employed on the local school staffs. The boys and girls were being taught how to become good citizens. A while ago the Board of Education was criticized in regard to the King Edward School, but next year the matter of fitting up the upper story would have to be considered, as the school at the present time was overcrowded. The Board of Education was also taking up the matter of technical education and hoped that the time was not far distant when a school would be established here.

Mr. W. S. Robinson was next called. He had not yet decided whether or not he would be a candidate, for the Board of Education, but if he was, and was elected, there were one or two things he would like to see worked out for the benefit of the boys and girls of this city. It was a well-known fact that the results from the tuition the scholars received was not fitting them for their future vocations.

"That is not so," interrupted Mr. T. F. Matthews.

"There were boys and girls coming out of the schools," continued Mr. Robinson "that could not read or write as they should." Too many subjects, he believed, were being taught in the schools, making it so the scholars did not have a chance to grasp any of them thoroughly. Another thing he would advocate would be allowing the scholars out at 11.45, and have them return to school at 1.15, thus avoiding the noon-day rush with the people from the industrial concerns.

This concluded the speech making.

"WILDFIRE"

Referring to the great racing play, "Wildfire," which appeared in Toronto 2 weeks ago, "The Globe" says:

Especially to those who love good red blood and a wholesome fight above board, does the play "Wildfire," which is the attraction at the Grand this week. The piece is very closely associated with the name of Lillian Russel, but the large audiences which greeted its opening performances yesterday was proof that the liking for the excitement indigenous to race-tracks, and the desire to witness an imitation, if well conceived and got up, is perennial. The plot is not so difficult as to cause the average theatre-goer much trouble in the unravelling, but the plot is not the thing; it is the tension, aided by many humourous situations, that makes the piece go with a ready swing.

Since the play depends almost solely upon Mrs. Barrington for "go," the task allotted to Luella Morey is not light, but she carries it off with success. She shows versatility in the quick changes from the emotional to the ridiculous. One could not but think that if all the trainers exhaled so wholesome an atmosphere as G. E. Gaden did as Matt Donovan, the track would gain immeasurably. John Duffy, played by Robert Clugston, was the other extreme, and just the sort of track follower that may be admired. The part was done well. Elaine Trapp as Myrtle Wentworth, sister of Mrs. Barrington, was pleasing. Dr. Woodhurst, an over-zealous reformer, by W. H. Roche, Hortense Gerard, coloured maid, by Jeanette Wolf. Chappy Raster, Wildfire's jockey, by John DeWeese, and Bud, the stable boy, by Gus Alexander, were all well filled.

A FINE SERVICE

The new steamships of the Grand Trunk Pacific Coast Steamship Co., operating between Seattle, Victoria, Vancouver, Prince Rupert and the Portland Canal, are receiving pleasing encomiums regarding the service they are offering.

At Grand Trunk Pacific headquarters a letter has been received from a prominent member of the Government which reads as follows:

"I made so enjoyable a trip on the steamer "Prince Rupert" to the north and return, that I cannot allow the occasion to pass without congratulating you on the splendid service of that steamer.

Capt. Johnson and his officers are a fine lot of men, and the service and attention on the vessel are all that can be desired."

Another letter which came in by the same mail from a prominent traveller, and which was unsolicited, reads as follows:

"Along with a couple of friends of mine I travelled to Prince Rupert early in October, and I feel that it would be lacking in appreciation not to let you now how much we were impressed with the magnificent steamships you have on that route. The appointments, food, and service we found all that could be desired, and as one of the party stated, "This is the finest steamship (Prince George) I have ever had the good fortune to travel on, the service the best, and the trip the most interesting I have ever had."

THE WEATHER

On Sunday we had almost ideal Christmas day weather—clear and crisp, with a cloudless sky. The temperature was a little sharp, however, 7 below in the early morning, and 8 above as the highest during the day. Yesterday's lowest, 11 below; highest, 29 above.—W. P.

AN ERROR

Through a clerical error in the results of the Collegiate Institute examinations published in the Examiner last week, Miss Myra Baird was only given credit for an average of 65 per cent. instead of 70 per cent. She should have been credited with standing fourth instead of seventh.

WOMEN HAVE BACKACHE

Many women have kidney disease and do not know it because they attribute backache to other causes. The use of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills makes short work of backache and prevents serious trouble from deranged kidneys. Ask your neighbours about this great family medicine.

IS NOW SETTLED

While in the West last week, First Vice-President Fitzhugh met a committee representing the city of Guelph, and after several hours' deliberation, settled the long standing question of a new station, sub-ways and track elevation, which has been up, on and off, for the past ten years.

Under the arrangement made, the Grand Trunk has to pay the city $9,000, and has to construct a foot subway at Neeve street. On the other hand, the city is to transfer to the Grand Trunk Jubilee Park, one block west of the present station. Here the new station is to be erected.

A number of minor matters were settled, involving the surrender by the Grand Trunk, of a narrow strip of land near the old station, and the transfer to the Grand Trunk by the city of certain territory for freight facilities south of the new station. Also the city surrenders to the company certain lands which have been used by the city, either for sites or lots, but which really was the property of the Grand Trunk.

All the members of the committee expressed their satisfaction with the outcome of the negotiations.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor of The Examiner:

I had always heard of Peterboorugh referred to as a splendid "show town" and when I entered the Grand Opera House last night and found it crowded in every part I felt that my information had not been misleading. I was therefore somewhat surprised at the conduct of a considerable portion of the audience during the presentation of Bernstein's vividly forcible drama. During the wonderfully impressive emotional scene in the second act, when the erring wife confesses her misdeeds to her husband and pleads for forgiveness, it seemed decidedly out of place to hear outbursts of laughter at the most touching periods of the scene. The pleading of the unhappy wife seemed to strike some of the audience in the region of the funny-bone. The spirit of the thing was beyond them to such an extent that they missed the force of the act altogether. Again, in the same scene in one of the most intensely dramatic moments a round of applause drowned out some of the most important lines. Still again, when one of the characters is made by the playwright to kiss his wife the house resounded with osculatory echoes. The gallery, I think, was responsible for this, but in the other two cases the offenders were in the orchestra seats. The acting profession is somewhat prone to regard the one night stand town as "tanks." Is it any wonder when the great confession scene in Bernstein's masterpiece is acted to a running accompaniment of giggles? Think it over, Peterborough.

"VISITOR"

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—As members of the City Council, we wish you to know that we heartily approve of the Bonner-Worth By-law, and ask you to support same with your vote and influence.

This Company will spend between $20,000 and $25,000 a year in wages. They will build a factory at an approximate cost of $12,000. The machinery and equipment, therefore, will cost over $18,000. The Company has capital paid up to the value of $40,000. Business precaution prompted them to guarantee but thirty hands. As a matter of fact they will start with between 40 and 50. The goods they will produce are manufactured in only one other town in Canada. If they wish to do so they can today contract for the whole of their output. The Management is in the hands of skillful men, experienced and trained in this particular line of business. The two active men are themselves investing one-third of the total capital.

After the Company has acquired its land, and erected its buildings, it asks the city to loan them 50 per cent. of their expenditure up to $12,000 and after they have been in operation for a full year, the city is to loan them the other 50 per cent. The loan is to be secured by a mortgage on the land, buildings, and fixed machinery, the latter to be worth not less than $2,000. One year from the second payment the Company will re-pay to the city $1,000, and a like sum annually until the loan is repaid. The Company will pay school taxes to the extent of about $100 per year. The loan will cost the city $292.00 per year.

The Company has attractive offers from other towns, but prefers Peterborough. The prospects are that within two years, the capacity of the Plant will be doubled. The plans are drawn providing for this. When the success of the enterprise is assured, those already connected with it are prepared to invest much more heavily. There is no stock for sale. This is a good proposition for the city and we are heartily and unanimously in favour of it and want you to register your vote and use your influence with your friends in order that we may obtain the necessary three-fifths of the total taxpayers.

W.C.T.U. ITEMS OF INTEREST

The matter in this Department is supplied by the Peterborough Branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, which has arranged for its publication.

It came upon the midnight clear,
That glorious song of old.
From angels bending near the earth
To touch their harps of gold;
"Peace on the earth, good-will to men
From heaven's all-gracious King!"
The world in solemn stillness lay
To hear the angels sing.

Still through the cloven skies they come
With peaceful wings unfurled,
And still their heavenly music floats
O'er all the weary world;
Above its sad and lowly plains
They bend on hovering wing,
And ever o'er its Babel sounds
The blessed angels sing.

Yet with the woes of sin and strife
The world has suffered long:
Beneath the angelstrain have rolled
Two thousand years of wrong;
And man, at war with man, hears not
The love-song which they bring;
O hush the noise, ye men of strife,
And hear the angels sing!

And ye, beneath life's crushing load,
Whose forms are bending low,
Who toil along the climbing way,
With painful steps and slow,—
Look now, for glad and golden hours
Come swiftly on the wing;
O rest beside the weary road,
And hear the angels sing!

For lo! the days are hastening on
By prophet-bards foretold,
When with the ever-circling years
Comes round the age of gold;
When peace shall over all the earth
Its ancient splendours fling,
And the whole world give back the song
Which now the angels sing.—R. Sears.

JOHN RUSKIN

"Drunkenness is not only the cause of crime, but it is crime; and if any encourage drunkenness for the sake of the profit derived from the sale of drink, thy are guilty of a form of moral assassination as criminal as any that has been practised by the bravoes of any country or of any age."

PROSPERITY AND PROHIBITION

It is asserted by some and believed by others that prohibition injures business. But this is not true.

If strong drink helps business, why don't railroads advertise for drunken conductors and engineers instead of saying they will have no man in their employ who uses liquor? Because they know that drunken engineers, conductors and flagmen bring on collisions and wrecks.

Why don't folks get drunken doctors to administer medicine to the sick? Why don't the farmers seek drunken young men to drive their teams? Liquor helps business. Why don't the merchants advertise for a drunken clerk? The bank for a drunken cashier? Whisky helps business! Every man knows better.

Nothing that makes the individual poorer can add to the wealth of the community. No person can truthfully deny that liquor drinking makes the drinker poorer.

Sam Reynolds of North Carolina, had 5,000 men and boys on his payroll. He said: 'We always pay off our men in checks and under the old law in North Carolina, we would pay off our Men on Saturday night and an Monday or Tuesday the checks would come back, endorsed over half of them by saloon men. But now they come back endorsed by the grocer, the butcher, th ebanker and the dry-goods man.

And under the old practice the men would not get ever their drunk by Monday or Tuesday and they rarely got back to business before then, but now they come back bright and early Monday morning. They are caring for their wives and children, saving what they have got. We would not go back to the old rule for anything on the face of the earth.

Again it is said there is as much liquor sold and drunk in prohibition territory as there is in 'wet.' This is not true.

The Senate of the United States addressed a letter to the Internal Revenue collector, asking him what would be the amount that could reasonably be expected from the tax on brandy, whisky, beer and other liquors. He replied:

"On account of prohibition in the South last year the tax fell off $5,200,000 and this year it will fall off $7,000,000 and if Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and Illinois continue to go for prhoibition I cannot tell what it will do.

If prohibition in the hands of its enemies prohibits to such a degree what would it not do if administered by its friends?

In 1907 this nation spent through the various channels of the Church only $200,000,000 for the bread of life to dying men, but in the same year spent over the counter for strong drink $1,966,000,000; then add the cost from crime, poverty and insanity, and it will make the total liquor bill of the United States about $3,100,000. Just think of it! We pay fifteen and onehalf times as much to pauperise and make criminals of our fellow men as we do to make Christians of them.

Oklahoma's prosperity is a marvel. Prohibition is a very prominent facter. hTere are some violations. So there are of every law. There is as much reason for repealing the laws against gambling, theft, murder, arson, adultery, or any other crime as to repeal the law prohibiting the traffic in intoxicating liquor.—C. E. Harroun, Jr., in the Cherokee Messenger.

FRASERVILLE ENTERTAINMENT WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Annual Concert Under the Auspices of Methodist Sunday School Was well Attended and Most Enjoyable.

A SPLENDID PROGRAMME

The annual entertainment, under the auspices of the Fraserville Methodist Sunday School, was held in the church last Monday night, when a most enjoyable evening was spent.

The excellent programme was commenced, by the audience singing "All Hail," after which Rev. Mr. Robson formerly pastor ler in prayer.

Rev. Mr. White, pastor, occupied the chair, and after a few introductory remarks, introduced the first item on the programme, an opening chorus b ythe scholars of the Sunday School, entitled "Welcome To-day." The following numbers were then tendered:—

Recitation—"Welcome" by Henry Carl.
Recitation—Clayton Kidd.
Recitation—Viola Hutchinson.
Recitation, entitled "Mother's Kangaroo," by Kenneth Moncrief.
Singing—"Why Don't the Clock Go Faster" by a group of children.
Recitation—"Kittens and Babies," by Annie Philips.
Recitation—"A Boy's Opinion," by Thos. Henry.
Dialogue—"A Boy's First Speech." by W. Waterman and L. Moncrief.
Singing—"Flutter Little Snow Flakes," by a number of the children.
Recitation—"Farmer's Wife" by Mildred Smith.
Recitation—"Does Pa wish He was Ma?" by Barrie Seabrook.
Song—"Sleep Baby Sleep," Ketha Kidd.
Recitation—"The Sewing Circle," by Leonadr Moncrief.
Recitation—When Christmas Comes Again, by Mary Seabrook.
Dialogue—"Going Somewhere" in which the following took part: Jos. Waterman, Olive Seabrook, Barrie Seabrook and Chas. Hogg.
Chorus—"The Christmas Chimes" by The School.
Recitation—"Canadian Born," by Relly Byers.
Exercise—"Gospel Bells" by a number of the children.
Recitation—"Ol' Picketts Nell" by Joseph Waterman.
Recitation—"Classic Fiction," by Edgar Finlay.
Dialogue—"Leap-year in the Village with One Young Man," by Ray Finlay, Edith Luvers, Luella Hogg, Mrs. F. Clarke, Roxee Moncrief and Louis Finlay.
Solo—"Gates of the West," by Edgar Finlay.
Recitation—Mrs. Rev. White.
Duet—By Keitha Kidd and Edgar Finlay.
Exercise—"Chrysanthemum Girls and Boys of the North Land."

The dialogue "Going Somewhere and the dialogue "Leap Year in the Village with One Young Man," also the rectitaion by Mrs. Rev. White, were the predominating features on the programme. Every one of the foregoing members are worthy of special praise and it is to be regretted that space will not allow for the description of the numbers, and the praise due to those who took part in the different items. Speeches were also made by Rev. Mr. Mackenzie of Centrevillt and Rev. Dr. Marsh of Springville. Both speeches were acceptable additions to the programme. To say the least the programme was a complete success from start to finish and despite its length went off with unusual celerity.

Taking into consideration the fact that the children did not have long to practise, it may be said that they each and all, acted their parts admirably well and much credit is due to those who took the responsibility of training them. The duet by Miss Keitha Kidd, and Master Edgar Finlay was well received and was well given as is usual in the case of these two youthful entertainers. "The Boys of the North," also looked very diverting in their appropriate decorations of evergreen ornaments.

To add to the success of the occasion, a large crowd attended and proved themselves a very enthusiastic audience. Other years a supper was also given, but those in charge deemed it advisable to dispense with the suppe rand the complete success of all the arragnements gave evidence of the wisdom of the decision. This high ordreed programme was brought to a clos eby singing God Save the King.

HOW HOLIDAY WAS SPENT

The Monday holiday was spent by a very large number of people out of doors. The afternoon weather conditions were splendidly adapted to athletic exercise and few young people could resist the call of outdoor. Jackson Park was a mecca for a very large crowd, and the skating rink and toboggan slide were taxed to their utmost to accommodate the crowd. A section of the 57th band rendered music during the afternoon and evening. Brock street rink attracted a host of skaters during the afternoon and evening. The ice was in good shape.

The George street roller rink had a big share of the patronag during the day, and the Royal, Princess and Crystal theatoriums were well patronized. Very large audiences saw the two presentations of Henri Bernstein's "The Thief" at the Grand Opera House.

HOLIDAY VISITORS

The Christmas holiday was spent very quietly but very happily, in Peterborough. One of the best days' business in the history of the city on Saturday was followed in the evening by an influx of Peterborough old boys and old girls that crowded the incoming trains to their fullest capacity. From all over the continent they came to spend Christmas in the old town. As one was heard to remark, "Everyone that ever lived in Peterborough, is back for Christmas." The result was many happy family gatherings all over the city and a general handshaking and renewing of acquaintances. The services in the different churches on Sunday were of a festival nature appropriate to the occasion and there was special music and decorations everywhere. Depite the fact that it was very cold there were very large congregations present at all services throughout the day.

ATHLETES HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS

The influx of Christmas home-comers brought with it a big re-union of former Peterborough athletes in different branches of sport and naturally there were some great fanning bees when the boys got together. It includes Ben Simpson, the great half-back of the Hamilton Tigers, Ross Craig, captain of the Dundas senior O.R.F.U. team, Alex. Gillespie, the former Peterborough and Dundas half back who was down from Porcupine, Ross Dobbin, manager of the Toronto Varsity Basketball team, Herb Long, the former Strathcona centre, who is home from Fort Willrma, Allan Campbell, formerly of the T.A.A.C. Inter-provincial team, last winter with Peterborough and this year with the Imperial Oil Company's team of Winnipeg, Pete Campbell, of the Varsity junior O.H.A. team, Wallace Dixen, the former Peterborough Rugby player, who was here from Chatham, Fred Denison of the Trinity College School team, Port Hope, Hugh Burritt, last year with the Strathconas and now with the Simcoes of Toronto, Ken Crane, of last year's West Ends and this season with Teddy Marriott's Simcoes, Stan. SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

There were a number of exhibition games between O. H. A. teams yesterday and the Ontario Professional League also played a couple of games.

The Eatonias of Toronto journeyed to Stratford and were beaten by the Classic City intermediates by 7 goals to 4.

Collingwood, last year's intermediate champions, took a holiday jaunt and were beaten twice. In the afternoon Barrie bumped them to the tune of 7 to 4, and at night T. A. A. C. of Toronto, beat them in the Mutual Street Rink by 7 to 6.

The Trenton Club of this district of the Intermediate O. H. A. defeated Toronto Rowing Club seniors by 9 goals to 1, in an exhibition game at Trenton.

The Toronto Canoe Club juniors beat Oshawa at Oshawa by 8 goals to 4. Leo. Quinn, formerly of Lakefield was referee

The Trenton professional team got off on the wrong foot yesterday. They played an exhibition game in Belleville in the afternoon and were calsomined 5 to 0, and last night hooked up in Port Hope for the first league game and were trimmed 4 to 3. The Port Hope line-up included our old friend Randall of Lindsay, and Nixon and Lowthian, who played for Port Hope against the Peterborough junior O. H. A. team a couple of seasons ago. Looks like a few lemons among the peaches in Buck Irving's hippodrome circuit.

In the western section of the professional League, Waterloo played at home against Berlin and walloped their neighbour Dutchmen easily by 9 goals to 4.

The Peterborough Junior O.H.A. team will practise to-night at Brock Street Rink at Seven o'clock. A full attendance is expected. The Intermediates practise to-morrow night, taking the hour to themselves.

STEAMER GOES DOWN WITH ALL HANDS LOST

Eighteen Drowned in a Gale off the Pacific Coast---Flotsam Tells the Story of the Disaster---Portion of Wreckage Found on Vancouver Island.

Vancouver, Dec. 29.—The fate of the little steamer St. Denis, a familiar vessel at this port during the past two years, is no longer in doubt. Somewhere off Cape Flattery, in the fierce gales that prevailed two weeks ago, she was lost.

Without hope of succor, blown far from the beaten track, she went down with all on board, and her wreckage strews the graveyard of dead ships, the west coast of Vancouver Island. For more than two weeks an isolated beach at Cape Scott has harbored all that is left of the old St. Denis, her pilot-house, wreckage and miscellaneous floats carrying unmistakable evidence of their origin.

The following telegram was received by the C. Gardner Johnston Co. of this city: "Following wireless received from steamer Tees, Cape Scott residents report, 19th inst., wreckage from steamer St. Denis, including deck house, pilot house, hatches, portions of boats washed ashore."

Those on board all told were: Capt. Thomas S. Davis, Chief Officer C. J. Gold, Second Office Weightman, Chief Engineer W. Dodge, Second Engineer E. Steel, Chief Stewart A. C. Delpecht and crew of twelve Chinamen.

Hon. W.L.M. King Denies the Waterloo Reform Association and Reviews the Year's Work

THE NAVY QUESTION

Berlin, Dec. 28.—The Minister of Labor gave a Christmas dinner at the Walper House here yesterday to the members of the executive of the Reform Association of North Waterloo, and made it an occasion to present a review of the work of the Government since the similar event held here a year ago.

Speaking of the recent deputation of farmers to Ottawa, Mr. King said he hoped the Government would find it possible to advance the welfare of the farmers without injuring other interests, because upon the wellebing of the farmers rested the prosperity of the whole country.

As to the trade negotiations with the United States, which depended upon what they had to offer, Canada was prepared to meet them on fair ground for the equal benefit of both countries, but always with the stipulation that Canada's preference to Britain must remain intact.

Respecting the naval question, Mr. King distinguished between the terms "Canadian navy," and the proper one of "The Canadian naval service." The Government's idea was rather to police Canada's coasts, and place the warships at Britain's disposal, should need arise, them to maintain an aggressive navy.

Following this meeting Mr. King addressed the Women's Canadian Club of Berlin and Waterloo on the work of the Department of Labor, and its bearing upon the conditions of women and children.

Dying Man Immersed in Ice Water.

North Bay, Dec. 28.—Henry Stokes, a young Englishman, was brought to North Bay Hospital from a lumber camp across Lake Nipissing, suffering with typhoid fever. The journey out was a hard one, with many miles of walking and the sick man was immersed in water several times, breaking through the ice. His condition rapidly grew worse until death resulted. He has no friends in this country, and will be buried at North Bay, under the auspices of the Sons of England.

Fire Burned Centre of Block.

Montreal, Dec. 28.—Fire last night burned a hole in the centre of the block bounded by St. Peter, Notre Dame, St. Helen and Recollet streets, doing damage estimated at about $200,000. The fire started in the premises of the Anglo-Canadian Leather Co. on Recollet street, and burned its way through the block to Notre Dame street, spreading along Recollet street into the rear of the dry-goods house of W. R. Brock & Co., where considerable damage was done by water.

An Anarchist Arsenal.

London, Dec. 28.—According to The Daily Telegraph, the search by the police for the Houndsditch burglars, who shot several policemen to death a few nights ago, has led to the discovery of a complete anarchist arsenal in the house in Gold street, Stepney, formerly occupied by the dead burglar, Gardstein. In this house the police found huge quantities of materials used in the manufacture of explosives, anarchist literature, weapons of various kinds and dum-dum bullets.

Four Firemen Injured.

New York, Dec. 28.—In a fire yesterday which burned out the three upper floors of the building at 26-28 Vandewater street, occupied by the Music Publishing Co., and printing and bookbinding companies, four firemen were injured by a falling cornice. None of the injured was fatally hurt. The damage is $100,000.

Detroit, Dec. 28.—Frank Worthing, a Canadian man with Grace George, now playing at the Detroit Theatre here, dropped dead in the theatre last night from heart disease. The [illegible] is booked to play in Toronto shortly.

TWO BANKS MERGED

Union Absorbs the Assets and Business of the United Empire —Competition Was Too Hard FOR SMALLER BANKS

Toronto, Dec. 28.—An authorised statement announces that the United Empire Bank of Toronto has been merged with the Union Bank of Quebec. The little bank was the smallest in the list save the new Bank of Vancouver—had less than four millions of assets; the Union has over forty-seven millions. Combined the assets will be fifty millions, with 234 branches. This will make the Union sixth, measuring by amount of assets.

The United Empire, which has $550,000 paid-up capital, was founded and organized in 1906 by George P. Reid, then with the Standard Bank. The directors are Samuel Barker, M.P., president; Mark Bredin, Geo. A. Clare, M.P., E. A. Duvernet, Rev. T. C. Street Macklem, M. McLaughlin, B. Rosamond, W. J. Smith, with three directors in England. The head office was in the Board of Trade Building, Yonge and Front streets. It had seventeen branches.

It was very conservative in management and in its risks, and there is no likelihood of any loss. The shareholders will get stock in the big bank when the deal is confirmed, and this will soon be done.

A gentleman identified with the United Empire said that since it started in 1906, no fewer than four banks had gone out of business, and in recent years the Northern and the Crown had merged, the Royal had absorbed the Union Bank of Halifax, the Bank of Commerce had taken over the Bank of British Columbia, and now this one. The reason given for the merger is that the directors thought that it would be difficult for a small bank to struggle against the larger ones. The shareholders will receive par value for their shares.

Still Searching For Grace.

London, Dec. 28.—Unwilling to reject even the strangest suggestions, searchers for Cecil Grace, the aviator who disappeared on Saturday while attempting a return cross-Channel flight from France, the authorities are acting on a mysterious telegram from an unknown person in Sweden, who presumably relying on spiritualistic aid, has been begging the Aero Club not to assume that Mr. Grace has fallen into the sea. After an exchange of messages the correspondent telegraphed:

"He fell on land, not into water. Search the east coast of England immediately."

The coast guards accordingly have been directed to make a careful search along about 60 miles of the coast line.

A Small Revolution.

Taku Tau, China, Dec. 28.—The German cruiser Emden sailed yesterday for Pennapee, Caroline Islands, where an insurrection has occurred.

Berlin, Dec. 28.—The Colonial Office yesterday received a message from the German governor of the Caroline Islands requesting his arrival at Pennapee with 100 soldiers. He states that the insurgents do not exceed 250 and that the natives generally are loyal.

Both Feet Frozen.

North Bay, Dec. 28.—Gottlieb Hannemann, a farmer of Granite Hall, near Trout Creek, drove forty miles to North Bay, leaving home just before dark, and arriving here early in the morning. The night was intensely cold, and both Hannemann's feet were frozen. He was removed to the hospital and amputation will be necessary. Hannemann's wife died three years ago, and he has three children.

New Fire Marshall.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—First Assistant Fire Marshal Charles E. Sylvester was made fire marshal of Chicago yesterday, in the place of James Horan, who, with twenty-two others, was killed in the stockyards fire last week. Mr. Sylvester was older in years and in point of service as a fireman than Horan, and was in line for the promotion.

CRUSHING SENTENCES.

Man and Woman Kidnapper Get Maximum In New York.

New York, Dec. 28.—A body-blow to kidnappers was administered by Judge Fawcett in the County Court in Brooklyn yesterday, when after mercilessly scoring Maria Rappa and Stanislao Pattenese as a menace to the community, and deserving of the death penalty, he gave them the maximum sentence for kidnapping, an indeterminate period of from 25 to 49 years and ten months in states prison. They were convicted recently in quick trials of having abducted and held in captivity eight-year-old Guiseppe Longo and Michael Rizzo, seven years old, sons of well-to-do Brooklyn Italians. The Rappa woman will be sent to Auburn prison and Pattenese to Sing Sing.

The Longo boy was kidnapped on Nov. 19 last, and a few days later the Rizzo child. The Longo boy's parents soon received a letter, demanding $15,000 for the return of their child. The case, being put into the hands of Deputy Police Commissioner Flynn, a clue was obtained to the whereabouts of the supposed kidnappers, and in a raid on the house the Longo child was found, and ten prisoners were made, two of them women.

Little Guiseppe Longo was the chief witness against both prisoners at their trials. The prosecution alleged that Pattenese was the chief kidnapper and that Maria Rappa was one of his most important aids.

Four Years for Assault.

Toronto, Dec. 28.—Judge Winchester yesterday sentenced W. Edgar Hughes to four years in the Central for carnally knowing a girl under fourteen years. Milton De Lhorbe, guilty of conspiracy in connection with the Canadian Eatables Co., was allowed off on suspended sentence, on account of his having voluntarily endeavored to pay off the persons who had been defrauded by the institution.

Judge Denton sent James Lanahan for six months to the Central for theft and receiving. N. B. Schaab, guilty of false pretences, will stand over till next sessions; Thomas Guinn, theft and receiving; T. Fred. Hamilton, abduction, and John Ryan, theft and receiving, come up to-day.

William McNary, attempted criminal assault, goes over pending an appeal, also Sydney H. Lee, breach of the Gold and Silver Mining Act.

In Favor of Strike.

Rome, Dec. 28.—More than 92,000 railway employes in Italy have just completed the taking of a referendum to determine what attitude they should assume in order to bring about an amelioration of their condition. The men declare by a large majority in favor of the instruments of strike and "Sabotage." In France "Sabotage" has come to indicate organized acts of violence such as the destruction or crippling of machinery or other property to force a suspension of work.

"ASHTON-KIRK, INVESTIGATOR"

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

"The candle and the match-sticks count for little," said Ashton-Kirk. "It is the tracings of melted tallow that possess the secret. Look closely at them. At first glance they may seem the random drippings of a carelessly held light. But a little study will show you a clearly defined system contained in them."

"Well, you might say there were three lines of it," said Pendleton, after a moment's inspection.

"Right," said Ashton-Kirk. "Three lines there are, and each follows a row of tack heads. These latter were apparently, once driven in to hold down a step-protector of some sort, which has since become worn out, and been removed."

The speaker took a pad of paper and a pencil from his pocket. Across the pad he drew three lines, one under the other. Then with another glance at the candle droppings upon the step, he made a copy of them.

Pendleton bent over the result under the flare of the gas light; and as he looked his eyes widened.

"Why," cried he, "they look like a stenographer's word-signs."

"Good!" said Ashton-Kirk. "And that, my dear fellow, is exactly what they are. There, scrawled erratically in dripping tallow, is a three word sentence in Benn Pitman's phonetic characters. It is roughly done, and may have occupied some minutes; but it is well done, and in excellent German. I'll write it out for you."

Then he wrote on the pad in big, plain Roman letters:

HINTER
BILDNISSE.

"There it is," said the investigator "done into the German language, line for line. Brush up your knowledge now; let me see you turn it into English."

Pendleton, whose German was rusty from long disuse, pondered over the three words. Suddenly a light shot across his face; then his eyes were in a blaze.

"Behind Wayne's Portrait!"

He fairly shouted the words. Astonishment filled him; he was trembling with excitement.

"By Heaven," he gasped, "you have it, Kirk. Now I understand the smashing of the portraits of General Wayne. There was something of value hidden behind one of them—between the picture and the back! But what?"

It was nothing of any great bulk; the hiding place indicated points that out, surely," said Ashton-Kirk composedly. A document of some sort, perhaps."

Pendleton stood for a moment, lost in the wonder of the revelation; then his mind began to work once more.

"But I can't understand the writing of the thing upon the step," said he.

"It was the fact that it was written that proved to me that there were at least two men concerned. One knew the hiding place of the coveted object; and this is how he conveyed the information to his companion," pointing to the step.

"But," protested Pendleton, "why did he not put it into words? Surely it would have been much easier?"

"Not for this particular person. As it happens, he was a mute."

Again Pendleton's eyes opened widely; then recollection came to him and he said:

"I was Locke—the man concerning whom you were making inquiries of the railroad conductor?"

Ashton-Kirk nodded, and replied.

"And it was he who shrieked when the door of the showroom opened. The outcry of a deaf-mute, if you have ever heard one, has the same squawking, senseless sound as that of a psittaceous bird like the parrot or cockatoo.

"But," said Pendleton, "the fact that the man who scrawled these signs upon the step was a deaf-mute scarcely justifies the eccentricity of the thing. Why did he not use a pencil, as you have done?"

"I can't say exactly, of course. But did it never happen that you were without a pencil at a time when you needed one rather urgently?"

"This thing has sort of knocked me off my balance, I suppose," said Pendleton, rather bewildered. "Don't expect too much of me, Kirk." He stuffed his hands in his pockets dejectedly and continued: "You now tell me that this man was a mute. Yesterday you said he was small, that he was near-sighted, that he was well-dressed and knew something of the modern German dramatists. You also told the Conductor that he wore thick glasses and a silk hat. Now, I suppose I'm all kinds of an idiot for not understanding how you know these things about a man you never saw. But I confess it candidly; I don't understand."

"It all belongs to my method of work," said Ashton-Kirk. "It's simple enough when you go about it the right way. I have already given you my reasons for thinking the man who did this," pointing to the step, "to be a mute. I judged that he was of small stature because he chose the bottom step upon which to trace his word signs. Even an ordinary sized man would have selected one higher up."

"All right," said Pendleton. "That looks good to me, so far."

"The deductions that he was well dressed and also near-sighted were from the one source. His hat fell off while he was tracing the signs; that showed me that he was forced to stoop very close to his work in order to see what he was about. You see that, don't you."

"How did you know his hat fell off?" asked Pendleton, incredulously.

"Mrs. Dwyer is evidently only paid to clean the hall and lower stairway," replied Ashton-Kirk, composedly. "And that she sticks closely to that arrangement is shown by the condition of this upper flight. The dust upon the step is rather thick. If you will notice," and he indicated a place on the second step, "there is a spot where a round, flat object rested. That this object was a silk hat is positive. You can see the sharp impress of the nap in the dust, here is the curl in the exact center of the crown as seen in silk hats only. And men who wear silk hats are usually well dressed men."

"But how can you be at all sure that the hat fell off? Isn't it possible that he took it off and laid it there?"

"Possible—yes—but scarcely probable. A well-dressed man is so from instinct. And his instinctive neatness would hardly permit him to put his well-kept hat down in the dust."

"Go on," said Pendleton.

"The stairs have been used since the hat fell there; but the dust has not been disturbed. There is a hand rail on the other side of the flight, and consequently, all went up and down on that side."

"I can understand the thick glasses," said Pendleton, "his being near-sighted suggested those. But what made you think he cared for the modern German dramatists?"

"That was a hazard, merely," and the investigator laughed.

"He knew German and was apparently a man of intelligence. No man who combines these two things can fail of admiration of Hauptman, Sudermann and their brothers of the pen. And then a mute who knew shorthand well enough to have such ready resource to it, struck me as being unusual. They all know the digital sign language; but German and phonography classed him as one above the ordinary. This knowledge brought the suggestion of an institution. Then came the suggestion that he might be an instructor in such an institution. The fragment from the railroad ticket hinted that the institution might be out of town. Fuller's research placed two such institutions. The ticket counter at the railroad office narrowed it down to one. The Conductor of the train all but put his hand on the man."

There was a short silence. Then Pendleton drew a long breath.

"Well, Kirk," said he. "I don't mind admitting that you have me winging. I'll tell you now it's clever, but if I can think of a stronger word later, I'll work it in instead."

"We have a pretty positive line on one of the criminals, and we will now turn to the other," said the investigator, briskly. "It was this other who committed the murder. The infirmities of Locke, the mute, made it impossible for him to venture into the rooms. The risks for a deaf and short-sighted man would be too great. Danger might creep upon him and he neither hear nor see it. For some reason which I have not yet discovered, but it may have been distrust, he had not informed his confederate as to the whereabouts of the object of their entrance. When they got as far as this hall, he concluded to do so; but as neither man had a pencil, he conveyed the information as shown; then the confederate entered Hume's apartments by the door which Mrs. Dwyer found open. This, by an overslight, may have been left unlocked, or the criminals may have had a key. However, that does not affect the case one way or another.

"It is my opinion that Hume was seated at his desk at this time and heard the intruder enter the storage room; then pushing back his chair as we saw it, he arose. The criminal however, sprang upon and struck him so expertly that he collapsed without a sound. Then the bayonet came into play.

"A search followed for the thing desired—a search, short, sharp and savage. The murderer either found what he sought, or the footsteps of Miss Vale upon the stairs frightened him. At any rate he pulled open the showroom door—the one with the gong. Locke, still in the hall, screamed and both fled up these stairs to the roof and away."

Pendleton had waited patiently until his friend finished. Then he said, with a twinkle in his eye:

"You say the murderer opened the show room door, the gong rang and then Locke screamed. Now, old chap that's not possible. If Locke is deaf he couldn't hear the gong; and so there would be no occasion for him to cry out."

"I think if you'll go back over what I've really said," spoke Ashton-Kirk "you will find that I have made no mention of Locke crying out because of the gong. I said the murderer opened the door that has the gong. Then Locke screamed, not because he held anything, but because of the sight he saw."

"Ah!"

"He caught a glimpse of Hume upon the floor—as we saw him."

"You think, then, that Locke's intentions were not murder?"

"At the present time I am led to think so. The confederate either was forced to kill to save himself, or he had nursed a private scheme of revenge. And the ferocity of the blow with the bayonet inclines me to prefer the latter as a theory."

"That brings us back to both Morris and Spatola," said Pendleton, gravely. "By all accounts both bore Hume a bitter grudge. But the fact that both criminals escaped by the roof shows familiarity with the neighbourhood, as Miss Vale pointed out to you. This seems to point to Spatola."

"So does the purchase of the bayonet, and in the same indefinite fashion," said Ashton-Kirk. "But come, we motored to Christie Place more to inquire about this same Italian than anything else. So, let's set about it."

They thanked the policeman in charge and left the building. As they proceeded down the street toward the house in which the newspapers had informed them Spatola lived, the investigator paused suddenly.

"I think," said he, "it would be best for us to first see Spatola himself, and ask a few questions. This might give us the proper point of view for the remainder."

And so they once more got into the car; and away they sped toward the place where the violinist was confined.

CHAPTER XII.

ANTONIO SPATOLA APPEARS

Ashton-Kirk and Pendleton were admitted to the cell room at the City Hall without question; but a distinct surprise awaited them there. Through a private door leading from the detectives' quarters they saw the bulky form of Osborne emerge; and at his heels were Bernstine and his sandy-haired clerk.

When Osborne caught sight of Ashton-Kirk he expanded into a wide smile of satisfaction.

"Hello!" greeted he. "Glad to see you. You're just in time to see me turn a new trick. Here's the people that Spatola bought the bayonet from. How does that strike you?"

But Bernstine leaned over and said something in a low tone; and the smile instantly departed.

"Oh," said Osborne, ruefully. "this is the party who called to see you, is it?" Then turning to Ashton-Kirk he asked: "How did you get onto this bayonet business?"

"Just through thinking it over a little, that's all," answered the investigator.

Mr. Bernstine now approached the speaker, a hurt look upon his face.

"Mr. Ashton-Kirk," said he, "why did you not tell us about this piece of business? Why did you not enlighten us? How could you go away and leave us in the dark? We are very much occupied, and have little time to look at the newspapers. It was only by accident that Sime happened to see one." Lowering his voice, he added: "There's a smart fellow for you; he saw the whole thing in an instant. And so we came right here to do what we can to help justice.' He squared his shoulders importantly.

"He's seen the bayonet and is prepared to swear to it," stated Osborne, elated.

"What of the picture of Spatola in the paper?" asked the investigator. "Does he recognize that?"

Osborne's face fell once more.

"These half-tones done through coarse screens are never any good," said he. "They'd make Gladstone look like Pontius Pilate. He's going to have a look at the man himself, and that'll settle it."

With that a turnkey was dispatched; and in a few moments he returned, accompanied by a half dozen prisoners; one was a slim, dark young man with a nervous, expressive look and a great tangle of curling black hair. The face was haggard and drawn; the eyes were frightened; the whole manner of the man had a piteous appeal.

Osborne turned to Sime.

"Look them over carefully," directed he. Take your time."

"I don't need to," answered the freckled shipping clerk. He pointed to the dark young man. "That's the man of the picture; but I never seen him before, anywhere."

The Kidneys Wear Out

But many people of advanced years have learned how to keep these organs healthy by using

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

The kidneys are often the first organs of the body to cause trouble. Their work of filtering the blood is greatly increased by excessive eating or by the use of highly seasoned foods and alcoholic drinks.

As advanced age comes on most people suffer more or less from derangements of the kidneys. With some there are years of pains and aches, with others Bright's disease is soon developed and the end comes quickly.

Fortunately a great many have learned about Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, and are enabled by their use to keep the kidneys healthy and active.

This medicine is entirely different from ordinary kidney treatments, and invigorates the action of the liver and bowels. To this combined action is attributed its remarkable success.

Mr. Richard Preston, Osborne, Lambton county, Ont., writes:—"I want to testify to the wonderful curative properties of Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. Seventeen years ago I began the use of this medicine, when my back was so bad that to stoop or rise was torture to me. The kidneys were in bad condition, but these pills entirely freed me of back pains. I have used them ever since, whenever the kidneys would get out of order, and now, at eighty years, am well and hearty, thanks to this grand medicine."

Let us buy a 50-cent bottle of Psychine (pronounced Si-keen) from your druggist and give it to you (free) to prove its great value.

Psychine is the greatest vitality builder of the age.

For thirty years Psychine has been curing almost every disease that is due to run-down vitality.

Hundreds of thousands have used Psychine with wonderful beneficial results.

We have received thousands of unsolicited testimonials from people whom Psychine has cured, of in many cases, hopeless ailments.

There are still thousands of people suffering from disease, however, whom Psychine can benefit.

There are still thousands who are trying to cure themselves by wrong methods, who are using dangerous and hurtful medicines.

There are still thousands who are gradually losing their vitality—from whose body the necessary resisting power to disease is slowly but surely slipping away.

There are still those who soon will hear the dread "call in the night" if they do not take prompt action.

To these we have the above message, viz.:

"Let us buy a 50-cent bottle of Psychine from your druggist and give it to you, free, to prove its great value."

That 50-cent bottle of Psychine will tell you more powerfully than mere words can how tremendously beneficial Psychine will be for you.

It will give you an unmistakable indication of its wonderful power to renew the bodily vitality, to strengthen the phagocytes (the white corpuscles), the policemen or scavengers of the body.

* * *

The Surgical Department of the Japanese Army, in the Japo-Russian war, first drew the attention of the scientific world to the function of the white corpuscles of the blood or phagocytes

Foreign medical men were astounded to see Japanese soldiers with wounds that had not been cleansed or dressed for days, that were apparently dirty, ill-kept, and altogether unsanitary.

Yet these dirty wounds healed marvellously; no army the world had ever known had such a wonderful record for the recovery of their wounded as the Japanese army.

And all because the Japanese knew how to let the white corpuscles cure.

* * *

There are two kinds of corpuscles in your blood, you know, red and white.

The red carry nutrition, the white are the policemen or scavengers of the body.

Whenever a disease germ enters the body, these white corpuscles attack and literally eat it.

A wound that attracts disease germs from the air is cleansed and healed by millions of phagocytes, or white corpuscles, devouring these unwelcome disease germs.

Any disease can be cured by these white corpuscles if they be in sufficient number or strong enough to attack and devour the germs that cause the disease.

If they are not in sufficient numbers or strength, then the disease germs eat them and disease claims the body.

That's the cause of every disease to which humanity is heir.

For centuries the cure of disease has been by means of herbs—nature's remedies.

It is only within recent times that we have come to know how these herbs act.

Now scientists tell us they increase the strength and numbers of the white corpuscles or phagocytes.

In Psychine we have some of the most healing and beneficial herbs in the world, herbs that increase and strengthen the white corpuscles.

From Arabia comes one herb, from South America another, China and Japan produce a third, while the jungle of India yields a fourth.

All these herbs are recognized by the medical profession as being the most beneficial to health that they know.

That's why Psychine, in the third of a century it has been made, has cured hundreds of thousands of people who suffered from the following diseases:

La Grippe	Bronchial Coughs
Bronchitis	Weak Lungs
Hemorrhages	Weak Voice
Sore Throat	Spring Weakness
Anaemia	Early Decline
Female Weakness	Catarrhal Affections
Indigestion	Catarrh of Stomach
Poor Appetite	Night Sweats
Chills and Fevers	Obstinate Coughs
Sleeplessness and Nervous Troubles	Dyspepsia

After effects of Pleurisy, Pneumonia and La Grippe.

That's why we believe it will be beneficial to you.

Now we don't ask you to take our word for the tremendously beneficial effect of Psychine. Fill out the coupon below, mail it to us, and we'll give you an order on your druggist (for which we pay him the regular retail price) for a 50-cent bottle of Psychine to be given you free of cost.

We will undoubtedly buy and distribute in this manner, hundreds of thousands of these 50-cent bottles of Psychine.

And we do that to show our entire confidence in this wonderful preparation.

'Had Severe Pains In His Back.

Could Hardly Work.

Mr. Alfred E. Davis, Gorrie, Ont. writes:—"For some years I suffered from severe pains in my back and could hardly work at all, and when I stooped down to pick up anything felt as if my back must break. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and after taking two boxes I was entirely cured, and feel that I cannot speak too highly in their favor.

"This was nearly four years ago and I still remain cured."

Those who have never been troubled with kidney trouble do not know the suffering and misery which these afflicted undergo.

Weak, lame or aching back comes from the kidneys, and when the kidneys are out of order the whole system becomes deranged.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles.

They help the kidneys to flush off the acrid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages.

Price 50c per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

"I have been a sufferer for the past twenty-five years with Constipation, Indigestion and Catarrh of the Stomach. I tried many remedies and doctors but derived no benefit whatever. I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" and cannot praise it too highly."

DO YOU KNOW?

Why Old Shoes are Thrown at Weddings?

Throwing shoes at weddings after a newly-married couple on their departure for their honeymoon originated in the old Jewish custom of handing to the purchaser of land an old shoe as a token of surrender or renunciation. The bride's father gave a shoe to the husband, or threw it after him, to signify they surrendered to him all authority over the daughter.

Who was "Jack Robinson"?

Few of those who make use of the name "Jack Robinson" in popular parlance of the figurative order are aware that the person referred to in the phrase had historical actuality. John Robinson was a political favorite of George III., and sat as member for Harwich for twenty-six years, during part of which period he was Secretary to the Treasury. In a debate on the India Bill this prominent statesman was once bitterly attacked by the witty and sharp-tongued Richard Brinsley Sheridan, who, denouncing bribery and its instigators, replied to the cries of "Name, name," by pointing to Robinson on the Treasury Bench, exclaiming at the same time, "Yes, I could name him as soon as I could say Jack Robinson," and thus originated the saying still current.

Who Invented the Compass?

The Italians claim the invention of the compass, attributing it to Flavio Gioja, a native of Amalfi, between the years 1300-20; but the probability is that he improved rather than invented the instrument, for there is evidence that as early as the year 1242 A.D. a primitive kind of compass was in common use on the Syrian coast, and it is said that on the return of Marco Polo from China in 1260 he brought with him a knowledge of this among other Oriental inventions.

What "Cocktail" Comes From?

In "the days which were earlier," when doctors sometimes used more strenuous methods than their successors do now in the cure of disease, there was a habit among them of treating certain diseases of the throat with a pleasant liquid, which was applied by the top of a long feather plucked from a cock's tail. In course of time this remedy came to be used as a gargle, still retaining its old name. During the course of its evolution the gargle gained most of the present ingredients—spirits, sugar, bitters, and so on—till it became the beverage of to-day.

Why the Red Sea is so Styled?

In the Red Sea reefs of bright pink coral are clearly to be seen. Much of the rocky bed of this sea is the work of the coral insect. But probably the true reason for the name of the Red Sea is because all along its eastern shore lies ancient Edom. This word signifies "red." It was given to the region—not from the color of its sandstone hills, but from its people. These are the descendants of him who came in faint and weary from hunting, and said to his brother, "Feed me, I pray thee, with that same red pottage; for I am faint; therefore was his name called Edom."

BEATS JARNDYCE CASE

A Suit in Chancery Still Undecided After Six Hundred Years

A law case, which was begun in 1348, and was interrupted because Richard de Maundeville had to leave for the war in France, has just been resumed in the Chancery Court.

The point at issue is the right to hold a market at Stowmarket, Suffolk, and the suit was originally brought by the Abbot of St. Osyth, Essex, in the twenty-second year of Edward III., against Richard de Maundeville. According to the abbot, who claimed to be lord of the manor, Richard had wrongfully obtained the grant of the right to hold a market in Stowmarket, and his claim was "to the grave damage of the said abbot."

Richard claimed the King's protection, and eventually the case was adjourned sine die because of his departure abroad.

At the resumed hearing the modern representatives of Richard asserted that the modern representative of the abbot had no right to set up a rival market. This assertion was supported by Mr. Ogden, a famous London lawyer, who cited the Domesday Book and other authorities to prove his case.

"When Richard de Maundeville went abroad," remarked the judge, "he little foresaw that we would be fighting the same question 600 years afterwards."

The hearing was adjourned for the second time after extracts from the abbot's pleadings had been read.

HE FELT IT

"Excuse me, sir, but have you seen my ball anywhere?"

"No, madam, but this is the exact spot where it fell."

THEN THEY CLEARED THE COURT

The unfortunate jockey was defendant in the wreck of promise case, and things were beginning to look very black against him. Otherwise, everything was merry and bright. The judge, as usual, made alleged jokes, and the court rocked with alleged laughter.

The plaintiff, a short stout lady of mature charms, entered the witness-box, and a celebrated K.C. commenced his operations.

"Now, madam," he began, "cast your memory back to the morning of the 23rd of May, when, you allege, defendant asked your hand in marriage. Was his air serious, morose, or was it that of a practical joker?"

"Bor, sir!" replied the plaintiff. "I never see sich untidy 'air, and no wonder, considerin' as 'ow 'e kept a-runnin' 'is 'ands through it."

BLOWING HER HORN

Teddy had never seen a cow, being a city boy. While on a visit to the country he walked out across the fields with his grandfather. There they saw a cow, and Teddy's curiosity was greatly excited.

"What is that, grandfather?" he asked, breathlessly.

"Why, that's only a cow," was the reply.

"And what are those things on her head?" was the next question.

"Those are her horns."

The two walked on. Presently the cow mooed loud and long. Teddy was amazed. Looking back he exclaimed: "Which horn did she blow, grandfather?"

AN ECONOMICAL MIND

Cohenbaum, the old miser, paid a visit one evening to his friend Savestein a younger member of the chosen few, whom he discovered sitting in the dark.

The visitor, however, had brought with him a mortgage-paper which required examination, and so the host reluctantly lit up.

Hardly had they finished reading, when Savestein blew out the candle stump and the room was once more plunged into utter darkness.

"Whatever d'ye do that for?" inquired Cohenbaum placing one hand on his watch and the other among his small change.

"We can talk quite as easily in the dark," replied the host; "and think what it saves in candles!"

The conversation proceeded for some minutes, until the visitor's mind was disturbed by strange noises, ominous shufflings coming from the vicinity of his companion.

He took a step backwards and suspiciously made inquiries as to the doings of his friend.

"We're saving the candle," said that thrifty gentleman; "it's dark and no one can see in here, so I'm just taking off my trousers—to save the wear and tear."

WILL TOAST THE KING IN GINGER ALE

First Lord Mayor of London in 700 Years Who is Teetotaler—Catechised Minutely

London's Lord Mayor-elect, Sir Vezey Strong, is the first "teetotal" Chief Magistrate in the 700 years' history of his office.

His anti-alcoholic prejudice naturally raises interesting questions in connection with the lavish entertainment that is obligatory upon every Lord Mayor—and it is distinctly convivial entertaining, too. At the innumerable banquets at which the Lord Mayor presides, the health of the King is invariably honored—usually in champagne—even if there are no other toasts.

Fortunately for Sir Vezey Strong, the late King Edward issued an official permit for his health to be drunk at public banquets in "soft drinks," and his successor, George V., has "O. K.'d" this indulgence. So, like the German Emperor, who, although no a teetotaler, finds it prudent to take only soft drinks at banquets, the Lord Mayor will honor the toast of "The King" in ginger ale.

Conservative Religiously

It has been settled also that Sir Vezey, unlike some of his predecessors, is a stalwart conservative in religious matters, and his assurance was secured in a quaint ceremonial traditionally associated with the function.

Sir Vezey Strong was called upon to answer a series of questions regarding religion before he was elected "a fit and able person to be Lord Mayor of this city for the year ensuing."

When the Common Crier directed "all persons to be uncovered in this hall" and ordered "all those who are not liverymen to depart the hall on pain of imprisonment," Sir Robert Rogers, a Common Councilman, rose from the ranks of the liverymen and said that this time last year he put some questions to the Lord Mayor as to attendance at St. Paul's Cathedral and other places of worship, according to custom.

"His Lordship refused to attend St. Paul's Cathedral and similar churches," he said, "except at the command of the sovereign. While refusing to do so, he did in full civic state attend Roman Catholic places of worship. That fact has given great pain and dissatisfaction to liverymen and citizens generally.

Attend Any Service

"In these days of too readily surrendering great and valuable principles by compromises and evasions, it is quite time that the liverymen and citizens spoke out in clear and unmistakable terms.

"While not limiting religious freedom in any degree we must take care that we appoint to the high office of Lord Mayor only a man who will bear in mind that we are a Protestant nation. We must insist on the Lord Mayor acting in accord with the practices of so many centuries."

Sir Robert then questioned Sir Vezey Strong.

"Are you a member of the Protestant faith?" he asked.

"I am," replied Sir Vezey.

"If elected, will you undertake to attend St. Paul's Cathedral and other churches on ceremonial occasions, according to the ancient custom?"

"I will."

"And will you, if elected, abstain from attending in state places of worship unconnected with the Protestant faith?"

"I will not."

Sir Vezey explained that it was quite conceivable that during the year of office of any occupant of the chair, a foreign King might die, and a service at the embassy in London of the country of that King might be held, at which it might be thought proper that the Lord Mayor should attend.

"I would unhesitatingly attend such a service," Sir Vezey added. "I desire, if elected, to be the servant of all and exclude none, and I will not allow religious beliefs to make the least possible difference in placing my services at your disposal.

"If other circumstances rendered attendance desirable, I would attend any service, from one in a Roman Catholic Cathedral to one in the barracks of the Salvation Army."
